Keener Interest

WINNIPEG, Nov. 17—(CP) — Sybil M. Bennett, K.C., president of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, says women are taking a much keener interest in political matters and national and international issues. Miss Bennett, from Georgetown, Ont., was en route home from a tour of Alberta and Saskatchewan. "I believe we all are beginning to feel it is time there was a consistent and regulated opposition," she said.

Oppose CBC Tower

MONTREAL, Nov. 17 (CP). — The Montreal Parks and Playgrounds Association Thursday night issued a statement opposing erection of a television tower by the CBC atop Mount Royal because this would spoil the park's scenic beauty. The CBC has been awaiting permission by the provincial government to begin installation of the tower for some months now.

Million Dollar Estate

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP). — Henry Greisman, textile industrialist who was president of Lady Ellis Shops Ltd., left an estate valued at $1,209,639, it was revealed Thursday when his will was filed for probate. The estate will be shared by his widow and two children. Mr. Greisman, who died Aug. 6, also was president and general manager of several other companies.

Thomson Denies Duties Neglected

WHITBY, Nov. 17 (CP).—The Ontario riding CCF Association demanded Thursday night that Walter Thomson, new Ontario Liberal leader, resign his seat in the House of Commons because of his new duties and for "absenteeism." Mr. Thomson replied today, denying a charge he had been a chronic absentee from the House.

Mr. Thomson said he had never missed a Liberal caucus and "any time I was absent from the House of Commons it was with the knowledge and consent of a cabinet minister, and it was for the purpose of carrying out either government business or the business of my riding."

The CCF demand was similar to one earlier in the week from the Oshawa District Labor Council. Walter Lane, president of the CCF riding association, charged that Mr. Thomson was absent for 11 of 17 divisions in the House and had only spoken there twice, about five minutes each time, since his election as member in 1949.

Toronto Lawyer Bludgeoned Wife Charged With Murder

Supreme Court Rule Scores Wheat Board Race Discrimination

OTTAWA, Nov. 20—(CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada broke new legal ground in several major cases today. In a series of judgments, the court: 1. Declared ultra vires a 1947 federal order-in-council purporting to give the Canadian Wheat Board power to take possession of all oats and barley in Canada and prohibit its export by anyone but the board. 2. Declared invalid a "restrictive covenant" in a real estate deed barring the sale of an Ontario property to persons of specified creeds and races.

3. Held a divorced woman cannot collect additional alimony from her former husband after she has accepted a lump-sum settlement.

4. Partjally granted a Canadian Pacific Railway appeal from a Saskatchewan court ruling that declared the company was subject to municipal taxation on its operations in that province.

The grain case judgment ruled that the Emergency Powers Transitional Act did not confer the power of appropriation on the cabinet under whose order-in-council the wheat board had taken possession of 20,000,000 bushels of barley.

Vote 5 To 2

The high court voted five to two in favor of an action taken by J. J. Nolan of Chicago, who had refused to turn over 40,000 bushels of barley he had in store at the lakehead when the board was taking up grain.

In the real estate case, the court in a four to one decision declared invalid a covenant that prohibited the sale of certain properties along Lake Huron to any person of the Jewish, Hebrew, Semitic, Negro or colored race or blood.

Upset Findings

The Supreme Court judgment upset unanimous findings of the Ontario Supreme Court and Ontario Court of Appeals.

The ruling was made in a case brought by Mrs. Annie Maud Noble of London, Ont., and Bernard Wolf, also of London. Mrs. Noble had sold to Wolf, a Jew, property containing a restrictive covenant.

Against Public Interest

The Supreme Court of Canada declared the covenant was against the public interest, was unenforceable on racial grounds and was a restraint on the freedom of sale of property.

The alimony decision was given in a case in which Mrs. Bertha Maynard of Toronto sought to obtain further alimony from her former husband, Cecil E. Maynard, after accepting a $1,200 lump-sum settlement under a divorce court order.

The action was regarded as a test case involving the right of divorce courts to award lump-sum settlements of alimony and maintenance. The high court upheld judgments of the Ontario Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals.

33,000 Strikers Against Bell Co. Return To Jobs

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—More than 33,000 telephone employees returned to work across the United States today under compromise settlements that ended their 11-day strike against units of the huge Bell Telephone phone system.

In Pittsburgh, news-hungry residents got papers again Saturday following settlement during the week of a strike of mailing-room workers which lasted 47 days. Presses rolled again for the first time since Oct. 1 at the Post-Gazette, Sun - Telegraph and Press, and the papers were eagerly snapped up by waiting crowds.

Agree Sunday

The telephone agreements were reached yesterday in New York and Detroit, where federal mediators had been seeking peace in the pay distpute.

The break came at the end of a 25-hour marathon bargaining session in New York between Bell's Western Electric Company and Division 6 of the Communications Workers of America (CIO), representing 11,000 equipment installers.

Within a few hours, parallel settlements were announced in subsidiary disputes.

The parent Bell Corporation said that aside from some local interruptions it maintained nearly normal service throughout the strike.

Settlement Fair

The union claimed a strike victory. The companies called the settlements "fair" — although "costly" in the dispute involving the Michigan Bell Company. In the compromise, both sides actually receded from their hard-and-fast strike positions.

In the Western Electric dispute, the union had demanded a 15-cent hourly raise, but accepted a series of increases from nine to 14 cents. These averaged, by company figures, 11.3 cents—or slightly better than Western Electric's last offer of 11¼ cents. Previous wages averaged from $1.55 to $1.62 an hour.

The union came closer to its wishes in length of contract, accepting a 15-month term instead of the one-year pact it desired. The union also won some other issues.

The Pittsburgh newspaper strike was actually settled last Tuesday, when mailing-room employees accepted a 10-cent-an-hour increase now and 3½ cents more in nine months. They had asked for a 13-cent hourly boost from their average $78.13 for a 37½-hour week.

Son Arrested Man Kills Officer

DETROIT, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A father who "got a mad on" when police came to arrest his son killed one officer and wounded another yesterday.

Reinforcements rushed in and used tear gas and riot guns to arrest him.

Detectives identified the father as Charles Marshall Gordy Sr., a 53-year-old Negro.

They said he admitted firing the rifle that mortally wounded Patrolman Andreas Mellert, 30, and injured his companion, 23-year-old Patrolman David Morgan. Morgan was reported in good condition today.

Fear Riot

There was some early fear of rioting in the Negro neighborhood as bayonet-armed police, 100 strong, were hurried to the scene. A big crowd gathered, but there was no violence, officers reported.

However, three Negro men were arrested and held for investigation of inciting to riot. Officers said they spread a report that a child had been killed in the Gordy house.

Police said Mellert and Morgan arrived at the house shortly before noon Sunday to arrest young Gordy 31, on a charge of robbery. The father said they needed a warrant. Officers said the younger man agreed to go, but the elder Gordy fired as they led his son away, handcuffed.

10 Elderly Invalids Rescued In Beaverton

BEAVERTON, Ont., Nov. 20 — (CP).—Firemen fought through heavy smoke yesterday to rescue 10 elderly invalids when fire broke out in Mrs. Hazel Peers' nursing home in this town 70 miles north of Toronto.

The blaze, believed to have started in overheated furnace pipes, caused damage estimated at $1,500. All 10 persons were on the top two floors of the three storey building. The 16 men of the Beaverton fire department carried them out on stretchers.

One fireman was overcome by smoke. The aged persons were taken to a hotel, where they are being cared for by the Red Cross

G. F. Kingston Primate Dies Aged 61

Headed Anglicans Three Years Sick One Week

TORONTO, Nov. 20—(CP)—Most Rev. George Frederick Kingston, a Bishop since 1940 and Primate of the Church of England in Canada for the last three years, died today after a week's illness. He was 61.

Archbishop of Nova Scotia, he suffered a heart attack last Monday after coming here from Halifax for a meeting of the Anglican House of Bishops last week and for further church meetings this week.

Before his election to the See of Halifax in 1944, he served for four years as Bishop of the Missionary Diocese of Algoma in northern Ontario.

Adams Acting

At his death, Most Rev. W. R. Adams, Archbishop of the Yukon and Metropolitan of British Columbia, automatically became acting Primate. Archbishop Adams served in the same capacity after the death of Archbishop Kingston's predecessor as Primate, Most Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, in 1947.

Arrangements for the funeral are in charge of the four Metropolitans of the Church and the Co-judutor Bishop of Nova Scotia who will announce details after consulting with Mrs. Kingston.

The metropolitans are: Archbishop Adams; Most Rev. L. R. Sherman, archbishop and metropolitan of Rupert's Land; Most Rev. Philip Carrington, archbishop of Quebec and metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province of Canada; and Most Rev. John Lyons, archbishop of the diocese of Ontario and metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province of Ontario Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman is co-adjutor bishop of Nova Scotia.

Alexander Visit

Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada, was in Toronto yesterday and visited the hospital. The archbishop was too ill to see him.

Scholar and able administrator, Arhehbishop Kingston was the seventh primate of the Church of England in Canada and the third native-born Canadian to take over the highest office in his church.

He was elected primate at a meeting of the general synod in Saskatoon by the electoral college, consisting of the bishops of the upper house and other members of the executive council of the church in Canada.

Elect Successor

The electoral college also will name his successor but there was no indication immediately when or where it will meet.

Archbishop Kingston carried his 61 years lightly. His quiet manner concealed a driving energy which found an outlet in the work of his church.

California Flood Kills Two, Millions Damage

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 20 (AP) —Perhaps the worst flood in central California history took two lives, drove thousands from their homes and damaged millions of dollars worth of property, crops, highways and livestock.

Mountain streams, normally little more than rivulets, bloated into raging torrents during the weekend under the impact of days of driving rain and melting snow from the Sierra Mountains.

Some communities were inundated. Others were threatened by weakening dykes. Roads and bridges were washed out.

Countless rescue missions kept casualties to a minimum.

New Storm

The weather bureau warned that a new storm would pour more rain over north central California eighth day of the record-breaking downpours that dumped as much as 10 inches of rain in a 24-hour period in foothills east of Fresno.

Unseasonal warm weather in the Sierras thawed the snow pack, adding millions of gallons of water to the swollen streams.

At Donner Pass the snow had melted from 25 to seven inches and still was dwindling.

The Red Cross estimated the floods had forced at least 2,000 families from their homes. One man was found drowned in bed in his cottage on the rampaging Sacramento river. Another died of a heart attack as he was being rescued from his home.

As flood waters surged over the already-drenched area from Sacramento to Bakersfield, Governor Earl Warren ordered all state department heads to alert their staffs for all out assistance.

U.S. Troops 2 Miles From Border

Drive To Boundary Expected Tuesday Advance At 3 Points

SEOUL, Nov. 20—(AP)—American infantry paced by tanks surged down a snow-covered valley late today within two miles of the Manchurian border.

A 10th Corps spokesman said leading units of the U.S. Seventh Division were only two miles from their goal the border town of Hyesanjin, at 4 p.m. (2 a.m. EST).

He said the troops probably would wait until Tuesday before pressing into the town.

Red resistance, sporadic to light earlier, dwindled to "practically none" by late afternoon, the officer said.

Advances also were reported in three other sectors:

U.S. Marines moved two miles up the east shore of the great Changjin reservoir of central Korea. South Koreans fought up the northeast coast under cover of American naval guns. And the South Korean 2nd Corps advanced up to three miles unopposed on the right flank of the northwest front, where the Communists had fought stubbornly until Sunday.

The rapid sweep toward the border carried the 7th Division's 17th regimental combat team through a winter wonderland. Tanks clanked between hills covered with snow. Fluffy white clouds sailed overhead in a bright blue sky.

Survivor Found Organize Search

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 20 (AP) —A shipwreck survivor's story of huddling, wet and freezing, on a rock for three days before rescue came touched off a widespread search today for his two companions.

U.S. coast guard planes and a number of fishing boats put out to look along the storm-lashed coast of Chicago Island for Fred Wetche and his son, Fred, Jr.

With them in Wetche's boat when it was caught in an Alaskan gale last week was Helwig Christinson, who told of the disaster when he was brought here for treatment of frostbite.

Christinson said the trio set out last Monday on a hunting trip to a cove near Pelican, a village on the west side of Chichagof Island about 75 miles west of Juneau.

Their boat became disabled in the storm, and the men climbed into an oarless skiff in an effort to reach nearby Yakobi Rick. The skiff was swamped. Christinson managed to swim to the rock but lost trace of the elder Wetche and his son.

Without food, Christnson remained on the rock three days before a boat sighted him and took him off.

Couple Meet Sunday Get Married Tuesday

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., Nov. 20 —(CP)—The seven-day embarkating leave was still being discussed by members of the 2nd Battalion of Princess Patricia's Canadian light infantry as they moved out of here Sunday for Korea.

The best story—the boys swear it's true—concerned an unidentified lance-corporal who got married during his furlough.

He met his girl on a Sunday, took her out Monday, met her folks Tuesday and was married in the Montreal station just before leaving for Wainwright Wednesday. His companions took up a collection and paid the minister $6.

Now See Here!

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 — (AP)—An advertising "line" that children feel socially inferior without a television set in their homes has been abandoned by the American television dealers and manufacturers after criticism of the first of a series of five planned advertisements. Parents, religious groups, and some advertising leaders condemned the ads for exploiting fear of social ostracism.

Socialists Win In Germany, Oppose Army

By BRACK CURRY

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 20 (AP)—West German Socialists —fierce opponents of the creation of a new German army to bolster western defence—won a thumping week-end election victory in the American occupation zone.

Voters in the two states snubbed the powerful Christian Democrats, who dominate the federal West German government and have urged German rearmament.

The states of Hesse and Wuerttemberg-Baden, which voted yesterday for new state parliaments, also decisively rejected Moscow's policies in Germany. With not a single Communist elected, the Reds suffered their worst snubbing since the war.

Army Issue

Socialist leaders immediately hailed the results as a victory for their stand against West German rearmament.

Fritz Heine, general secretary of the Socialist party, claimed the elections show the German public has lost confidence in the federal government, especially because of its attitude on rearmament.

Heine said the Socialist victory 'underscores our demand for new elections for the West German parliament." The Socialists demand the new ballot to give the people a chance to vote yes or no on the army question.

But political observers feel the election results also partly reflected popular resentment against Adenauer for rising prices and the actual coal shortage.

Name Prime Minister

In Hesse the Socialists grabbed a clear majority—47 of 80 seats—in parliament. They now will name the state's Prime Minister and cabinet, which will run the state administration for the next four years. After the last election, with a bare plurality, they had been forced to form a coalition government with the Christian Democrats.

In Wuerttemberg-Baden, Adenauer's Christian Democrats lost their parliamentary edge to the Socialists. The latter took 35 of the 100 seats, the Christian Democrats got 31.

Death Kept From Police Wife Makes Statement Bottle Believed Weapon

Victim Francis Sullivan Murdered In Chateau Laurier Hotel Room, Solicitor For Lands And Forests Dept.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19—(CP)—Marion Sullivan, 50, her face pale and drawn, today made a brief silent appearance in city court, charged with the murder of her husband, grey-haired 52-year-old Francis J. Sullivan, prominent Toronto lawyer. The Chief Solicitor for the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests was found bludgeoned to death early Saturday in a swank tower suite of the downtown Chateau Laurier Hotel, home of Cabinet Ministers and members of parliament.

The socially well-known Mrs. Sullivan, holding a blue coat over her arm, finally stood before the court filled with spectators to hear the charge of murder read out by the court clerk.

She was taken quickly out of the room after Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier sought and obtained a week's remand would be sought when the former Marion Gough made her second appearance in court.

First In History

Main reason for the Crown's call for remand, police disclosed, was the need to clear up "an avalanche of detail" in the first case in Ottawa's history of a woman charged with murder.

They called attention to an eight-hour delay between the time the coroner, Dr. Harry Dover, viewed the nude body on the first residential floor of the Chateau and the time he called police into the case.

In Toronto, Attorney-General Porter said today that Deputy-Attorney-General C. R. Magone and H. H. Donald, Inspector of Legal Offices, will leave for Ottawa to inquire into the week-end slaying, but purely on a departmental basis.

Dr. Dover told The Canadian Press that he delayed calling the police because he was not certain that foul play was involved.

Three-Hour Delay

He fixed the time of death at "some time" before 1 a.m. EST Saturday. He was not called to the scene until about 4 a.m.

Dr. Dover said that apparently Mrs. Sullivan had called the hotel desk about 3:30 a.m., asking that someone help put her husband to bed.

When Edward Stockfish, the hotel detective, arrived, he found the nude body of Sullivan, lying on the floor beside the bed. He called house physician Dr. Lorne Gardner. Gardner immediately called Dr. Dover.

"When I arrived at the suite," said Dr. Dover, "I examined the body and found scratches on the

Nepal Revolt Quelled By State Troops

NEW DELHI, Nov. 20 (Reuters).—A nine-day armed revolt against the Napalese government has collapsed, an Indian News Agency correspondent reported today from the Indo-Nepal border town of Raxaul.

The separate "government" set up by Nepal congress forces in Birganj, just north of the Indian border, has decided to cease resistance, the correspondent of the Press Trust of India said.

Rebel troops, ill equipped and badly organized, had been faced by superior state troops, armed with modern weapons, said the correspondent.

Congress troops have almost completed the evacuation of the Birganj area.

But 100 crack Congress troops were reported to have been given "fight to the death" orders to stem the advance of state troops on the Parwanipur bridge, six miles north of Birganj.

Last night it was reported that Birganj was exposed to an advancing column of Nepal state troops.

Congress sources said today that the decision to cease resistance had been made "not to make our volunteers fodder for (government) guns."

One high Congress source said the campaign, though given up temporarily would be carried out elsewhere in Nepal later.

Girl, 5, To Die 'Ere Christmas

WALLACEBURG, Ont., Nov. 20 (CP) — Five-year-old Rosemarie Garrod has a flock of new dolls, a new blue housecoat, flowered pyjamas and all kinds of other presents. She doesn't know where they came from and she doesn't know why.

But Rosemarie is patiently saving her pennies in a piggy-bank so she can buy herself a doll's house for Christmas.

What she doesn't know is that the pain in her side, which has kept her in bed almost since school opened, means that she won't be celebrating Christmas.

Rosemarie is suffering from cancer. Doctors say she has only two or three weeks to live. Her family and friends are doing everything they can to make sure those weeks are happy ones.

UK Troops To Stay In Egypt Says Bevin

LONDON, Nov. 20 (Reuters) —Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin today answered King Farouk's demand for withdrawal of British troops from Egypt by declaring Britain had no intention of leaving the Middle East defenceless.

He indicated in the House of Commons that British policy on Egypt would not be changed by the demands made in Farouk's speech from the throne to the Egyptian parliament last Friday.

He said Britain's attitude remained the same towards the Sudan, which Farouk insisted should be united with Egypt under his crown.

"The Sudanese . must decide their own future," Bevin said.

Hard Winter Disastrous

European Supply of Coal Dwindling

LONDON, Nov. 20 (Reuters)—Most European countries, with a watchful eye cocked on dwindling coal stocks, are hoping the weather keeps fine this winter.

Jack Frost holds the whip hand this season, with Europe living a hand-to-mouth existence in fuel supplies.

If the weather is mild and the need for coal is not so urgent, most countries will just about get by until they can begin stockpiling against next summer. But if frost turns rough, the hearths will grow cold and bare in many homes.

Planners To Meet

The coal panel of the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe, recently urged producer countries to boost output as much as possible and warned importers to try to avoid unnecessary stockpiling. The panel meets again at the end of this month to review the situation.

Here is a country-by-country report on this battle to keep the home fires burning.

Britain: Householders stocked up their cellars with some 700,000 tons at special cheap summer rates, but supplies are still down and anxiety is growing. Coal production is at a record high, but consumption has also risen—due chiefly to industrial export and the new arms drive. Indications are that Britain may have to cut exports to meet the home demand.

Germany Worst

Germany: This country faces the worst plight of them all. Coal, gas and electricity power cuts are forecast. If rainfall is light, power plants may have to eat up meagre coal stocks, as much of the country relies on electricity from water power.

France: Persons with money to spend will be able to ward off the cold blast. The poor will feel its full force. There is no shortage—in fact, coal production in France and the Saar reached an all-time record last month. But it costs about $38 a ton—more than most people can pay.

None For Homes

Belgium: If coal imports continue to lag behind, households will feel the shortage. Stocks of domestic coal are almost at zero. If Belgian factories step up output for western defence, they, too, will feel the pinch.

Czechoslovakia: The situation appears grave here also. The central council of the trades union movement said this week production targets had not been reached in October or November.

Switzerland: Fuel department officials say that unless the international situation gets better this winter may be the last for some time without the Swiss being rationed.

Red Version Of War

Russians Rewrite History

By DANIEL DE LUCE

BERLIN, Nov. 20 —(AP) — Men with apparently the shortest memories in the world are rewriting modern history for 800,000,000 inhabitants of the Soviet satellite countries.

What they claim to be historical truths are being dinned into all peoples under Moscow's domination in Europe and Asia.

The last war? Russia fought alone, they say.

American lend-lease aid? Never heard of it.

Winston Churchill? A blood-sucker imperialist who always plotted the enslavement of Russia.

Roosevelt? A weak progressive behind whose back Wall Street senators flew to Berlin seeking a separate peace with Hitler.

The exterminated Jews? Never heard of them, either. It was the Soviet people who bore all the sacrifices.

Nazi Quit

Gen. Eisenhower? He never fought a battle. The Nazis just quit on his phony western front.

Allied bombing? It was carried on to terrorize innocent German civilians, destroy world industrial competition and lay waste the cultural heritage of Europe. Russia disapproved.

Stalin? Genius of revolution, builder of Socialism, generalissimo of victory, leader of the world peace camp.

Films Effective

Because illiteracy is high among Iron Curtain peoples, these Russian allegations are most efficiently illustrated in documentary films.

The documentaries compare favorably with Moscow radio broadcasts in influence and seem far more impressive for the untutored masses than Communist books or newspapers.

To a westerner, the crude distortion of history in Moscow's cinematic efforts is unconvincing, but he may find this fault simply more exaggerated than in some dubious movies slapped together in Hollywood or London to glamorize a star and reduce the last war to adolescent entertainment.

The big difference is that the U.S. and British Governments don't demand full credence by movie-goers for tamperings with history. Russia does.

Anglican Church Shocked By Death Of Primate

TORONTO, Nov. 20 (CP). — Tributes came today from leaders of the Church of England in Canada to their Primate, Most Rev. George Frederick Kingston, who died today in Toronto.

Most Rev. W. R. Adams, Archbishop of the Yukon and Metropolitan of British Columbia who became acting primate as the senior Metropolitan, said on behalf of the church:

"It was with a great sense of shock and loss that the Church of England in Canada . . . learned of the death of their beloved Primate. . . .

Deeply Mourned

"Elected to his high office little more than three years ago, he has given of himself unstintingly to the work of the whole church, and will be deeply mourned by all with whom he came in contact.

"The whole church extends to his widow, family, and to his diocese, their deepest and most loving sympathy in their bereavement.

"We send a hearty thanks to Almighty God for Archbishop Kingston's life of service."

Beloved In Prescott

Most Rev. John Lyons, Metropolitan of Ontario and Bishop of Ontario Diocese in which Archbishop Kingston was born, said: "I am quite sure the whole diocese will mourn his loss. His early days were spent in his home town of Prescott where he was beloved by citizens in general. Since his elevation to the primacy, the people of the diocese have come to know him more widely and have held him in the same regard as the citizens of his home town. His sudden death will mean a great loss to the church in Canada and will be felt especially in the church in the diocese of Ontario."

Right Rev. W. L. Wright, who succeeded the primate as Bishop of Algoma, said: "Archbishop Kingston was a personal friend. His gifts of heart and mind assisted me greatly when I was his dean in the diocese of Algoma. We in Algoma mourn his loss and extend our sincere sympathy to the family."

Baptists' Sympathy

Rev. T. B. McDormand, general secretary of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, said: "Canadian Baptists will be deeply shocked. Dr. Kingston was a Christian leader of broad tolerance, profound wisdom and spiritual vitality. He held all denominations in high regard and exercised a benign influence upon all with whom he worked. Canada has lost an eminent citizen and the Christian Church a leader of renown."

UN To Reject Reds' Try Stall 20-Year Peace Plan

By STANLEY JOHNSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—The United Nations General Assembly is expected today to reject Russia's demand that it accept a series of Russian conditions as preliminaries to starting work on a 20-year peace plan. Senator John Sparkman (Dem. Ala.), a United States delegate, has denounced the Russian proposals as calling for a complete U.N. surrender on major issues as the price of Soviet cooperation.

The issues include immediate admission of the Chinese Communists to the U.N., an Assembly pledge not to try to get around the veto, and prohibition of the atomic bomb.

Sparkman declared that "this bartering of peace on the part of the Soviet Union is something that the free world cannot accept."

Members of the 60-country assembly are expected to show their agreement with this view by spurring a Soviet resolution in which the demands are made.

The Soviet Foreign Minister, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, introduced the resolution in a speech Saturday during a debate on a 10-point, 20-year peace plan submitted by the U.N.'s Secretary-General, Trygve Lie.

Russian Warning

Vishinsky warned that it would be futile to try to work out a plan for a permanent peace if his conditions were not agreed to.

Nine other countries suggested that Lie's plan—which included a suggestion for a periodic high-level security council meetings—be split into its component parts and debated by the appropriate assembly committees.

This idea, endorsed by Canada and the United States, is expected to win approval.

Youth Cuts Off Hand Caught In Machine

SHERBURN, Minn., Nov. 20—(AP)—An 18-year-old farm youth cut off his own left hand with a pocket knife when the hand became entangled in a corn picker.

The youth, Ralph Millard, is recovering in a hospital. The accident happened Saturday.

Death Kept

panied by her son, Frank Sullivan, 25, who had flown here from Toronto after being notified of the death, and Mrs. J. J. Heney, a cousin. Police had thrown out a dragnet after learning she left Ottawa to drive to Toronto shortly before noon Saturday.

Complain Of Delay

Inspector Hobbs said police had lost "valuable time" in uncovering evidence because of the delay. It now may take several weeks of detective work before it can be cleared up. He added he is preparing a report to higher police authorities regarding this delay in notifying police of the incident.

Mrs. Sullivan, the former Marion Gough, is the daughter of the late Richard Gough, a partner in the firm of Sellers-Gough, widely-known Toronto fur merchants.

Her husband was prominently known in legal circles. He was appointed chief solicitor for the Ontario Lands and Forests Department in 1942, after practising law in Toronto for 20 years. The Sault Ste. Marie native was educated at the University of Toronto and graduated from Osgbode Hall, Toronto, in 1922.

His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan, is head of a men's clothing firm in Sault Ste. Marie.

Ideal Couple

The Toronto couple, considered by friends as "ideal, who never exchanged harsh words," came to Ottawa Wednesday. Though on vacation, Sullivan also attended talks with Weldon Beatty surveyor-general of Ontario. On Friday, only hours from the time of the murder, he met with members of the Provincial Wild Life Service from the Rideau district.

Mrs. Sullivan often accompanied her husband on trips, especially when he represented his department at tri-annual land tax-assessment conference in Northern Ontario. The couple had intended visiting their daughter, Anne, in a Montreal convent, before returning to Toronto. Sullivan was due back at work Nov. 23.

shoulders, as though someone had tried to hold him, a blackened eye, bruises on the face.

Head Beaten In

"The back of the head was beaten as with a blunt weapon. Sullivan died of brain haemorrhage."

Dr. Dover said Mrs. Sullivan told him, in reply to a question, that there had been no struggle.

Dr. Dover quoted Mrs. Sullivan as saying that her husband had fallen to the floor in the bedroom of their suite and apparently injured himself.

Following normal routine, Dr. Dover said, he had the body transferred to Civic Hospital for an autopsy. There had been delay at the hospital.

Whisky Bottle

When police finally were called — at noon Saturday — they found an empty 26-ounce whisky bottle in the room and the neck of another whisky bottle.

By that time, Mrs. Sullivan had checked out of the hotel, approximately at 11:35 a.m. and headed back to Toronto by motor car, with her son, 20-year-old Frank J. Sullivan, and a distant relative, Mrs. J. J. Heney of Ottawa.

The licence number was broadcast to district police and the car was halted by Ontario Provincial Police on Highway 15, near Innesville, some 35 miles west of Ottawa.

Flew To Ottawa

Young Frank, who had flown from Toronto after his mother telephoned him, told a reporter later that he and his 16-year-old sister, Anne, in a Montreal convent, had complete faith in their mother's innocence.

Mrs. Sullivan, daughter of the late Richard Gough, a partner in the firm of Sellers-Gough, widely-known Toronto fur merchants, was placed in county jail and given "regulation fare." No bail is granted in a murder charge.

Inspector Hobbs said that police found part of an empty whisky bottle in Mrs. Sullivan's luggage. It was sent to police laboratories for examination.

Still hazy are the events which transpired after Dr. Dover called police.

Select Casket

Police said that when her son arrived, Mrs. Sullivan apparently went with him to a local undertaking establishment to select a casket and made arangements to have the body shipped to Toronto, when released by Ottawa authorities.

Though the death had not been made public in Ottawa until late Saturday afternoon, death notices appeared that same afternoon in the Toronto Star and the Sault Ste. Marie Star. There was no information here as to who had ordered the notices inserted.

Mrs. Sullivan, socially prominent in Toronto, was wearing a mink jacket and was "well-studded with jewelry" when arrested. Inspector Borden Hobbs of the Ottawa police department, in charge of the investigation, said she was questioned for "hours", and finally gave a statement.

Murder Charge

He did not disclose what was in the statement, but said it was on the basis of this that the charge of murder was laid formally at 2:15 a.m. Sunday.

Sullivan, chief solicitor with the Ontario Lands and Forests Deparment, was found naked in the suite about 3 a.m. Saturday, after Mrs. Sullivan had telephoned the hotel desk and asked for assistance "in getting my husband to bed."

Hotel officials found the man dead and called Coroner Harry Dover, who had the body transferred to hospital for an autopsy. The body bore a number of bruises. One of the eyes was blackened and death had been caused by a blow to the back of the head. At the first view of the body, Dr. Dover said, he could not tell whether there had been foul play. He decided to await the outcome of the autopsy before notifying police — some time after noon on Saturday.

Wife Arrested

Mrs. Sullivan—first woman in Ottawa's history to be charged with murder—was arrested about 4 p.m. EST Saturday afternoon, about 35 miles west of Ottawa. She had arranged with a local funeral parlor to make funeral arrangements and ship the body to Toronto, and apparently had notified Toronto papers of the death. Obituary notices appeared in afternoon editions of the Toronto Star and the Sault Ste. Marie Star.

When taken into custody at Innesville, Ont., she was accom-

U.S. Uses Coal To Get Gasoline

LOUISIANA, Mo., Nov. 20 (AP) —First production of gasoline from coal "in practical quantities" in the United States was disclosed Saturday by the U.S. Government's Bureau of Mines.

More than 225,000 gallons already have been produced here at the bureau's $25,000,000 "coal-to-oil demonstration plant" on the Mississippi River about 100 miles north of St. Louis.

The "proving ground" was established to test the feasibility of establishing a synthetic oil industry in the U.S., operated by private industry, to meet the challenge of lessening reserves of natural petroleum, bureau scientists said.

The bureau said that if that feasibility is established, the United States could achieve independence of foreign sources of petroleum in the event of war and would be able to meet the country's normal needs for oil for centuries to come.

While bureau scientists are concentrating on gasoline at present, they say the plant can also produce diesel oil, jet fuel and various other chemicals with applications in such materials as antifreeze products, paint solvents, wood preservatives and even nylon stockings.

Reds Rout

The expected battle of Kapsan turned into a rout of the Reds Sunday morning. A sharp fight on the hills outside the walled city left scores of North Korean dead. Many were crushed by the treads of tanks on the hillside where they had planned to ambush the American column.

But the trap was disclosed by two Reds. Terrified by the approaching tank column, they jumped from their foxholes and ran.

The American tanks opened up on the hillside where the Reds were dug in. As U.S. infantrymen closed in, the tanks lumbered across a stream, up the hillside and over the Reds' rock barricades.

Tom Stone of the Associated Press, only correspondent with the 17th during the battle, said it lasted only 30 minutes, 65 Reds surrendered when their trap collapsed. Others fled.

Resume March

The column rumbled on into the deserted and bomb-razed crossroads town of Kapsan, knocking down a stone archway as it entered.

The column halted for the night nine miles beyond Kapsan. At dawn Monday, it resumed the march through the snow.

A long supply line stretched out over the icy roads behind the border-bound troops. C-119 "flying box cars" dropped 32,000 pounds of fuel and rations to the troops.

Build Up Forces

Elsewhere in the far north there were indications the Communists were building up their forces to try to stem the United Nations advance. Night fighters attacked a 50-truck convoy moving south toward a Red strongpoint about 25 miles northwest of Changjin reservoir. Units of the U.S. 1st Marine division were cautiously moving up both sides of the reservoir.

Other Red troops were spotted moving southward to bulwark North Koreans facing the South Korean capital division on the east coast. U.S. air support and naval guns helped the capital division push its right flank toward the Soviet border, 16 miles beyond Myongchon.

The left flank, nine miles beyond Myongchon, beat off a counter-attack by a Red battalion.

Chinese Communists, shocked by the might of U.N. fire power, were digging in on a new defence line on the northwest front.

Straighten Line

Their withdrawal permitted the South Korean 2nd Corps to move up 1½ to three miles, straightening the U.N. line. The South Korean 2nd Corps front now runs from a point about eight miles east of Tokchon, along a line about 3½ miles north of Tokchon to a point just short of Kangjong.

There it joins the front of the U.S. First Corps, which sent patrols probing out to the new Chinese defence line. A U.S. Eighth Army spokesman said the Reds appeared to be preparing a mountain defence line extending east from Taechon. This represented a 10-mile withdrawal along parts of the front.

MacArthur's headquarters indicated the Chinese Communists are looking forward without relish to the forthcoming clash with the strong U.N. forces.

No Volunteers

Prisoners from the Chinese Red 38th Army were surprised when asked if they had volunteered, as the Red radio has insisted. They said they knew of no Chinese who had volunteered to fight in Korea. The prisoners said they were warned to fight to the death, not to surrender, and that U.N. troops would kill them if they tried to give up. Communist political officers were attached to each unit, had volunteered to fight in Korea.

Youth, 22, Killed On Mercy Trip, Victim Vanishes

NIAGARA FALLS, Nov. 20 — (CP). — A Toronto youth was killed early Sunday while on a mysterious errand of mercy.

David Holland, 22, died when the car in which he was riding turned over five times after failing to make a turn on the Queen Elizabeth Highway, two miles west of here.

At the time of the accident, Holland and three companions were on their way to bring medical aid to a woman, who they had been told, was suffering from a broken neck.

Mystified police are unable to trace the woman who was in another automobile which turned over at a different spot in the same highway.

Ask For Help

Holland, his brother Robert, Edward Payne, and Jack Dancey, were driving in their 1934 model car when they were waved down by several persons standing near an overturned auto.

Holland and his friends were told that a woman had suffered a broken neck and would likely die unless medical aid came quickly. The three put the overturned car back on its wheels, then set off in their own car to get medical aid. It was a short time after that their car somersaulted off the road.

Police later checked all hospitals but could find no trace of the injured woman. "It certainly is a puzzle," said Provincial Constable Robert Pretty. "Possibly the woman was not hurt badly after all, and her friends decided not to get aid."

The other occupants of the Holland car suffered minor injuries.

The Need For A New Collegiate

At the approaching civic elections the ratepayers will be asked to vote the sum of $585,000 for the building of a new collegiate institute on Monaghan Road south of McKellar Street. We have met people during the past fortnight who have said that they were going to vote against this money bylaw, but we have not met anyone who could honestly deny that a new collegiate was needed. In our opinion it would be shortsighted and uneconomical to vote against the bylaw, for the City will have to build a new collegiate within a few years in any case, and the longer that building is delayed, the more costly high school education in Peterborough will be. Why that is the case we shall explain shortly.

* * *

First, however, we want to set down a few facts about the P.C.V.S. It is built to accommodate 950 students; there are 1300 in it at present. There are 26½ classrooms; the half-room is a cloakroom which has been converted for the use of small groups. Administration rooms and rooms for special studies are not included in this figure, because they are not "home rooms" to which a class is more or less permanently attached. The building is seriously overcrowded, and it is necessary to use the auditorium for study periods—a use for which it was never intended and for which it is unsuitable.

* * *

This overcrowding means that certain studies are neglected, because there are not enough rooms for all the instruction which should be given. It is impossible, at present to afford all the options which the Department of Education recommends. Classes sometimes have to be doubled up, and this is unsatisfactory, because at high school level there is a limit to the number of pupils to whom a single teacher can give adequate instruction at one time.

* * *

Overcrowding will grow worse. The school population, as it concerns the high school, follows fourteen years behind the birth-rate and it is possible to tell from the number of children now in our public schools what the future of the high school will be. Now that the entrance examinations have been done away with, virtually all the children in the top grades of the public schools will arrive in the collegiate in the following school year. This means that by 1960 there will be 2000 high school pupils in Peterborough. There is no question of accommodating them, by any means whatever, in a school built for 950. We need a new collegiate and we need it as quickly as it can be built.

* * *

What will happen if we do not have a new collegiate? It will be necessary, in that case, to adopt what is called, with unintentional humour, the Stagger System in the present building. Not only will the staff and the pupils, but all parents of high school children, stagger if it comes. The Stagger System means that there will be two groups of pupils, called perhaps School A and School B: School A will go to classes from 8 a.m. until 11 a.m.; School B will begin work at 11 a.m. and continue until 1 p.m.; School A will then resume work from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.; School B will work from 3 p.m. until 6 p.m. A school working under this system requires two complete staffs, and its cost of operation is estimated to exceed the cost of staffing and managing two collegiates by approximately $20,000. It is for this reason that we said earlier that it was cheaper to build the new collegiate now.

* * *

Consider the confusion which the Stagger System could cause in the homes of high school boys and girls. It is impossible for anyone to guarantee that all the children in a single family will be in either School A or School B, and this may mean two lunch times, different study times and playtimes—endless confusion in many families. The city of Oshawa decided to try the Stagger System recently; after three months of confusion and dissatisfaction it decided to abandon the scheme and build a new collegiate.

* * *

We need the new collegiate. In future editorials we shall discuss the finances of the matter and some other aspects of it. But the fact is plain that, however much we may dislike spending the money, it is cheaper to do so than to waste $20,000 a year on a bad system until, in another four or five years, we are forced to do what we should do now.

Double Division In U.S. Politics

The narrow margin by which the Democratic Party retained control of the United States Congress promises an even rockier course for Administration legislation than it encountered in the last Congress. The division in the Democratic Party, created by dissident Southerners who often voted with the Republican Opposition, defeated the Administration on a number of occasions, and the balance of power held by the Southerners is even more effective since this month's election. It will not likely be counterbalanced by a division which exists in the Republican Party as well, although that division may be expected to become increasingly marked between now and the Presidential election of 1952.

The Republican split is a three-way affair. The impressive victory of Senator Robert Taft of Ohio makes him again a leading contender for the Presidential nomination, and he has substantial support within the party. At the same time, Governor Thomas Dewey's equally impressive win in New York State leaves him in a strong strategic position, and he has already publicly announced support for General Dwight Eisenhower as Presidential candidate. Those are the two major divisions; the third, and minor, division is a group which may be claimed by Senator Joseph McCarthy, since he was largely instrumental in bringing it into being.

The Taft division, at the moment, seems to occupy a spot somewhat to the right of centre. No longer isolationist, it nevertheless calls for re-examination of present foreign policy and assistance of all kinds given to other nations. The Dewey-Eisenhower faction is frankly internationalist, supporting present foreign policy. Those grouped around McCarthy advocate a form of reaction which would lead to what has been described as "the stockade state". And since the two major divisions are approximately equal in strength, the McCarthy faction may hold the balance of power when it comes to electing the party's Presidential candidate.

Since it seems inconceivable that the McCarthy group would ever support the internationalist group, the Taft faction will be greatly tempted to seek, or at least to accept, its support. Taft's followers may be inclined to point to the success of McCarthy-supported candidates in the last election as justification for doing so. It is questionable, however, whether the violent and heedless anti-Communism of McCarthy and his followers would have the same appeal in a national election as in an off-year election.

Ransom Rejected

Russia is old-fashioned, far behind the times. Sometimes she is as far back as the Dark Ages, when chivalry was not in flower. We instance her attempt to make a ransom deal with Britain about an R.A.F. officer and an army private held in East Germany. The R.A.F. officer had to make a forced landing on Soviet-dominated territory. The army private missed a Berlin train and was stranded in the Soviet zone. Russia, it seems, will surrender these two innocents abroad, whom they have been keeping for two months, if the British will give up a Russian officer who deserted the Soviet cause and took refuge in the British sector.

Exchanges of war prisoners continue to be made in this century, but ransom has gone out of fashion in civilized armies. There are rules of international law governing peace or war-time circumstances. If according to these rules Britain should force the Russian deserter back to his own ranks (and certain death), then it would be done. If Russia holds two British uniformed innocents contrary to the rules, she will continue to hold them—unless she gets the kind of ransom payment she demands.

"The Most Critical Area"

When Europe, the United States and Canada go to war, they do so to preserve their ways of life, their civilization and culture. That is summed up by saying that they try to preserve the heritage of western civilization which extends in magnificent sequence from ancient Greece through to its present fruits in Europe and this continent. When our sight is somewhat blinded by the red glow from the Orient—the situation in Asia— it is well to remember that the very heart of the civilization we would preserve is Europe, not Asia.

Mr. Gordon Gray, former Secretary of the U.S. Army Department, made his report to President Truman on Sunday on the course the U.S. should take when the Marshal Plan's term ends. It is reassuring to see as a principal statement in his recommendations this definition of Western Europe: "The most critical area from the standpoint of our security and the security of the free world". If Asia is saved from Communism, and Europe lost, what has been the purpose? Europe is western civilization; Asia is not.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

WEDNESDAY, November 22 is celebrated as St. Cecilia's Day. St. Cecilia is commonly regarded as the patron saint of the art of music, though the origin of this ascription, and indeed of the legends associated with her name are very obscure. Early writers, including Chaucer, who gives an account of her life and martyrdom in the Second Nonnes Tale from the Canterbury Tales, make no mention of her skill in music. Dryden makes an allusion to a later legend in his Ode for St. Cecilia's Day according to which an angel was attracted to earth by her singing, but the origin of this is unknown. Judging from the records of writers and painters it appears that her name was first connected with music at the end of the fifteenth century. According to the earlier legends Cecilia was a Roman of noble family, brought up as a Christian and vowed to a life of virginity in the service of religion. She was however prevailed upon by her parents to marry Valerianus, a young Roman noble of pagan beliefs, but she managed to induce him to respect her vows and together with his brother to embrace Christianity. They were denounced to the Pagan authorities and suffered martyrdom, some say in A.D. 229 or 230, others between A.D. 176 and 180.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR some time past the custom of celebrating St. Cecilia's Day with music has been observed in various countries, the first recorded occasion having taken place at Evreux, France in 1570. It was not until 1683 that celebrations in her honour were instituted in England under the auspices of a body named "the Musical Society". This took place annually, and consisted of a choral service and anthem with a sermon, usually in defence of Cathedral Music, then under attack from the Puritan faction. After the service the congregation adjourned to another place to hear an Ode in praise of music, specially written and composed for the occasion. This was followed by an entertainment. This custom was observed with few interruptions until 1703, when they were held at less frequent intervals, and eventually fizzled out. The foremost writers and composers of the day wrote for these celebrations. The Festival has been revived in more recent times, and Benjamin Britten has written an Ode to words by W. H. Auden. Might I make a suggestion that this festival be revived in Peterborough? There would be a few knotty problems to solve, and in any case we should have to wait until next year, but difficulties exist in order to be overcome.

LAST Friday my distinguished colleague Alpha stated "gleefully" (why gleefully?) that I had "slipped from my Olympian omniscience of things musical" when I said with Sir Thomas Browne that we shall never know what song the sirens sang. In the first place I have never in the past nor shall I ever in the future claim "Olympian omniscience" in any field, least of all in music. Secondly I am getting a little tired of these Sirens, and I suspect that my readers may be feeling the same way too. Finally I stick to my guns and refuse to be budged by Robert Graves' tissue of improbabilities. Since I am mainly interested in musical topics in this column I am still on quite firm ground, for nobody has as yet produced what purports to be the original music to this poem in nine stanzas. As far as the poem is concerned it is a free adaptation from two Irish poems. Being ignorant of the Irish language and its literature I cannot say how free it is, but evidently the name of Bran has been changed to Cronos Odysseus. As for the statement that the origin of the story that Odysseus stopped his ears with wax (sorry, had them stopped!) and refused the Sirens' summons was probably (note the word) that in the late thirteenth century B.C. a sacred king of Ithaca, Crono's representative, refused to die at the end of his term of office and that this would explain why he killed all the suitors for his wife Penelope's hand, after disguising himself in dirt and rags during the usual temporary abdication, I don't believe it. He had enough reason for killing them in the Homeric story without going to the trouble of inventing fresh ones, especially when they are not even plausible. The truth is that Graves is a poet, and a poet with a pet theory that he is intent on proving. His avowed object in writing the "White Goddess" was to demonstrate the parallels between ancient Greek and Celtic mythology and thence to deduce the existence in the very misty and prehistoric past of a common Graeco-Celtic civilization. He does not shrink from the wildest improbability, and he seizes on some tiny detail where two legends correspond like a leech fastening on its host. If I had the time and inclination I could doubtless prove in the same way that the Australian blackfellows and the Finns had a common civilization while the Chinese and the Egyptians were still dressed in skins. I am sorry to think that Alpha may have swallowed the Graves theories holus-bolus. Even in the short extract vouchsafed us there appear some remarkable statements. Phorcus is called Phorcis, the Sow-Demeter. Now Phorcus, or Phorcis was a god, while Demeter was a goddess. These beings scarcely ever changed sexes, the only example I know of being Tiresias — but then Graves would "identify" Tiresias with Phorcus, making a composite Phorcus-Tiresias-Demeter in order to get out of the difficulty. I fear that Graves (the writer, not the wine, heaven forfend) must be taken cum grano salis.

LAST CBC Wednesday night programme included an orchestral work by John Weinzweig, professor at the Royal Conservatory, "The Edge of the World", founded on Eskimo themes collected by the 1913 Arctic Expedition. Mr. Weinzweig's music is anything but academic; I found it somewhat reminiscent of the quieter passages of the Rite of Spring. In spite of this derivative quality there was an inner logic to the work which made one feel that Weinzweig has something to say (though perhaps not entirely new), he knows how to say it, and when he has finished saying it he shuts up. The orchestral effects were nicely calculated and were obviously part of the whole musical conception, not just put in afterwards. Up to now Weinzweig has been a name to me, no more; I am looking forward to hearing more of his work, not only in order to get a fuller view of his talent but also, I hope, for my own personal pleasure.

A CRITICAL SITUATION has developed in Indo-China. The French, after withdrawing from posts on the Chinese frontier, have drawn a new defence line round the Red River delta perimeter (see inset). This is to safeguard the rice bowl of Tonking as well as the port of Haiphong, vital for the defence of Vietnam against Communist-sponsored Vietminh attack, and strategically important in defence of South-East Asia against further Communist expansion. A Communist triumph in Indo-China (writes Bip Pares) would endanger the extended lines of communication between the British Far East Centre of Command at Singapore and the North Pacific region, where British forces are now engaged.

Letters To The Editor

WINDSOR'S DEBT TO PETERBOROUGH

Sir: Following your editorial of November 16 headed "Peterborough Helps Windsor", in which you mention two excellent police officers who have gone to Windsor from Peterborough, I thought that you might be interested to know that the superintendent of the Windsor Hospital is Miss Laura Lamb, also a native of Peterborough, and a descendant of the Rubidge family, so well known here. So Windsor is in our debt for an unusually able hospital executive, as well.

Yours,
M.H.F.

NURSES' HOME FOR THE AGED

Sir: I have come back to Peterborough recently, been away 29 years, living in Guelph 25 years. I read the letter in the Examiner (Monday's) in reference to the city putting the Nurses' Home on Argyle St. into a home for older people. What a great blessing that would be both from the standpoint of comfort for the older people, and helping relieve the housing problem. Don't you find there are some maybe living alone, or maybe just two, who would be happy to dispose of their homes with fuel, taxes and other expenses so high, to allow a family which needs the accommodation to have it. And a place like the Nurses' Home or Isolation building or hospital could so easily be converted into a comfortable home for the aged. Most and maybe all could at least pay in their pension. As I understand the city owns these buildings. How fortunate you are in Peterborough.

Another proposition: in Guelph a few years ago we were faced with the need of home for those older people who were in need of a home. Our Salvation Army there bought a building which the Children's Aid Society were forced to sell. The S.A. turned it into what they call "The Even-Tide Home". They have 40 or maybe 42 older men. All or nearly all are giving in their pension. The Salvation Army gives them back all they need for spending money each month. It is a pleasure to visit that home and see those men so happy and contented, and to know what privileges different organizations have, as well as the Salvation Army giving the men entertainment and pleasure. Sometimes I wonder if we of all our churches could not take a wonderful example from our highly esteemed Salvation Army. Members not only in Guelph have their homes for the aged.

Thanking you for your space and hoping others will give their opinions.

MINE IN AGREEMENT.

THE COLLEGIATE BYLAW

Sir: On December 4th the ratepayers of the city will be asked to approve funds for the expansion of our educational facilities to take care of the growing number of secondary school pupils.

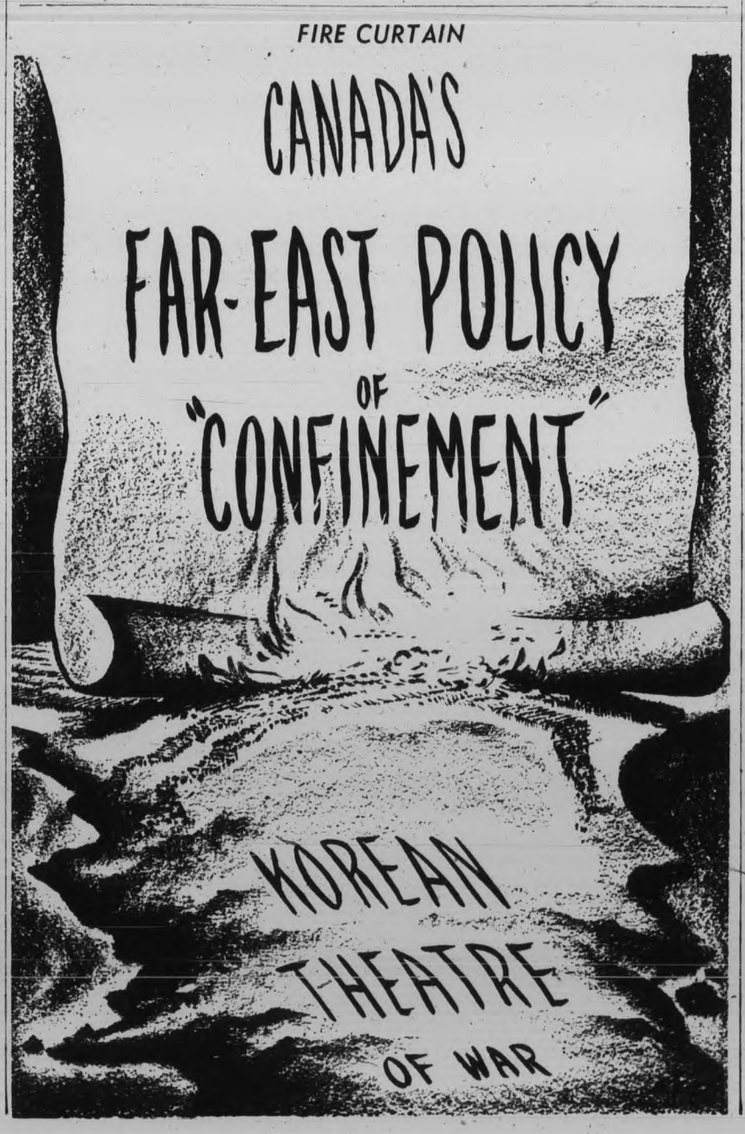
As a former member of the Board of Education, it is my firm conviction that this request for the building of the initial portion of a second Collegiate is quite justified, and presents the only solution possible.

It is most unfortunate that several major expenditures are affecting our tax rate within the space of a few years. We have however been entirely too free of capital expenditures over a long period, and we must now pay for the various services demanded by a rapidly growing city.

It is our duty as parents to insist that our children go into the world fully equipped, and education is one of the essentials.

A. PITCHFORD.

THE COMMUNIST MENACE



Sir: Regarding R. MacGeddon's letter anent the proposed arming of our (until lately) hated enemies, I think that somehow or other he is out of touch with realities, that he has lost the place, as it were.

We are all aware of the unbelievable atrocities perpetrated by the Germans and the Japs, and do not have to be reminded of the countless thousands of victims who were cast alive into incinerators by the former, or the Australians who were crucified and used as targets for bayonet practice by the latter. Insofar as the gallant Italians are concerned, as one great man was quoted as having remarked during one of their regular advances to the rear, "Never have so many done so little in such a long time".

Those remarks, however, are merely by the way. The point which R. MacGeddon does not seem to grasp is that in defeating the Japs and Nazis we purchased temporary freedom, but, in doing so, were obviously blind to a still greater menace to that freedom—the menace of world Communism.

Let us make haste, therefore to rectify this error. Let us show our former enemies that a world where men are free to think as they will, free to speak as they wish, and free to work at what they prefer, is a world worth fighting for, but at the same time let us see that our freedom is not achieved at the cost of decency and self respect.

Yours very truly,
REALIST.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead. And by chance there came down a certain priest that way: and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side. And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.

But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him. And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him. And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee. (Luke 10: 30-35.)

Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God . . . If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen? (I John 4: 7, 20.)

No Apostrophe, Please

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

Officials of our neighbouring town, Smiths Falls, might like to point out to the Ontario department of highways that a slight but, to civic-minded residents, most annoying mistake has been made in the spelling of the town's name on the recently erected highway signs. We noticed that the spelling on the sign at the corner of King and Perth Sts. here, as well as the one on the eastern limits of Kingston, pointing the way to "Smith's Falls" and any resident is quick to point out that there is positively no apostrophe in the name.

Another interesting case is that of St. Marys, Ont., incorporated with an apostrophe, and still so spelled by the Post Office. But in the town itself the apostrophe long since ceased to be used, the local paper does not use it, and something should be done to make the change official.

A Reminder

(Montreal Matin)

We have already protested against the present congestion in some of the unemployment insurance offices. It has come about that hundreds of people have had to wait in the street, in the rain, before getting into an office where, once more, they have had to wait a long time to get their turn obtaining satisfaction. The federal authorities seem to forget too easily that unemployment insurance is not a "relief" but in fact an insurance to the benefits of which the unemployed has a right after having paid the premiums.

RC Students Want Voice In World Affairs

MONTREAL, Nov. 20 (CP). — Call for a Canada-wide student council to give Roman Catholic students a united voice in national and international affairs of concern to them was made during the weekend by the Canadian Federation of Catholic College Students at their annual convention here.

The three-day convention, which ended Sunday made the call for formation of a Catholic Canadian students' council in a resolution adopted unanimously by the convention. Membership in the council would include, the resolution said, the three major Catholic students' groups:

1. The National Federation of Newman Clubs, which represents Catholic students at non-Catholic universities and colleges;

2. The newly formed bilingual Canadian Federation of Catholic University Students which consists of students at six eastern Canada universities;

3. The CFCCS, representing English-speaking students at Catholic colleges in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes.

MEMBERS OF THE ROYAL 22ND REGIMENT from the province of Quebec, a unit of Canada's special force, line up on the parade ground at Fort Lewis, Wash., US Army post, after arrival by train from Montreal. They will train at Fort Lewis pending call by the United Nations for service where needed.

Windsor Mayor Criticizes OPP

WINDSOR, Nov. 20 (CP). — Mayor Arthur J. Reaume has requested provincial police to investigate a picket-line incident at the struck plant of the Windsor Packing Company Saturday, when violence flared for the second time in a week.

Mayor Reaume charged that a provincial police car went through the picket line, knocked down a picket and did not stop. He sent a telegram to provincial police commissioner W. H. Stringer and asked for an investigation.

Provincial police arrested one picket—John Poirier, 29-year-old auto worker, who was charged with wilful damage of a packing company car which went through the picket line. Mayor Reaume supplied $200 bail for him.

Poirier and the three men arrested Nov. 11 for wilful damage to company property, will appear in county court for trial Tuesday.

Special Force Married Men Complain Pay Insufficent

By CAMERON JAMES

WAINTWRIGHT, Alta., Nov. 20 (CP)—Some of the men of the 2nd Battalion of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry are bound for Korea with a giant-sized complaint.

They are the men with families. They don't think they are being paid enough. What's more, their officers agree.

Lt.-Col. J. R. (Jim) Stone, of Salmon Arm, B.C., the Patricia's commanding officer, says that most of what trouble he has had with the men can be traced to insufficient pay.

Wives Get $103

Privates in the special force receive a minimum of $68 a month. If they are married their wives receive half of that—$34—plus $39 separation allowance and $30 marriage allowance, a total of $103.

But there is no additional allowance for children.

Pte. William Henderson, 25, a twice-wounded veteran of the Second World War who left a trucking business in Kensington, P.E.I., to join the special service force, is an example.

"I keep $10 a month. My wife and three children get $127. It's tough to manage. We're lucky we live in a small place. I'd hate to think of my wife trying to get along in Toronto."

Blame Themselves

Said an officer in the Pay Corps: "It's too bad. But really the men who can't make a go on their pay have only themselves to blame. A man with a wife and three children had no business joining up."

Said Maj. George Flint, of Montreal, a company commander: "The men weren't told what to expect when they joined up. They were hustled in fast and they thought their families would be properly looked after."

Lt.-Col. Stone said that many of the men with families are undergoing real hardship.

"Most of our troubles have sprung from men whose wives have given up trying to make ends meet. Many of these men had to be discharged, but there are still a good number hanging on. Much of the trouble with men going absent without leave was caused by money shortages."

Examine Pay

Before the Patricia's left camp at Wainwright, Lt.-Col. Stone assured them that the pay structure is under revision. He said he had been told that before long there will be "a substantial increase in pay and allowances."

Said one private: "I'll believe it when it happens."

The increase of $27 a month for members of the special brigade stationed in the United States won't help the Patricia's much. They are slated to spend less than a week at Fort Lewis, Wash., before sailing for Korea.

Gormley Sow Judged Grand Champion

TORONTO, Nov. 20 (CP). — Gormley Bess 14Z owned by Charles B. Boynton of Gormley, Ont., Saturday was judged the grand champion Tamworth sow of the Royal Winter Fair. Sunny Chloe 21E owned by Fred W. Trewin of Nestleton, Ont., won the reserve championship.

TORONTO, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Cadet Robert Vinals, of Mexico, won the international individual jumping championship at the Royal Winter Fair Saturday after a tie-breaking jump-off with Canada to give Mexico five straight triumphs in this event. Young Tom Gayford, of Toronto, riding Nova Scotia, a sorrel, nearly brought Canada its first championship in this contest since 1937.

Need Strong Air Force

TORONTO, Nov. 20 (CP)—Air Vice Marshal A. R. Slemon, air officer commanding RCAF Training Command, Trenton, Ont., said Saturday a stronge air force is needed to prevent another war. In an address to the 10th annual meeting of the Ontario Provincial Committee of the Air Cadet League of Canada, he urged that all members of the committee encourage others to take an active part in a drive for recruits.

Canada Supports Lie Peace Plan

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (CP). — Hugues Lapointe, member of Canada's United Nations delegation, said Saturday the Canadian delegation is happy to sponsor a resolution commending Secretary-General Trygve Lie for his initiative in proposing a 20-year peace plan.

Canada was one of nine nations submitting the resolution.

"This resolution," said Lapointe, Canada's Veterans Affairs Minister, "commends the Secretary-General for his initiative, asks all branches of the United Nations to consider his memorandum, and to report through him to the Assembly at its next session on the results of such consideration."

Addressing the U.N. General Assembly, Lapointe accused the Soviet delegation of submitting "improper and objectionable" proposals. . . . Attacking the Secretary-General's broad program for peace."

Lunch Better Than Niagara Says Wheat King

TORONTO, Nov. 20—(CP)—Ricky Sharpe, boy wheat king from Munson, Alta., will be remembered by newspaper reporters here as a lad who during his trip east seldom gave the obvious reply to a question.

After a hectic day at Niagara Falls, Ont., Sunday when he almost wore out five adults in his party, he was asked what impressed him most.

Even from a 12-year-old, the obvious reply would have been Niagara Falls—one of the nine wonders of the world. But what did Rick say?

"Lunch!"

He had lunch in the glass-enclosed dining room of a hotel overlooking the Falls, after travelling to Niagara Falls in an automobile supplied by Agriculture Minister Kennedy of Ontario.

In the party were Ricky's parents; Mrs. Roderick Sharpe, an aunt from Napanee, Ont.; Joy Cardell, newspaper woman from Calgary, and Jack Hambleton, free-lance writer.

Hambleton said that after lunch Ricky "ran" the party ragged, running here and there to view the Falls from every possible angle.

"But," said Hambleton, "he couldn't talk us into walking up General Brock's monument. Those 100 steps would have been our undoing."

Ducks Use Own Baby Sitter

REGINA —(CP)— Even ducks use baby-sitters.

Fred Bard, director of the Provincial Museum, and Ralph Stueck of Abernethy, Sask., saw a white-winged Scoter duck with 65 little Scoters sitting on Last Mountain Lake.

They found the other mothers around a point of land.

"That first Scoter was a baby-sitter," Mr. Stueck told a meeting of Regina Natural History Society. He is widely known as the "Jack Miner of the prairies."

Junior COSSA Crown Taken By PCVS For Third In Row

By FRED MAYBEE.

Alex Londry's PCVS juniors won the COSSA title at the Oval Saturday by defeating Welland High 25-5 in a sudden-death struggle to climax a grand undefeated season.

A large crowd viewed the thrilling finale and saw the superior defence work of the PCVS line and faster moving backfielders maintain a marked superiority over their Niagara opponents all the way after a shaky start. Early in the first quarter a fumble on the local 30-yard line paved the way for an unconverted Welland major by Koval on a Thomas pass.

Three In Row

Thus the speedy and colorful PCVS juniors have emulated the feat of their senior brothers in winning the secondary school championship for central Ontario thrice in succession, the first time such a feat has been accomplished by a junior squad in Collegiate history here. The seniors completed their undefeated string in 1948 when both teams emerged triumphant.

Superbly led by Bill Stewart, ace quarterback, whose mighty ground gains brought the fans to their feet each time he carried the ball, Murray Grafstein, Barry Hollingsworth and Dave Langhorne, fast hard-hitting backfielders, the entire squad dug in to quickly equalize the visitors' early score at 10:30 in the first when Stewart carried 45 yards around right end for a major on a perfectly executed quarterback sneak, aided by the perfect blocking of his front line mates Langhorne converted to put PCVS one up.

Second Major

Barry Hollingsworth carried over for PCVS' second major score in the second quarter from 15 yards out after a thrilling drive from the local 45 as Stewart and Grafstein advanced the ball 40 yards on alternate runs around ends. Once again, the great line blocking of the front wall led by Creighton Johnson, Hughey Outram and Larry Forbes was an equally potent factor in the play's successful culmination. The linemen played their parts with the accent on speed throughout. Dave Langhorne again split the uprights with a convert to put the locals well in the van.

Brian Turner, who also turned in a fine game, hoofed a long single to Learn from the rival 38 late in the quarter as both teams began to open up a little on aerial attack.

Not Good Enough

Welland made their best showing in the scoreless third frame when their aerial attack began to click with more effectiveness but not sufficient to turn the tide as PCVS interceptions and blocking nullified many rival attempts. Welland threw 17 forwards, completing eight with two intercepted. PCVS completed three of six for important gains but concentrated on groundwork where they held a wide margin on yards from scrimmage.

Despite desperate aerial attempts by Welland in the final quarter, PCVS ran wild and made victory clear-cut as Grafstein and Fowler each scored majors to wind up the scoring, the former crashing 10 yards through center after Hollingsworth's run around left end for 30 yards to almost score himself, while Fowler crashed through after Hollingsworth intercepted a Thomas forward and ran it back 50 yards to the Welland two on one of the most sensational runs of the day Langhorne kicked both extra points.

COACHES CHAMPS — For three straight years, Coach Alex Londry has guided the young PCVS gridders to the COSSA junior championship, setting a new mark in the history of the Collegiate. His classy squad Saturday trimmed Welland High 25-5 here in the sudden-death final.

PCVS Seniors Lose Out In Final Fray

By DON GRANT.

Before a record-breaking football crowd of over 4,000, St. Catharines Collegiate Tricolors scalped the PCVS Garnet and Greys 44-0 at Sports Park Saturday. With the victory went the school's second straight COSSA football championship. Last year in Peterborough they won handily, 25-1.

Not since the Garnet and Greys met the East York Goliaths have they played a team which could pass, kick and run the ball like the Tricolors. This strong grid outfit ran wild throughout the afternoon with razzle-dazzle lateral passing plays and would even give the Goliaths a go for the money.

The two-team system of coach Jim McNulty began to tell on the PCI'ers in the second half. Practically on every second play a Garnet and Grey player limped or was helped off the field. Inside Jim Grant, a veteran, is in the hospital with a possible serious concussion. Other injuries include: Hubert Knox, broken finger; Roy Armstrong, Don Clapper and Bus Jensen, sprained ankles; Hubert Lowes a seven-stitch cut on his cheek; Bryan Young, a kicked hand; others have black eyes.

They All Tried

Although the PCVS' line didn't match the Tricolors', they gave their all against the fast-moving backs. Paul Frise, the 215-snap, was in for the whole game and worked all the way. Hubert Lowes, a middle, earned another bouquet. He played with a gash in his cheek and "Killer" rates a high spot with Frise for effectiveness.

Al Northcott was slightly shaded in the kicking by Jack Thompson and Steve Oneschuk. On most of the runbacks the Tricolors carried the ball back close to where it was kicked. Several times through two or three laterals they ran back for 45 and 55 yards.

All the Tricolor backfielders featured in the great display of team footwork. Roy Armstrong on the first play slipped for 40 yards and on the last play Warren Brown seeped through for 22. Roy Armstrong, Al McIlraith and Bob Craw weer the most effective on the ground for PCVS. In the air the play was almost even. Bryan Young and Al Northcott completed four in 12, seven incompleted and one intercepted. Oneschuk and Thompson managed to click on five while eight were incomplete and one was intercepted.

How It Went

Only two points were scored in the first quarter. Steve Oneschuk kicked the first and Jack Thompson on the second. Oneschuk added another single early in the second when Young was rouged. W. McCamus recovered a fumble on the next play at the PCVS 26. M. Woolley on a passout from Emil Uhrynuk crossed for a major, followed by a point by Oneschuk. T. Quinlan and J. Cruickshank combined late in the quarter to put the ball on the PCVS 20. Thompson passed to J. Buchanan who lateralled to Quinlan who crossed over Thompson converted to make the half score 15-0.

Oneschuk ran back a kick in the third for 38 yards to the PCVS 12. He then passed to P. Neuman for the touchdown. Oneschuk added the extra point. Two plays later Oneschuk passed to Jim Shook for 15 yards from the PCVS 51 and he went for a touch. Oneschuk again converted. Shook and Newman later carried to the PCVS 10 from the 43-yard line. Emil Uhrynuk went over easily and Oneschuk converted. Cruickshank, Quinlan, Thompson featured on the last touch of the third by running to the PCVS four. Twice they were held before Quinlan crossed for the score Frise broke up the convert attempt.

Cruickshank scored the only touch of the fourth quarter crashing into the goal-post as he crossed. Bus Jensen was later rouged on a kick by Thompson for the 44th point.

Lineups:

PCVS: Flying wing, Northcott; halves, Armstrong, Gandy, Brown; quarter, Young; snap, Frise; insides, Grant, English; middles, Telford, Lowes outsides, Galley, Thompson; alts., Ward, Mongraw, Northey, Fortner, G. Burns, Jensen, Craw, Knox, J. Burns, Clapper, McIlraith, White, Harrison, Buckland, Sanders.

St. Catharines: Flying wing, Oneschuk; halves, Woolley, Shook, Cruickshank; quarter, Uhrynuk; snap, Howlett; insides, Nelson, Schellenberg; middles, McCamus, Persenaire; outsides, Lansky, Neuman; alts., Clement, Niemy, Martin, Johnson, Buchanan, Milligan, Coutanche, Thompson, Bynkoski, Cahill, Herriott.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Queen's and Eagles clash at 8.30 in Civic Arena in an OHA senior "B" fixture, and Eagles will be trying to keep intact their undefeated streak this season. We think Queen's will surprise them and a lot of folks with a real hustling display, as they gave the Petes a stiff fight last time out, and they appear to be bolstering and improving from game to game. However, they'll have to hustle plenty to halt the high-flying Eagles at this time. It's bound to be a speedy, lively fray and will probably draw another hefty crowd of hockey fans.

* * * * * *

The two local clubs have former fine defencemen as coaches, the Petes with Drake Jopling and Eagles with Mick Magee. Two husky, bumping blue-line defenders in their day (and Drake still fills in when needed) but both noted as clean players down the years. That may well tend to keep Petes-Eagles' tilts this winter on a cleaner basis than heretofore. Drake and Mick had and have plenty of fight and would step into anyone big or little on the ice, but they never deliberately cut down a rival nor pulled any dirty play. They're both level-headed, also, and don't blow up—so we feel this example will be seen in local play right along.

Wrapping Up A Season

Men's softball executive wound up the season with a meeting and social get-together (wives in on the latter) Saturday under Prexy Pat Calladine. They didn't have a good season financially, weather and other things beating 'em, but as Dave Leether said you have to take the lean years along with the good ones. They voted Red Sullivan of East City the Peller Trophy as most valuable to his team the past season, and we don't think anyone will argue with that too much. Bob Greenlaw, Jack Mackness and Bill Crowley were others considered. Bob Greenlaw and Howie Dalton were previous winners. Ted Naish was praised for a fine job as treasurer under rather rugged circumstances the past peculiar summer. Johnny Russelle received the Geo. Dormer Trophy as Mutuals finished the schedule in top spot. East City won the Taylor Cup as city champs.

Getting back to hockey for a moment, Oshawa Bees edged Bun Kingdon's junior "B" IOOF-ers 5-4 in the dying minutes of a tidy tilt in the Motor City on Saturday. A toughie to drop as it looked like Oddfellows were home free, though the teams are well-matched. They played hurry-up hockey throughout, generally clean, and it was pretty much of a tossup. Buckton, Shearer, Wyatt, Brian Robinson and Goalie Wasson were good for the visitors, with the rest toiling hard, too. The Bees will be tough enough in every game. Triple Links don't play again until Friday night.

Hail, The COSSA Champs!

Our heartiest congrats to Coach Alex Londry and his champion PCVS junior gridders. They trimmed Welland 25-5 here Saturday before a goodly gallery and earned it all the way. The victory gave them their third straight COSSA junior crown, a record never before equalled at the Peterborough Collegiate. Great stuff. Every player rates orchids, and we feel that they've had some topnotch coaching by likeable Alex Londry. Bill Stewart played a whale of a game for the champs with Murray Grafstein, Barry Hollingsworth and Dave Langhorne also starring behind some great blocking on the line. The visitors battled valiantly in the first and third quarters, but PCVS had too much for them.

* * * * * *

It was a horse of a different hue Saturday in St. Catharines. More than 4,000 noisy fans cheered the St. Kitts Tricolor to a 44-0 trouncing over PCVS seniors to take the COSSA title in that bracket. The winners were much too good, though the PCI-ers fought fiercely all the way. They were outclassed by a hefty margin, this powerful St. Catharines' grid machine being just about the best in the province this year. The Goulding squad went down battling and suffered a raft of injuries trying to stop the big victors. Steve Oneschuk is an outstanding high school footballer and his mates aren't far behind. Tough luck, PCVS, but at least you made it to the COSSA finals once more.

Oshawa Takes Close One Against IOOF

Oshawa Bees edged Oddfellows 5-4 in their opening junior "B" hockey struggle Saturday at the Motor City and it was a humdinger.

It was a ding-dong battle for 58 minutes and 50 seconds when Gord Barmon took Deeth's pass and blazed a hard one past Wasson for the clinching marker from close range. It was a tough one to lose as Triple Links held a 4-3 lead with less than four minutes to go after Brian Robinson had scored two fine goals in the first half of the final period the last on an assist from brother Gary. The teams were so evenly matched that the result could have gone either way. Links were without the services of Army Armstrong, Don Clapper and Bill Stewart and their loss was felt.

Play was fast and clean throughout with little to choose between teams and both goalies shining at either end. Though 11 miscues were handed out, most were for trivial offences.

Got First One

George Brabin tallied for Bees near the half-way mark in the first as he slid a low one past Wasson through a maze of players but Ab Buckton, who worked hard and effectively all night, equalized at the three-quarter mark on a smart play with Lefty Dorris and Shearer. Play speeded up considerably in the second as the teams fought evenly till midway in the session when Gord Deeth found the range from Etcher to give Wasson no chance. O'Connor's tally made Bees' chances look good but Lefty Doris, who played a fine game, put IOOF back in there on a pippin late in the frame from Brian Robinson.

Continuing a sustained drive in the third chapter, Oddfellows outplayed their rivals in the first half to take the lead but two late tallies as Bees came back strong by O'Connor and Bannon gave the Motor boys the nod.

Starring for Bees were Brabin, Wilson, Deeth, Etcher, O'Connor, Haxton and Bannon, while for Oddfellows, Buckton, Doris, Shearer, Wyatt and Brian Robinson were particularly good with Wasson fine in the cage and every man giving his best.

Chairman Dr. C. McKee and his committee kept things going right along at a good pace.

E. G. Hand, who at one time was a member of the club, but now lives, retired, at Fenelon Falls, was here with a rink. He said this was his 54th year at curling; he looks good for a long time yet.

The next open bonspiel is all day Wednesday, Nov. 29, and is for the Walker Trophy.

Can Geohagen Tame Marvel?

Can Timothy Geohagen beat the Masked Marvel? That appears like a $64 question and mat fans will get their answer Tuesday night at the Brock Arena. For that is the night the mighty Timothy takes on the Masked Marvel (and maybe his manager) in the main event of this week's wrestling show. The bout should be a sizzling affair for both men are rugged grapplers, the Mask using any method to gain a win while Geohagen relies on straight grappling and tremendous strength.

Geohagen is just about as strong as Yukon Eric, with a bit more mat knowledge than the Alaskan. He is improving with every start and just recently had a match with world champion Lou Thez.

A top supporting card has been lined up, with Wee Willie Davis and Pat Flanagan in the semi-final. Flanagan is one of the most popular matmen to show here and never fails to give the fans a peppery match. Wee Willie will have to step to gain a verdict from Pat.

The opener brings together Dangerous Dan O'Connor and a newcomer Tony Lanza. It shapes up as a big night for local and district grapple fans.

Most Valuable Trophy Voted To Red Sullivan

George (Red) Sullivan was voted the most valuable played to his team (East City) in the men's City Softball League for 1950 at a windup meeting of the executive Saturday at Mac McWilliams' resort. The meeting was held in conjunction with a social "do" for officers and some guests, including the ladies. Names sent to the executive by the teams for a vote were Sullivan, Bob Greenlaw of Mutuals, Jack Mackness of UEW, and Bill Crowley of Orphans. The hard-hitting and classy East City infielder will receive the Peller Trophy, won a year ago by Greenlaw and before that by Howie Dalton.

The business session was run by president Pat Calladine, who called on George Dormer to present the Dormer Trophy to Johnny Russelle of Mutuals for finishing first in the schedule. Dave Leether, league life-member, and several others spoke briefly following an enjoyable dinner. The work of treasurer Ted Naish came in for special praise by the president.

Queen's Win Five, Places 2nd In League

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 20 (CP) —Queen's University Intermediate ran their unscored-on streak to five games Saturday as they downed MacDonald College Aggies, 47-0, in the last scheduled game of the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Valley Conference.

In spite of their winning streak, Queen's wound up second in the standings, behind unbeaten McGill Intermediates.

Jack Wright and Eddie Klym, each with two majors, and Pete Irwin with six converts, led the Gael's attack.

North Bay Wins 6-3 Over Army

NORTH BAY, Nov. 20 (CP) — Three unreplied goals in the final period brought to an end North Bay Black Hawks three-game losing streak here Saturday night and gave them a bitterly-contested 6-3 verdict over Ottawa Army in an Eastern Canada Hockey League encounter.

Victory pushed the Hawks past Cornwall Calumets into second place in the league race. They trail the leading Ottawa RCAF Flyers by three points.

Three Goals

Black Hawks shattered a 3-3 second-period tie by slamming home three third-period markers, Joe LaFrance sinking the winner on Andy Mantha's neat setup at the 8:21 mark. Army battled desperately for the equalizer but saw their hopes go when Ralph Orlando and Chick Cecchini banged home a pair of goals 38 seconds apart with less than two minutes remaining.

The teams engaged in a hard-bumping duel that terminated in a first-period fist fight between North Bay's Fred Valenti and Army's Edgar Blondin. Both were banished from the game with match misconducts.

Boris Elik, Bill Dwyer and Frank Ringler added the other Black Hawk tallies while Connie Brown, Ozzie Osborne and Jake Brunning clicked for the Ottawa markers.

St. Mike's Win Lead Sr. League

By The Canadian Press

Toronto St. Michael's College is represented by two teams in Ontario Hockey Association play this season, but their performances to date are a study in contrasts.

While the senior St. Mike's lead the OHA major series, their junior counterpart is deep in ninth place in the junior A league. They've wone only two of their 13 games, while the senior squad has dropped only two.

Playing coach Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty led the fighting Irish to a 6-5 victory in the first senior meeting with the Allan Cup-holding Marlboros at Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday afternoon.

The junior St. Mike's, on the other hand, tried hard but were beaten on the same ice Sunday when Stratford Kroehlers scored three last period goals to eke out a 7-6 win.

In the other half of the twin-bill the junior Marlboros defeated Oshawa Generals 5-3 to take over second place in the junior A league.

In Saturday games, Barrie Flyers extended their first-place lead, by defeating the third-place Galt Black Hawks 4-3 in overtime while Guelph Biltmores were moving from eighth to fourth position by defeating the last-place winless Waterloo Hurricanes 6-4.

Frenchmen Flying, Win 2 Leafs Split Weekend Games

By The Canadian Press

Coach Dick Irvin of Montreal has his Flying Frenchmen flying again.

Les Habitants, rebounding from a tailspin due to injuries, today are riding the crest of a three-game winning streak which has seen them rise from fourth to third place in the National Hockey League.

They made the best gain of any of the loop's teams during the weekend, knocking off Chicago Black Hawks twice—3-2, at home Saturday and 3-0 at Chicago Sunday.

Other weekend action saw Detroit Red Wings extend their skein of undefeated games to 10, one shy of the season record set by Toronto Maple Leafs.

In meeting with the two top teams, the slow-starting Boston Bruins and New York Rangers showed they need only a few rare smiles from Lady Luck to become major factors in tightening up the league race.

Bruins Split

The Bruins broke even, dropping a close one, 2-1 to Detroit Saturday, then used the Maple Leafs as stepping stones to their third victory of the season Sunday, 3-1. Both were played on Boston ice.

Rangers appeared headed for certain victory at Toronto Saturday night when overtaken by misfortune and they dropped a heartbreaker 5-4. On Sunday, they recovered sufficiently to hold the Wings to a 3-3 tie on home ice.

The result of weekend play left Toronto on top with 23 points one more than Detroit who still have two games in hand over the Leafs. Canadiens have 18 points, Chicago 16, Boston nine and Rangers eight.

Injured Back

Irvin's charges gave their supporters a couple of anxious weeks when they went seven games without a win after a good start. But, with most of their cripples back in action, they hit stride again at home last Thursday by tacking a convincing 5-2 loss on the Leafs.

Goalie Gerry McNeil racked up his third shutout of the season before 13,904 Chicago fans Sunday while his mates scored a goal a period. It was the Hawks first whitewashing this season, and their third straight defeat.

Floyd Curry, Elmer Lach and Rookie Vern Kaiser were the Montreal marksmen.

On Saturday, a howling Montreal crowd of 14,355 saw Calum Mackay score twice and Maurice (Rocket) Richard connect once while Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher shared scoring honors in a losing cause for Chicago.

Wild Bill Wild

Interest in the Leafs-Bruins clash Sunday centred on the first appearance of William (Wild Bill) Ezinicki in a Boston uniform against his former team-mates from whom he was cut adrift last week.

The Winnipeg right-winger was his old bashing self, although playing with an upset stomach. He bashed Sid Smith, sidestepped a would-be crushing body check from Leaf Bill Juzda and tallied Boston's first goal.

All this was in the first period. He retired after that due to his stomach ailment. Boston's Ed Harrison also failed to show for the middle session due to a pulled ligament in his left knee.

Veteran Woody Dumart made 8,487 Boston fans happy for a change, potting two third-period goals that sank the Leafs Sunday night. Smith had tallied for Toronto in the first period.

Only one penalty—to defenceman Leo Reise of Detroit—was called in Saturday's game when the Wings got away to a 2-0 lead on goals by George Gee and Gordie Howe in the first two periods. Boston was kept off the score sheet until the 13th minute of the finale when Lorne Ferguson tallied.

At Toronto Saturday, 13,700 Leaf supporters found little to cheer about as Rangers outhustled and outbumped their favorites until after the midway mark of the final canto with the visitors leading 4-2.

Then a penalty for Jack Evans, Rangers' hustling new defenceman, gave the Leafs a chance to cut loose with their potent power play. Before Evans got back the score was deadlocked, and Joe Klukay sank the game-winner on a pretty play soon after.

To cap the Rangers' misfortune, they lost forward Jack McLeod for at least six weeks. With 10 minutes of play remaining, he was bashed into the boards by Defenceman Bill Barilko and was carried off the ice with a fractured collarbone and head injuries. McLeod had been the Rangers most effective man on the attack.

New Silver Mill Opens In Cobalt, May Start Boom

COBALT, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Another chapter in the comeback story of this famous northern Ontario silver town was written Saturday.

For the second time in a year it wintessed the opening of a silver concentrates mill, second to be returned to production in this fabulous mining region from which $300,000,000 in silver was produced between 1905 and 1922.

That a new boom may be in the offing for this community—almost a ghost town since the price of silver declined—was indicated in the interest shown in Saturday's ceremonies. Canadian and United States financial and mining representatives as well as newspapermen and technical writers from both countries attended.

Silver now sells at about 80 cents an ounce.

Owned by Cobalt Lode Silver Mines, Ltd., the new concentrates plant will have a daily capacity of 100 tons before the end of the year. Facilities for handling an additional 150 tons daily are included in the mill. Initial capacity is 50 tons.

Known as 104 Mill during the bonanza days, when it was operated as a custom mill, it was purchased by Cobalt Lode from Silanco Mining and Refining Co. Using a double-tabling as well as a flotation process for the prepe-ration of concentrates, the mill ow has been renovated at a cost of $65,000.

included in the mill is a battery of stamp crushers. Part of the original equipment, it is one of three stamp mills in North America.

One Child Dead, Sister Is In Hospital

A three-year-old Peterborough boy died today with what hospital authorities describe as "an upper respiratory infection." And his sister has also been taken to hospital, suspected of having the same infection.

Dr. H. G. Carleton was still examining the body at 1.45 p.m. today and no definite identification of the infection has been made.

At 4.45 a.m. today three-year-old James Phillip (Jimmie) Mason, was taken to Civic Hospital struggling for breath. An hour later he was dead.

Early this morning his five-year-old sister, Patricia, was also rushed to hospital. She is believed to have the same infection and is now under close observation.

Until a report is made hospital authorities and doctors refuse to speculate on the nature of the disease.

Jimmy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Lindsay Mason, of 586 Charlotte St. Mr. Mason is in charge of mortgages at the Grey and Bruce Trust and Savings Co. His wife, Mary, is a registered nurse.

When the body is released by Dr. Carleton it will be taken to the Comstock Funeral Home, Rubidge St. The funeral service will be in All Saints' Anglican Church, Wednesday, 2.30 p.m., the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite officiating.

Final funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

PRIMATE REMEMBERED HERE

Archbishop George F. Kingston, Primate of the Church of England in Canada, who died in Toronto early today, will be remembered by citizens of Peterborough who attended the centennial service at St. John's Anglican Church here in September. He preached the sermon on that occasion. His death today followed a heart attack Monday, Nov. 13.

TRIUMPHANT PARADE

A triumphant players' ride downtown in the Peterborough Fire Department pumper late Saturday afternoon gave weekend shoppers a look at the thrice-COSSA junior football champions. A happy bunch of gridiron heroes whooped it up after their 25-5 victory over Welland High at the Oval, and the celebration wound up in the evening at a school dance in the Collegiate.

Business Block George St. Sold

Recent recurring rumor that the old crayon company building on the west side of George St., north of Romaine St., might be involved in some industrial promise lacks substance.

The property is owned by Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., who used it as an auxiliary plant during the war.

Bruce Payne, secretary-treasurer, said today: "We still own it. There have been several enquiries of late, but that's as far as they've got so far."

The same rumor connected the adjoining business property to the north with the thee-story building that was constructed years ago for a chicle or chewing gum business.

The neighborhood shopping block at the southwest corner of George and Westcott Sts., is reported sold by Mrs. Reg. H. Turner to Philip Slogett of Campbellford. It comprises two houses on the south side of Westcott St., occupied by A. L. Robinson and E. A. LeBarr, and on George St. the premises which have been rented by J. P. Jones, P. Cloutier, G. W. Hall, barber, and C. H. Benson, drygoods.

Mr. Benson is terminating at the end of this week his 19 years of occupation of that neighborhood drygoods store. He has been advertising disposal of the stock and also fixures. He expects his sale will be closed out Friday or Saturday.

Mr. Benson said he had tried to buy the property, but evidently the Campbellford price was higher. The several stores in that short block were built by the late Mr. Turner shortly after he bought the property.

Mrs. Sullivan Related To Former Merchant

Mrs. Francis J. Sullivan of Toronto, whose husband died in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, early Saturday morning in circumstances indicating murder, is a daughter of the late Richard P. Gough, prominent retail merchant in Peterborough years ago. He was associated here with his brother, Augustus Gough, proprietors of a men's wear business under the name of Gough Brothers.

The premises of Gough Brothers are said to have been on the west side of George St., north of Simcoe St., and in the vicinity of the present location of the Woolworth Store.

Gough Brothers sold out their Peterborough business and went to Toronto. The late Richard P. Gough was an original partner in the firm of Sellers-Gough, a leading fur store. He was at one time president of the Home Bank.

Foreman Is Key Man In Plant Combatting Propaganda

"The foreman is the key public relations man in an industry. Upon the way in which he measures up to that responsibility depends in large measure not only the successful operation of the company, but the successful dissipation of the effects of the poisonous doctrines of tolitarianism which are being preached in this country," stated W. J. Sheridan, Montreal, to the members of the Foreman's Club of the C.G.E., Friday evening.

Mr. Stewart is the executive secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. His address was titled "Red Sand in the Works."—the threat of communism in the world in general and specifically in the Canadian industrial world.

In an outline of communists' working technique in trade unions, Mr. Steward told the members of the association how a communist can be identified.

Answering the question, "What can we do to combat the Red menace?", Mr. Steward stated that the answer lies in acquiring a knowledge and understanding of the operation of our economic system and a soul-searching on the part of employers and workers, both as to their duties and responsibilities in a free economy.

Mr. Sheridan was introduced by Jim Fraser, manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. He was thanked by Jim Dorris. Approximately 140 attended the meeting.

Bd. Of Education "Big Business"

"The Board of Education in Peterborough is big business," said W. B. Gordon in an address to the Friday Night Club at the YMCA. A former two-year term member of the Board, Mr Gordon pointed out that their current operating expenses amounted to $675,000 a year.

In reviewing present school population figures in the city, 4,200 pupils in public and 1,300 in the Collegiate, he told of the great need for a new collegiate in the south end. The proposed new structure, which will contain nine classrooms and eight rooms for specialized work, will be $585,000. If the debenture bylaw is approved by the voters at the coming elections, it will cost the ratepayer an additional $3 for each $4,000 of assessment; another $1 will be paid for by Provincial grants. Over a period of 20 years the new high school would be paid for at the rate of $38,000 a year.

Mr. Gordon also thought the teachers' salaries could be improved so that a greater teacher efficiency could be reached He urged young business men that teaching was an honorable profession to follow and hoped that some with a flair for it, would revert from business to teaching as a career.

Chairman Donald Armstrong introduced the speaker and Ronald Manley tendered a vote of thanks.

Mr. Claus Special Has More Adults Than Children

Children were a minority on the C.P.R. special train to Toronto Saturday morning to see the Santa Claus parade.

By close count there were between 125 and 150 youngsters of five years and over, and probably another 50 or 60 under five who went along for free.

The special carried 560 passengers, with the young folks the life of the party, until the train reached the Agincourt area on the way home. Some of the youngest by that time were sleeping in their boots, perhaps dreaming of the fantastic figures they had seen in that storybook parade.

Another 70 people of the special train party filled a coach that had to be hooked on to the following 7.15 local. The devotees of Santa Claus, and those who went along for the ride, reached home about 8.35 p.m. just ahead of the local.

The annual trip of the Normal School students to Toronto Friday increased the passenger crowd of the morning local that day to about 200 persons. More than 150 of them were with the Normal party.

Sea Scouts Get Headquarters Lakefield Wharf

Word has been received by Sea Scout Master Kenneth Jakins of Lakefield that his Troop are soon to have permanent headquarters in the village. The old freight-passenger building on the wharf is to be licenced to him and his successors for the use of the Sea Scout Troop for the nominal sum of one dollar per annum plus a $5 conveyancing fee.

The lack of suitable space for Sea Scout instruction and stowage of their equipment has been an acute problem. The troop met from time to time in the Town Hall and various Sunday school class rooms and, having little funds in their treasury, it has been impossible for them to consider building permanent headquarters.

At their annual Sea Scout banquet held in the basement of Lakefield United Church, Reeve W. C. Grant, on behalf of the village council, presented the Troop with deeds to the two islands on the Otonabee river, near the narrows of Lake Katchewanooka. This gesture at least gave them land on which to build a future, or to use immediately as they saw fit.

Through the courtesy of Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., Director of Canal Services, C. W. West was approached to see if it could be possible to secure the unused government buildings for the Sea Scouts. A letter from Mr. Fraser from Lake Success, where he is attending a session of United Nations as parliamentary representative, outlines the success he had in Ottawa in requesting help for this Lakefield organization's need of elbow room.

It was learned from Mr. Ryan today that the "deal" will be completed as soon as the necessary papers are signed in his office.

With two pieces of leased land and a spacious building all to themselves in less than a month's time puts the Lakefield Sea Scout Troop in a splendid position, said "Skipper" Jakins. "Everything will be shipshape like never before," he remarked to the Examiner today.

Charge Oshawa Truck Driver With Motor Manslaughter Following Lindstrom Death

Allan Dillon, 20-year-old Oshawa truck driver, was charged today with motor manslaughter and careless driving in Peterborough police court. The charges are the aftermath of the truck-car collision on Highway 7 late Friday afternoon when Claude Lindstrom, 43, of Scarborough was instantly killed and two other passengers injured.

Magistrate W. R. Philp remanded Dillon to December 4 on bail of $2,000. There was no election or plea.

Dillon, owner and driver of the truck loaded with six tons of asphalt, crashed into the Lindstrom car at the Chemong turn, four miles north-west of the city on Highway 7.

Condition Not Improved

Lindstrom was instantly killed. His wife May was taken to Civic hospital with severe head injuries, broken ribs and multiple body lacerations; her condition today is not much improved, hospital authorities say.

The third occupant of the car, John W. Dexter, 26, of Levack, has been released from hospital after treatment for cuts on his face, head, one hand and knee.

Dillon, a native of Maynooth, was shaken up and dazed, but otherwise uninjured.

He said he was driving southeast, down the slight incline on the Chemong Rd. leading into Highway 7. When he tried to apply his hydraulic brakes as he neared the intersection "nothing happened."

The left corner of the steel-and-wood box containing six tons of asphalt struck the westbound Lindstrom car and ripped off the left side and top of the passenger vehicle. The truck then ploughed into the south ditch, east of the intersection, and stopped inches short of a tree.

Lindstrom had recently been employed on a painting contract at the Nepheline Mines housing development.

Attack Women On Whitby St.

WHITBY, Nov. 20—Two Whitby women were brutally attacked and choked early Friday evening as they walked alone. Neither was seriously injured but both were badly mauled, frightened and their clothes were torn.

At 7.30 Mrs. Douglas Holliday, 211 Byron St. North, was returning home. Suddenly she was confronted with a man who had been hiding behind a tree. He seized her by the throat, attempting to choke her cries. Then he fled south. In the struggle, clothes of both parties were torn. A necklace worn by Mrs. Holliday was broken.

One hour later, Margaret Ross, Green St., was similarly attacked as she walked on Brock St South at Port Whitby, just south of Maitland St.

The man is described as being about 20-30, of stocky build, round face, bushy hair and he wore a brown suit. He smelled strongly of tobacco. It is believed that his shirt was torn during the evening.

1,000 Troops Head For Coast, Korea

By CAMERON JAMES

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., Nov. 20 (CP)—Four troop trains are snaking today through the Rocky Mountains, carrying part of Canada's special brigade on the first leg of their journey to Korea.

Aboard are more than 1,000 members and reinforcements of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry—the only Canadian unit thus far committed to service in Korea.

They are slated to arrive at the giant army camp of Fort Lewis, Wash., some time Tuesday, and will sail for the Far East a few days later.

Train Two Months

It is not known yet just what role they will play in Korea, whether they will become part of the Commonwealth brigade or will fight as part of the United States Army. One thing is fairly certain—barring an unforeseen emergency the Patricia's will have at least two months more training before they see any action.

Whatever happens, their commanding officer, Lt.-Col. J. R. (Jim) Stone, DSO, MC, is certain they will be a credit to Canada.

Yesterday he said in an interview that the men of the special force—some reports to the contrary—are well-motivated, intelligent and have absorbed training faster than any he has known.

They looked it as they marched to the trains along the snow-covered roads of Canada's largest military camp, where they put the finishing touches to a super-speeded, three-month training program.

All the men carried rifles and wore full pack. At Fort Lewis they will pick up American motor transport, the new bazooka weapon and some trench mortars. Aside from this, all equipment will be Canadian.

The commanding officer said that winter equipment for the men—parkas, hats, mitts and so on—will be issued either at Fort Lewis or made available on arrival in Korea.

For some 60 per cent of the Patricia's, going to war is a new experience. For the remainder, it's the same old story, with the surroundings slightly more plush.

The tourist coaches are fairly new and each man has a bunk to himself. Senior NCO's share compartments. The food is excellent and each man had a choice of roast beef or fillet of haddock for dinner last night.

As the train rolled west the cards came out. So did a few guitars and mouth organs. But there was no singing and the men seemed subdued—a not-unnatural reaction to the first night on a troop train.

From All Canada

The men are a representative group. The salty speech of a Newfoundlander could be heard arguing with a red-headed lance corporal whose accent could have sprung from nowhere but the Ottawa valley. A French-speaking Canadian corporal was laying down the rules to a man who wanted to get off to see his wife as the train stopped for a few minutes at Edmonton.

At Edmonton, as the press party dismounted, a private stuck his head out a dor window and waved.

Then he called: "See you in Korea."

THE TWO QUEENS of the deposed king of Nepal Tribhuvana who, according to old Nepalese family custom, he married on the same day, photographed on their arrival in New Delhi. They refused to give their names but their associates said they are referred to as the Senior Queen (left) and the Junior Queen (right). They arrived in New Delhi with the king, after flying from Khatmandu, Nepal's capital, in a plane of the Indian army. The king and his entourage had taken refuge in the Indian Embassy in the capital.

Falls From

DIXIE, Nov. 20 (CP)—When Pauline Hanson grows up her parents probably won't let her forget how lucky she was as a three-year-old baby. Pauline fell out of her father's car as it was travelling 40 miles an hour. She scraped by that one all right. Then moments later she had another close call when a following auto barely missed her as she lay on the road. She suffered a dislocated shoulder.

There were eight contestants, and there were few points between the winner of the first prize and the one with the lowest count.

Argos Win Easily; Western Upsets McGill Redmen 24-2

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Argonauts, picked by a host of experts to fall by the wayside this season, are the eastern Canada football champs. They pushed aside their farm club, Toronto Balmy Beach, 43-13 Saturday to qualify for the Grey Cup final with Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Toronto next Saturday.

In the "Little East-West" game Saturday, Hamilton Tiger-Cats won the Dominion junior crown with a 14-5 victory at Hamilton over Vancouver Blue Bombers. And University of Western Ontario Mustangs upset the mighty McGill Redmen in Montreal, 24-2, to take the intercollegiate title.

All three titles were sudden-death games.

It was obvious from the opening kick-off that Argos even relaxed and most over-confident as they were, could score against Beaches almost any time they wanted.

Only through sheer fight, a powerful will to upset their big brothers in the Argo farm system and the good work of quarterback Gerry Tuttle, halfback Carl Galbreath and linemen Oattem Fisher and Dwight Follin did the Beaches came as close as they did.

Baby Son

As it turned out, it was a weekend of satisfaction for coach Frank Clair who had tried in vain all week to get his Argos to take the game with Beaches seriously. Not only did the team win their way into the east-west final in his first year as coach, but he learned that his wife had given birth to a 6½-pound baby girl at home in Lafayette, Ind.

Next for Clair is the difficult task of maintaining an Argo record of never having lost a Grey Cup game to Winnipeg Blue Bombers in six tries.

With reports of the Bombers as one of the best ever to come out of the west, neither Clair or the Argos are likely to take things easy next Saturday.

Small Crowd

A crowd of only 13,704 — less than half the number that will jam Varsity Stadium for the game next week—saw the Argos pick up a converted touchdown in the first quarter; add two more in the second while the Beaches were scoring their first point, make it 30-13 at three-quarter time and roll for another 13 points in the final 15 minutes.

Taking the game lightly, the Argos made mistakes and in the third quarter something happened that had not occurred all season. Fisher broke through to block an Argo kick. Follin snatched up the bouncing ball and scampered five yards for a touchdown, the second for Beaches in minutes.

A few plays earlier, Tuttle, whose deceptive passing style kept Argo secondaries on their toes, lofted a long, high one that Galbreath took on the run at the sidelines and outraced two tacklers to the goal. George Watson converted both.

Matched Krol

The other single point was a long boot by young Howard French, who came up with a surprise kicking effort to match Joe Krol in that department.

The explosive Argo attack was varied. Rod Smylie got two touchdowns on forward passes, one in which play moved 88 yards. Ulysses Curtis, fleet Negro half, gathered in the ball on a forward for one, and raced the end for another two. The last-quarter touchdowns were added by Ted Toogood, whose safety position mate, Nick Volpe, converted all seven majors. Krol, whose consistent booting has been a big factor in Argos' success this year, added a single point on a quick kick for good measure.

Vancouver Loses

Although Vancouver failed to win the Canadian junior championship, they have one consolation. They scored a touchdown against the champs—only the third to be chalked up against them during the season. None were on regular play.

Up to Saturday's game, the Tiger-Cats had only one point scored against them during the regular schedule in which they were unbeaten.

Vancouver, runner-up during the last two years and victors in 1947, were disappointed after the game but determined to "get them next year."

They figure to lose only two players from this year's team, although Les Lear, coach of Calgary Stampeders, may have different ideas. Lear watched the game and said there were several players he would like to get for the Stamps. The Vancouver Club has supplied some outstanding talent for senior football in the past.

The Tiger-Cats led 12-0 at the half and got a couple of singles in the second half while the Blue Bombers were scoring their only touchdown.

Record Crowd

McGill's dream of glory went glimmering as Western handed the Redmen the unmerciful 24-2 lacing before a crowd of 23,000 at Molson Stadium.

It was a bitter season's ending for the Montrealers, big team of the college loop in the early stages of the autumn. Touted the best McGill University team in many years, the Redmen bowed ignominiously to the Mustangs, who thereby won their seventh title.

Don McFarlane, Western's great athletic star, climaxed his football career with two touchdowns. Brother Bob kicked three converts. Blake Taylor got two touchdowns and Jerry Fitzgerald was one of the top stars.

McGill supporters were stunned by the blow. Coach Vic Obeck has been slowly building the Redmen into a powerhouse since 1947 and this year it seemed he had arrived. Four McGill players formerly played with Dominion champion Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference last year and the Redmen dominated the intercollegiate all-star ratings.

But after sweeping everything before them in the early parts of the season, McGill faltered against the weak Toronto Varsity Blues. Playing in Montreal on a wet, cold field two weeks ago, the Redmen could only manage a tie with the Blues.

A week ago, McGill failed to win the league title in the regular schedule by losing to the Mustangs in London—thus forcing the playoff.

Canadian hockey will have an "Alexander Trophy." Douglas Grimston, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced Saturday that Governor-General Alexander has consented to present a trophy to the winner of the new major hockey series. Eligible to compete for the cup are five senior leagues: The Western Canada, the Quebec Senior, the Ontario Hockey Association, the Maritimes Senior, and the Cape Breton Senior League.

Annis Stukus of Toronto signed a one-year contract Saturday to coach Edmonton Eskimos for a third year. President Walter Sprague of the Western Football Conference club, would not disclose terms of the contract, saying only that Stukus got a "higher" salary.

In the 1950 season, Stukus led Eskimos to a second-place tie with Saskatchewan Roughriders, but Edmonton lost to Winnipeg in the Western final. The 36-year-old former Toronto Argo great was a playing coach this year, finishing sixth in the scoring race during the regular season. His 38 points included 28 converts, high for the league.

General manager John Quinn, of Boston Braves, announced on Saturday night Charlie Grimm has been appointed manager of Milwaukee Brewers, the Braves' American Association farm club. Bob Coleman, manager of the sixth-place Brewers last year, will return to his former post as president and manager of Evansville, Ind., in the Three I League, also owned by the Braves.

British open golf champion Bobby Locke beat three other open champions Sunday and broke the Melbourne (Australia) Victoria Club's course record. He was playing with Australian Norman Von Nida who is Australian open champion, Australian Ossie Pickworth, Irish open champion, and Australian Peter Thomson, New Zealand open champion.

Locke, a South African, had a 67. Von Nida equalled the club's record with 68, Pickworth had 72 and Thomson 75.

Frank Filchock, playing his first professional football game in the United States since he was suspended in 1947 for not reporting an attempted bribe, had only two brief tries at quarter-backing Baltimore Colts against his former teammates, New York Giants, Sunday. The Giants, switching to the T-formation after trailing 20-7 at half-time, blasted the Colts 55-20. Filchock, who earlier this season played with the Montreal Alouettes, went in just before the third quarter ended. He handed off to Rip Collins who listed five, tried an incomplete pass, and completed the next pass to the line of scrimmage. Filchock later handed off to Frank Spaniel for no gain, then tried an incomplete pass and handed off again to Spaniel, who picked up three yards.

Ralph (Bucky) Buchanan announced Saturday night he had resigned as coach of the Quebec Senior Hockey League's Shawinigan Falls Cataracts and that Don Penniston had been appointed to succeed him. Penniston, well-known coach in Canadian and American hockey, last week was appointed "defensive consultant" of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League. Buchanan, who had been planning to resign for the last two weeks, said he would remain with the Cats as a right winger. He took over as coach midway through last season when Leo Lamoureux quit the post.

Cleveland Leads In AHL With 5-2 Win Over St. Louis

By The Canadian Press

Cleveland Barons have once again edged out front in the American Hockey League's western division.

The Barons have been staunchly battling with Cincinnati Mohawks for first place in the division. Last night, the Barons beat St. Louis Flyers 5-2 while Providence Reds downed Cincinnati 6-3. That gave the Barons a two-point edge.

In the eastern division, meantime, Buffalo got into the van by beating Springfield Indians 7-4 while secondplace Hershey Bears bowed to the lowly New Haven Eagles 5-3. In the fifth game played, Indianapolis Capitals scored a 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh Hornets.

Cleveland pushed three goals into the net in four minutes of the third period to defeat St. Louis. It was the fifth straight loss for the Flyers, who are in fourth place in the western division. Les Douglas, Fred Thurier, Sam Lavitt, Walt Hergesheimer and Murdo McKay counted for the victors. Lavitt and Hergesheimer scored in 23 seconds while the Flyers were short a man.

Cliff Simpson and Eric Pogue scored for St. Louis.

The new all-French line of Roger Bedard, Ray Laplante and Paul Saindon racked up four goals for Providence against the Mohawks. Laplante and Saindon each scored in the first 12 minutes while Bedard counted twice in the second. Pete Kapusta and Jack McGill got the others.

Gerry Plamondon scored twice for Cincinnati and Frank King got the other.

Bullet Bill Summerhill and Ray Manson got two goals and an assist apiece to lead New Haven to their fourth victory in 20 starts. Barry Sullivan got the other while Joe Schertzl, Jack McIntyre and Ed Harrison were the Hershey marksmen.

Indianapolis, bottom team in the western division, scored their first victory in four starts against Pittsburgh. Max Quackenbush, Enio Sclisizzie, Max McNab and Rod Morrison counted for the Caps while Ray Hannigan and Ken Smith scored for the Hornets.

Sid McNabney counted twice for Buffalo while the other Bison counters came from George Pargeters, Roly McLenahan, Ab DeMarco, Hugh Currie and Gord Pennell. Harry Pidhirny scored twice for Springfield while other Indian goals went to Armand Lemieux and Ken Hayden.

Schriner Coaching Halifax

Dave (Sweeney) Schriner, twice scoring champion of the National Hockey League, takes over as coach of Halifax St. Mary's of the Maritime Senior Hockey League today. Appointment of the 39-year-old native of Calgary, who up until four days ago was coach of North Sydney Victorias of the Cape Breton League, was announced Sunday night by club officials. Schriner severed relations with the North Sydney club last Friday night after his club had taken an 11-2 beating from Sydney Millionaires. "That finished me," said Schriner. "There was no fight in the club. Three or four of the players simply stood around. I felt I was wasting my time and told the club officials. There were no hard feelings."

IODE Members Win Draws At Otonabee Chapter Tea

The afternoon tea by Otonabee Chapter, IODE, in an annual fall event noted for friendliness and sociability. This year's tea, held Saturday afternoon in the YWCA Green Room, extended the tradition.

Regent Mrs. A. R. McWilliams was receiving, asisted by Mrs. F. D. Kerr, the educational convener, and the chapter's treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Davern, was taking tickets.

The feature which possibly created the most interest among guests was the drawing on a fowl dinner on which tickets had been sold previously also. Wrapped in cellophane, the ingredients were attractively displayed, and many were making mental plans for serving a delicious feast. Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, regent of Municipal Chapter, was invited to make the draw and she drew the ticket of Mrs. F. J. A. Hall. Secretary Mrs. D. E. Bell had charge of this raffle.

Tickets on a delicious looking Christmas cake were sold during the tea by Mrs. W. E. Curry and the winner was Mrs. C. M. Scott on a ticket drawn by Mrs. F. A. Gray.

A third draw for the attractive floral arrangement of bronze and yellow 'mums with brown cattails which had graced the tea table throughout the afternoon proved that Lady Luck is very often just in her decisions on these matters. Mrs. J. H. Jamison who, as convener of the tea table had selected the flowers to be used and specified the type of bouquet, was the very delighted winner. Her ticket was drawn by the winner of the cake, Mrs. C. M. Scott, who had been asked to do this honor because she is the IODE's national convener of Commonand Empire.

The bazaar table, attended by Mrs. L. Davis, offered interesting dolls for the children, made from men's woollen socks, and a variety of other useful articles.

Mrs. F. Hall convened the home cooking table which was well supplied with a very fine quality of baking. Mrs B. MacLean was assisting her with the sales.

Tea pourers were Mrs. W. A. Burrell and Mrs. I. Rattenbury and the servers were Mrs. C. Sherwood, Mrs. D. W. Clark, Mrs. H. Wilson, Mrs. H. Lowe and Mrs F. A. Gray.

The table had been most tastefully arranged by Mrs. Jamison using a white cutwork cloth and yellow tapers in silver canalabra to enhance the centrepiece.

The groom's mother who wore royal blue with a hat of black fur felt and corsage of pink roses, also received.

Leaving on the wedding trip to points in eastern Ontario, the bride was wearing a green velvet and taffeta dress with brown accessories and her fur coat of dark brown muskrat with a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will make their home at Bridgenorth on their return.

Music Festivals Help German Bid To New Tourists

HEIDELBERG —(Reuters)— With an eye to the tourist trade committees are working to change the "Romantic Germany" of 1950 into the "Musical Germany" of 1951.

Large numbers of tourists came to West Germany this year looking for and finding something better than bomb ruins and vestiges of Nazism. Many were attracted by a pamphlet entitled "Romantic Germany," containing pictures of castles rich in history and legend, mountain sports centres, and quaint little towns and villages.

The German Tourist Association was encouraged and now has many committees planning festivals and concerts to fit the 1951 theme of "Musical Germany."

Several cities and spas are planning open-air operatic performances next year. Many a castle will be the background for nightly operettas.

Summer Festivals

Opera companies from several European capitals are expected for summer festivals at Weisbaden and Munich. Lovers of modern music will meet at Darmstadt for holiday courses and concerts.

There will be a Mozart festival at Wuezburg, while Bonn, the West German capital, will pay tribute to one of its greatest sons —Beethoven.

At Heidelberg, nightly serenades will be held near the ruins of the castle overlooking Neckar River, but, as this year, the main attraction will be the old university, the picturesque streets—and the large wine barrel in the cellar of the castle. The barrel can hold 133,036 quarts.

Greatest event in the musical field next year, however, is expected to be the Richard Wagner festivals at Bayreuth, from July 29 to Aug. 19. This will open with Beethoven's Ninth Symphony followed by Wagner's Parsifal, Siegfried, Goetterdaemmerung. The conductors will be Hans Knappertsbusch and Herbert von Karajan. Wieland Wagner, a grandson of the great German composer, will be responsible for staging Parsifal and The Ring.

Alderville News

On Thursday evening the congregation of the United Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Marsden in honor of H. Lander who had been their pastor for 20 years.

A program of musical numbers and short addresses, was presided over by Rev. T. N. Lovelace the present minister. Those taking part were Miss Elgie Marsden, Mr. Albert Crowe, Mr. Ross Beaver, Mrs. Norman Marsden and Mr. Vernon Marsden.

Words of appreciation were spoken by Chief John Beaver, Messrs. John Loucks, Norman Marsden, Rev. J. N. Lovelace, Mr. Moses Smoke, Rev. R. C. White, Mrs. Thomas Marsden, Mrs. White and Mrs. Alf Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lander were called to the centre of the large room when Miss Elgie Marsden read an address. Mrs. Thomas Marsden presented them with a purse of money.

Mr. Lander voiced his appreciation. "If I have done anything in my humble way to improve your way of life it is because I love doing it". Mr. Lander related some of his experiences both at Alderville and Hiawatha. He was pastor at Hiawatha for ten and one half years. He spoke of driving across Rice Lake on the ice and of getting lost and one or two narrow escapes from drowning.

Williams-Gilmour Wedding

A double ring wedding ceremony performed in the George St. United Church Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Arnold A. Mathews united Sylvia Lorraine Gilmour and Edward Thomas Williams. The bride is daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Gilmour and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs Clinton F. Williams, all of Peterborough.

The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums and wedding music was played by Mr Charles Allen, organist. Mrs. E. Bain sang "Through the Years" during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Donald R. Boulter. Her gown was of white slipper satin styled with a high buttoned neckline on the torso fitted bodice finished with long pointed sleeves. She wore a beaded headdress which held her fingertip veil of embroidered net and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Una K. Boulter of Belleville, cousin of the bride, and Miss Noreen Pollock of Havelock. They were in yellow and green taffeta frocks and wore picture hats and mitts of matching lace. Each carried a cascade of bronze and mauve 'mums attached to a white satin muff.

Groomsman was John Nisbett and the ushers Robert Williams brother of the groom, and Gerald Bradley.

For the occasion the bride's mother chose a dress of intermission silk faille and a black felt hat with feather trim and wore a corsage of bronze 'mums. The groom's mother wore a taffeta dress in brown and beige tones and a brown felt hat and also had bronze 'mums.

When leaving on their wedding trip to Toronto and Buffalo, the bride was wearing a green gabardine suit with black topcoat and matching accessories and she wore a white gardenia corsage. On return the couple will live at 659 George St.

Jap Phone Book A Best Seller

EDMONTON —(CP)— A best-seller in Japan is the English translation of the Tokyo telephone book.

Barbara Vanlandingham of Wisconsin, a stewardess who flies through Edmonton on the Orient run for Northwest Airlines, describes the book as " a must" on everybody's reading list.

"You can find practically anything but what you're looking for in it," she said.

For instance, the Made to Order Tailor Control Union is listed under food products. Pawn brokers come under finance and Northwest Airlines is listed under land transportation.

If you want something repaired there are specialists running the gamut from automobile dissectioner to hair rush repairer.

Listed under food products are such Oriental delicacies as scorched snake and devil's tongue paste.

"Now I know what they mean when they say the mysterious East," said Miss Vanlandingham.

DOROTHY DIX

Homely Man More Likely To Be Domestic, Faithful

DEAR MISS DIX: In picking out a husband should a girl be influenced by a man's looks? What I means is a homely man more likely to be domestic and faithful and considerate of his wife than a man who is extremely wood-looking?

ALICE.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: I have always contended that the only thing in which women showed superior intelligence to men was in their selecting their mates by their characters instead of their looks. There are many reasons, however, why the homely man is the best bet for a husband. One is that it saves his wife the inferiority complex, than which nothing is more terrible, that every woman suffers from who is less pulchritudinous than her husband and who has to go through life hearing people murmur behind her back: "What do you suppose made than handsome man marry that frump of a woman?" A homely man may rejoice in a beautiful wife, but God help the homely wife of a handsome man!

He Is Vain

Another objection to the handsome man is that he is almost always vain and selfish. He not only requires to be flattered and admired, but he takes the best of everything for himself. He feels that beauty should be adorned and he buys the most expensive raiment, while hand-me-downs are good enough for his wife.

Then the handsome man is the target for every husband-snatcher who comes along, and he keeps his wife green-eyed if she is of a jealous temperament. Women spoil him by making a fuss over him and it keeps his poor wife working overtime to concoct as strong a homebrew of flattery as he gets abroad. Moreover, the handsome man is likely to consider that his charms are too great to waste on a mere wife and so he turns philanderer.

For all of these reasons the homely man is a better choice for a husband than the male beauty. He may not be as thrilling to look at, but he is a lot more comfortable to live with.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married three years to one of the grandest men in the world and we are very happy. When we are alone at home he is the most gentle and loving husband any woman could hope for, but in public he frequently causes me embarrassment by correcting everything I say. He never lets me finish telling anything. He interrupts me and starts the story all over again, saying I am wrong, and finishes it his way. That starts an argument unless I shut up, which I do to save the listeners from a scene. Will you tell me how to handle this problem tactfully?

L. T.

ANSWER: You seem to be doing that already, and I salute you as a feminine diplomat of the first order who carries on under trying circumstances. Not many women would have either the finesse or the self-control to hide their chagrin at their husband's unwarrantable rudeness behind a smiling face, and to keep silence to save other people from the embarrassment of having to witness a family spat.

Evidently your husband is just trying to show off when he is company. That is why he corrects your every statement and tells your stories for you. He is calling attention to how much cleverer he is than you. Many husbands do this, though why they want to disparage their wives and make everyone think they married fools, nobody knows.

Many other husbands exercise all of their wit upon their wives. They build up all of their dinner-table stories around some mistake or blunder their wives have made and hold them up for ridicule. They think that is being funny. They little know that they don't rouse mirth in the breasts of the listeners. They are making every decent man and woman long to throttle them.

I doubt there is any cure for these wife-baiters, but you might tell your husband how other people feel about it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I have got along very well. He has treated me with the utmost kindness and courtesy, but he shows me no love in any manner, shape or form. I am of a very affectionate nature and this has hurt me terribly. About a year ago I met a man with whom I have fallen in love and he with me. He is also married and that complicates things much more. Please tell us what in the world to do.

UNHAPPY MRS. N.

ANSWER: If there were children, you have no right to break up your home for merely sentimental reasons. I grant you that it is hard to endure heart-starvation with one man when you crave the love that another man might supply you, but you haven't the right to take your happiness at the expense of two families of children and perhaps that of a sister woman.

B.C. Farm Wife Writes Book for Children

VANCOUVER —(CP)— Farm wife Mrs. Catherine Clark has her secret for writing children's stories:

A nickel scribbler, pencil and pen, a bread board for a desk and a colorful imagination.

The grey-haired author from a farm on Gray Creek, in the Kootenay Lake country, 250 miles east of Vancouver, wrote "The Golden Pine Cone."

"I wrote it just to amuse myself," she told an interviewer. "I had been ill and felt depressed —a failure."

Success came after a failure at novel writing following years of "trying to be an author."

Mother of two children, Mrs. Clark, born in England, has lived in the Kootenays since 1914.

Mrs. Clark, who rolls her own cigarets, "nice fat ones," says her family doesn't share her literary ambitions.

No Sympathetic Friends

"My husband won't have anything to do with my writing . . I have no sympathetic friends."

She came to Vancouver on a "publisher's tour" to see people and give interviews.

"I think it's so stupid," was her frank comment. "I'm sure these people haven't read my book, and don't intend to."

"The Golden Pine Cone" is a delightfully imaginative fantasy with a picturesque British Columbian setting.

The plot concerns the adventures of a young boy and his sister after finding a golden earring belonging to a fairy queen. Dialogue is realistic and the characters come alive to one who enters the mood of the writing.

Countess Happy On B.C. Dairy Farm

ABBOTTSFORD, B.C. (CP)— Once a member of the French underground and twice sentenced to death by the Germans, the former Countess de Dampierre—now Mrs. Lloyd Moore—is enjoying life on a dairy farm near here.

Daughter of the wartime and continuing president of Credit Foncier in France, she was first married to Count de Dampierre, who fought in the French army until France fell and then returned home to join the underground with his wife. He failed to survive torture by the Gestapo, dying in a boxcar on his way to exile in Poland.

The former Countess was also captured and was shunted from prison to prison. She managed to escape the firing squad twice and survived torture rather than give away her friends.

She finally escaped from a bus carrying her to Poland and managed to stay out of the enemy's reach until her country was liberated. Two years later she met and married Mr. Moore, at the time serving with the American army at the Nuernberg trials They came here in 1948.

British Women Like Sea Jobs

LONDON —(CP)— Life on the ocean wave has become attractive for large numbers of British women.

One shipping official said his company (Cunard) has nearly 600 women working at sea and the "waiting list is so long we can't accept any more applications."

There are long queues for such jobs as stewardess, nursing sister, assistant purser, telephone operator, hairdresser, laundry woman and bath attendant. No girls under are employed and nursing sisters must be 30 or over.

Here's the company's description of the ideal stewardess: "She should be domestically inclined, but pure domesticity is not enough. She should be adaptable, with a capacity for understanding, have tact and patience, and the ability to submit to strict discipline."

"Look alive, dopey", said the boss, meaning ME

"I was slow man on the Hydro project . . . last one on the job every morning and making a snail look jet-propelled at that. I was sluggish, grouchy and too tired to jump when a truck nearly knocked me for a loop.

"That's when the boss yelled for me to pin my eyelids up and get a wiggle on. Later on in the mess hall he took me off to one side. 'Here', he said, 'you're due for a course of Kruschen. Get Kruschen, get active . . . or get off this job'."

"One little old pinch of Kruschen Salts in my morning coffee saved the situation. I noticed the difference first day when I pitched in with our gang to break the shift record for concrete pouring. I was so full of zip I could have gone through two shifts". So if life is getting you down, if you want to feel perkier than your age, see what a spot of Kruschen in your morning tea, coffee or fruit juice will do for you. COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Hostess Knows Importance Of Good Rolls in Menu

Every good hostess knows how important delicious homemade rolls can be in highlighting the perfection of her menu planning. For the best possible help in making good breads and rolls you must see "250 Breads, Biscuits and Rolls," the nineteenth title in the 24 cookbook series currently being released a book a week to readers of the Examiner.

The Bread Book has all the information you need about flours for breads, kneading technique, baking and, of course, many excellent recipes that are so carefully explained in words and illustrations that you will have no trouble making even the most involved kinds of breads or coffee cakes. For the most part the recipes are simple to follow and easy to make and in no time at all you can have a pan of steamy rolls nestling in a napkin.

Here is a basic recipe for rolls, taken from the Bread Book, with just a few of the many variations given for different shapes:

Yeast Rolls

1 cake yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup milk, scalded
1 egg or 2 egg yolks
3½ to 4 cups sifted flour

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Add shortening, sugar and salt to milk. Cool to lukewarm and add yeast and beaten egg Stir in flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on floured board and knead until satiny and smooth (8 to 10 minutes). Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down. Let rise again until doubled in bulk. Punch down and let stand 10 minutes. Shape into rolls. Let rise until double in bulk. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 24-36 rolls.

Breads

Roll dough out ¼ inch thick and cut into strips 6 inches long and ½ inch wide. Cross 3 strips in the middle and braid from center to each end. Press ends together and fold under. Place on greased baking sheet.

Butterleaf Rolls

Roll out rectangular sheet very thin. Brush with melted butter. Cut into strips about 1 inch wide. Pile 6 to 7 strips together. Cut into 1½-inch pieces and place on end in greased muffin pan.

Clover-Leaf Rolls

Form dough into small balls. Dip each into melted butter and place 3 balls in each section of a greased muffin pan.

Kilts Lose Favor In Scots Dancing

EDINBURGH (CP)— A flared tartan skirt worn with matching scarf and white shirt-blouse threatens to rival the kilt for Scottish country dancing.

Traditionally the scarf is worn over one shoulder, but can also be used as a stole.

Some members of the dancing-club set say the skirt is more flattering to the figure than the kilt, which gives a short, stubby look. Another point is that a skirt outfit costs about $9 compared with $30 for a kilt.

Die-hard opponents contend the skirt detracts from the appearance of the dance. Nothing, they say, can "tak' the place o' the swing o' the kilt in a country reel."

Says Working Wife Gains No Benefits

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP) Outside work for wives in South Africa has no real benefits, says Mrs. C. L. Wright, president of the Pretoria Council of Women.

In a speech here she said that good hired help in the home takes a large part of the extra earnings, while the working wife needs extra clothes and must pay extra income tax.

Chief disadvantage, she said, is that the centre of her interest is no longer entirely her home, and children pay the price. The woman suffers extra wear and tear in attending to two jobs and is too tired when she gets home to care about what happened to her family during the day.

What's Right

You like a young man very much and though he frequently calls you for dates he has never asked you to go steady with him.

WRONG: Bring up the subject yourself.

RIGHT: Don't always be available when he calls to ask for a date if you want to give him the idea that perhaps he should be going steady with you.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Meat Dishes Planned For Economy

"Red Rose"—I hope you are seeing this, for frankly, today's column is devoted to you and your requests for help with economical meals. See my answer to your letter in next Saturday's paper.

✧ ✧ ✧

From habit my mind turns to meat dishes for we all know that growing children must have it and we know it is one of the highest-priced items on our weekly food budget.

The recipes I am listing are suitable for children of any age over one and one-half years, and may be doubled if necessary to serve a large number.

✧ ✧ ✧

Scrapple

(This is a time-honored favorite of the Pennsylvania Dutch.)

Boil 1½ lbs. pork or beef liver in water to barely cover and cook until liver is firm—this takes about 20 minutes. Cool enough to cut into strips and put through finest knife of food chopper twice. Make the broth in which the meat was cooked up to 6 cups, bring to boil, add 1½ teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon pepper, and stir into it 1½ cups each yellow cornmeal and whole wheat flour, and stir until thick. Add ground liver. Cool slowly, preferably in big double boiler, covered for 30 minutes, or if you do not have a double boiler big enough, stand pan in large pan of boiling water and let the water boil around it for 30 minutes. Pour into loaf pans to chill overnight. Slice ¼-inch thick and fry in hot fat when ready to serve.

Scalloped Potatoes with Smoked Jowl

For six people use 6 medium large potatoes, 1 large Spanish onion, and at least 1 cup sliced outer celery stalks and 3 cups skim milk or milk made from powdered skim milk. Put the vegetables in a large casserole when pared and sliced, in layers, pour milk over, and top with slices from smoked pork jowl, which is an economical cut similar to side bacon in flavor, but a little fatter. Bake in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. until potatoes are tender and bacon is cooked and crisp.

Liver and Vegetables Casserole

One pound liver, ¼ cup flour, 4 tablespoons fat, 2 minced onions, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup diced celery, 2 cups diced carrots, 2 cups tomatoes canned or raw in summer, 1½ teaspoons salt. Slice the liver very thin and roll it in flour. Melt the fat in a hot pan and saute liver for about 2 minutes on each side. Transfer liver to buttered casserole. Brown the chopped onion, celery and carrots in the fat in pan and pour them and the fat over the liver. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and pour the tomatoes over. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1½ hours. These amounts will serve six people.

Salmon Pie

For this you may use as little as one cup of canned pink salmon or 2 cups of fish or any other canned or cooked fish. Make a white sauce by melting 3 tablespoons fat and stirring in first 2 tablespoons flour then 1 cup hot milk or milk made from powdered skim milk. Add 1 teaspoon salt and the flaked fish. Put mixture in buttered shallow pan. Mix together 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, then stir in ¾ cup milk to make a wet baking-powder biscuit dough. Drop this soft dough by spoonfuls over salmon and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. This also will serve six.

Red Rose, if you like these I can give you dozens more costing about the same. Write to me and give me your address, please.

All persons having CLAIMS against the late NINA ELIZABETH McKEE, who died on or about the twenty-second day of September, A.D., 1950, are hereby notified to send particulars of their claims to the undersigned, the Executors of the Estate of the said deceased, on or before the 21st day of December A.D., 1950 after which date the assets of the said deceased will be distributed, having regard only to those claims of which notice has been received.

JOSEPH MALCOLM McCULLOCH and THE GREY & BRUCE TRUST & SAVINGS COMPANY, Executors.

By CARLEY & STANDISH, No. 8 Bank of Commerce Block, Peterborough, Ontario, Their Solicitors.

NOTICE AND SYNOPSIS OF TWO PROPOSED MONEY BY-LAWS TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE VOTE OF THE RATEPAYERS AT THE ANNUAL CIVIC ELECTION ON MONDAY, DECEMBER 4TH, 1950.

THE COUNCIL of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough proposes to pass:

1. A Money By-law Number 4908, entitled "A BY-LAW AUTHORIZING THE BORROWING OF $385,000.00 UPON DEBENTURES FOR PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS, NAMELY THE CONSTRUCTION OF A NEW COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE."

2. A Money By-law Number 4915, entitled "A BY-LAW AUTHORIZING THE BORROWING OF $300,000.00 UPON DEBENTURES FOR THE PETERBOROUGH CIVIC HOSPITAL."

The Money By-law regarding the Debentures for the New Collegiate Institute recites as follows:

The Board of Education by resolution passed July 4th, 1950 requested the Council to pass a By-law for borrowing $585,000.00 to finance the Construction of a New Collegiate Institute on Lot Numbers 19 and 20, Plan 20Q, and the purchase of Furniture and Equipment.

The Council complied with the request in accordance with the High Schools Act, and it is now necessary to pass a By-law authorizing the Borrowing of the said Moneys.

The Debentures to be issued will be for a sum not to exceed $585,000.00, and the Principal will be repaid over a period of Twenty (20) Years in equal annual instalments, the Interest on the Debentures falling due in the first Ten (10) Years being at the rate of Three per cent per annum and the Interest on the Debentures payable in the Eleventh Year and subsequent years being at the rate of 3¼ per cent per annum.

The amount to be raised annually to meet the payment of Principal and Interest for these Debentures will be as nearly as possible equal and in each of the Twenty Years will be $36,967,845.00, and the existing Debenture debt of the City, not including local improvement debts, is $5,612,087.49.

The Money By-law regarding the Debentures for the Peterborough Civic Hospital recites in part as follows:

By the Peterborough Civic Hospital Act, 1945, the Corporation of the City of Peterborough was authorized to Erect and Furnish the Peterborough Civic Hospital and it was expected and estimated that $200,000.00 would be obtained toward the cost of a New Hospital by the Sale of the Old Hospital Buildings and Property, but these Buildings and Property have not been sold and therefore this money is not available.

And whereas there is required the further sum of $100,000.00 to Construct and provide Sidewalks, Roads, Sewers and Landscaping on the grounds adjacent to the Peterborough Civic Hospital, the cost of which are estimated at $15,000.00, $35,000.00, $25,000.00 and $25,000.00 respectively.

Therefore it is expedient to Borrow for these purposes the sum of $300,000.00 upon Debentures, the Principal of which will be repaid over a period of Twenty (20) Years in equal annual instalments, the Interest on the Debentures falling due in the first Ten (10) Years being at the rate of Three per cent per annum, and the Interest on the Debentures payable the Eleventh and subsequent years being at the rate of 3¼ per cent per annum.

The amount to be raised annually to meet the payment of Principal and Interest for these Debentures will be as nearly as possible equal and in each of the Twenty Years will be $20,468.88 approximately.

The total rateable Assessment for Peterborough Civic Hospital purposes is $36,967,845.00 and the existing Debenture debt of the City, not including local improvement debts is $5,612,087.49.

TAKE NOTICE that the foregoing is a Synopsis of the Two Proposed By-laws of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to be submitted to the Votes of the Electors qualified to Vote thereon at the time of the Municipal Elections on MONDAY, THE FOURTH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1950, and at the same Polling Places at which Voting will take place for the Candidate for Election for the Council of the City of Peterborough.

And that on the FIRST DAY OF DECEMBER, 1950, at the Hour of Three o'clock in the Afternoon, the Head of the Council or some Member appointed for that purpose by resolution, shall attend at the City Hall, in the said Municipality for the purpose of appointing, and if requested so to do, shall appoint by writing signed by him Two Persons to attend at the final summing up of the Votes by the Clerk and One Person to attend at each Polling Place on behalf of the Persons interested in and promoting either of the proposed By-laws and a like number on behalf of the Persons interested in and opposing either of the proposed By-laws.

On the FOURTH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1950, at the Hour of Eleven o'clock in the Forenoon, at the City Hall, in the said Municipality the Clerk shall attend and sum up the Votes given for and against the proposed By-laws.

AND TAKE NOTICE FURTHER that a Corporation (Company) entitled to Appoint a Nominee to Vote on its behalf shall not later than the Tenth Day before the Day appointed for Taking the Vote, file with the Clerk of the Municipality an appointment in writing of a Person to Vote as its Nominee and on its behalf as provided by Section 283, Sub-Section 4 of The Municipal Act.

AND TAKE NOTICE FURTHER that a Tenant who desires to Vote must deliver to the Clerk not later than the Tenth Day before the Day appointed for Taking the Vote the Declaration provided for by Sub-Section 3 of Section 283 of The Municipal Act.

If the Assent of the Electors is obtained for either or both of the said By-laws, this fact will be taken into consideration by the Council of the said City at a Meeting to be held at the expiration of Two Weeks after the Result of the Voting has been declared.

I certify this to be a true Synopsis of the Two Proposed By-law Numbers 4908 and 4915.

DATED at Peterborough, this 5th Day of November, 1950.

Life In The Trailer Camps Found To Breed Restlessness

By JACK SCOTT

Life in the trailer camps is really quite interesting. For those of you who may contemplate the gypsy life at some future date, here are a few notes that might be of value:

Most of the camps—or "courts," as they call themselves—charge a flat rate of a dollar a day for the transient trade. All have weekly or monthly rates ranging from $12 a month to $30 a month. For this the trailer-owner gets electricity and water, a hook-up for drainage, showers and rest-rooms.

Some of the trailer parks in Florida and Southern California are quite tony, have club houses, swimming pools, individual patios, gardens for each trailer. One in Miami advertises an adjoining polo field. The ritzier places have a "no children" rule.

You start making friends the moment you hit camp because of the operation known as "unhitching." There's nearly always a small delegation to approach to give a hand or to study your technique in getting the caravan detached from the car and levelled up. Always reminds me of bringing a small boat alongside a wharf. You get the same kind of critical audience and the same kind of volunteers who let it be understood that you are the novice, they are the voice of experience.

This task completed, there then ensues a conversation about road conditions, trailer equipments and the relative merits of camps throughout America. Somebody brings out a couple of cans of beer. The kids have found playmates their own age. Right away you have that warm feeling of belonging.

You meet a lot of interesting people of widely different types in these camps.

The permanent residents are usually young couples with small families who invested in a home on wheels because they could get no other kind. The extent of their travelling has been from the trailer sales lot to the court. Most trailers nowadays are built for this kind of use, some of them up to 40 feet in length. Because they're exposed to so many travellers these young people often get the wander bug and talk of buying a smaller trailer and hitting the open road when they get that elusive nest-egg.

Then there are the families who move from town to town throughout the nation, following work and, when it's possible the sun. A lot of the men are construction workers who move from one big job to another. In New Orleans we were camped next to a welder and his wife with six kids, another on the way and the wife's sister visiting them as a temporary guest—all in a 25-foot trailer. All seemed to be having the time of their lives.

Another type of trailer dweller is the old retired couple whose children are grown and gone. A large percentage of these older people come from California spend their summers on the Southern California coast, winters in Florida.

Then there's the professional traveller, and I suppose we fit into this category. A great many show people who move about spend the whole year in trailers. In Ottawa, our neighbors were members of Tex Beneke's Orchestra and Ken Maynard, the old-time cowboy star. In Phoenix we were camped alongside a family of high-wire trapeze artists and several professional rodeo riders.

A great many travelling salesmen, too, have exchanged the old life of lonely hotel rooms and farmers' daughters for a rolling home complete with wife and kids.

Another interesting type are the old-style gypsies who are still on the road, telling fortunes, working in carnivals and otherwise making a buck as best they can. Many have the last word in caravans, but stick to their old traditional costumes of bright silk and heavy costume jewelry.

These trailerites who live permanently in one location go to great pains to make their places homey. They build small picket fences about their "property;" some have elaborate gardens with beach umbrellas and fish ponds; some have an extra room—or cabana—flush with the trailer and painted its color.

Really is remarkable what an imaginative woman can do with a box eight feet across and 20 or 30 feet in length.

In Phoenix, most of the permanent trailers have air conditioning and, of course, the inevitable TV set. The extent to which these people go to make a home of what is really a large packing case is rather touching. I suppose it's a way of compensating for the home of their own which most of them dream about.

There's a community spirit in trailer camps that you rarely find in suburban life. Many of the camps have community recreation rooms. The women gather together in the laundry rooms about the 25-cents-per-half-hour Bendix machines.

In New Orleans on Hallowe'en the whole camp had a party for the kids, followed by a bingo session for the adults. In El Paso, a regular weekly feature was a weinie roast at which any visiting talent contributed to the fun.

You find a very earthy neighborliness that is refreshing and with no real class barriers. A good example of this occurred in Winnipeg. A family of four were left stranded from a carnival show on the doorstep of the trailer camp. In no time at all a small tent was found and erected, the kettle was boiling over a borrowed Coleman stove and dishes and bedding were contributed. The camp then took up a collection to help the family get back to their home.

* * *

We've run into quite a few families who wouldn't trade the trailer life for a home life. A young couple in Raleigh, North Carolina, related how they'd dreamed of a home of their own during the war. When they actually got a small bungalow, they found themselves wishing they were back in their caravan and went back to that life.

The wife said she got so used to compactness and the necessary discipline of housework in the trailer that the cottage seemed enormous. "The trailer always seemed snug and more homelike," she said. Husband said they were shocked at how much more it cost them in a house and, what's more, he liked to have that footloose feeling that they could pack up and move any time they wished.

The old folks from California are a good example of how this life breeds a restlessness and an urge to escape to greener fields. Couples who have lived all of their lives sedately in one neighborhood confess, after a year of following the birds they could never be happy again without a trip to anticipate.

It really is astonishing how much this way of life has taken a hold in the States. Driving westward across the south we've passed as many as 40 and 50 in a day, white-haired oldsters hauling their little homes down to the warmth of Miami.

Canada Horse Team Olympic Prospect

TORONTO, Nov. 20 (CP)—Col. John W. Wofford, captain of the United States Equestrian Team, said yesterday that Canada is taking a defeatist attitude towards sending an equestrian team to the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki.

He was referring to a statement made Saturday by Major Michael Gutowski, trainer of the Canadian jumping team which is competing at the Royal Winter Fair horse show here. Major Gutowski said Canada would stand little chance in the Olympic events. The team, he said, had only one horse out of ten up to Olympic standards.

Col. Wofford said: "The Canadian team's prospects did not look so good at Harrisburg and New York, but they have improved so much here I see no reason why they can't come along and take an event at Helsinki."

Lose Children

MONTREAL, Nov. 20 (CP) — At least 75 per cent of the 500,000 children who attend United Church Sunday schools in Canada are lost to the church between the ages of nine and 15, Rev. Robert Morris of Toronto, youth secretary of the national missionary and maintenance department of the United Church said Sunday. He attributed the situation to lack of funds with which the church could appoint commissioners to organize youth activities.

Just Junk

HAMILTON, Nov. 20 (CP) — Driving is dangerous enough even with a sound, fully-equipped auto. But think of what it must have been like for the owner of a car seized by police Saturday night. It lacked lights, horn, brakes and windshield wipers. The owner said he was intending to sell it to a scrap dealer but police are holding the car until they see the bill of sale.

Fought Europe Reds

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP) — The American Mercury magazine says the late United States defence secretary James V. Forrestal, quietly spent more than $150,000 in Europe in an impassioned fight against Communism. About $150,000 of the money was raised by friends but added funds were Forrestal's own, the magazine says. There was no estimate of his contribution. The magazine said some of the money was spent to defeat Communists in Italy's 1948 election and some went to a "prominent Communist leader" to end a French transportation strike in 1947.

Preacher At Knox Warns Against Dollar Scramble

The Biblical saying "Man cannot live by bread alone" has been proved many times in history by the downfall of civilizations whose philosophies have become too material, the Rev. Bruce Millar of Toronto, told members of Knox United Church on Sunday night.

Mr. Millar was guest speaker on the occasion of Knox Church's 40th anniversary.

He suggested that today man is trying more and more to live by bread alone, and that unless civilization mends its ways, its downfall will be only a matter of years.

"Hankering After Fleshpots"

A "hankering after the fleshpots" caused the decay of civilizations in years past, he said, and today, men are saying that the really important things are material. As a result, the spiritual and moral things have become submerged "in the wild scramble for the dollar."

Russian communism is not the solemn ill-doer, he said. Others in this country, were the liquor interests, whose "chief concern is to increase the sale of liquor." This can be done, he said, only by increasing the number of people who drink and the amount they consume.

"They do not care tuppence for the individual, as long as the dollar is made," he declared.

In today's world, man has cast aside human values, and the individual is trampled. In the mad rush for things material, the mind has become dulled for things moral and spiritual.

Cobourg Drops Opener

COBOURG, Nov. 20 (ENS) — Friday night's opening game of the intermediate hockey schedule was one which left much to be desired. The Port Hope Redmen won the game 11-8 over the Cobourg Pavs. Port Hope looked considerably better than Cobourg but still were far from sensational. The locals showed badly the need of practice and in fact in the opening ceremonies, Mayor Jack Burnet, who hasn't played hockey in many a long year, showed more vim in the simple act of dropping the puck than the efforts at times of some of the Cobourg squad.

Canadian Destroyers Ready To Renew Korean Patrols

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A UNITED NATIONS NAVAL BASE IN SOUTH JAPAN, Nov. 20 (CP) —The Canadian flotilla of three destroyers lay at anchor here today, preparing for another patrol off the coast of Korea.

Capt. Jeffry Brock, commander of the flotilla, will command the entire United Nations fleet on the west coast of Korea during this next operation. Under his command besides the three Canadian destroyers will be units of the Dutch, French and British navies.

Mail Waiting

There was a stack of mail waiting for the men yesterday when the three warships pulled into port from Hong Kong. Because the men won't be home for Christmas two RCAF planes will haul parcels to and from Esquimalt.

Most of the sailors got in their Christmas shopping at Hong Kong, while the rest will make their purchases in Japan. One sailor at Hong Kong bought shoes for himself and his three children, along with a set of china for his wife, all for $14. Many purchased good clothes for prices that would seem ridiculous in Canada. Others stocked up on all kinds of jewelry and a wide assortment of silks.

Rumor Spiked

There had been a buzzing of rumor on the three ships that all might make home in time for Christmas, but Capt. Brock dispelled such talk:

"We shouldn't go home," he told the crews of the three destroyers, "until the job we set out to do is done. The more of us who stay, the sooner it will be over."

The ships will sail in company on patrol for the first time since the landings at Inchon. On that job, the ships left harbor at different times and converged at the South Korean port. This time all three will sail from port together.

Officials Split Over How Many Turkeys Diseased

DETROIT, Nov. 20 (AP).—The count of dangerously diseased turkeys—if any—on shelves of Detroit region markets was fouled up in official confusion Sunday.

Authorities warned, meanwhile that diseased birds could cause diarrhoea or even death unless thoroughly cooked.

The Canadian owner of a quarantined turkey ranch in suburban Farmington denied that 5,000 cholera-ridden turkeys had reached markets from his flocks.

Kenneth Bracy, assistant chief of enforcement for the Michigan Department of Agriculture agreed saying "practically all" of the farm's turkeys; living and slaughtered, had been accounted for.

But assistant prosecutor George Taylor said at Pontiac that his investigation indicated the farm had sold between 3,000 and 5,000 birds from its diseased flocks and that only 1,900 to 2,000 have been located and impounded.

The farm owner, Kenneth Wein of Sarnia, revised his original figures that would have left 5,000 diseased birds in markets to show that none are in markets, but prosecutor Taylor stuck by his estimate.

THANKS ONTARIO!

BUT—PLEASE KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK

Your Hydro thanks all consumers and municipalities who through voluntary saving of electricity and the extension of daylight saving time have helped to ease the power situation. However, it is important that all citizens continue to save electricity in order to assist in meeting the high winterume demands ahead.

ONTARIO IS GROWING

More electricity is required for new homes, new factories, new rural consumers. In addition, the step-up in rearmament production has resulted in a further sharp increase in power demands. In the past few weeks, the primary peak demand for power in Southern Ontario has been on the average as much as 540,000 horsepower higher than a year ago . . . an amount over six times greater than the long-term average rate of increase.

HYDRO POWER SUPPLY INCREASES IN 1950

To help meet this condition, your Hydro to date this year has added 510,500 horsepower, of which 374,000 horsepower was in Southern Ontario. An additional 100,000 horsepower will be available to this part of the province before the end of December from the Chenaux and Des Joachims developments.

However, the demand for power continues to soar. Your full co-operation is essential in saving electricity wherever and whenever possible. Use one light instead of two. Please turn off lights burning in out-of-the-way places. Turn off appliances as soon as they have served your purpose.

Use Different Temperatures In Hospital Rooms To Determine Best Climate

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO, Nov. 20 —(AP)— Weather will become a partner of medical healing in a new hospital unit being built here.

Each room on one entire floor will have controlled climate. Each can be air conditioned for any combination of temperature and humidity.

They will be used for studies of how weather affects human health and sickness, or to eliminate weather changes during special tests or studies. Patients needing the help of cool or dry weather can be given the climate medicine they need.

The unit is an addition to the research and education hospital of the University of Illinois Medical College. The air-conditioned floor will be headquarters of the Department of Internal Medicine, with 10 rooms for patients there.

Weather—hot or cold, dry or wet —markedly affects the human body, explains Dr. Robert W. Keeton, head of the Department of Medicine at the medical school.

Hot weather especially is bad for people with some heart troubles. Recovery after an operation is slower in summer than in winter.

"We hope to learn whether there is any such thing as a good climate to speed recovery from particular diseases," he said. "For example, a dry climate is advised for some people with bronchial asthma or chronic cough. Here we can have a patient live for a few weeks or months in that kind of climate, with no change in his habits or his diet, to learn just how much climate influences him for the good.

"Another study will be the question of what kind of climate might retard respiratory infections. A certain amount of moisture in the air seems to protect mice, at least, against the spread of certain infections."

Last Radio Year For Bergen, McCarthy, Snerd

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 20 (AP) This will be Charlie McCarthy's last season on the radio. Mortimer Snerd's, too.

Their voice, ventriloquist Edgar Bergen, says. "I'll probably give up radio next year and devote full time to television."

Bergen has made two television shows, which will be released for Thanksgiving and Christmas. They have been filmed in Hollywood and he added, "I guess I'm one of the few believers in film." Nearly all other comedy stars have gone to New York to perform their shows in the flesh.

Isn't this just like Hollywood? The studio hired a vocal coach to teach Ruth Roman how to speak Bostonian for her role in "Strangers on a Train." Yep, you're right; Ruth was born and reared in Boston.

Elizabeth Taylor took off for a few days in New York with Nick Hilton. The trip may help dissolve some rumors about their marriage. Liz still is emphatic that nothing is wrong between them and is getting fed up with the gossips.

John Lund joins the cast members who hope there won't be another "Irma" picture. Diana Lynn and Marie Wilson are others. But it could happen. The two "Irma" films are among Paramount's top money-makers.

Judy Holliday was welcomed to the Oscar race after the preview of "Born Yesterday." It'll be a hot match, with Bette Davis and Gloria Swanson already vying for the honor. As yet, the male division is slow.

Four-Year Tests Make Difference In Korea

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP) Four years of arctic-warfare tests may spell the difference between success and grim suffering—or even disaster — for American troops in Korea this winter.

Since 1946 the US Army and the Air Force have been experimenting with equipment and fighting techniques needed for battle in the deep cold.

Early this year the results were field-tested in the Yukon, near the Alaskan border, in the first large-scale sub-Arctic manoeuvres.

Winds Chill

This week, as icy blasts from Siberia swept down on American soldiers and their Allies in Korea, the Army's Arctic warfare preparations got their first test in actual combat.

It still is too early to judge the results of this test. But the Army is confident its pre-Korea experimentation proved that Americans from temperate climates can fight and keep healthy in terrific cold—if properly equipped. They can keep warm in newly-designed tents, quilted and insulated with fibre glass.

And they have learned that in proper Arctic gear, men can live in the open for long periods without freezing if cold-weather discipline is maintained.

Tuck Mufflers Tight

That means mufflers tucked tight around ears and nose.

Also, a man must never perspire. Dampness is the great danger. Damp socks mean frozen feet. In Alaska, troops out in the open keep an extra pair of dry socks with them at all times.

The Army has already sent vehicle-winterizing kits to Korea, including heaters to warm up frozen engines and special non-freeze oils.

Another winter beater is alcohol mixed with gasoline to give it more pep when water condenses in the gas tank. No water is used in the radiator—only a non-freezing liquid.

But there still are problems.

Weasels Unsatisfactory

The small track-type carriers known as "Weasels" are not yet satisfactory. They are not heavy enough to plow through heavy brush, and at times more than half of them were mechanical failures during the 1950 Yukon manoeuvres.

A substitute for the "Weasel" is being designed, but is not yet in production.

Another problem is that in deep cold, the rubber insulation around land communication lines freezes and chips off, continually interrupting messages.

And Arctic clothing is still too bulky and heavy. Experiments with light-weight clothing, such as nylon pile, have failed to turn up an improvement over wool.

A new factor in Korea will be the changeableness of the weather. In central Alaska, full Arctic clothing can be issued early in the winter and worn all season, because constant below-zero temperatures can be expected.

But between Korea's cold waves there are sunny, relatively-temperate periods. Troops will be encumbered and overheated if they continue to wear Arctic clothing at those times. But they'll have to keep it nearby, for the cold waves sweep in suddenly.

Explosion In Pipe 95 Feet Down Kills 1, Injures 5

DETROIT, Nov. 21—(AP)—Jack Agnew, 26, one of six men injured in a marsh gas explosion 95 feet underground last night, died today. He was seriously burned in the blast in a water conduit. Ten workmen were in a pressure chamber when the gas exploded. Four who were not hurt helped the injured men escape by groping their way six blocks to the tunnel entrance. Agnew, an engineer, is a city water board inspector. Yesterday was his 26th birthday. At his hospital bedside his wife, Rheva, collapsed. She was kept in the hospital overnight.

Police said they believed an air-hammer struck a spark off a rock and caused the blast.

Firemen fought the blaze for nearly one hour to bring it under control.

Made Check

The men were working inside a metal-enclosed pressure chamber, 15 feet high and 17 feet long.

Agnew had just completed an hourly check for gas about 8:20 p.m. Workers said he reported "considerable" gas in the area. The men were digging muck.

Suddenly the blast bowled them over and seared the six men nearest to it.

Clothes On Fire

Agnew's clothing caught fire. Some of the men grabbed sawdust bags and knocked out the flames.

Agnew was taken out on an electric motor jitney. The others stumbled along beside him in a harrowing trip that lasted 20 minutes.

To emerge, the men had to go through an air lock where they are slowly "depressurized." But because of the emergency they remained in the lock only three or four minutes instead of the usual seven.

Police Seeking Witnesses In Bottle Death

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 — (CP)— Police investigators today pieced together new bits of evidence in the hotel slaying of Francis J. Sullivan, but said they still had a "lot to check" in the bludgeon slaying of the 52-year-old Toronto solicitor.

Police indicated new witnesses were being sought—some of them at out-of-town points — as they traced the movements of the chief solicitor of the Ontario Lands and Forest Department whose nude body was found early Saturday on the bedroom floor in a tower suite in the swank Chateau Laurier Hotel.

Murder Charge

His 50-year-old Toronto society widow, Mrs. Marion Sullivan, was formally charged in police court yesterday with his murder and was remanded for a week and taken to Carleton County Jail. Another remand will be sought to give police time to complete their investigation.

Chief Inspector of Detectives Ab Cavan said investigation of the death of Sullivan, who medical authorities said was killed by blows on the head with a blunt instrument, was "coming along favorably."

He said polile were not yet certain if Sulivan was struck while lying in bed or while lying on the floor of the hotel suite bedroom.

"We have a number of witnesses to interview and we cannot immediately locate some of them because they are out of town."

Bottle Examined

Inspector Cavon declined to discuss what evidence police already have amassed. However,

Fatigue Stops Peace Session

By SYDNEY WEILAND.

WARSAW, Nov. 21 (Reuters) —Sheer fatigue drove delegates to the world peace congress back to their hotels early today after a marathon session of 17 hours' speech-making.

The Communist-backed congress is due to end today with a crop of resolutions.

With still 40 speeches to be made at midnight, the decision was made to go on through the night. Each delegate was allotted 10 minutes, but the session dragged on.

At 4 a.m., Gilbert De Chambrun French member of the peace movement's world bureau, announced that the team of translaters, shorthand writers and officials had had enough.

At his suggestion many of the remaining speakers — most of them minor delegates—produced their speeches for publication in the four-language congress newspaper instead of delivering them.

By that time the 2,000 delegates present at the beginning of the session had thinned down to less than 500.

Prolonged cheers and rhythmic clapping greeted a recorded message from the American Negro singer, Paul Robeson, who was refused an American passport to come to Warsaw.

6,000 Guerrillas Raid Red China Town

TAIPEI, Formosa, Nov. 21 (AP) —A bold raid by 6,000 Chinese Nationalist guerrillas against the Red-held South China city of Wuchow was reported by Nationalist sources today.

The sources said the guerrillas entered the city Nov. 13 and withdrew after destroying three military depots, inflicting heavy casualties on the Communist garrison and capturing 40 Red party workers.

Wuchow is 120 miles west of Canton.

'Doctor' Pinched Toes Cops Pinch Doctor

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP)—A policewoman complaining that "he pinched my toes until I winced" brought the arrest of James Martin on a charge of practising medicine without a licence.

Diagnosis of her feigned ailments, policewoman Dorene Meyer said, was based on squeezing of her pinkies. She said Martin explained that the little toe, for instance, was an indicator of heart ailments; the big toe communicated trouble from the kidneys, and so on.

Miss Meyer said that when she consulted Martin she pretended that she had cold feet, for one thing.

Martin was arrested yesterday in his office, where equipment included a "miracle machine" which Miss Meyer was told, would send electric waves through her body and cure her cold feet.

Sullivan Funeral Attended Only By Few

SAULT STE. MARIE, Nov. 21 (CP)—Funeral services were held here today for Francis J. Sullivan who was found dead Saturday in his Ottawa hotel room. Only a few relatives, close friends and a son attended.

Mrs. Sullivan is held at Ottawa on a murder charge in connection with her husband's death.

The funeral mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Peter Hussey. Rev. Father Edward Lyons, related by marriage to the late Mr. Sullivan, conducted the graveside prayers before burial at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Floods Kill Nine People In California

Thousands Homeless Millions Damage Rain Still Falling

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21—(AP)—Torrents of mountain-fed flood waters ripped through northern and central California and western Nevada this morning, driving thousands of persons from their homes and doing untold amounts of property damage.

At least nine persons are dead from the floods, which started on its third day of rampage with added force from mountain rains and melting snow.

Here is the present situation:

Nevada—The main section of Reno is a tumbled mass of mud, debris and torn paving after the swirling Truckee river, normally three to four feet deep at this time of year, roared 20 feet deep and three blocks wide through the centre of "the biggest little city in the world."

Under 8 Feet

For hours the downtown section was under six to eight feet of water, but the flood was receding today. One death resulted.

California — Governor Earl Warren declared a state of emergency over the raging floods in the central valley. The Yuba county sheriff's office ordered the evacuation of an estimated 3,500 residents from east Linda, near Marysville, in the face of the threat of the flooding Yuba and Bear rivers. The muddy torrent continues to rise.

The American river burst its banks near Sacramento and flooded thousands of acres of suburban land, driving 1,000 people from their homes.

Eight California deaths were attributed to the floods.

More Rain

The weather bureau at San Francisco predicted "moderate to heavy rain" for the high Sierra today—ninth straight day of storms.

Reno reeled under the impact of the flood. Muddy water raced through the business district in a stream three blocks wide, sweeping trees, benches, cars in its rage.

The Riverside Hotel had five feet of water on its main floor. The Mapes Hotel measured six feet of water in its lobby. Merchants reported thousands of dollars of damage to Christmas merchandise, stored in flooded basements.

Plane Cancelled

United Air Lines scheduled a special plane to evacuate stranded travellers, but cancelled it because only two wanted to leave.

The Nevada National Guard was called out in arms to prevent looting and keep residents from danger zones.

Take That!

TORONTO, Nov. 21—(CP) —Police charged Michael Dubarry, 27, with malicious damage today. They said he ordered five glasses and one pint of beer in a hotel, smashed them on the floor, wrecked tables and chairs, swept three dozen glasses off the bar, overturned a cigaret - vending machine and a peanut jar, broke a window and walked out the front door.

Atomic Oven Nearly Ready To Cook Fuel

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 21 (AP)—The first atomic reactor on the vast new Snake River Plains site of the United States Atomic Energy Commission is nearing completion.

On this new oven depends the main hopes for atomic power and possibly most of the heralded blessings of an atomic age.

This reactor, called a breeder pile, is designed for a brilliant, daring and still-somewhat-doubtful scientific venture, namely to create fuel. At present there is not enough atomic fuel in the entire world for more than transitory power.

Peaceful Uses

This new work is strictly for peace, and it has been rapid. The Snake River site is only a year old. It is an undulating, treeless, 400,000-acre expanse of sage brush and ancient lava. Two other reactors already are started, for naval power and testing materials.

The Commission announced that the breeder would be completed by the end of this year, but has given no specific dates since. The size is a secret. However, the breeder's announced cost, $3,300,000, marks it as a small brother in a family of giants. The other two are costing respectively $26,000,000 and $18,000,000.

Need Substitute

The spectre of defeat which the breeder will try to correct showed up in the great Hanford works plants in Washington. There uranium atoms of atomic weight 235 spli to convert ordinary uranium into plutonium, which is

Boy Reports Father Shot Woman

Common-Law Wife Shot After Quarrel In Cabin Trailer

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 21 (CP) —A shaken 15-year-old youth reported to police early today that his father had fatally shot Mrs. Ann Evans during an argument a few hours before and had asked the boy to report the killing.

Police held Lawrence Jones, 35, for questioning after they found the body of the 51-year-old woman, his common-law wife on a bed in the cabin trailer in which they were living on a farm at Yarmouth Centre, three miles east of here.

Lawrence Jones, Jr., told Sgt. Harry McCart his father first had fired a shot through the roof of the trailer. Then he had loaded the single-shot weapon and fired a second bullet into Mrs. Evans' chest as she sat near a card table from which they ate their meals.

Mrs. Hubert Topping of St. Thomas, a sister of the dead woman, said both Mrs. Evans and Jones were separated from their legal mates before they began living together four years ago. Mrs. Topping said Jones and Mrs. Evans had quarreled repeatedly.

The blood-covered body, fully-clad, was on a double bed in the trailer. Unwashed supper dishes were on the card-table.

NZ Reinstates Death Sentence

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Nov. 21— (Reuters) — The New Zealand House of Representatives today reintroduced the death penalty—death by hanging—after a respite of 15 years.

The gallows have been idle in New Zealand since 1935 when a Labor government came to power. Labor was pledged to expunge capital punishment from the law.

The new Conservative government, within a year of its election to office, has thus replaced the death penalty in th estatute book.

A rise in crimes of violence and murder after the war brought much public agitation to reintroduce hanging. But the Labor government remained firm.

The Conservatives in their election campaign last year promised to put the gallows to use again because they believed that only fear of death would prevent some from taking the lives of others.

In today's vote, the government allowed its supporters to decide each according to his own conscience. Only one Conservative joined the Labor ranks in opposing the death penalty, and the vote in favor was 38 to 31.

The new law provides for an automatic death sentence on conviction of murder, excepting only minors under 18, expectant mothers and mothers convicted of killing their babies. The government retains the right to reprieve in special circumstances.

Alaska Hospital Burns; All Safe

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 21 (AP) —Fire destroyed the $300,000 Alaska Native Service Hospital at Bethel last night, forcing several score evacuated patients in near-zero weather to take temporary refuge in a nearby quonset hut.

Bethel is approximately 1,000 air miles northwest of Juneau.

Hugh Wade, area director for the Alaska Native Services, said he understood none of the patients was injured. One employee was flown to Anchorage for treatment of injuries. How many were in the 70-bed hospital was unknown. The patients probably will be flown to other hospitals in Alaska.

Cause of the fire is undetermined.

Losing Taste

MADRID, Nov. 21—(Reuters)—Bullfighting has continued to lose ground in Spain in 1950, giving way to football and other sports. When the season ended early this month the total of fights for the year was 152, compared with 181 in 1949 and 291 in 1948.

"Devil In Me" Girl, 14, Has Shooting Spree

NATCHEZ, Miss., Nov. 21 — (AP)— A frail, 14-year-old girl had a simple explanation today of a two-hour shooting spree in which she terrorized the community of Stanton, Miss.

"It must have been the devil in me," said she of yesterday's rampage in which she wounded her uncle and fired rifle shots at her step-father, mother, grandmother and two policemen.

Sheriff Robert Burns listed her as Ollie Mae Byrne, a high school student, and held her in jail without charge. He gave this shot-by-shot account of her outbreak:

The first shot was fired when step-father Grady Johnson went out in the yard to give Ollie Mae lunch money. It was a miss.

Mrs. Johnson started towards her daughter. Another shot, also a miss. Mrs. W. T. Hayles, Ollie Mae's grandmother, called from a window. She was answered with a bullet—another miss.

Then Ollie Mae sa wher uncle, Marvin Hayles, in the doorway. She cracked down on him and this time she didn't miss. He was pinked in the arm.

Ollie Mae saw a mail truck in the road, pointed the gun at the driver, Joel Prather, and ordered him to leave. Postmaster W. H. Baldwin of Natchez reported later that Prather left. The morning mail wasn't delivered.

Ollie Mae arrived at a general store just ahead of the owner, Lynwood Hightower. As he started to park, she drew a bead on him. He tried to reason with her but failed. He called out to imaginary figure behind her and as she dropped her guard he backed away.

"Frankly, I took off," he recalled later.

Deputy Sheriff Guy Smith and Police Lieut. E. E. Haley drove up to the store. Ollie Mae fired a shot through the automobile door. Haley went to the rear of the store. A bullet ripped through his raincoat and went between his legs.

Ollie Mae next took her stand at an old barn.

By then, Sheriff Burns had arrived on the scene. He edged his way to within earshot and began pleading with Ollie Mae to surrender. She did and went quietly to jail.

Tanks, Men Capture Town On Yalu River; Reds Said Reorganizing

Communist Highway, Rail Line Network Link North-East With Manchuria War Believed Will Last Into Spring

SEOUL, Nov. 21—(AP)—American troops today burst into the Korean border town of Hyesanjin, across the Yalu river from Communist Manchuria. Tanks, flanked by bearded infantrymen of the United States 7th Division, lumbered up to the slushy banks of the Yalu at 9:45 a.m. (7.45 p.m. EST Monday). They were the first Americans to reach the border. Maj.-Gen. Edward M. Almond, 10th Corps commander who was with his men when they reached the border, jubilantly announced that the drive to the Yalu boundary through snow-covered mountain passes has "divided enemy-held territory and isolated all significant forces east of the 127th meridian east longitude."

However, the Communists still have a great network of military highways and railways in the northeast, linked with Manchuria where Korean Communist armies are reported being reorganized.

And strong Communist build-ups, combined with the rigorous Korean winter, have brought predictions from United Nations intelligence officers the war will continue well into next spring.

Maj.-Gen. David G. Barr, 7th division commander, accompanied his 17th regimental combat team as it slogged down out of the mountains to the Yalu river banks near Hyesanjin.

Dog-tired infantrymen had completed a 20-mile march through melting snow and a vanishing enemy to reach the border.

Eleven tanks, protected by infantrymen and anti-aircraft batteries, led the column.

Will Not Fire

Col. Herbert B. Powell, commanding the 17th, said Red Manchuria is within easy artillery range, but his guns would not fire across the river "unless they fire at us first."

The infantrymen, veterans of an outfit which fought on Attu in the Aleutians during the Second World War, reached the border just 22 days after they made an unopposed amphibious landing in Korea. The border was the end of a 100-mile march over treacherous mountain roads across a 6,000-foot range, and in temperatures that sometimes dropped below zero.

There was no hint of the next move on the 17th regimental combat team. Its position at Hyesanjin cuts a highway and rail net-

Hire Engineers Hint Start Of Waterways

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (CP). — The Civil Service Commission last night announced what termed as "a move that may be the forerunner to the development of the St. Lawrence waterways system." The announcement was that the commission was seeking a number of highly-skilled engineers for a new division in the Transport Department, and is prepared to offer "as much as $7,500 a year to get suitable candidates."

Experience

Sought are graduates in applied science or engineering with extensive experience in the design of reinforced concrete, steel and timber structures. They must have experience as administrators and will be employed in the special projects branch of the transport department.

Apart from the one reference, the commission made no further mention of the St. Lawrence waterway system. However, Transport Minister Chevrier and other members of the cabinet have hinted in public addresses that Canada may consider going ahead with the project herself if it continues to be stalled in the U. S. Congress.

Mr. Chevrier and his deputy minister, J. C. Lessard, on a trip to the west coast, were not available for comment here.

Britain Fires Lost Scientist

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Britain today fired a missing atom expert who is believed to have fled to Russia in September.

He is Professor Bruno Pontecorvo, a specialist in cosmic ray research, formerly employed at the government atomic laboratory in Harwell.

Pontecorvo took a leave of absence in July and went to Italy with his wife and three children. He failed to return when his leave expired Aug. 31. The Pontecorvos were last seen in Helsinki. During the Second World War Pontecorvo worked at Canada's atomic plant at Chalk River, Ont.

A ministry spokesman said today Pontecorvo's salary was stopped when his leave ran out, but that he still was listed as an employee of the atomic laboratory until his formal dismissal today.

Forced To Wear Jeans Woman Asks Divorce

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21— (AP)— A socially-prominent woman filed suit for divorce yesterday, charging her wealthy husband insisted she wear blue jeans at social functions and made her use old newspapers instead of towels in the kitchen.

Mrs. Frances Valle Reyburn Nelson, 32, also said her husband of less than a year made her save the breakfast dishwater so the lunch and dinner dishes could be washed in it.

The husband is James Martin Nelson, who in 1946 received a one-third share of his father's $700,000 estate.

Trade With Canada Up

Japan Economy Bolstered By Korean War

By DAVE McINTOSH

TOKYO, Nov. 21 (CP)—Japan has been striding to economic recovery since 1945 with seven-league boots, and the Korean war has provided the biggest step of all.

Putting it in terms of trade with Canada: In 1949 Japan imported $6,000,000 worth of goods from Canada; this year the figure will be more than $15,000,000. Japan will export to Canada more than $10,000,000 in goods this year, more than double last year's figure.

Total Japanese export trade in July was $74,000,000, compared with $50,000,000 in the first six months of 1950.

Korean War

The immediate reason for this state of affairs is the Korean War. The United Nations spent $30,000,000 in American dollars in Japan in the first weeks of the war, and the amount is probably triple that now.

Before the Korean war, Japan was short of dollars. Today she has cash to lay on the line for goods which previously had to be obtained through bilateral barter deals or not at all.

Japan is buying from Canada rayon pulp, sulphite pulp, asbestos, nickel, newsprint, coal, wheat, whisky and flour. Wheat forms 70 per cent of the total.

Japan Exports

She is sending to Canada textiles, oranges, fireworks and toys.

Observers here say the Japanese have been told bluntly that if they try dumping tactics in Canada or step on the toes of Canadian manufacturers they will probably lose their markets.

These observers add that Japanese traders are doing their utmost to avoid these pitfalls, that they are making a real attempt to get good stuff to the Canadian market. Before the war, Japanese industrialists carried 18th-century capitalism to the Nth degree, and with wages low were able to unload masses of cheap goods in world markets.

Wages Raised

The advent of unions raised wages and then prices. However, there is some concern here that unions now are being badly weakened by the purge of Communists. The trouble with the purge is that anybody can point the finger. In this process union leaders have been sacked right and left.

If the unions lose their grip altogether, observers say, the industrialists may reassume the power they held before the war.

There are 84,000,000 people in Japan, and the population is growing at the rate of 1,000,000 a year. Only 15 per cent of the land is arable.

This means, of course, that Japan must trade with the world. She must import all kinds of raw materials, and it is here that observers see a great potential market for Canada.

Nationals Charge

Russians Control China

By MAX HARRELSON

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 21 (AP) Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang told the United Nations today 45,000 Russian agents completely dominate the political, economic and cultural life of Communist China.

Events of the last 12 months, Tsiang said, have fully proved his charges that the Chinese civil war was engineered by Russia and that the Peiping regime is the stooge and tool of Moscow. He spoke before the General Assembly's 60-country political committee.

Tsiang told the committee Russia has completely ignored the assembly's 1949 appeal to all countries to refrain from interfering in the internal affairs of China. He blamed Russia for the intervention of Communist China in the Korean war and said Russian imperialism was responsible for most of Asia's unrest.

He said the resistance movement on the China mainland is growing rapidly. Before September, 1949, he said, there were only some 395,000 men operating against the regime of Mao Tze-tung, but now there are about 1,667,000. About 15 per cent of these, Tsiang said, are Communist troops who have swung their allegiance to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The Nationalist delegate urged the U.N. to create a special commission of inquiry to look into Russia's alleged aggression against China and to report back to the 1951 assembly. He said the matter was urgent but that he realized a thorough, systematic study is called for.

Basic in the Nationalist case is Tsiang's accusation that the Russians boosted Mao Tze-tung's Communists to power in violation of Chinese-Russian treaty provisions and the U.N. charter, and now have flooded China with Soviet technicians.

Refused Debate

When Tsiang first made his accusations last year, Russian-bloc delegates refused to participate in the debate. Since then the Russians have fought in various U.N. organs to have the Nationalists ousted and their places given to the Chinese Communists. The assembly still faces the task of making a final decision on Chinese representation.

The assembly yesterday rejected Russian conditions for co-operating in the development of Secretary-General Trygve Lie's 20-year peace program. One of those conditions was Chinese Communist representation in the U.N.

Italian Reds May Drop Togliatti

Results of Crash Plague Leader May Force Switch

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME, Nov. 21—(AP)—Palmiro Togliatti, mild-mannered Chief of the biggest Communist party outside the Iron Curtain, is out of hospital for the third time in two years.

But it is still an open question this time whether he will be able to take back active control of the party and continue his "go easy" program of attempting to oust democracy by sheer weight of numbers.

If he does not, Italy may expect an explosive change in Communist action under his probable successor — the commander of a tightly-organized underground army.

Moscow likely already has decided which way it will be.

The rotund, bespectacled, 57-year-old Togliatti suffered concussion of the brain in an automobile accident last summer. He recovered quickly, but at the end of October he was back in a private mental hospital in emergency condition.

Remove Clot

Communist guards stood watch at the doors. Two of Italy's best physicians were called in. They operated to remove a clot of blood pressing on his brain.

In a few weeks he was able to return home but doctors said it might be some time before he could be active.

Non-Communist political comment implied strongly that he might be out for good—that Moscow might take this opportunity to switch party control.

If Togliatti has fallen from favor of the Kremlin, he had a long way to fall.

Well Trained

During the war, he went through Stalin's own school for Communist leaders in Moscow and was hand picked to rally Italy into the Red camp. In 1947 he was named a permanent member of the Cominform. In 1948, when he was shot four times in an assassination attempt by a Sicilian student, Stalin himself was said to have sent a furious telegram to the Italian Communist party for not protecting him.

Give Approval To Issue Writ

City Council approved Monday night the recommendation of the finance committee "that the City Solicitor be authorized to take the necessary legal steps to issue a writ on behalf of the city against Harry Goodman and Nick Peconi who are alleged to be operating used car lots without required city licenses."

It also heard a deputation from Otonabee St.— that stretch of No. 7 Highway, east of the Locks Bridge who objected that they lived in a residental neighborhood and that Mr. Peconi's used car sale lot "doesn't do our property any good."

Feeling Aroused.

Feeling of the city council was somewhat aroused against Mr. Peconi when it was reported to them that he had begun sale of used cars without a permit. It transpired that he did have permission from the Department of Highways.

On the other hand, a citizen who said he would not know Mr. Peconi if he saw him, commented to the Examiner last week that from all accounts Peconi had applied to the city for a permit, but that his application was turned down.

"Now, he is told that he's going to be sued if he doesn't get a license. It sounds odd to one who is just looking on from the sidelines."

new atomic fuel. The spectre is the fact that the uranium 235 at Hanford creates less plutonium than the amount of 235 which splits.

There isn't much uranium 235, not enough to keep up this losing race. Somehow the uranium 235, before it is all gone, has to be forced to breed like animals—where one sire produces two offspring. In this case, one atom must breed more than one.

If that is done, it will be possible to convert all the world's ordinary uranium into plutonium, and there is enough for power almost indefinitely. When the problem is solved, plutonium will do the breeding, probably even

Canadians Show Improvement At Winter Fair

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP). — Yesterday was a big day at the Royal Winter Fair.

Canada broke a 12-year jinx and won an international horse jumping competition. An Ontario breeder sold an Aberdeen Angus bull for the biggest price for a bull of this breed in Canadian history. The historic King's guineas baby-beef champion was named.

And then there were more than the fair's usual quota of grand champions named, with Shorthorns, Herefords, Aberdeen Angus and dual-purpose Shorthorn cattle getting the call.

Tom Gayford, 22-year-old Toronto advertising salesman, rode his light chestnut gelding, Nova Scotia, to victory in a jump-off with Arthur McCashin of the United States on Paleface, a strawberry roan.

Good Record

Canada's equestrian showing at the fair now includes a first, a second—Gayford lost out to Mexico Friday in a jump-off—and two thirds. A better-than-average showing, it is expected to lend impetus to the drive of the team's non-riding captain, Maj.-Gen Churchill Mann, that Canada should be represented for the first time at the 1952 Olympics with a horse-jumping team.

The Edwards brothers of Watford, Ont. made livestock history when their bull Anokamere 10th, was sold to Merrydale Farms of St. Francisville, La., for $8,300 The bull placed first in its class yesterday for bulls two years and over.

McFarlane St. Area Asks For Bus Service

A petition for a bus service into the McFarlane St. section of Ashburnham was received by the council Monday night, and was sent on to the management of Peterborough Bus Lines with a request for their reaction.

That new neighborhood just west of the Canal, on both sides of the old Norwood Road entrance to the city, comprises Caddy, Welsh, Simmonds, Ludgate, Watts, Beverley, McFarlane Sts There may be others.

The largely signed petition was forwarded to the council by Gordon and Lillico. Many of the residents, owners and tenants, work down town and at factories in the southwest area of the city, including Canadian General Electric Co., the De Laval Co., and Nashua Paper Co. was mentioned.

All that section of Ashburnham has been transformed from vacancy to a residential neighborhood. Its new houses represent a large contribution to the new realty values of Peterborough.

The motion by Aldermen Sands and Burrows asks for consideration by Bus Lines and also their decision.

"I think the bus service to Civic Hospital should be looked into, too," Ald. Sands suggested. His motion, seconded by Ald. E. C. Braund, asks for a survey of the bus service to and from the hospital, and that "the council be informed of the company's finding."

Two big sewer mains over the river on the east side of Reno were broken.

Two persons died as a result of the Reno flood. An unidentified man died of a heart attack while attempting to save stock in the basement of a department store. Another committed suicide by jumping into the flood waters.

Dikes Break

The biggest threat in California was the Sutter-Yuba county area. Dikes along the flooding Bear river broke, sending streams of water into several towns.

In the Marigold district scores of persons were stranded on gold-dredging piles along the river. They were reported to be safe, but the current was too strong for boats to maintain rescue operations.

At Sacramento, the American river spilled over levees late last night, chasing some 700 residents from homes along the river.

Alert Guard

Governor Earl Warren put California National Guardsmen on the alert as the river lapped higher and higher.

The weather bureau warned hundreds of residents in the Sacramento area that the roiled river might go to 45½ feet. The all-time high is 44.03 recorded Sunday.

ASK FOR SCHOOL GUARD

The Home and School Association of May's School on Lansdowne St., requested the council by letter Monday night to assign a traffic guard for the protection of the children of that school. Most of them have to cross Lansdowne St. which is No. 7 Highway. The letter was sent to the Board of Police Commissioners.

CARS DAMAGED

Cars owned by John Johnston, 505 George St., and George Sedgewick, 475 King St., were damaged Monday afternoon in an accident. Johnston was driving south on George St., and turned west on to Prince St. Sedgewick's auto was parked at the northwest corner of George and Prince Sts. Damage to both cars totalled $40.

NO APPLICATION RECEIVED

"Is there any truth in the rumor that a corner of Lock and Romaine Streets has been bought for a service station?" Ald. T. D. Miller enquired at the council meeting Monday. "Some of the residents of that neighborhood have telephoned me about it." City Engineer Chalmers said he had not received any application for a service station there. "There will be strenuous opposition if there is any suggestion of that type," Ald. Miller said.

DIED OF HEART ATTACK

The sudden death of W. Wallace Brealey of Otonabee at the week-end was a deep shock to his many friends in the city and county. Some of them had met him at the Royal Winter Fair last week. Mr. Brealey was one of the leading breeders of Ayrshire cattle in this district, and was widely known throughout the membership of that association. The funeral this afternoon was from his home on the south side of No. 7 Highway, just east of the school house corner leading north to Indian River.

Proposed Substation Area Said Residential

"That area is zoned as residential," said Ald. Adam Sands in regard to an application from the Utilities Commission to the council Monday night requesting that a site be bought for an electric substation on the east side of High St., opposite Third Avenue.

"I don't think a substation adds to the appearance of a locality," was the comment of Mayor Swanston.

Utilities Commission has erected two of these subsidiary substations in the last few years. One of them is on Romaine St., west of the C.N.R. to Port Hope. Another is in Ashburnham, near Armour Road and Carlisle St.

The High St. lot is owned by Canadian General Electric Company who are willing to sell it to the Utilities Commission for $2,000. The lot was included in the area bought by C.G.E. from the city when the Dominion government decided to sell the former DVA hospital site.

On a motion by Ald. Sands, the Utilities application was forwarded to the planning board.

Canada's Forests Most Vulnerable Spots

KINGSTON, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Lands Minister Scott believes Canada's vast stretches of timber land one of the country's most vulnerable spots in the event of an enemy invasion.

Mr. Scott, a former lumberman, told the Kinsmen Club last night "an expendable enemy aircraft could work havoc in the forested areas of the country simply by dropping a load of incendiary bombs."

He said the aerial fire-fighting service of the Ontario Lands Department is the largest and one of the finest equipped in the world.

A plan to add to the fleet is already being formulated. He intimated that additional air cover would include helicopters.

CIO To Switch Attention To World Scene

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 — (CP) — CIO convention delegates today switched their attention from domestic to international affairs, particularly hopeful of doing something for the "working man" of Marshall-Plan countries.

Just what action would be taken was to be kept secret until the resolution on the foreign policy hit the convention floor.

But the tip-top as to what the CIO demands in the way of American foreign policy was a statement by its president, Philip Murray, that economic rehabilitation of the countries the United States is aiding is not enough.

Murray, in his report to the convention, added:

"Direct improvement in the real wages of European workers is urgently necessary for the welfare of European workers and their families, and to strengthen the democratic alternative to the propaganda promises of the Communist movement."

MarketUncertain In Industrials

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP). — Industrials were mixed as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Following yesterday's strong gains they opened mixed, eased a little in forenoon dealings and then turned mixed again in quiet trading. Prices were narrow and steels, textiles and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains in the groupings.

Base metals turned lower after advancing to new high ground yesterday. East Sullivan, Falconbridge, Noranda, Quemont and Waite Amulet showed small losses ranging to 25 cents.

Golds drifted lower. McIntyre led the senior group down, losing ⅜s. Junior producers slipped pennies in very narrow and quiet trading.

work that Japanese militarists built along the border when they ruled Korea.

The Communists still can put men across the border on either side of this point. They could take advantage of uncut sections of the military network or seldom-used mountain passes over which Chinese Communist divisions travelled when they first poured into Korea.

Paralleling the 17th's advance, the South Korean capital division pushed 10 miles up the east coast Monday, capturing Chuchonhujang, 75 miles east of Hyesanjin. This put the Koreans just 85 miles from the Soviet Siberian border.

Ahead of them lies a heavily-timbered mountain area, dotted with solid rock and concrete fortifications built by the Japanese.

Beyond the northernmost tip of Korea, in the Tumen area of Manchuria, North Korean units were reported reorganizing and recruiting to slip back again into Korea.

Gen. MacArthur's intelligence officers in Tokyo expressed more concern over reorganization of Communist defences along the northwest front.

Reorganizing Defence

A MacArthur spokesman said Red armies are organizing a defence system across strategic heights facing the advancing U.S. 1st Corps.

This line, about 10 miles north of the present front, covers about 20 miles in the mountain area between Huichon and Anjang. MacArthur's spokesman said the Communists probably are fortifying the peaks. From these they could dominate highways and rail lines leading north of the border.

The spokesman predicted this line probably will have to be attacked frontally.

To the west, Reds are establishing blocking positions on hills dominating the flat ground leading to Sinuiju, main entryway for Chinese troops into Korea.

Police Seeking

previously Police Inspector Borden Hobbs said an empty ginger ale bottle found in auburn-haired Mr. Sullivan's belongings and which has since been examined at police laboratories, is being held.

Police were called into the case late Saturday, eight or more hours after Mrs. Sullivan telephoned the hotel clerk for help to get her husband back to bed.

Investigation of this delay is being carried out by Deputy-Attorney-General C. R. Magone and H. H. Donald, Inspector of Legal Notices. One angle which also will come under their scrutiny concerns the unusual precautions taken by police to guard Mrs. Sullivan against newspaper photographers who have tried repeatedly and mostly unsuccessfully to get photographs of her.

Wife In Jail

Meanwhile, Mrs. Sullivan remained in a cell in Carleton County Jail. Jail authorities said she had not requested nor been given any special treatment. She is getting regular prison fare and is subject to all regulation prison routine.

The body of Sullivan, who was in Ottawa on a combined business trip and holiday with his wife, has since been sent to Toronto. The funeral is being held there today.

Warkworth Scene Of Rally

COBOURG, Nov. 21—(ENS)—Value of the farm forum was emphasized at the big 1950 rally held last weekend at Warkworth and attended by farmers from all over Northumberland county. James Bird was chairman.

Clare Burt, whose voice was familiar to all from his comments on farm forum work heard every Monday night, spoke briefly and urged each forum to develop another one so that every community might profit from this educational farm evening. He then conducted a round table talk on meetings which brought out many of the difficulties associated with farm organizations and the officers, in getting community jobs well done with local leaders who must do the work in their spare time as no funds are available to help them.

Ray Hergott explained the value of folk schools and offered assistance if a group cared to hold one in Northumberland. Hospitalization schemes were then discussed, and the group divided into those conveniently located to surrounding county co-operative units now active and willing to take people. Peterborough had R. Lewis as spokesman; Quinte district, W. Wagar, and Durham, Forbes Heyland, chairman; R. G. Moffat of Orono was secretary-treasurer.

It was pointed out that a local leader was needed to collect the annual rate, and that 10 members was a desirable group, and not more than 10 per cent. of the group should be over 60. This scheme enables farmers to have favorable coverage and full control of their organization. A considerable number indicated their readiness to forward this work in their communities and received the necessary information.

Campbellford Rotary Fete Local Teachers

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 21. —(ENS).—The Campbellford Rotary Club played host to teachers of the local schools on Monday night, when they held the annual teachers' night dinner. More than 70 persons enjoyed a turkey dinner in the parish hall.

Guest speaker of the evening was Dr. Brown, assistant to Dr. Althouse, minister of education for Ontario. The staffs of the local High and Public schools were on hand, and were introduced individually by their respective principals. Father Moloney of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church spoke on behalf of the sisters who teach at the Separate school.

Dr. Brown was introduced by A. A. Martin of Brighton, inspector of schools in the district.

Subject of Dr. Brown's address was the reasons for the new system of incorporating various grades into one. He said the matter had been thoroughly studied, and thought it would be helpful in allowing those chlidren who were qualified to go ahead with their work, and not limit them to any one grade during the school year. He said the plan was in the experimental stage, and was not compulsory. If, for any reason, the plan does not prove successful, it will be abolished in favor of the grade system now in use.

H. N. Carr moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, who was thanked on behalf of the club by President A. K. Loucks.

Miss Georgina De Carrol entertained the group with a vocal solo, "Bluebird of Happiness."

McGill University Robbed Of $4,000

MONTREAL, Nov. 21 (CP). — McGill University not only lost the intercollegiate football title Saturday but also dropped nearly $4,000 to thieves who broke into their gymnasium.

Police said Monday thieves gained entrance into the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium-Armory by smashing a window. Police said the burglars forced open a large safe containing about $3,000 and carted off a smaller safe containing $570.

The money stolen was receipts from the sale of football programs and refreshments during the game with Western Mustangs. Gate receipts were placed elsewhere and were not touched.

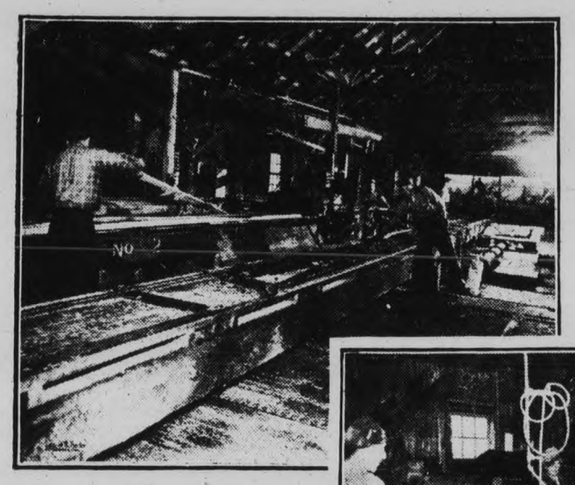
A Wise Old Lady

... whom we know rather well, owns a hat shop. One day, not long ago, she was offered a choice of two gifts: a $1,000 cheque, or a trip to Europe. She gave her decision without any delay at all. "I should prefer," said she, "to take the trip to Europe!"

We agree with the old lady. We agree because she had earned her trip. We agree because her reasoning was very wise indeed. "All my life," the wise old lady said, "I have saved my money against the day when I could close up my shop and retire from business. My Bank Manager tells me the day has come when I can afford to take it easy. Now, I agree a cheque for $1,000 would give me a little more security... But I already have that. And a trip to Europe would give me memories no money could buy!"

This story has a pleasant ending... The old lady went to London and Paris and returned home refreshed... and with many new ideas for hats. She hired two clever young girls to help her in the shop and now she is teaching them to save their money so, they too, may travel to Europe themselves one day.



One of the greatest lessons age can teach to youth ... is the habit of thrift... A Savings Account with The Dominion Bank can give you more than Security ... It can give you the chance to be Enterprising... when Enterprise is wise.

Lumber is squared and trimmed...

The Circular Head Saw slabs the log

The Edger sizes the lumber

The logs go from the Jack Ladder to the Log Deck, and are then placed on the saw carriage by means of a steam operated "niggar" and loader. It is held in place by head blocks on the carriage. The carriage travels up and down a track by means of a steam piston past the circular head saw, which cuts the log into the desired width and thickness of lumber.

From the saw, the slab or bark from the first cut travels down the rollers and out on to the slash table and into firewood. The lumber is taken off the rollers and put through the edger — this removes bark, etc., squares the edges and sizes the lumber to width. From the edger the lumber goes over to the trimmers and out to the boardway for sorting

Legal Aid Boards For Ontario

The Law Society of Upper Canada has decided to set up legal aid clinics in Ontario, for the assistance of people who require the services of a lawyer but are unable to pay for them. We hope, by the way, that a better name than "clinic" will be found for such organizations; it is a word which properly belongs to the medical profession. "Legal aid board" might fill the bill.

* * *

This decision shows an admirable spirit on the part of the Law Society. There are many lawyers who give professional service without charge, or without adequate charge, to people who need it, but it is well to have some authority which does not depend so heavily upon the goodwill of individuals. It is wrong that anyone should have to endure injustice for lack of money, and the system of legal help which the Law Society projects, and which will be operated by local law societies, will root out a longstanding grievance.

* * *

Commenting upon this matter, the Kingston Whig-Standard draws attention to another injustice upon which we too have, at one time and another, commented. It is the disparity between fines and terms of imprisonment which is to be seen in some sentences imposed by courts. "Ten dollars or ten days" is not a just sentence, for a man may not have ten dollars, and yet lose five times that sum in pay if he has to go to jail for ten days. The Whig-Standard gives an example in a sentence imposed recently in Napanee—one hundred dollars or three months; there are many people who could not raise $100 at once, but who would lose many times that sum if they had to go to jail for three months.

* * *

Revision of these sentences is overdue. The relationship between the fine and the term of imprisonment is now meaningless, and simply puts the moneyed man at an unfair advantage. Fines must keep pace with wages and the cost of living, or justice becomes lop-sided.

The Death Of Archbishop Kingston

It is with deep regret that we record the death of the Most Reverend George Frederick Kingston, Primate of the Church of England in Canada. During the three years of his primacy he showed a vigour which was reflected in many aspects of church work. It is not many weeks since he visited Peterborough to preach at a special service celebrating the city's Centennial, which was held in St. John's Church. He had many friends and admirers in this city.

His death brings with it an uneasy reminder that it is only three years since Archbishop Owen died, worn out by the office which he held. The demands made upon the head of any church are very great; he has to fulfil a spiritual function, a social function and a taxing executive function as well. It might be well for the Church of England in Canada to consider ways of lightening the task of the Primate, which seems to be a crushing load, under which two men —by no means old—have dropped in a comparatively short time.

Brighter, Costlier Street Lights

Throughout the city many old unshielded 60-watt bulbs hanging from posts like 1910-ish kitchen lamps with a corrugated tin plate over them are being replaced by 300-watt lamps encased in amplifying glass and suspended from arms which reach out towards the centre of the street. These are undoubtedly brighter and better. Trees do not black them out in summer, and in winter they will be cheerfully bright and, more important, properly light streets through the long and early winter nights, when good illumination is needed.

Park and Reid streets from the C.G.E. to Charlotte have recently been provided with the new lights. The Council is somewhat worried about the increased cost. Not only do these use more electricity; there are more of them. For instance, between Reid, Park and Rubidge north of Wolfe St., 51 of the new type have replaced 14 of the old. Householders on these streets may object to the brighter, more numerous lamps, because nobody likes to sit on his porch of a summer's evening and have to stare at a 300-watt bulb (illumination magnified), nor in winter to have such a light streaming in his bedroom window. But pedestrians and motorists on these streets will be grateful. Traffic on them is now very heavy. They were inadequately, even improperly lit before.

Medicine Hat has a novel way of lighting its streets. It has no street lights. Instead, each house is provided, at municipal cost, with a lead wire from the street line to the front porch, and installation costs are paid by the city. Thus every front door or porch has an external light. (The householders replace the bulbs when necessary.) These all go on from a master switch. Visitors report that the city looks at night to be in perpetual festival. In an older city like Peterborough this system would not be practicable, for many houses antedate electric lighting. It is probably a more costly system, too, although the Utilities Commission might investigate this, and ponder its desirability in our new housing sections.

Incidentally, one of the reasons given for needing more and brighter lights at intersections like Park, Reid and Sherbrooke, is that it is a traffic bottle-neck, and that Sherbrooke, now a through street, will be a main traffic artery. Certainly, Campbell's Dairy corner is tricky and accidents there may now be prevented by the brighter lighting. But Sherbrooke Street will never become an important thoroughfare so long as the level crossing at Bethune exists, and the C.N.R. shunting engines and freight cars block it as frequently as they do.

Serious Minded Canadians

Hotel Detective Edward Stockford was called to the Sullivans' Ottawa hotel suite shortly after three in the morning. This is how the Toronto morning paper's front page account then ran:

"The first sight that met his eyes was the body of a man lying on the floor a few feet from the bed. Blood covered the top of his pyjamas and his face was covered with scratches and bruises. Mrs. Sullivan told him she had retired early and awakened suddenly about midnight to find her husband lying on the floor, apparently ill. She said she left her bed, rushed to his side and spent the next three hours attempting to revive him. Finally she called the hotel desk.

"To the hotel detective's experienced eye, something appeared to be drastically wrong."

It really is remarkable what an experienced eye can do; everything comes plain in a flash.

This account calls to mind a report in another Toronto paper not long ago, where the view of a situation was also serious:

"Vladimar Varbu, 88, Sudbury miner, convicted last week of carrying explosives with which police said he was going to blow up his wife and child, was sentenced to nine months by Magistrate McKeown today. 'I take a very serious view of this sort of thing', His Worship said."

Sunshine Yellow For Ernest Bevin

The British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Ernest Bevin, has let it be known that he attaches a good deal of importance to the colour of conference rooms. He thinks that green and brown rooms are depressing, and lead to disagreement; the colour he thinks most favourable for a conference room is sunshine yellow.

We are glad to know that Mr. Bevin recognizes the importance of such details, and we would be delighted to hear that he had caused the whole of the British Foreign Office to be redecorated in his favourite colour. There are people who say that they never notice colours, and are consequently not affected by them, but we take such claims with a grain of salt. The people who are utterly unmoved by colour must be very few.

Educators know how valuable colour is in keeping children cheerful and attentive. Some of the Peterborough schools have rooms which are decorated in lively colour—shades which would have given the educators of fifty years ago the jimjams. But we are convinced that the lovers of colour are on the right track.

We should like to see a more imaginative use of colour in outdoor painting in Canada, where we have months of snowy weather. Greater variety of colour on our houses would cheer the winter months, and when the leaves were on the trees it would continue to be pleasing.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A want ad in the Cheektowaga, N.Y. Times reads: "Man wanted to wash dishes and two waitresses." We know about dishes; may we see the waitresses?

A dietitian says that babies thrive if allowed to select their own diet. Hm—, blanket wool, bits of ribbon, fingers and toes and an occasional safety pin?

Mr. Bernard Baruch is quoted as saying "One still can save a million dollars". With taxes as they are ($4 on a $5 bottle of Scotch) he is undoubtedly right, but the government won't let us keep a still.

If it is true that nothing is certain but death and taxes, why—as the Ottawa Citizen asks—is science doing all it can to stave off the former, and utterly neglecting the latter?

West Germans Oppose Talks

By JOHN BARTLETT

AN editorial cartoon in a German newspaper shows President Truman and Marshal Stalin sitting facing each other supported on each side by equally imposing arrays of artillery, tanks and planes.

"Now, Joseph", says President Truman, "let's have a peaceful talk".

✧ ✧ ✧

THAT about summarizes the views of most influential leaders in Western Germany, particularly members of the Government. The Chancellor, Dr. Adenauer, responded immediately to the Russian suggestion for Four-Power talks by declaring that the Western Powers should not attempt to join such a discussion until they were militarily equal in strength to the Russians.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEREFORE, when both the French and British Foreign Secretaries, M. Schuman and Mr. Bevin rejected the Russian proposal, as originally tendered on the limited basis of the Prague resolution for the "demilitarization" of Germany, Bonn officials were satisfied.

✧ ✧ ✧

OF course, it is true in Germany as elsewhere, that to the average man the idea of East-West talks always produces a surge of hope. Even West German (and, it is to be hoped, East German) leaders would not look askance on talks that would solve the present stalemate of the Occupying Powers in this country.

But they fear a "compromise" at a time when the military strength of the two sides is not balanced. It would mean the end of whatever advances towards rehabilitation and democracy have been achieved in the Western Federal Republic, and these have been many, albeit still insufficient.

WESTERN German officials recognize that the Allied reply has not been formally directed to the Soviet Union. Nor would they like it to be a flat rejection, for it is recognized that popular opinion in Germany could not—particularly in Berlin—withstand a flat rejection.

Propaganda and other psychological considerations are vital fundamentals of the East-West struggle in Berlin. At no time is it wise to seem to be rejecting opportunities for peace.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE best possible reply by the Allied Powers—and one which West German leaders hope for—would stress the willingness of the Western Powers to accept Four Power talks, but would make such talks impossible without major concessions in advance, by the Russians. In this respect M. Schuman's statement on Four Power talks possibly goes a little too far for German comfort.

✧ ✧ ✧

MEANWHILE West German leaders are concentrating on the question of rearmament and the German contribution to Western defence.

"Those Germans who refuse to join in this defence are playing into the hands of Moscow", said Hasso Von Manteuffel, former German army tank commander, at an election rally.

Von Manteuffel is one of the few post-war "political generals" and he has been active in the Free Democratic Party.

"The threat from the East cannot be fought with ideals", said Von Manteuffel, "Democracy must arm itself".

✧ ✧ ✧

MANY Bonn officials were disappointed, although not surprised, that the British Government could not accept the Churchill resolution for a European Army, which had originally been presented to the European Assembly last summer at Strasbourg, and was put before the British House of Commons on Monday.

While the West German Government opposed the basic French plan for a European Army, they do not oppose the idea as such and already are on record in support of the Churchill resolution.

A DEBATE in the West German Bundestag on European Assembly affairs, including the Churchill resolution, was postponed when the Government sought inter-party agreement on the wording of a motion approving the European Assembly recommendation.

However, increased speed is now being shown in strengthening internal security in Western Germany, just as the Communists in Berlin are renewing their threats to create unrest in Western Germany. East German "National Front" leaders have ostentatiously held a meeting to organize further resistance against the Western Allies in Germany. The most important subject of discussion was the method to be employed in spending 2.8 million East Marks (about £460,000) donated by the East German Government as a battle-fund.

TO take care of these threats and similar ones forecast several months ago, the Western Allies have approved the strengthening of West German police units. Today they authorized the Germans, for the first time since the war, to centralize police forces on a State (Land) level, although municipalities may still have their own police forces. In addition, the State leigslatures would be permitted to empower their Governments to send police reinforcements across State borders in the event of need.

✧ ✧ ✧

SINCE the war, highly-centralized police forces had been forbidden as part of the Allied demilitarization policy. It had been kept in mind that so-called police units had been whipped into army units almost overnight after the first world war. Now, however, the Russian threat has modified this policy.

HOSPITAL CAFETERIA LOSS

Sir: I notice in Friday's paper that the Civic Hospital is operating at a bigger loss than they expected. The paper said the treasurer said that, I quote, "A decline in sundry revenue of $10,000 during the 10 month period is entirely contained in cafeteria estimated revenue." Doesn't that mean that the cafeteria is losing money at the rate of $1,000 a month?

Mr. Marshall, the Chairman, said that, I quote, "Meals there (at the cafeteria) are not being sold at a loss." I have a great respect for Mr. Marshall, and would not doubt his word, but perhaps he means that they are not selling the food for less than they buy it. If they buy eggs at 60c a dozen and sell them at 5c each, that is not a loss, but it doesn't pay for cooking, handling and serving them.

I hear that a doctor can go into the cafeteria and have breakfast consisting of fruit juice, cereal, a piece of bacon, one egg, toast, jam and coffee for 29c (or maybe it was 32c). The doctor of course gets it at the same price as nurses, visitors and student nurses.

Where else in town could anybody get a full breakfast for 30c or 40c or 50c even?

I agree with James L. Welsh who said he thought that cafeteria meals were too cheap. The other day I had a meal in the cafeteria. I know they are very strict about letting city visitors eat there, but I was able to show I was a bona fide visitor to a patient. I had soup, a glass of milk, a pat of butter, a nice serving of delicious fricasse chicken, peas (they looked to be quick-frozen and were very good), potatoes, tea and ice cream. That very satisfying lunch cost me only 48c. It was far too cheap. Doctors, I am sure, must feel embarrassed to pay so little for their meals at the cafeteria, especially when it is running at a $1,000 loss each month.

Officials are afraid, so your report goes, that if they raise the prices, it will go hard with poorly-paid student nurses. Well, the majority of the people who eat at the cafeteria are not student nurses. They are nurses, graduates on full pay, visitors and doctors. Wouldn't it be better to raise the prices, and give the student nurses a little extra allowance for meals?

Of course, if the prices were raised so high that almost nobody ate at the cafeteria, it would be running at a bigger loss than now, taking account of kitchen staff, stoves, value of equipment and space.

I do not wish to sound mean, but I think prices should be raised.

Yours sincerely,
(MRS.) M. H.

LAKEFIELD WATERWORKS AND LAKEFIELD HEALTH

Sir: Doubtless if a survey were taken, average householders would say they enjoyed modern living and the better things of life, those pertaining to good health, a desirable high standard for all. And yet, strange as it may seem, investment in this issue to some, remains questionable.

Those who have their own septic systems, which admitted, do bring a measure of comfort to these individuals possessing them, forget they have disadvantageous, mass systems of these types being too much seepage etc. throughout the community, not adding to the good health of the area.

Pioneers used yokes and oxen for their ploughing, our grandparents horses and manufactured equipment for their day, in our present age even our modern motor methods require further improvements.

Time demands progress, to get ahead we must think ahead.

Many factories have desired to locate here but finding there were no water facilities they went elsewhere, in this we lost more population, more labour, more payrolls, which would have furthered other interests. From every angle lack of forethought in those who would have received the benefits by the building of new industry in the village.

A beautiful much-needed school is planned, must they be deprived of the system and watch neighbouring sites go forward with complete assets.

When telephone and the electric era opened they welcomed it, some grumbled. Some rejected but the majority responded favourably and never regretted the financial outlay, taxation etc., the benefits derived were worth it.

In our last election a brewer's warehouse and other liquor questions went down to defeat, surely at least we can have pure water.

We like to be referred to as "Tourist Paradise", but if we want to continue to deserve that motto, we must keep abreast of the times, otherwise Lakefield may go on the map as Fogey field and folks who made it so, will be left to enjoy their solitude undisturbed, letting life pass them by. Get out the oil lamps and high buttoned boots. (Those they fit should put them on now.)

When the ballot says money versus health, just think of our future generation and the dividends they will reap by decisions, while we who live here now will be repaid in many ways. Vote YES Nov. 30th.

"PROGRESSIVE VILLAGER".

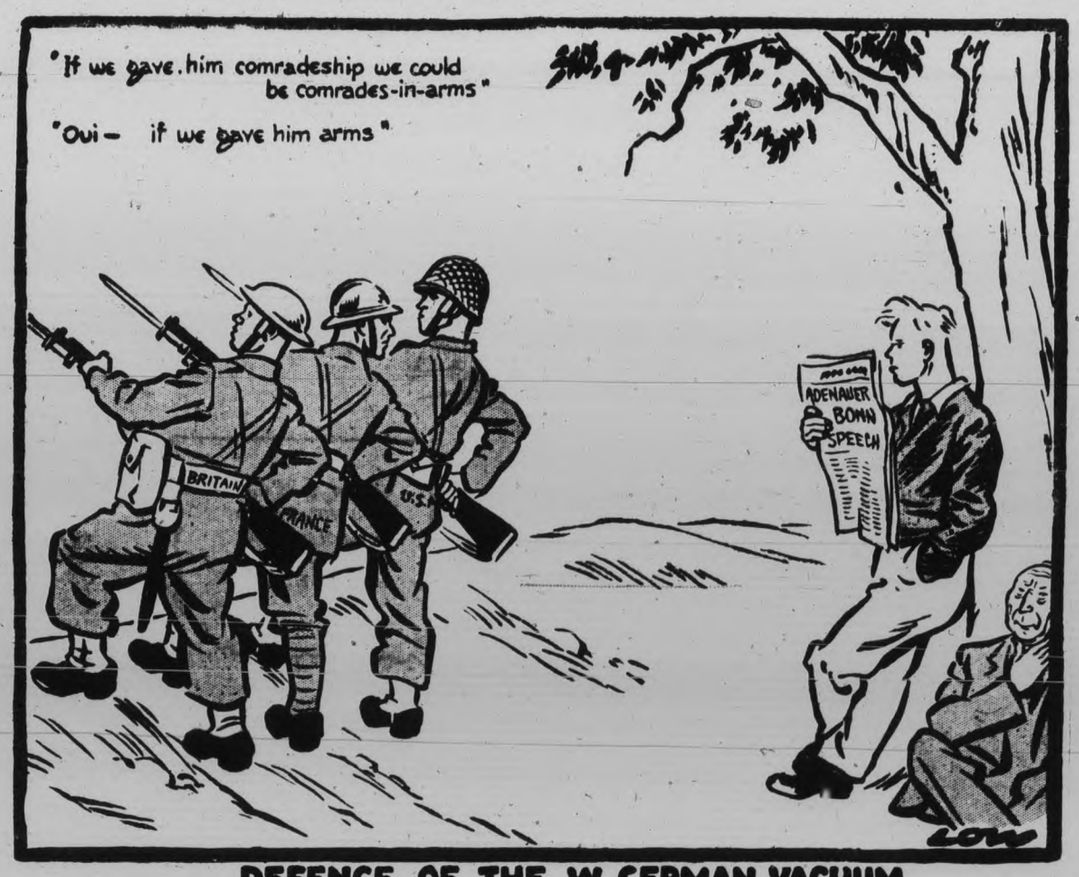
Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel and say unto them, Ye shall be holy: for I the Lord your God am holy. (Lev. 19: 1, 2.)



✧ ✧ ✧

O God, thou art my God; early will I seek thee: my soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh longeth for thee in a dry and thirsty land, where no water is; to see thy power and thy glory, so as I have seen thee in the sanctuary. (Ps. 63: 1, 2.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And Solomon stood before the altar of the Lord in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands toward heaven: and he said, Lord God of Israel, there is no God like thee, in heaven above, or on earth beneath, who keepest covenant and mercy with thy servants that walk before thee with all their heart . . .

And now, O God of Israel, let thy word, I pray thee, be verified, which thou spakest unto thy servant David my father. But will God indeed dwell on the earth? behold, the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house that I have builded? (I Kings 8: 22, 23, 26, 27.)

JohnCallaghan's Brother Dies In Paris

John J. Callaghan, plant engineer at Canada Packers, has been otified of the death of his brother, Patrick Callaghan, in Paris, France. He was in his 70th year.

Patrick Callaghan spent 20 years in India with the Royal Engineers and served on communications work in the First World War. He was wounded while on active service and after retiring from military life he joined the Westminster Bank.

For many years he was at the Parish branch of the bank but when the Germans overran the country in 1940 he and his wife were forced to leave their home and possessions and flee to England. They got out of the city a day ahead of the occupying troops, Mr. Callaghan escaping by bicycle and his wife in a friend's car.

After a rendezvous at a French port, 60 miles from Paris, they took a ship for England and Mr. Callaghan resumed his work at the London branch of the Westminster Bank.

After the Allied forces recaptured Paris the Callaghan's returned to their Paris home, half expecting to find the place looted by the Germans. Not a thing had been touched.

At the time of his death, Mr. Gallaghan was on the security staff of the British Embassy in Paris.

Left are his wife; a son, Captain Callaghan of London; his brother John, and sister, Kitty Seymour, both Canadian residents; and an aunt, Mrs. Tom Murphy of Bedford, England.

He was buried in the cemetery of Pantin-Parisien.

Go Easy On Love George Murphy Tells Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21 (AP).—George Murphy, back from a national tour, announces that Hollywood should learn some things about love, juvenile style.

The actor has just returned from a 49-day jaunt to 23 cities in 16 states during which he was interviewed by about 100 high school paper editors and spoke to an estimated 25,000 high school kids in nine cities.

I got a special report from him on what the youngsters think of Hollywood.

"On one thing they were unanimous," Murphy declared. "They hate the mushy love scenes in movies. They have their own ideas about love-making and they don't agree with the way it is shown in movies.

They're Right

'I can see their point. Whenever there is a love scene in a picture ,the two stars go into a gorgeous-George clinch. Kids are different. I remember when I was a kid, I would walk in front of my girl's house. If she happened to look out the window, I got a terrific thrill."

But Hollywood doesn't go for such subtlety. Murphy recalled a picture he did with Lana Turner some years ago. Lana played a young gal with a crush on George. He was required to give her a goodnight kiss in one scene.

"I gave her a peck on the cheek, as a guy would with a younger gal," he recalled. "The producer said I should take her in my arms and give her a real smack. I disagreed, so we shot it three ways —his, mine and a medium-sized kiss.

Howler

'When we previewed the big kiss ,the audience howled. So the picture was released with the medium-sized one. I still think it should have been a peck."

Appeal Fails, McAuliffe To Hang Dec. 19

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal yesterday dismissed an appeal by Joseph Herbert McAuliffe against a death sentence passed by Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven after McAuliffe's conviction on a murder charge in the death of Arthur Lierman at Langston, Ont., last June 21.

Counsel for the 32-year-old Windsor and North Bay, Ont., resident, Arthur Maloney, contended that Mr. Justice Treleaven erred in instructing the jury that it could not return a manslaughter verdict. He also claimed that improper evidence had been admitted at the trial.

McAuliffe was sentenced to be hanged Dec. 19 for the machine-gun slaying of Lierman, 31, who was shot down together with William Goddyn, 24, as they pursued a bandit following the $23,000 Langton bank robbery.

McAuliffe was arrested near Straffordville, six miles from Langton, after a three-day manhunt through surrounding bush country in which provincial police and district residents participated.

Gov't Ignoring Inflation

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF leader, said last night the provincial government "cannot mention one little thing they have done to resist the tide of inflation which threatens to undermine the whole Canadian economy."

He spoke over an Ontario CBC network in the "Provincial Affairs" series of free-time political broadcasts.

Mr. Jolliffe charged the government with "procrastination" in every matter of policy. It had no policy on education, forest management, rent control and milk prices.

Criticizing the government for not protesting freight and telephone-rate increases, he charged "there never was a government so coldly indifferent to the hard-pressed consumer."

He said the province should join with other groups in urging the federal government to restore price control sufficient at least to stop increases in the cost of food, clothing and shelter.

VANCOUVER —(CP)— Skies over Vancouver will be clear of "smog" in another year, says John McGregor, city smoke inspector. Smoke reduction measures—new refuse burners to elminate smoke —will do much to banish the 10,000 tons of solid matter that settled over the city last year, he said.

Hamilton Teachers Ask 28% Pay Boost

HAMILTON, Nov. 21—(CP)—Secondary school teachers yesterday asked for a 28-per-cent salary increase, effective this year. The demands were contained in a brief presented to the Hamilton Board of Education.

Eagles Defeat Queen's, 9-5 In Senior "B" Puck Contest

The local Eagles actually took over top spot in their OHA senior "B" group race here last night by downing Queen's of Kingston 9-5 before a small crowd. It was Eagles' fifth win in six starts—the other game being a tie—while the Petes have won five, tied one and lost one. Queen's have taken but one in six starts. These same squads tangle again in the Harty Arena on Wednesday.

DID GOOD — Sixty Coombs did well for Eagles last night here as they beat Queen's 9-5 in their OHA senior "B" fray, being in on three goals. He and Bert Hill led the local snipers.

After a 5-2 margin in the first chukker for Eagles, the visitors battled back for a 2-1 edge in the second stanza, but they were outscored 3-1 in the third as Eagles finished strongly. Play was fairly fast but scrambly a good part of the route, with close-checking making for 11 penalties, Queen's drawing six of them. One cost the latter team a counter in the third period.

Goalie Ross Nichols looked good for the winners, as Queen's fashioned some nice plays in each frame to make his jump. Boivin also stopped a bunch. Vitarelli didn't play, owing to a strained back, and Rochetta left early in the third with a swollen hand. Hill and Coombs were each in on three markers for Eagles, with two points apiece garnered by Doug and Freddy Mortimer, Lalonde, Parnall and Milne. Rochetta, Burns, Godfrey, Smith and Montgomery each figured in on one. For Queen's, Ron Murray and Bud Ohlke were best, the former scoring three and Bud assisting three times. Dunn, Carr-Harris, Shepherd, Wood, D. Murray and Graves were in on one each.

Rochetta scored early from Burns on a screened shot. Milne was back from a high-sticking penalty when Ron Murray tallied in close from Shepherd and Ohlke. Fred Mortimer got that back on a pass back from Parnall but Queen's tied it again when Ron Murray scooted around defence fast with Ohlke's pass and put the burnt biscuit in the oven. Hill broke away to score with Coombs and Godfrey getting assists, and then Lalonde broke away again as Queen's ganged up to tally with Hill and Coombs aiding. Near the finish, Hill slapped home Coombs' rebound.

Wood went over in the second for interference. He was back when Latimer drew it up for high-sticking and they were shy two when Sweetman followed for interference. Doug Mortimer got the next goal on an angle drive that went in off Boivin. Burns was gated for interference, and later Parnall and Sweetman got the nod together for roughing it as play heated up. Dunn blasted one home at the goal mouth on assists by Wood and D. Murray. Latimer was chased for kneeing but was back when Ron Murray cuffed home a close-in pass from Ohlke as Queen's threatened. Crowley was waved away near the close for boarding.

Parnall tallied to open the third from Doug Mortimer and, with Latimer away for tripping, Milne slapped home a close thrust from Lalonde and Smith. Lalonde got the air for hooking but was back when Milne sank another on nice combination with Fred Mortimer and Montgomery. Queen's kept fighting in and added one more before the gong, Carr-Harris picking a corner with Graves' pass.

Teams:

Queen's — Goal, Boivin; defence, Graves and Sweetman; centre, D. Murray; wings, Carr-Harris and White; alternates, R. Murray, Keenleyside, Harley, Wild, Wood, Dunn, Shepherd, Latimer, Ohlke.

Eagles — Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley and D. Mortimer; alternates, Parnall, F. Mortimer, Milne, Hill, Coombs, Lalonde, Montgomery and Smith.

It would be rather strange if we did not have one extra game each night—and Monday proved no exception. This time it was on the early draw, and was a well-played game between Charlie Lawrence and Rufus Payne. Charlie got the nod, but it was close.

Dr. Ralph Clark is skipping a rink in Oshawa's bonspiel tomorrow, and Gar Braund is entered to play on Thursday.

Groups 3 and 4 play schedule games this evening.

In the ladies' section we believe Mrs. C. Westbrook and Mrs. J. Fanning are tied for first place with three wins and no losses each. Mrs. O. M. Steer is right behind with two wins and no losses.

DEAD END — Bill Stuart of Vancouver Blue Bombers is stopped cold by Hamilton Tiger-Cats' line in Saturday's Canadian junior football final in Hamilton's Civic Stadium. Although Stuart was a stand-out on the field, Hamilton took its third consecutive age-limit, 14-5. Oddie Harras is shown hitting Stuart low, while John Miso, nearest camera, and Bobbie Howarth throw their weight from above. Vic Masi is seen coming up from behind, while Bill Cooper (17) and George Manicanin are coming up fast from the far side.

Louis Gangster Says Commies

By RICHARD O'REGAN.

VIENNA, Nov. 21 (AP).—Joe Louis, comrades, is a gangster—a gangster of "imperialist" sport—the Communists tell millions of East Europeans.

The former heavyweight boxing champion, to the Communists, is a good excuse for anti-American propaganda. This is what Communist newspapers in the Balkans have been telling their readers recently:

"Not long ago Joe Louis arrived in Rio De Janeiro. The object of his trip was not that of organizing sporting contests. Immediately he arrived, he began an inflamed speech about the 'splendid liberty and civilization' in the United States and the necessity of war to allow the American way of life' to be extended over other countries.

"Joe Louis was sent to Brazil to use his former sporting glory to make propaganda in favor of war."

That is a Communist theme—that American sports are developed to "prepare young Americans for wars and looting like the bestial aggression in Korea."

Want Proof?

As "proof" of this contention, the Communists claim:

"The sporting business men in America have invented hundreds of perverted forms of sport in their desire to poison the peoples' conscience. These range from 'catch as catch can' to 'marathon dances.' They aim at developing bestial instincts and to pervert the young.

"American sportsmen are the lackeys of Wall Street. They do not hesitate to bring gangsters from American jails and notorious war criminals on to their sport grounds."

But this is an argument the Communists advance with their tongues in their cheeks. If you pick up scattered newspapers from Eastern Europe you will also read:

A Difference

"Sports are the defence of one's country. They are important from a point of view of national defence. But this, of course, only holds good for Socialist sports — for in the capitalists countries, all sports serve only the profit of rich patrons."

Although the Communists advance contrary points of view for their own purposes, their newspapers agree on one thing:

"The golden days of the 'invincibility and superiority' of American sport have gone forever. Corroded by the cancer of profiteerism, U.S. sport is today far behind the flourishing development of Soviet physical training and sport."

Demarco Tops Scorers

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (CP) — Ab Demarco, flashy centre of Buffalo Bisons, continues to hold the scoring honors in the American Hockey League, league statistics showed today.

The 165-pound native of North Bay, Ont., scored six points in three games last week to increase his scoring lead to 11 points and also maintain his average of two points a game.

Demarco has 38 points for 19 games—17 goals and 21 assists. His goal total also tops the league. George (Red) Sullivan of Hershey Bears is second to Demarco with 27 points, followed by Grant Warwick of Buffalo and Kelvin Burnett of Springfield Indians, each with 26. Three players — Ray Lapiante of Providence Reds, Ken Hayden of Springfield and Jackie Gordon of Cincinnati Mohawks—have 25 points. Warwick is the leading playmaker with 22 assists.

Ray Garlepy of Hershey leads in the "bad man" department with 61 minutes.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh maintains his lead among the goaltenders with an average of 2.22 on 40 goals allowed in 18 games. Harvey Bennett of Providence has the most shutouts, two.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Kingston Nylons didn't take kindly to that OHA senior "B" reverse in Belleville a few nights back, and have been a-flyin' since. The Gerow-Partis-Catlin line, with a bumping defence and a top goalie in Specs Udall, play the Petes here tomorrow night, and that should be one for the book. Petes edged Nylons earlier on the large Limestone City ice surface, and they think they can do a repeat here. Well, we don't know. The Nylons have plenty of class and will give them all a hot scrap from here in. All of which adds up to the promise of nifty senior puck action in the Wednesday clash at Civic Arena.

* * * * * *

A Friday clip from the Quinte sheet said: "Up in Peterborough, the Petes and Eagles meet in their second joust of the season in what, according to pal Perdue should be another 'playoff rehearsal'. Imagine the nerve of the guy at this stage of the game? As a matter of fact, since the Petes juniors took the measure of our Rockets last Wednesday—despite the honeyed words of their covering newsman that 'Belleville will improve'—it could be soon that Peterborough fandom will celebrate a defeat instead of victory. Damme, winning hockey games is getting to be a habit in that town." Well, yes and no, chum.

* * * * * *

Needling Each Other

Down the years we've had a lot of fun needling such keen Quinte scribes as Ald. Claude Tice, the late Ken Colling and now Major George Carver. And our thick hide has received some punctures, too, in the exchanges. They have a really fine arena in Bella Villa—it would be a credit to Peterborough — and come up with some good puckists. They've beaten us at times, and we've knocked 'em off at other times. And the rival scribes have fought as hard as players, though not as dangerously—no one has been sued for libel yet—one hockey season after another. It's all keen good clean fun with nobody hurt, and ye scribes and players good friends at game's end.

* * * * * *

While Eagles downed Queen's 9-5 here last eve, you can't positively say they've taken over undisputed possession of top spot in their OHA senior "B" race. They practically have as they've won five games and tied one in six starts. But the Petes have played one more than them and have five wins and a tie, also, though they have one loss as well. Anyway, it's quite a scramble for first place, both teams seeing action on Wednesday and Eagles Friday. Not against each other, though. A rather slim crowd viewed a so-so tilt last p.m., seeing quite a bit of scrambly hockey. Queen's threatened often and it could have been much closer but for Ross Nicholls in the home cage. He turns in a fine chore game after game.

* * * * * *

Spread Scoring About

The Eagles' scoring was well spread around, nearly everybody getting in on the act. While Ron Murray and Bud Ohlke pretty well carried the mail for the University boys. Apart from a bit of rough stuff in the second stanza, it was generally clean. Most of the locals are starting to hit their proper condition and they don't tire as fast as a week or so ago. Monty was stepping high, wide and handsome at times, and Doug Mortimer turned in a creditable chore up front when Dootch Vitarelli had to sit it out with a strained back. Joe Rochetta left with a swollen hand. Sixty Coombs and Bert Hill led the snipers but a raft of 'em were in on one or two goals. Milne and Lalonde are starting to click now, and Smith will help.

Something new in the Trent Valley Hockey League this winter, places with more than 5,000 population being allowed in. Looks like 10 teams: Peterborough, Belleville, Trenton, Repair Depot, RCAF, Marmora, Frankford-Bata Combines, Campbellford, Norwood and Brighton. Don't know who is behind the local entry. Play won't commence for a month or so yet, depending on when natural ice is available generally. It's a question as to just how the new TVL setup will go, this enlargement to embrace larger centres maybe helping the cause or mayhap doing just the opposite. However, nothing ventured, nothing gained—and it will provide regular play for more puckists who don't make OHA teams.

Hither And Yawning

Three big bouts on the pro mat card here tonight, topped by Timothy Geohagen and the Mask. The PCVS junior COSSA champs are settling down slowly to school studies once more, we hear from inside sources. Lindsay intermediate hockeyists took Bowmanville by an 8-3 count. Note to Oshawa scribe: It was IOOF (not Belleville) which won that 7-0 junior joust. Lindsay lads play the Links here Friday. Petes have but one game this week whilst Eagles have three. Half a dozen PMHA tussles listed for Civic Arena on Thursday eve, commencing at six. Bantam Otonabee Wolves of the PMHA need three more players; contact George Heron by phoning Keene 6314. Montreal gridders play the Ghosts in Cobourg on Saturday in a sudden-deather for Eastern Canada honors. It could be the national crown as the western intermediates have never yet challenged. Dick Ouimet refereed the Redmen-Nylons' puck go the other night. OMHA now permits body checking in the centre zone for juves and midgets; minors may now play in OHA tilts up to Dec. 15 and then are eligible for the usual three-game tryout. That'll be that.

Argos Good Club Winnipeg Coach Envies Depth

By AL VICKERY

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP)—Take it from Frank Larson, coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Toronto Argonauts have "one swell football club."

And Larson isn't trying to juggle the odds in favor of his Bombers when they meet Argos in the Grey Cup final at Toronto's Versity Stadium Saturday. The amiable Bomber coach is basing his statement from his scouting of Argos in their trimuphs over Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Big Four final and over Toronto Balmy Beach in the Eastern championship.

Well Balanced

'Argos are a well-balanced team," Larson said. "They have a good variety of plays and run the ends well."

Butch—as he is known to most of the Bomber players and officials—says the final should be a "wide-open affair, with plenty of passing. And as both teams play a similar game, it probably will be the breaks which decide the issue."

He concedes Argos an advantage in depth, but believes Bombers' terrific team spirit can offset that point.

"I'd sure like to be able to operate on a two-platoon system as Argos do," Larson said. "But as long as our key men are able to keep going, we'll be all right on offence and defence."

Few Weaknesses

Larson, who sat in the press box at Saturday's Eastern final, said one really gets a different picture of a team from high up than from along the sidelines.

"There's quite a few things I noticed from the press box I probably would have missed from down below," he said. "But even at that, it's pretty tough to point out a single weakness in the Argo set-up."

Yesterday the Bombers passed through Toronto and arrived in London without fanfare. They got a damp reception at both cities, a driving rain greeting them in Toronto and a wet snow spoiling their arrival here.

Practice Starts

Despite the unfavorable weather, Larson soon had his men out on their eastern training grounds at the University of Western Ontario stadium.

Practice was confined to running back of punts, signal drill and a few limbering-up exercises.

Bombers hope to work out here until Thursday, then proceed to Toronto for a practice session at Versity Stadium Friday afternoon.

They'll spend Friday night in a small Toronto hotel, plastered with signs:

"No Grey Cup tickets—do not disturb."

City Carpetball

The two not reported the previous week are at hand with the following results. The St. Lukes' Midgets were hosts to Glens No. 6 both games going to the Warriors by scores of 13-11. The first games tied 8 all in the eighth end and in the next two ends the Glens collected a total 5 balls to go ahead 13-8 and then held the Midgets to a total of three in the last two frames. The final was tied twice but the fighting Glens forged ahead, and were leading again 13-8 going into the 11th end. The Midgets fought back and scored in the two last frames but again could only net a total of three when they needed five. Legionnaires No. 3 visited the "Old Citadel" and were leading the Sons until the sixth end, then they went behind by one when they allowed a three-end to be scored against them. While they tied it in the next frame, the Sons again forged ahead, and had sufficient singles during the entire game to emerge winner 13-9. The second game was another tight one, tied twice but the Legionnaires won out 9-6.

Past week results: St. George's No. 10 were at home for the St. Lukes' Midgets and the first game was tied up three times, the last time in the 11th frame, then the Midgets grabbed the last end and the game by one ball—their first win, although they have been close several times. Their victory must have elated them too much as the Southend Saints swept the final game 24-8.

The Big Bens No. 7 went visiting and their hosts the Smokeeaters had their first and second line lose in the way most every frame and Legion No. 7 lost both games 3-11 and 4-20.

The Orangemen were at home for the visit of the Full-O-Pep team and the latter won the first 11-5. The second game was tied twice—then the White Charger appeared and those Orange-

House Loop Tilts

Two high-scoring games were run off in the "Y" House Basketball League. Fords took Buicks 48-30, as Meteors downed Monarchs 51-25. Garth Jopling of Fords got 14 points as did E. Call of Buicks. Hugh Dibben was top sniper for Meteors as he notched 17 points. Ted Evans and Whip Payne of Monarch each tallied eight points.

Here and There In Sport

Figures can be boring but cold statistics from the Canadian senior football season make interesting material. American imports figured mainly in the shape of things with Canadian-born products listed "among those present."

The Yanks stole everything but admission-ticket stubs.

They made room for only one Canadian on each of the Big Four and Western Canada Conference all-star teams selected annually by writers and coaches for the Canadian Press. They split the 12 berths with Canadians on the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union mythical team.

They were the leading scorers in two of the three leagues, took two of the three individual trophies awarded players for outstanding performances and scoring, and provided the coaching talent for nine of the 11 teams.

Sixty-six Americans played on the 11 teams and 30 received an award of some kind, either as all-stars or trophy winners. It was the first year of Canadian football for 22 of the 28 all-stars.

One team, Sarnia Imperials of the ORFU, went "Canadian all the way—to the union play-offs.

Paddy Young, New York middleweight slugger, and Kid Gavilan, of Havana, ranking welterweight contender, were matched Monday for a 10-round Madison Square Garden bout Dec. 15. Young lost a close decision to France's Laurent Dauthuille in his last start Nov. 10. Gavilan outpointed Billy Graham at the Garden last Friday.

A cigar-smoking cherub of 76 who writes best-sellers, paints pictures, exhibits shorthorn cattle and led Britain's fight against Hitler is also a renowned racehorse owner. Winston Churchill has just purchased another foal, bringing his string of under-age animals to five. He also owns a brood mare and a filly. He has only one colt in training out, like its owner, it's one of the finest stayer in Europe. The Conservative leader bought his first horse last year. It was the French-bred Colonist II, which since has won 11 of its 16 starts and amassed stake money totalling more than five times the 1,500 guineas (about $4,500) Churchill paid for it.

New York Rangers of the National Hockey League sent veteran forward Alex (Killer) Kaleta to Hershey of the American League yesterday. The move was part of last week's deal with Boston Bruins. In that swap the Rangers obtained forwards Ed Harrison and Zellio Toppazzini from the Bruins for Dunc Fisher.

Kaleta, extremely popular with Garden fans came to the Rangers after the 1947-48 season in a trade with Chicago Black Hawks.

A plan to train a jumping team worthy to represent Canada at the 1952 Olympics was announced Monday by Maj.-Gen. Churchill Mann, non-riding captain of the Canadian equestrian team. Young riders from all parts of Canada would be given a chance to train under top instruction for the difficult Olympic courses and to form a team composed of the best horses in the Dominion.

Gordie Drillon, coach of the Moncton Hawks of the Maritime Senior Hockey League, has been given his release. Club officials said that George Bell, former player in the MSHL and secretary-manager of the club, will be acting coach pending appointment of Drillon's successor.

Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis was pronounced in good shape Monday for his 10-round "comeback" starter against Cesar Brion at the Chicago Stadium Nov. 29. Both Louis and Brion appeared before the Illinois Athletic Commission for physical tests.

A Maritime Senior Hockey League game between Saint John Beavers and Halifax St. Mary's was called off after the first period last night following the death of linesman Bill Gulliver, about 40, from a heart attack. Gulliver, a Saint John resident, suffered the seizure 40 seconds before the scheduled end of the period. He died in a dressing-room a few minutes later. After a long interval, announcement was made that both officials and players felt the game should not be continued.

Canadian skiers face a stern series of tests this season which will largely decide their chances of making the 1952 Olympics at Oslo, Norway.

Candidates for the team berths will have to compete in four of North America's top races in order to receive consideration from the trials selection committee. The western district, Canadian Ski Association, made the ruling at a weekend meeting here. The major tournaments are: the North American championships, the U. S. Nationals, the Dominion Championships and the Western Canadian Championships.

Canadiens Hot, Ted Kennedy Most Effective

MONTREAL, Nov. 21 (CP). — Montreal Canadiens currently are the hottest team in the National Hockey League, with three straight victories, but Toronto's Ted Kennedy is the most effective individual player.

The Canadiens have moved back into undisputed possession of third place with their three in a row. Before that the Habs won a game in seven starts. But the Canucks now are two points ahead of Chicago Black Hawks, whom they trimmed twice in two nights during the weekend.

Kennedy picked up five points during the week, league statistics released today show, and he now is in second place behind teammate Max Bentley.

Scoring Spree

Bentley got three points and his total for 17 games now is five goals and 17 assists for 22 points. Kennedy got two goals and three assists in three games and now has six goals and 13 assists for 19 points.

Toronto's strong hold on the scoring leadership shows up in the team standing. Of the top 16 NHL point-getters, six are from Toronto—and four are right at the top.

Toronto, likewise, heads the teams with 23 points—one more than Detroit. The Leafs have won 10 out of 17 starts and have tied three. The Toronto snipers have fired 55 goals and have allowed only 38, despite a recent slump in the nets.

Detroit, on the other hand, has racked up only 41 goals with 25 against.

Sawchuk Tops

But Detroit has the top goaltending record. Young Terry Sawchuk has two shutouts and an average of 1.67 in 15 games. Toronto's Turk Broda, although he has four shutouts—best record on the circuit—has an average in 14 games of 2.21.

Leaf defenceman Gus Mortson has 42 penalty minutes to top that department, and Toronto also has the roughest team reputation. The Leafs have had 195 penalty minutes called against them compared with 191 for Montreal and only 116 for Detroit.

St. Laurent, Malik Agree Want Peace

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday he and Russia's Jacob Malik are agreed upon one thing —their respective peoples want peace.

Returning from a brief holiday in New York, Mr. St. Laurent told reporters he had two "rather interesting" chats with Mr. Malik, the Soviet Union's permanent representative at the United Nations. On both occasions, they talked peace.

"I assured him," said Mr. St. Laurent with a smile, "that we wanted peace and he said the Russians wanted peace.

"I told him that I believed him —that I believed the people of Russia wanted peace—and that I felt that if our leaders did not make fools of themselves we would have peace."

Two Top Reds Believed Seriously Sick

LONDON, Nov. 21—(AP)—Two more names were added to the Communist sick list Monday.

Reliable information reaching London said Gen. Alexander Zawadski, 51, vice-premier of Communist-governed Poland, is near death in Warsaw with cancer.

From Berlin came news that Otto Nuscke, deputy prime minister of Communist-governed East Germany, has gone to Czechoslovakia for medical treatment.

Wilhelm Pieck, 74-year-old East German president, left Friday for Russia for a four-week "rest cure." A week before that, Maurice Thorez, the Communist boss in France, was taken to Russia for medical treatment. Italy's Communist leader, Palmiro Togliatti, is ill in Rome.

Students Asked To Join Defence Board

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP).—High-ranking University of Western Ontario students in applied and natural sciences have been invited to join the defence research board.

G. S. Wright, of the defence board, said here Monday the board is seeking 150 scientists to meet stepped-up activity in the defence department.

As an inducement, Mr. Wright said, the board will give financial assistance to a limited number of students who are completing their university training this year.

Assistance will be channeled into fields where there is difficulty in recruiting, he added. The search is being carried out in all universities throughout Canada.

Students who qualify will be considered as employed by the board from the date their applications are accepted, and will be expected to remain with the board four years, Mr. Wright said.

Successful applicants will receive $153 a month while attending university.

Mr. Wright is interviewing physics, chemistry and biology students at the University of Western Ontario for scholarships.

23 Canadians In Tokyo Service Thunderbird Planes

By FLYING OFFICER AL MARSHALL, RCAF

WITH 426 THUNDERBIRD SQUADRON at Haneda Air Base, Tokyo, Japan, Nov. 21.—Here in Tokyo, at the far eastern terminus of the Pacific airlift, a detachment of Canadians, members of the 426 Thunderbird Squadron, are making Air Force history as the first detachment of RCAF airmen in Japan.

The 23 men forming the unit service the big four-engine North Stars which thunder in from across the Pacific daily on the greatest "air-bridge" of all times, the United Nations airlift.

12 Aircraft

The Thunderbirds have 12 North Stars flying the airlift, and the Tokyo detachment's job is to see that everything is in order before the aircraft leave on the return trip to McChord Field, near Tacoma, Wash. As each of the North Stars rolls to a stop at the Haneda Field it is met by a complete servicing crew, which receives the aircrew's report on any troubles which might have arisen during the 25 flying hours it takes to cross the northern Pacific.

Even if the crew has nothing to report to the servicing men, the aircraft is gone over systematically to seek out any hidden faults which might have developed. When the big North Star heads down the runway homeward bound, everything has to be right.

As Warrant Officer Ed Edey of Calgary says, "We try to be pretty fussy about maintenance over here. The trip back is a bit on the wet side, and we'd hate to hear of the fly-boys having to come down in the drink." Warrant Officer Edey, a master aircraft technician by trade, has 11 years' service with the RCAF, and is in charge of the Tokyo detachment.

U. N. Force

The Tokyo detachment reflects a real United Nations flavor, for although working for an RCAF squadron, they, like their parent unit, come under the United States Military Air Transport Service as far as operational control is concerned. The detachment boys are quartered and take their meals at "Ebiscu," an Australian camp of the British Commonwealth Occupation Forces on the outskirts of Tokyo, and are subject to Australian barracks discipline while there.

According to the Australian Regimental Sergeant Major at Ebiscu, Warrant Officer J. P. Milne, this mingling is furthering Canadian-Australian relations.

Glad You're Aboard

"Your Canadian lads are a splendidly behaved lot, and we're happy to have them with us," said Sergeant Major Milne. "In fact, we all look forward to having any Canucks with us at any time."

The Americans look after medical requirements of the Tokyo Detachment, but if dental attention is needed in a hurry they go to the Australians. Regular church services form a normal part of camp life at Ebiscu, with the Canadians well represented.

Detachment members put in six weeks on the Tokyo job, under a rotation system worked out by the squadron's commanding officer, Wing Commander C. H. Mussells, DSO, DFC. This allows maximum experienced to be gained by all possible squadron personnel.

Get Full Pay

Pay is a problem for the detachment boys, for they receive full pay and allowances for their six-week stay in Japan before they leave the squadron's McChord base. This calls for more than normal will-power, especially in a country offering tempting souvenirs and special bargains in cameras and other items. Without a self-devised budget plan the money goes in a rush, and the last few weeks are spent "on the cuff."

The detachment is not responsible for major overhauls, which are done at the other end of the run, but even so, they have enough to keep them busy. All work is done in the open, hangar space at Haneda being limited. This has not proved a hardship as yet, weather here being pleasant by comparison with most of Canada at this time of year. Some of the airmen are still wearing summer uniforms.

Forest Fire Losses Lowest In 10 Years

TORONTO, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Forest fire losses in Ontario this year were the smallest in 10 years, the Department of Lands and Forests reported Monday.

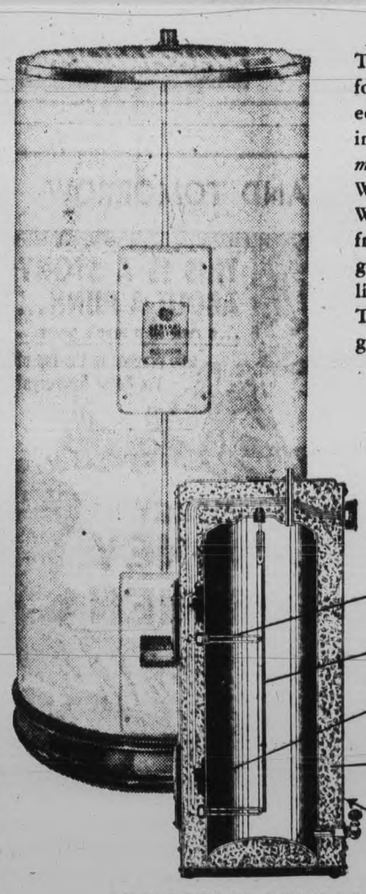
Of some 107,000,000 acres of bushland in Ontario, 37,707 acres were burned by 962 fires, most of which were in the spring. Only 1,412 acres were of mature forest.

T. E. Mackey, chief of the Forest Protection Division, said the low fire toll was chiefly the result of favorable weather. An improved and expended system of fire detection and suppression, including 50 new steel lookout towers, also contributed as well as better-trained personnel.

Release Atom News

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP) —Chairman Gordon Dean of the United States Atomic Energy Commission said Monday the time is approaching to decide whether to ease the secrecy restrictions which now mask the size, weight and shape of the atomic bomb. Its general characteristics already are known to "thousands upon thousands" of people, Dean said in an interview copyrighted by the magazine U.S. News and World Report. At the same time, he estimated that not more than 150 people "know all about it."

Double Revenue



MONTREAL, Nov. 21 (CP) — Canadian National System reported Monday net operating revenue of $10,438,000 for October compared with $5,064,000 for the corresponding month last year. Total operating revenue amounted to $54,191,000 against $45,349,000 the same month last year. Operating expenses were $43,753,000 against $40,285,000 the preceding year.

Anderson Elects Trial By Higher Court

Preliminary hearing of a charge of dangerous driving against Glen A. Anderson, 25, 4 McKellar St., began today before Magistrate W. R. Philp. Anderson was charged following an accident on Highway 28 near Kendry in which Gordon A. Ham, 45, Ontario sales manager for the DeLaval Co., was killed.

Anderson, represented by T. J. Carley, K.C., elected trial by a higher court.

Heard Terrific Bang

First to testify for the crown was James Burnett, 270 Reid St. who lived at the time of the accident on Highway 28, only a few yards from the scene of the crash.

The first thing he knew of the accident, he said, was "a terrific bang. I ran out of the house and saw the two vehicles just north of the lane into the house.

"The car was in the ditch on the west side of the road and the truck on the east side of the highway, facing south. I took a look in the car and ran to the house, but couldn't get a call through. I drove to Fraserville and called from there."

Provincial Constable F. M. Rawlings testified that he and Provincial Constable A. T. Eady went to the scene of the accident. Dr. Leslie Calvert of Peterborough arrived soon after.

"We found the body of a man lying on the front seat of the car. He was placed on the shoulder of the road and Dr. Calvert pronounced him dead. This man was Gordon Ham."

Constable Rawlings said that Anderson was removed from the crash in an ambulance and that he was not questioned at the scene. Anderson was suffering from cuts and mild shock, Dr. Calvert testified later.

Several photographs of the wrecked vehicles and the road were entered by Crown Counsel John A. Bradshaw as exhibits.

The hearing is continuing.

Nothing To Alarm No Epidemic City MOH Says

"There is absolutely nothing for parents to get alarmed about," said Dr. R. A. Kelly, Peterborough MOH, commenting today on the death Monday of three-year-old Jimmy Mason 586 Charlotte St., and the illness of his five-year-old sister, Patricia.

"At the moment we don't know what caused the death of the boy. The virus or organism is obscure, but there is certainly no widespread infection and no epidemic."

Jimmy, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Mason, died hospital, gasping for breath, five hours after he complained to his parents of a sore throat. His sister Patricia, the first of the two children to have the throat infection, was taken to hospital for close observation shortly after Jimmy died.

She is reported to be much improved today.

"No Special Urgency"

As the city's health officer, Dr Kelly denied that his department was considering special precautions, and he said no special instructions have been issued to parents.

Outside reports claimed that Peterborough medical authorities had warned parents to call a doctor immediately if there was a sore throat in the family.

Commented Dr. Kelly: "We think it's a good practice to call a doctor whenever a child has a sore throat. There's no special urgency because of these two cases."

"Unfortunately considerable publicity has developed following the death of a local child," said Dr. Kelly. "I can assure the residents of this municipality that there is no epidemic and unusual precautions are considered unnecessary."

Specimens of matter from the boy's throat are being analyzed by Dr C. P. Waite, local pathologist for the two city hospitals and the provincial government. To date the "culturing process" has not revealed the disease. If the virus or organism is not discovered further tests will likely continue in Toronto where there are better facilities.

Coroner's Autopsy Inconclusive

Th autopsy ordered by Dr. H. G. Carleton, coroner, was inconclusive.

"It is the most unusual case I have encountered in my many years of practice," Dr. Carleton said. 'The boy was in perfect health and was fairly strong. He had been vaccinated and fully inoculated as are most children. Yet five hours after he complained of a sore throat, he was dead." Dr. Carleton came into the case as coroner, after the child's death.

Hospital Statement

John M. Hornal, superintendent of Civic Hospital, issued the following statement to the Examiner today:

"The evidence at present points to the fact that James Mason died from an unusually severe reaction to an infective organism or virus that is apparently prevalent in Peterborough; although the ordinary symptoms and course of the disease are usually much milder in effect.

"Patricia Mason—sister of the boy—who has also had a severe infection, is much improved."

Junior Pupils Examined

As a precautionary measure, kindergarten children and junior pupils at Queen Mary School—where Patricia attended afternoon classes — were examined early today by Dr. Hiram Wright, Board of Education physician.

K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, said this move was a double check to safeguard the children. It was also to reassure parents who might have their "wind up" because of the publicity following the death and illness in the Mason family.

"We understand it is a localized infection and is not unusually contagious," added Mr. Wightman.

Sale of Nicholls Hospital To Reduce Debenture Needed To Complete Civic

Money received from the sale of the former Nicholls Hospital and its nearby nurses residence will be used to reduce the amount of the debentures required for the completion of Civic Hospital. That was the substance of a resolution passed by the council Monday night in a motion by Ald. J. A. Dewart, seconded by Ald. J. E. Gillespie, following a statement by Ald. Dewart in respect to an Examiner editorial last Friday night on the Hospital Bylaw.

When prospective funds were being tabulated three years ago, estimating the total amount of money that might become available for the new Civic Hospital, an item of $200,000 was assumed as expected receipts from the sale of the old hospital property.

The present council has received this year several tenders for the land and buildings, but has refused to accept them as being less than their considered worth. The bylaw that is being submitted to the ratepayers at the municipal elections is asking for their approval of the raising of that sum of $200,000 which has not been realized from the old hospital property, plus $100,000 for extensive work of making walks and roads, grading the grounds and otherwise completing the original project.

Ald Dewart said that as he read the editorial it seemed to create an impression which might jeopardise the hospital case in the decision of the ratepayers.

The editorial spoke of the council using bad judgment in the spending of money which did not exist, and coming to the ratepayers afterward to complete the financing, Ald Dewart said.

The fact was, he continued, that the council had recently obtained from T. T. Rodger, treasurer of Civic Hospital, a report setting out clearly the details of the hospital's financing, with the allocation of building funds that was made by the council of 1948. At that time the amount included for the expected sale value of the old hospital properties was set down at $200,000. "How they arrived at it," Ald. Dewart said, "I don't know."

Cost Of Grading

At that stage no provision was made for the cost of the work of grading Civic Hospital property, laying roads and sidewalks, and other improvements necessary for the final completion of the entire project.

The Board of Governors spent the money which it expected to receive from all sources, including the estimated $200,000 from the former Nicholls Hospital land and buildings, Ald. Dewart said. And as reported by the Board, in the recent preliminaries of the bylaw, they kept their spending within the total amount of the funds they had anticipated, and which they were authorized to spend.

The $200,000 was included in that spending because it was believed that sum would be received from the sale of the old hospital.

The present council, said Ald. Dewart, finds that only part of that estimated amount can be obtained, and for that reason has to raise that amount by issue of debentures.

Ald. Dewart said that no provision had been made for improvements of Civic Hospital grounds. In the last three years the council had spent $3,200 in 1948; $22,140 in 1949; and $19,250 this year; amounting to $44,600, on that necessary work.

The people were, therefore, being asked to provide the sum of $200,000 which was not added to the previous issue of debentures, and an additional $100,000 for the improvement of the grounds; that was $44,600 already spent in the last three years an estimated $45,000 remaining of that expenditure.

"The editorial also mentions the question of the council, assuming the sale of the old hospital property, ear-marking that money for use in retiring the $300,000 debentures. I think that is something which should be clarified. The public is entitled to the fullest information when going to the polls."

Mayor Swanston also referred to the editorial remark that the council might go to the Ontario Municipal Board and get the money needed for the finishing of the hospital.

"I think this council took the right attitude in deciding to go to the people for the money," His Worship said. "Going to the Ontario Municipal Board would create a bad situation, and no council has assurance that it can go to the Municipal Board and get approval to issue debentures for money that has been spent.

"I also think that any money from sale of the old hospital should go toward decreasing the amount of the debentures. I think we should go on record to that effect, that monies received from the sale of those buildings will go to reducing the debenture debt."

(As to the cost of grading and generally completing the hospital grounds, the council has followed a policy of charging any such items to the total cost of Civic Hospital. Although, eventually, the ratepayers have to pay for the work, in one way or the other, council decided that this item should be included in the debenture issue, and thereby spread over the years for retiring the debt, instead of being charged in the current tax rate.)

Car Hits Truck Girl Injured

When he took his eyes off the road to light a cigarette for a passenger, Glen A. Johnston, of Wilberforce, ran into the rear of a parked Peterborough Utilities truck Monday afternoon.

The passenger, Joan Billingsley, 555 Douglas Ave., was taken to Civic Hospital.

Johnston told police he was driving the girl home from work as she was ill. He was driving south on Aylmer St. when the girl asked for a cigarette. He took his eyes from the road to light it for her, and when he looked up, the truck was directly in front of him, and he had no chance to apply the brakes.

Impact shoved the truck forward about 55 feet. Miss Billingsley suffered cuts to her face, and Johnston drove her to hospital for treatment.

The rear of the truck and front of the car were damaged.

Club Will Hear W. J. McWhirter

W. J. McWHIRTER

W. J. McWhirter, of Toronto, will be the guest speaker at the November meeting of the Sales and Advertising Club tonight in the Empress Hotel. A member of the Toronto Club Mr. McWhirter is manager of the major appliance section, appliance division, Toronto district office, CGE.

For 18 years he has been with the CGE 14 of which he was sales representative for New Liskeard.

ARTISTS PERFORM

Mrs. Alice Rourke of Toronto, a soloist, was the guest artist at the Rotary Club meeting Monday. She was accompanied by Dr Charles Peaker, organist of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Toronto.

Find Good Parking On Hunter St. East

It sounds like propaganda for Ashburnham, but Bus Driver M. McAuliffe says that after people get tired and annoyed by driving around Peterborough looking for a parking spot they cross the river and do their buying over there.

Mr. McAuliffe lives on Hunter St., east, with emphasis on that compass direction. He says business over there has all the appearance of picking up volume during the last year or more, that there is quite a range of stores, and no major parking problem.

"We're doing all right over there," is the McAuliffe verdict. "We've got a lot of new people and new houses, and quite a community spirit, and all we are asking on Hunter St. is that the city keep its hitching posts out of our side of the river. There are no parking costs in Ashburnham, and nobody wants them."

World-Travelled Dr. Eddy Outlines New Ideas To Fore

"New ideas in the world which are affecting women" have been pointed out by Dr. Louise Gates Eddy who was brought to this city Monday by the World Fellowship committee of the YWCA. She spoke at an evening dinner meeting of 125 Y members and guests who gave her keen attention throughout the address.

As reason for these new ideas, Mrs. Eddy said that the world has been upset by four major revolutions since the turn of this century (China, Russia, Turkey and India) and added to this is the destruction of two world wars. But drew the conclusion "Out of all change and devastation, some constructiveness arises."

Democracy Changing

First of all, democracies are changing she said. Eight new democracies are being formed as small countries struggle toward some form of free government and there is no doubt the present democracies will see something better in their methods and adopt it.

Mrs. Eddy next drew attention to what the Labor party of England has done for the "little people"—dwellers in the east side and dock side slums of London who bore the brunt of bombing. She said it has recently been declared officially that there need be no indigents in England, for there is work for everyone. Wages are good and, with rationing, there is enough food for everyone. No English child need be hungry or naked.

There is not another country in Europe offering such hope. Dr. Eddy knows because she has been in them all, excepting Russia. "We can learn nothing of Russia behind the iron curtain," she says. "All we can do is judge her by what she does and says."

Communism Appeal

"Communism is appealing vastly to the poor and hungry of the world and very greatly to the colored people of the Orient," said Mrs. Eddy. Her only suggestion for combating the spread of communism is "Stretch out and be world citizens. Be aware of the new forms of government and the new ideas coming to the fore. Act upon them, support them."

"The YWCA is the only organization that demands that members live up to Christian ideals, challenges them to Christian living," Mrs. Eddy stated. "Support your public affairs committee, the world fellowship program and grow in every way you can, but most of all grow as Christians which can only be by constant effort."

Mrs. Eddy has a background of many years service in YWCA s and during the war when with the Montreal Association was responsible for the organization of 122 hostels across Canada and the Farm Service Corps. In many trips abroad she has studied the women of all the world. She knows what they are striving for and what they have gained.

Other New Ideas

Other new ideas she pointed out include the responsibility our own government realized when it set up unemployment insurance, old age pensions, family allowances, etc.

The problem of racial relations has been realized throughout the world and though some action has been taken by UN, when its conscience was touched by Mrs. Pundit of India, the situation is as yet no better, she said.

"Not all new ideas are good."

Under "moral responsibility" Mrs. Eddy pointed out, "it is the attitude toward the value of human beings which is at stake. These values have become distorted in a world of tension and friction, and Hitler's standards remain implanted on the youth of all central Europe."

Orientals Take Office

When speaking in Tokyo and travelling through Japan Mrs. Eddy found Japanese women running for membership on Boards of Education because they feel they can, in less than two generations, educate the youth away from the militaristic ideas to the peaceful.

Women of the Orient have a tremendous realization of the responsibility and there are now three of them cabinet ministers, though only one in the whole of US. One of these is a South Korean woman and Mrs. Eddy outlined her life from when she begged to go to high school so she might be able to "serve her country and glorify God." This story, like others told during the address, touched hearts of hearers, and they felt the rehabilitation of Korea, where people have been suffering under a series of invaders and handed over to various governments is a responsibility to be undertaken.

Contrast Inner Self

Listeners then writhed as Mrs Eddy described the German woman, known as the "Bitch of Buchenwald" whom she saw at her trial as a war criminal. The observation that this woman who was a beast did not wear horns or hoofs but looked like any other woman on the street had frightened the speaker herself at the time. Mrs. Eddy saw her collection of wearing apparel and ornaments made from human skin of prisoners.

The contrasting story of a Czecho Slovakian woman who struggled through her imprisonment to keep her mind and body in as good condition as possible to return to her children. By her efforts she was one of two persons well enough to be dismissed when the camp of 400 was liberated. "In time of crisis each became what she really was—the beast and the woman."

Mrs. Eddy has visited 'Peterborough while in YWCA office and many in the audience have followed her career since marriage to Dr. Sherwood Eddy took her on many trips abroad. President Mrs. T. J. Carley, in introducing her, outlined the manner in which she has been recognized by United States which is now her home. Mrs. Paige Rowell thanked the speaker.

Driver Is Fined On Two Counts

Joseph Murphy, 68, of 457 Downie St., was today convicted of careless driving on Reid St. Nov. 10 and fined $10 and $6.75 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp. On a second charge of failing to produce a driver's licence, he pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and $2.50.

Murphy's car struck a taxi driven by Herbert Stinson in front of 188 Reid St. about 10 p.m. November 10. Evidence revealed that the taxi was parked on the east side of the road, facing south.

PC Gordon Trennum testified that "accused started to curse and swear at me. He had been drinking." Murphy could not produce a driver's licence.

Murphy told court he was visiting a sick friend on Parnell St., and left there to come home. He had one bottle of beer at the friend's home, he said.

"I saw the taxi, and I thought it was moving, so I swung to the right. When it didn't move, I swung to the left to try and miss it," Murphy stated.

Charm, Brilliance In Dr. Peaker's Organ Recital

Dr. Charles Peaker, noted Canadian organist, returned to the console of his student days when he appeared in recital at Knox Church Monday evening with Alice Rourke, soprano, also of Toronto. He became organist and choir leader at Knox in the mid 20's when he had just completed his Mus. Bac. studies. He returned on the occasion of the church's 40th anniversary to give the two-manual Casavant and many old friends the benefit of his ripe musicianship.

Notable on his program were Bach's Toccata in F and the big Fugue in G. Although the organ's lack of diapasons and stalwart pedal stops constricted the magnitude of tone normally to be expected, Dr. Peaker's registrations gave these works a freshness and brilliance often denied by heavier registrations. There was sparkling clarity and warmth in Dr. Peaker's Bach. It was good thus to have reasserted that Bach is not the cold, passionless logician which some of his exponents make him out to be.

The organ's lyric resources were fully exploited in such works as a prelude by the young Toronto composer and organist Gerald Bales, a pastorale based on an old French carol (which was given a jaunty final flourish), and Schumann's Canon in B Minor. This last-named was wonderfully beautiful as Dr. Peaker interpreted it.

Generous Program

Dr. Peaker was generous in the range of his program as well as in number. The scheduled pieces included favourites like the largo in Handel's Xerxes and gay, charming tunes as encores. During the taking up of a collection, Dr. Peaker played, 'Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring' with a smoothness of phrase and tenderness that brought tears to the eyes. Incidentally, his entire program was done without scores.

Mrs. Rourke sank two groups. The first included 'So Shall the Lute' by Handel, two songs by Dvorak and the tremendous 'How Shall I Sing That Majesty' by Pointer, which revealed the fine quality of her voice and the scope of her artistry. Her second group was made up of shorter songs by Bax and Warlock, and a delighting sequence of folk songs set by Benjamin Britton which won the hearts of the audience.

A report on the ceremonies attending the anniversary recital and the presentation to W. R. Potter, Knox' organist for the last 21 years will be found in another account in today's edition.

Memorial Service For Late Primate

To make it possible for Lay Delegates, Church wardens and all Peterborough congregations to pay their sad tribute to their Primate, a Memorial Service will be held in St. John's Church on Thursday at 10 a.m. It will be conducted by the Rectors of the four parishes in Peterborough. The funeral is at St. James' Cathedral, Toronto at 10 a.m. As that city is still on Daylight Saving Time it would be difficult for representatives from Peterborough to attend.

Fire Damages Cab Of Fader's Truck

Fire, believed started by a short circuit, Monday gutted the cab of a truck owned by Charles Fader, North Monaghan. Damage is estimated at $250.

Mr. Fader was driving along the concession road in North Monaghan, near the city dump, when he saw a flash inside the cab and smelled smoke. Fearing the truck might blow up he and his wife got out.

Mr. Fader went to get assistance. While he was away Provinscial Constable Russ Pollard came along and put the blaze out with a fire extinguisher.

Before the flames were snuffed out the gasoline tank exploded but the chassis and rack of the truck were undamaged.

Smaller Nations of World Look to Canada For Leadership In Affairs

Canada's importance as a leader of the smaller countries of the world was stressed Monday by Dr. Louise Eddy at the Rotary club luncheon. Wife of the renowned world traveller, Dr. Sherwood Eddy, she has just returned from touring Europe with her husband. Mrs. Eddy was formerly Dr. Louise Gates, executive director of the National YWCA.

Dr. Eddy told the Rotarians that the smaller countries of the world look to Canada for leadership. Fearful of a clash between the United States and Russia, the small nations are not willing to favor either power. Canada is foremost in the smaller nations through leadership in the United Nations and helping underdeveloped areas.

While speaking of Europe, Dr. Eddy stressed its importance as 'The' continent of the world. She compared its area with the globe, America and Canada and its population with Asia. The 30 states and nations that form the continent were born out of travel, she said.

Europe, she explained, has been the basis for traditions and key institutions of the world of today. Through the years the continent has dominated four other continents. As well, forms of government have been born there such as republic (Switzerland in 1291), communism and capitalism. The rest of the world has been influenced by Europe's experiences.

The whole world is conscious of the small changes in Europe. Yet she said it is difficult to understand Europe because other countries are isolated from her problems. Some of these are war's destruction, occupation and the feeling of defeat. Scars of war are still there. While flying over Berlin via the airlift route, she saw the destruction in the centre of the city. While motoring she saw not a single building intact.

Upon her return to Europe this year, Dr. Eddy said she was encouraged by the reconstruction and advancement made in the past year. The food is better and more plentiful; the people look better; the rebuilding is progressing.

Canadians understand England's Labor government better than the Americans, she said. In England during the war Dr. Eddy heard the ordinary person talking about a change in government when the war ended. The little people, she said, felt that they should have a chance and the Labor government would give them that chance.

Dr. Eddy said she talked with members of all the parties and had the opportunity to get all sides of Britain's problems. Although no changes would be made, all felt they could do a better job.

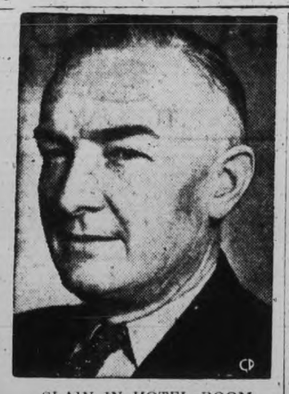
Both major parties claim to have originated the health scheme. Dr. Eddy said that during war's coalition period the scheme for security for the people "from the cradle to the grave" was approved by the coalition government. The scheme is popular in the eyes of the people. No one wants to abolish the plan, but many want to improve it.

Dr. Eddy had a trip 100 miles behind the Iron Curtain. She said large posters announced the entry points into the "democratic" sector (Russian) of Berlin. Other posters called President Truman a war monger and Stalin a peacemaker.

People in the Western sector have hope and life, she said. Although they know that any moment they may overrun by the East Germans, the West Germans realize that as long as the Allies are there it will not happen.

The German people, she said, have little sense of responsibility. In Japan an attempt is being made to re-educate from militaristic ways to democratic ways. This is not so in Germany.

Dr. Eddy advised that the problem must be handled patiently. Looking into Germany's history, she recalled that Germany has been united by dominating leaders. These people have lost the sense of responsibility and have learned to follow the leader.



Dr. Eddy was introduced by G. H. Roper and thanked by Douglas Miller.

HELD FOR MURDER—Mrs. Marion Gough Sullivan, 50, has been charged with the murder of her husband, Francis J. Sullivan, chief counsel of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department, following his death in a room of the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa. Mr. Sullivan's body was found in the hotel room after Mrs. Sullivan called for assistance in getting him to bed Saturday. The death was not reported to police for nearly 12 hours. Mrs. Sullivan was apprehended after she had left with her son for their home in Toronto.

POLICE SCREEN MRS. SULLIVAN — Ottawa constable uses a blanket to shield Mrs. Marion Sullivan, charged with the murder of her husband, Frank, in the Chateau Laurier, from photographers as she enters Nicholas Street jail. Police stopped Mrs. Sullivan when she was driving back to her Toronto home shortly after Mr. Sullivan's death was reported.

SLAIN IN HOTEL ROOM—Francis J. Sullivan, 52-year-old Toronto lawyer and chief solicitor for the Ontario Lands and Forests Department, was found dead in his Ottawa hotel room Saturday. His widow, Mrs. Marion Gough Sullivan., 50, being held on a murder charge, was staying at the Chateau Laurier with him at the time.

Drop A.D., B.C.

BERLIN, Nov. 21 (AP) — ADN, East Germany's government news agency, yesterday adopted the Soviet practice of ignoring Christ in dating historical events. ADN said archeological excavations near Kharkov, Russia, had unearthed relics belonging to the sixth and ninth centuries "of our time reckoning" and to the sixth century "before our time reckoning." Communist-published textbooks for the school system of East Germany already omit references to A.D. and B.C.

Labor Income Down

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (CP) —Labor income in Canada during August totalled $686,000,000, compared with $691,000,000 in July and $658,000,000 in August last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported Monday. The bureau said the decline from the all-time monthly peak reached in July was due to the nine-day railway strike. For the first eight months of this year, labor income totalled $5,239,000,000 against $5,002,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1949.

Halifax Ballet Sparkles As Montreal Festival Opens

By VICTOR MORRIS, Jr.

MONTREAL, Nov. 21 (CP) — A scintillating performamnce of "Swan Lake" by the Gotshalks Halifax Ballet last night featured the opening of the third annual Canadian Ballet Festival at His Majesty's Theatre.

Irene Apine and Jury Gotshalks were called back for three encores by the half-filled theatre. Their inspiring interpretation of Swan Lake's act three was considered the best performance of the evening which saw five ballet groups taking part in the non-competitive festival.

The Ottawa Ballet Company commanded close attention with a strong performance of "Summer Party." The ballet produced by Director Y. Leduc was noticeable for its colorful scenery.

Jean McKenzie as the emotional lover in the Winnipeg Ballet's performance of "Visages" received a strong ovation. Miss McKenzie shared the spotlight with Arnold Spohr as the boy.

Gaudy costumes designed by Dorothy Phillips gave the ballet an eerie atmosphere, but the tall principals, both in white tights, were easy on the eyes and their intricate steps weren't hard to follow.

The Ballet Ruth Sorel of Montreal presented a two-act dance of "Tittle Tattle," in which Joan Stirling as the young girl received strong support from Ruth Sorel.

The Vancouver Ballet Production Club's opening number of "Invitation To The Dance" was an artistic performance with Krusick and Bob Van Norman turning in stellar performances as the young lovers.

The young girls were danced by Dale Clark, Mary Hansen, Marina Katronis and Maureen Timberlake.

The week-long festival continues tonight, with the Montreal ballet group, Gotshalks Halifax Ballet, Le Ballet Concert, Les Ballets Quebec, Winnipeg Ballet and the Elizabeth Leese Ballet of Montreal performing.

"Sex Differences Negligible Women Miss Opportunities By Own Fault--Not Men's"

"Women are in the business world and professions to stay," stated Mrs. Helen Tierney in her address titled "Do Women Get an Even Break?" given Monday at the meeting of Peterborough Business and Professional Women's Club at the YWCA.

Mrs. Tierney, guest speaker for celebration of National Night, is director of education and women's personnel division of the Insurance Companies of North America, Toronto.

"It has been proved by eminent psychiatrists that the intellectual difference between the sexes is negligible," stated Mrs. Tierney. "We should bury the old idea that it is a man's world. The problem is not so much that women are not getting the breaks, but that they are not making the most of their opportunities."

"If there is a problem of women not being given an equal break in the business world, it is as much women's fault as men's," contended Mrs. Tierney. "It is not as much lack of opportunity as lack of performance."

Setting up a foundation for her discussion of this subject, Mrs. Tierney outlined the history of the increasingly active role that women are playing in the business world. She claimed that this active role had become most apparent during the Second World War. Women began to work both because of economic necessity and patriotism. However, unlike the end of the First World War, the conclusion of World War II did not see women retiring from the business world. The need for economic security wiped out the idea that women should not work.

"In spite of fetters that have bound them in the past, women are being represented in an increasing number of fields," concluded the speaker. "Instead of turning personal problems into generalizations, we should be ever watchful of where there are real problems and do everything in our power to rectify them."

The speaker was introduced by Miss Esther Thornton and thanked by Mrs. Mabel Louden.

Miss Alice Harwicke gave an outline of the events leading up to the federation of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs in Canada which took place in 1930. At that time there were five charter member clubs. Today there are 117 clubs with a total of 5,200 members. "1950 has proved itself a prosperous and progressive year in the development of our club," stated Miss Hardwicke.

The explanation of the emblem was read by Mrs. Maude Dunford.

Tea was served after the meeting.

Garlic, Cherry Spoil Dishes

NEW YORK (CP). — The trouble with North American cooking is garlic and maraschino cherries.

Outside of that Jean Ravaud, French gourmet, has no serious criticism of the eating habits of his adopted country. Ravaud, whose experience is demonstrated by his waistline, is qualified to speak by membership in the Conferie du Tastevin, an international epicurean group.

"American food is extremely good," says Ravaud. "The frozen foods, like the fruit, I find as good as the fresh. And the canned goods—infinitely would I prefer a canned soup to some of the kinds which are home-made. "But what is this vogue of the too much garlic. A roast of pork, garlic? Garlic in everything and yes, always with garlic. And lamb, yes. But never, never a roast of beef with garlic. A whisper in salad, certainly, but chopped up cloves of garlic — this must not be done."

The maraschino cherry is the figurative symbol of Ravaud's dislike of the American fashion for preparing "colorful dishes."

"Food I not a painting," he says. "Food is something good to eat. When I chose a tomato to eat with a meal—broiled, let's say with a little fresh chopped parsley—it is for the taste, but never because of the appearance on the plate."

Ravaud was born in Bordeaux and raised in the cognac district of France.

French Cooking Best

"I think the greatest cooking in the world comes from the great wine regions of France," he says. "You will find that where people know how to drink, they know how to cook."

Like most appreciative eaters Ravaud is modest in his use of wine and vehement in preaching its use in cooking—not for alcoholic content which is lost during cooking, but for a means of injecting subtle flavor.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Using French Chestnuts For Stuffing

One of my cousins, who has educated herself to be a first-rate cook, always asks me first the cooking questions that she has been saving up, whenever I call on them, which is about twice a year.

It seems a neighbor of hers has a tendency to tell all of the neighbors far and near the proper—the oh-so-proper—foods to serve to accompany one another.

She pinked my cousin's pride by saying, "Now, my dear, for instance, you wouldn't put that onion stuffing of yours that you are so fond of, in the Christmas turkey—now would you?" Muriel said "Sure, why not?" "Oh, my dear, onions just don't go with turkey."

In my opinion if Muriel's family like it that way, then in her house they do go together.

Then Muriel said to me, "I wouldn't say so to anybody else but you Mary, but I would like to know how to use those French chestnuts in stuffing—how do you get the shells off? Are they good in turkey stuffing?"

I gave her the recipe for stuffing I am giving you today.

✧ ✧ ✧

Readers who are old friends of this column know that I seldom deal with such fancy food, but I bought a pound of these French chestnuts, to see what I could make of them. For one thing, I found out they are not an extravagance, for for 29 cents I made dessert for four of us, and stuffed a chicken and Pete and Marianne roasted the last handful.

My French friend who was here last week claims any French person would be very familiar with Mont Blanc, which is a great favorite in France, and is the dessert I made. See recipe below.

Chestnut Stuffing

(Double these quantites to stuff a turkey.) One-half to one pound of chestnuts (the amount depends on how much of the chestnut flavor you desire), 5 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 or 4 cups soft breadcrumbs, 1 teaspoon each parsley and onion chopped, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. If you reduce the amount of chestnuts you must increase the amount of breadcrumbs.

Cut a slit in each chestnut, pour 1 tablespoon oil over them and bake in a very hot oven of 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes. Then shells and inner skin can be removed. Just cover with boiling water and add salt and cook until chestnuts are tender. Drain and press through sieve or potato ricer. Add all remaining ingredients and it is ready to stuff bird.

Mont Blanc

(I quote this straight from my French friend—who kidded us unmercifully about our reducing diets.) "Boil 1 lb. chestnuts for

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Basic Coffee Cake Recipe Lends Itself To Changes

Coffee cake is at home for breakfast, lunch, dinner, and midnight snack, and what could be better than to make your own so that you can put in the kind of filling you like? For any number of differnt recipes, all of which can be varied to suit your whim, you should have "250 Breads, Biscuits and Rolls," nineteenth title in the series of 24 cookbooks currently being made available to readers of the Examiner.

The Bread Book is full of all kinds of recipes for all kinds of breads, but possibly the ones most worth trying to make at home are the different kinds of coffee cakes. Here, for instance, is a basic dough and one of the variations suggested:

Foundation Sweet Dough

2 cakes yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
¼ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 cup milk, scalded
1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs beaten
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
5 cups sifted flour (about)

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Add shortening, sugar and salt to scalded milk; cool to lukewarm. Add softened yeast, eggs, lemond rind and enough flour to make a stiff batter. Beat well. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. When light, punch down. Shape into tea rings, rolls or coffee cakes. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 25 to 30 minutes for coffee cakes, 25 to 25 minutes for rolls. Makes 2 (12-inch) tea rings or about 3½ dozen rolls.

Coffee Cake Icing
Chopped nuts

When dough is light, shape into 2 rectangular sheets about ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll like jelly roll and shape into rings. Place on greased baking sheet and cut with scissors at 1-inch intervals almost through ring. Turn slices slightly. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. While warm, spread with icing and sprinkle with chopped nuts. If desired sprinkle 1 cup chopped dried fruit on dough before rolling. Makes 2 rings.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Man, 29, Too Young to Make Marriage of Convenience

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 29 years old, a college graduate. My interests are varied. I am fond of both study and reading and also athletic sports, music, dancing, etc. I like the society of women, but have never been in love. Now here is the problem: I have a fine job. I am tired of boarding houses and want a home of my own, but picking a wife is a very serious business when you have no especial urge towards any one particular charmer. Now can I shop around among the few girls I like best and pick out the one nearest my desires and marry her and expect happiness? If I use this cold, calculating method of choosing a wife, would this thing called love, which I seem to know nothing about, be likely to come along and make a good bid to break up my home? Is it possible that because of my varied desires and interests I have never, or never will find one girl with whom I could be satisfied? HESITANT

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course, the marriage of convenience has logic all on its side. It would seem that it would be a far wiser thing for a young man to pick out his wife with his head instead of his heart. But it doesn't seem to work out that way in real life, for man does not live by bread alone, and our observation shows us that the most successful marriages are not the suitable ones entered into in cold blood, but those that were founded on that mysterious thing we call love.

Hire a Housekeeper

So my advice to you is not to marry. If you must have a home get a housekeeper. You can hire one cheaper than you can get a wife. Believe me, son, there is no one of whom you can get so weary as an enforced companion who isn't your soul mate.

Don't trust to falling in love after marriage. It seldom, if ever, happens. Marriage is a disillusioning process that is more likely to separate people than it is to bring them together. If you marry a girl you don't love, you will see her every fault and blemish magnified. Her every peculiarity will get on your nerves and you will far more likely come to hate her than you will to be enamored of her.

Futhermore, there is the almost certainty that sooner or later you will meet the woman of your dreams and fall in love with her when love can mean nothing but tragedy to you. A man in his fifties or sixties might be justified in marrying a woman to get a housekeeper and somebody to make him comfortable, but it is certainly folly for a lad of 29 to do so. He still has time for love to come to him.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: How can you tell when your boy friend or girl friend loves you? There is so much comouflage in these days, one can hardly be sure. People use words so carelessly when it comes to such a serious matter as this. DOUBTFUL ELSIE

ANSWER: People certainly do use words so carelessly in these days that they have lost virtually al lof their meaning. So now, in love, it has become a case of actions speaking louder than words. In trying to determine if the girl and boy friend really do care for you, you have to go by what they do and not by what they say.

It seems to me that the real test of love is always unselfishness. Watch that. If a boy puts your happiness above his own; if he is willing to sacrifice his own pleasure for yours; if he is always paying you little delicate attentions, doing the things that will please you, bringing you little tokens that show his thought of you, trying to see that you have a good time, that is love.

But if a boy always does his own way; if he runs roughshod over you; if he is always hurting your feelings; if he breaks dates; if he is careless of your happiness, then he doesn't really love you, no matter how much he says he does. And this test of love goes for girls as well as boys.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband is a good man in every sense of the word. He is tender, kind, generous, everything that any wife could want in a husband, and we have three lovely children to whom I am devoted. But I am in love with another man and he with me and he, too, has a good wife and children to whom he is devoted. There is no question of divorce because too many people would be hurt, but is it our duty to be honest and confess our unfaithfulness to our mates? I. V.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No. A thousand times no. You would only make a bad matter worse. Certainly you have done these others harm enough without adding to it by destroying their faith in you and filling them with torturing jealousy. If a wrong can be righted by confessing it, there is some justification in doing so, but when what has been done has been done and nothing can change it, then the guilty could keep their secrets to the end. It is a part of their punishment.

Mona Palmateer Bride of Murray D. Hill

George St. United Church parsonage was scene of a wedding Saturday afternoon when the Rev. Arnold A. Mathews united in marriage, Mona Dolores, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Palmateer of Morganston, and Murray David, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hill of Peterborough.

The bride wore a wedding gown of ivory satin, waist length veil with a tiara of sequins, and carried a large bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Carol Palmateer, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a gown of pale blue taffeta with matching net headdress and carried a bouquet of bronze 'mums.

Mr. Fred Hill, brother of the groom, was groomsman.

A small reception was held at the home of the groom's parents on Dublin St.

Mrs. Hill received the guests in a becoming black dress trimmed with pink, a claret velvet hat, and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Palmateer, who wore a becoming black dress with lace inserts, black velvet hat, and corsage of mauve 'mums.

The young couple left in the evening for a short honeymoon in New York City and other points in the United States. The bride travelled in a wine suit with black accessories and grey topcoast.

They will live in Peterborough

What's Right

You and your husband decide it would be fun to spend the evening with friends.

WRONG: Drop by to see them unannounced.

RIGHT: Telephone before you go, to see if it is convenient for them to have you.

✧ ✧ ✧

You ask a girl for several dates and each time she refuses you.

WRONG: Keep on asking her for dates.

RIGHT: Realize that it is embarrassing for a girl to have to keep making excuses for refusing a date—and stop calling her.

The taste's the test for tea! Canadians buy more Salada than any other brand.

"SALADA" TEA

"HARNESSED RAINDROPS, SONNY!" It's a true answer...

In Shipshaw powerhouse you are awed by the hum of twelve gigantic generators. They are driven by rain and snow which fill Lake St. John and pour down the Saguenay River.

The water is channelled to a man-made lake on top of a hill. Then it rushes down tunnels chiselled through solid rock to dash against turbines like the model at which the boy is peering — but weighing 50 tons.

The turbines drive generators. The electricity they generate speeds to nearby Arvida. There it refines shining aluminum out of bauxite from British Guiana.

Over 1000 Canadian companies form aluminum into all sorts of useful articles. All this means work for Canadians. This country supplies nothing but the raindrops — and the brains, hands and enterprise to harness them.

The hum in the power house at Shipshaw is a hymn of progress. It is a sound of Canada's standard of living going up...

Purse Presented Knox Organist

Organist and choirmaster at Knox United Church for the last 21 years, William R. Potter was presented Monday night with a purse in recognition of his long and sincere service to the congregation and the church's music. As the Rev. H. G. Douglas, present minister of Knox, said, it was "a gesture of appreciation and good will from members of the congregation."

The presentation was made by Mrs. Ada Huffman, a member of the choir during Mr. Potter's entire term. Little Flora Jean Hughes, whose mother, Mrs. Norman Hughes, was also a choir member from Mr. Potter's first year at Knox, presented a bouquet to Mrs. Potter.

The presentation was made during the evening of recital of Charles Peaker, organist and Alice Rourke, soprano, given as part of the 40th anniversary celebrations of the building of the present structure of Knox Church.

Ministers' Greetings

During the intermission greetings from all living former ministers of Knox were read or given in person. Letters came from the Rev. Dr. H. J. Keith, first minister; from the Rev. Dr. Murdoch MacKinnon, third minister, and from the Rev. H. Mahoney. The Rev. William McDonald, fourth minister, and the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, minister just prior to the war and during its first two years, spoke their greetings to the congregation.

The Rev. H. G. Douglas, who was chairman, spoke about Knox's future and outlined material plans which are being made to reconstruct the basement of the church and provide more classrooms.

Scientist Not Linked With Reds In Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Justice Minister Garson said Monday the name of Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, missing British atomic scientist, has never been linked with Canada's 1946 espionage investigation, either through documents or evidence.

He issued a statement denying published reports that Pontecorvo's name appeared in a notebook seized from one of the suspects during the RCMP roundup nearly five years ago.

Pontecorvo, who vanished a month ago while on leave from the Harwell atomic plant in Britain, worked in Montreal and at the Chalk River atomic plant from 1943 to 1948. British officials have indicated a belief he is now in Russia.

Mechanic Hit By Shot Aimed At Cab Driver

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP)—An automobile mechanic was shot last night by a bullet intended for a cab driver who was fleeing two of his gun-wielding passengers.

The mechanic, William Galbraith, was taken to hospital in serious condition after being wounded while working on a car in the pitroom of a service station.

The taxi driver, John Jolly, of Windsor, Ont., escaped uninjured. He told police the shots were fired as he fled from his taxi after fighting with his passengers over payment for a trip.

Jolly told the passengers he would not drive them any farther than London, apparently on a trip from Windsor, unless they paid.

The men escaped on foot.

Backers Back Out Skaters Skate On

CHATHAM, Nov. 21—(CP)—Troupers of the International Ice Revue voted Monday to continue their Canadian tour after financial backers withdrew their support.

The backers, whose names were not released, held 50 per cent of the stock and decided to quit when receipts fell off with small attendance due to to the unseasonable weather.

Members of the show decided to continue to operate on a co-operative basis. They formerly held 50 per cent of the stock.

Counsel Suggests Stop Sign Improperly Placed On Road

Judgment was reserved Monday in the case of Charles P. Murphy, 26, of Steenburg, charged with dangerous driving. Magistrate W. R. Philp said he would give judgment November 27. Bail was continued at $1,000.

The charge arose out of the death July 13 of Stanley Comte, 26, of Montreal, who was killed in a crash between a truck driven by Murphy and a car driven by Comte's brother, Pierre.

The accident took place at the intersection of Highways 7A and 28 at dusk on July 13. Murphy had been driving west on 7A and the Comte car was eastbound on Highway 28.

Pierre Comte, David Adam, and Allen Baldwin, the latter two of Stewart St., were all injured in the crash. Murphy was unhurt.

Elects Summary Trial

Murphy pleaded not guilty and elected summary trial through his counsel, E. A. Richardson of Toronto.

Comte testified he was going about 45 miles an hour as he drove over the brow of the hill approaching the intersection. He said he saw Murphy's truck near the stop sign, which is about 100 feet east of the intersection. He said he didn't see the truck stop.

"Did you see the truck come the whole 100 feet from the stop sign to the intersection without stopping?" defence counsel asked. "Yes."

"Did you attempt to put on your brakes?" "I don't know."

Comte estimated the truck's speed at about 20 to 25 miles an hour as it started to cross Highway 28. David Adam estimated Comte's speed at about 40 to 45 miles an hour.

Provincial Constable Lloyd McClure, who testified before Comte, said that the tire marks showed Comte's auto had skidded "under heavy strain" for 14 feet, four inches.

During his cross-examination of Corporal McClure, defence counsel Richardson suggested that the stop sign was improperly placed, being too far from the intersection. He quoted a regulation of the Department of Highways, which says that a stop sign shall be not nearer than 15 feet to, or farther than 50 feet from, the through highway.

Evidence revealed the stop sign was 100 feet back from the intersection.

His Worship remarked that he didn't think the officer could judge on a matter of law.

After the crown's case, Mr. Richardson moved for non-suit, saying that Highway 28 could not be considered a through highway, as the stop sign was improperly placed. Magistrate Philp said defence counsel's motion would be noted.

Murphy testified he had been driving for 10 years and had never had an accident. The day of the accident, he said, he was moving a load of Hydro equipment from Renfrew to Scarboro.

He said he stopped at the stop sign, looked both ways, and saw nothing coming. "I pulled out and I was going about three to five miles an hour. The front wheels of the truck were on 28 when I saw this car coming."

Saw No Lights

The car was about 300 feet away, and had no lights on, Murphy said he thought it was going straight east on 7A, but that when it was about 35 or 40 feet away, the car swerved to the north.

Cross-examining Murphy, crown counsel John A. Bradshaw said: "The skidmarks shown in one of these photographs are about 100 feet long, and show that Comte had started to turn to the north even then. Comte must have pulled out before the 35 or 40 feet you suggested."

"It was about 35 or 40 feet to my judgment," said Murphy.

Charles McGee, another Hydro trucker, said he was driving behind Murphy, and corroborated Murphy's evidence. He said he thought the Comte car was not going less than 60 miles an hour, and when it was 40 to 50 feet away from the truck, swerved to the north suddenly.

"I was sure it was going to go down 7A," he said.

In argument, defence counsel submitted the crown had not proved dangerous driving or criminal negligence, and he didn't see how the crown could ask for a conviction.

"Well, I do," said Mr. Bradshaw. The crown argued that dangerous driving had been proved.

Wool Scarcity Starts Farmers Raising Sheep

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The present scarcity of wool in the world, and consequent high prices, is having its effect on the thinking of Canadian farmers.

Wool News, published by Canadian Co-Operative Wool Growers, Ltd., commenting on this, says in part:

More signs of genuine interest in sheep raising in Canada have been apparent in recent months than at any time in many decades.

From scores of centres come reports that it is impossible to meet the demand for breeding ewes. Areas which in former years could be depended on as sources of supply for at least enough to establish a few new flocks now say there are none available because they are needed in the district.

Quickest Way

Right now the problem is to decide on what can be done to assure increased sheep population in the fewest possible years.

Not much more can be done as far as 1951 is concerned, but the more ewe lambs that are salvaged the better it will be for 1952. This same practice from year to year is about the only hope for succeeding years. Those who plan to establish new flocks will have to be on the alert, but patient.

Not many years ago the western provinces could be counted upon to supply at least a few thousand ewes that were past their best for range conditions but good for one or more years when transferred to the less-rigid environment of the east. This year it was difficult to get more than a few hundred. Even with some ranchers disposing of large flocks the common answer was that they would be placed locally.

Not Selling

Flock owners of Ontario's Manitoulin Island last year were inclined to go out of sheep because of the ravages made by wolves. This year they are holding practically everything in order to replenish island flocks. In the several district in Northern Ontario in which organization has proven progressively helpful both in production and marketing during the last decade or more, there is no talk of flock dispersal or reduction.

Limestone To Kingston

KINGSTON, Nov. 21—(CP)—They're actually carrying Limestone to the old Limestone City. The nickname given to Kingston a century ago has lost some of its meaning today. Kingston limestone, once widely used, has become too costly because of its hardness. The result is that limestone used here now usually comes from Niagara Falls where it is softer.

The General, who lived in Chester, N. B., since his retirement from the army several years ago, had attended the recent annual meeting of the Defence Medical Association here. He was visiting his daughter, Mrs. R. J. Smallman, when he suffered a heart attack.

A funeral with full military honors will be held here Thursday, with burial in nearby Beechwood cemetery.

After the First World War he was appointed to the Medical Corps as a Captain, rising to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in 1933.

During his 35 years with Canada's military medical services, Gen. Luton held the appointment of Deputy Director of Medical Services at headquarters here from May, 1930 until October, 1935. He then assumed duties as District Medical Director for Military District No. 6 at Halifax, where he remained until the outbreak of the Second World War.

He went overseas in October, 1939, serving at Canadian military headquarters in London, first as senior medical officer and later as deputy director of medical services. He became director of medical services in February, 1941.

He was responsible for organization and administration of Canadian hospitals and medical units overseas.

One of Biggest Stories Awaits To Be Told

By JACK SCOTT

The story I really want to write when we get home and back in business again is a survey of how people are getting by on their income.

The newspapers and the magazines have gone deeply into the subject of the staggering cost of living and the whole record of inflation, but I can't recall anyone writing the intimate, personal story of what this means in terms of denial and sacrifice in real families. I have a hunch that's the biggest human interest yarn of this decade.

I'd like to get five or six couples with families and with incomes ranging from $40 to $100 a week, gather around a dinner table with a wire recorder, compare notes and print the results.

I'd like to find out what it costs them for food, what they're saving for the future, how deeply they're in debt or how they're staying out of debt, what the cost of living has done to their standard of living, what they think should be done about it.

If you could get some volunteers who wouldn't mind this invasion into their private lives I think it would be a story that would have meaning for every reader.

One of the most typical domestic scenes of 1950 is that periodic clambake when Mr. and Mrs. sit down to have a long, hard look at their budget. This, at any rate, is the case in my family and with most of my friends. The result is a paradox. Most people I know say they can't live decently on their earnings and that each month they're getting deeper in the red.

I want to find out if this is true generally, what people are doing to stop the drift into serious debt and what effect this is having on their lives. That is a whale of a story.

I'm particularly interested in the respectable, middle class family with appearances to keep up and who, it seems to me, have lost the most ground in the uneven race between salaries and the cost of living index.

Take a couple, for example, who have three kids and who have a monthly income, say of around $300. Now that is far above the Canadian average which when I last looked was around $160 a month. I know a lot of guys in my own business who are making $300 a month, middle-aged men with families, and I'm darned if I know how they get along.

My wife, who keeps a penetrating eye on her budget, figures that a family with three kids can't live decently on less than $150 a month for groceries, meat, drugs, fruit, greens and milk. We'll say that an average monthly rent is $40, transportation is $10, fuel is another $10, telephone and light run to about $12, clothes would be at least $25, and, just for the sake of argument, we'll put household expenses at $20.

That would leave the $300-a-month family with just exactly $33 a month for laundry and cleaning, magazines and newspapers, insurance, dentist and doctor bills, furniture, entertainment, taxes and savings. It just doesn't add up.

The way I figure it, a man earning as high as $100 a week and trying to keep up a decent home by 1939 standards and perhaps run a car can't make ends meet and certainly can't be putting anything away for the future.

Some of my friends, I know, are making compromises. A friend of mine who makes $75 a week takes his lunch to work in a brown paper bag. Some neighbors of ours in that same income group are living on a diet as austere as any Englishman's, rolling their own cigarettes, avoiding any luxuries. The husband sits home as babysitter with the kids so his wife can go to a show.

These are people who make in the neighborhood of twice the national average. How in the world does the "average" or sub-average family get by? I'd certainly like to know.

An Invitation

As a starter on this, I'd like to hear from some of you who have given the matter thought. If you wish to do this anonymously, just mention that in your letter. And if any of you would care to volunteer on a panel of the type I mentioned above, I'd like to hear from you.

What I want to know is how much money you make and what you do with it. I'd also like your ideas on what you consider a minimum income for decent living and, if you have the time, a sample budget. In short, what has inflation done to your personal life?

Our own experience may or may not be typical. We find we can't save money without cutting into what we consider necessary and legitimate items on our budget and any sizeable outlay—Christmas, for example—means a scramble later on. We live in a fool's paradise with a nice-looking weekly cheque and never seem to quite grasp the idea that the dollar is worth about 50 cents of what it was in 1939, if it's worth that.

I think it's high time we began making a lot of noise about this, or at any rate getting a little sharper focus on what's happening to we "prosperous" Canadians and I'd very much like to hear—and pass on—your views.

US Bombers Plaster Red Rear Areas Troops Hunt Enemy

SEOUL, Nov. 22—(AP)—Heavy bombers blasted Communist staging bases in northeast Korea today as infantry patrols probed along the entire front to find where the Communists plan to make a stand. Waves of Superforts rained 140,000 pounds of high explosives on the Musan border area while other B-29s struck the port of Chongjin, 45 miles to the southeast. It was the second strike in a week at Musan. North Koreans are reported reorganizing and Chinese Communists concentrating at Musan to block the United Nations march toward the Soviet Siberian border.

Musan is 80 miles northeast of Hyesanjin, where United States 7th Division troops raised the United Nations blue-and-white flag Tuesday on the Yalu river opposite Red Manchuria. Other 7th Division infantrymen went hunting for a fight with two Communist battalions reported to be holed up 10 miles southwest of Hyesanjin.

Gen. MacArthur's war summary in Tokyo reported:

"United Nations forces continued to advance generally along the entire Korean battle front yesterday (Tuesday)."

Here's the way the front appeared from east to west:

Cruiser Blasts Reds

East Coast—Eight-inch guns of the U.S. cruiser St. Paul paved the way for the South Korean Capital Division pursuing "a retreating disorganized enemy" toward Siberia.

South Koreans were eight miles south of Chongjin, port city 55 miles from the Soviet border where the Reds apparently were preparing to make a stand. B-29s bombed Chongjin after Marine airmen ran into heavy anti-aircraft fire there.

Manchurian border—The 7th Division's 17th regimental combat team dug in around Hyesanjin. It reported no sign of enemy activity on either side of the 100-yard wide Yalu river which divides Korea from Communist China's Manchuria.

Poor Maps

Other 7th division elements, 15 miles to the south, struggled with faulty maps and bad roads in an effort to find and wipe out two Communist battalions. The Reds were in Samsu, 10 miles southwest of Hyesanjin.

One road that maps said went to Samsu ended abruptly seven miles up in the mountains from Kyohang. The Americans tried another. This was blocked by a burning bridge and a landslide.

"We will keep pushing until we have the area cleaned out," a headquarters spokesman said.

Central mountains—1st division Marines, seeking to envelop Changjin reservoir, ran into heavy small-arms fire near Sinhung, seven miles up the east side of the reservoir. Red concentrations were reported nearby.

Build Defence

Northwest front—The South Korean 8th division occupied Yongwon, and with other divisions of the Republican 2nd Corps established a line running five to six miles north of Tokchon. Chinese Communists were building a series of strong defences six to eleven miles north, just as they were on the rest of the northwest front manned by the U.S. 1st Corp. Patrols probed in spots as far as six miles without encountering the Chinese. But at both ends they ran into trouble. Patrols on the right found Communists dug in on high ground five miles north of Yongbyon. On the west coast, South

Reason Accepted For Delay In Murder Report

TORONTO, Nov. 22 (CP) — Attorney-General Dana Porter said last night he is satisfied with the explanation of the nine-hour delay in reporting Ottawa's hotel-room slaying to police.

The Ontario attorney-general has received a report from two officials of his department indicating that the delay in reporting the slaying of Francis J. Sullivan, chief solicitor for the Lands and Forests Department, was due to the fact that at first there was nothing to indicate the death was anything but natural.

Sullivan was found dead early last Saturday in a suite in the Chateau Laurier. His widow has been charged with murder.

Dead 15 Hours

In Ottawa, the chief investigator in the slaying said police now believe the 52-year-old Toronto solicitor was bludgeoned to death some 15 hours before police were called into the case.

Sullivan's body was found on the bedroom floor about 3 a.m. Saturday. His wife had called the night clerk for help to "get him back in bed."

When police were finally called into the case at noon Saturday—after the autopsy had been performed—investigators place the time of death at some time around midnight Friday night.

Ab Cavan, chief inspector of detectives, said last night, however, that police "now have reason to believe death occurred some time early Friday evening."

Wildeyed Man Smashes Hydro

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 22 — (CP)—Swinging a heavy wrench in each hand, a wild-eyed man Tuesday smashed valves, telephones and fuse boxes in the main generator room of the Queenston power plant. He was subdued after a struggle with Hydro workmen and tied down to a stretcher.

Today Roland McIntee, 33, of Ridgeway pleaded guilty to wilful damage amounting to $500 and was remanded to Nov. 29 for sentence. He was first charged with being drunk, but the damage charge was substituted today.

Water flooded the floor of the generating room as McIntee broke glass water indicators and turned on a local sprinkler system. Hydro employees chased after McIntee as he ran about on his orgy of destruction.

Provincial Constable Wally Green rushed to the scene on receiving a radio call. He found McIntee trussed to a stretcher in the first aid room with about 20 feet of thick rope.

Police say that McIntee got into the plant area by jumping a fence near the river bank.

Power on the lines supplied by the big Queenston generating plant was not interrupted and was not seriously threatened said A. S. Robertson, manager of the generating station. All damage was reported repaired this afternoon.

Ont. Liquor Board To Check Debauching

TORONTO, Nov. 22 (CP)—A clergyman's charge that "moral debauchery" in Toronto exists largely because of cocktail bars and beverage rooms will be investigated by the Ontario Liquor Control Board.

J. G. Sprague, comptroller, made the announcement today. Although the charges made by Rev. F. W. L. Brailey to a United Church meeting were "vague," he "intends to get to the bottom of the matter."

"I think the gentleman should have been more specific," said Mr. Sprague.

Other officials indicated that the inspection department of the liquor commission will be asked for full reports on the operation of certain outlets mentined in Mr. Brailey's report to the church meeting.

Britain, U.S. Divided On China Charges

By MARX HARRELSON

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Nov. 22 (AP)—Britain and the United States lined up in opposite camps again today on the question of investigating Nationalist China's charges of Russian aggression.

The United Nations assembly's 60-member political committee, resuming debate on the issue, may decide it before the day is over.

Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang presented his case yesterday. He charged that the Kremlin not only engineered the Chinese civil war, but now has 45,000 agents in China controlling all political, economic and cultural life.

Suggest Commission

Tsiang proposed that the U.N. set up a fact-finding commission to look into the situation and report back to the assembly next fall. His plan found little support except from the United States, which agreed that the problem should be studied by some sort of commission.

Russia demanded that the entire question be thrown out as unfit for discussion. Soviet delegate Jacob A. Malik said Nationalist China already is headed for the "historic scrap heap."

Britain agreed that it would be useless to inquire into what happened in China. British delegate J. E. Coulson said the facts are not really in dispute and "our opinions won't be changed."

Recognizes Reds

Britain is one of the 17 U.N. members which have recognized the Communist Chinese government. For this reason, she frequently finds herself at odds with the United States on Chinese problems.

"Anything that embitters the far eastern situation cannot do anything but harm," Coulson said.

The committee then adjourned to give members a chance to consider the question overnight.

Nationalist China first brought her charges of aggression last year. The assembly refused at that time to accept Tsiang's demands that Russia be condemned.

Plane Down Little Hope For 21 Aboard

Eight Children On Mission Plane, Burns On Mountain

MORAN, Wyo., Nov. 22 — (AP) — A Missionary plane with 21 aboard—eight of them children—apparently crashed and burned last night in swirling clouds on snowy Mount Moran. Rescue units headed for the scene.

Grand Teton National Park officials were sure climbers making their tortuous way up the 12,100-foot peak would find wreckage of the plane. They held only slim hope there could be survivors.

A resort owner last night said he saw a burning fuselage in the flames far above timberline on the precipitous east face of the mountain. When the fire subsided, he could see nothing resembling a campfire.

The missing plane, bound from Chico, Calif., to Billings, Mont., was owned by the New Tribes Mission, a religious organization. It was on the first leg of a flight to South America.

Crash Widows

Passengers included two young mothers with their children, widowed in the crash of another mission-owned plane in Venezuela last June which killed 15. Also aboard was Dr. Paul W. Flemings of Chico, mission director.

The new, twin-engined DC-3 last reported by radio over Idaho Falls, Idaho, at 3:48 p.m. MST. That was 50 miles west of here. The plane was due at Billings at 6:30 p.m.

Off Course

It was about that time that residents of this area heard a plane overhead. It was far off usual air lines. And it was flying west just opposite to the direction the California plane should have been headed. There was speculation it was lost and hunting landmarks.

Half an hour later Paul A. Lodge, acting Teton Park superintendent, said a fire was reported about 1,000 feet from the top of Mount Moran.

12,000 Dockers Strike Idle Australian Ports

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 22 (Reuters)—The usually busy ports of Sydney and Melbourne were idle again today as 12,000 dockers who went on strike yesterday, said they will not return to work until their demands are met.

The strike in Sydney started because 50 dock workers were suspended for refusing to work overtime. The Melbourne walkout was caused when 17 men were suspended for refusing to work in what they called an unsafe hatch and fellow workers walked out in support.

Newspaper Headlines Do Greatest Damage Archbishop Of Canterbury Charges

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 22 —(Reuters)—Newspaper headlines do more damage than any other single thing in modern life, claims the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

People should pray for newspapers to regain their ability to make people discriminate in the things they read, he said at a state banquet last night.

The primate, head of the Anglican Church, said people were not happy about the press. Those responsible for great newspapers were trying to do their best, but they suffered from two big limitations—one, that they could not resist the headline, and the other their reporters' inadequate education.

"On every page every day there must be big headlines, which means that when there's nothing important they have to make some triviality important," he said.

"Think of the effect of that on the public mind. It doesn't matter whether it's something of terrific importance in Korea or some actress who has divorced her husband....

"There are some newspapers where you can still tell which pages to look at if you want to find important things, and which pages to look at for unimportant things. But to run these things all together is no good for anyone.

St. Laurent To Attend Commonwealth Meeting

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today that he has accepted an invitation to attend a meeting of Commonwealth Prime Ministers in London early in January. "The meeting will discuss questions of common concern, including aspects of the present international situation," said Mr. St. Laurent. Invitation to the conference came from Prime Minister Attlee of Britain.

Mr. St. Laurent said the prime ministers of Australia, Ceylon, India, New Zealand, Pakistan and southern Rhodesia have accepted Mr. Attlee's invitation. Prime Minister Malan of South Africa will not be able to attend but will send a member of his Cabinet to represent him.

Assisted King

Mr. St. Laurent attended the 1948 conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers although he was not Prime Minister of Canada at the time. The Canadian government then was headed by the late Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

At the 1949 conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers Canada was represented by External Affairs Minister Pearson. In delegating Mr. Pearson, Mr. St. Laurent said that he would be

California Flood Renews Threat

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22 — (AP)—Two north-central California areas today faced new threats from avalanches of muddy, debris-filled flood waters that have begun a general recession elsewhere in California and Nevada.

The floods have caused at least nine deaths and more than $20,000,000 damage in three days.

Army engineers warned residents along the Sacramento River between Sacramento, Calif., and its mouth to watch for possible levee breaks as the crest of the combined Sacramento and American rivers surges down stream. The engineers termed the situation critical and ordered out 150 men to patrol levees near Sacramento. Crews worked on levees weakened by nine days of rain.

The second danger area was near Modesto, where runoff waters from the Don Pedro dam are expected to invade lowlands and residential areas today. The dam filled yesterday and 26,000 cubic feet of water a second are still flowing into it.

General relief seemed to be at hand, however.

The weather bureau in San Francisco reported "the excessive rainstorm . . . is ended."

Fire Guts Apartment Marshal Investigates

PORT ROWAN, Nov. 22 (CP) —Fire last night swept through a two-storey apartment building here causing damage estimated at more than $20,000. No one was hurt.

The blaze was the third which has broken out in this western Ontario port town within a week. Inspector John Richards of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office, investigating the first two fires, indicated he would add Tuesday's to his probe.

Train Stop Order Not Delivered

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22 (CP).— Failure to deliver an order caused the head-on collision of the Canadian National Railways passenger train and a troop train yesterday near Canoe River, B. C.

An official statement issued here today by J. R. McMillan, CNR vice-president, B.C. division said:

"It has been established that the accident was a result of the failure to deliver to the passenger extra—the troop train—instructions to meet train No. 2 at Cederside. . . where it was the intention that the trains should meet. These instructions had been delivered to train No. 2.

"Further investigation is continuing, but full details establishing responsibility await official enquiry."

Cederside is approximately five miles east of where the collision occurred, taking toll of at least 20 dead and 58 injured.

Earlier, in Jasper, Alta., another CNR official blamed the collision on omission of three words from a train order.

That official said the words "at Canoe River" were dropped from a message given to the conductor of the troop train.

She'll Never Know

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22 (AP) —Mrs. Ida Fein will never know how her first pumpkin pie came out.

Mrs. Fein is more or less reconciled to the theft of her silverware, table linen, frozen chicken, liquor and toy bank. But she's still furious about one item the thief took—a pumpkin pie.

"I've been married 22 years and it was the first pumpkin pie I ever baked. Now I'll never know how it turned out."

Passenger, Troop Trains Collide In Rockies; Dead: Soldiers, Crews

Stop Order Not Delivered To Troop Train Care Of Injured Quickly Organized By Troops, Passengers In Bitter Cold

By A. B. GARRETT

EDMONTON, Nov. 22—(CP)—Toll of dead and missing in a Rocky Mountain train wreck mounted to 20 today as Army and railway officials pieced together the story of one of Canada's worst railway disasters. At least 61 persons were injured, 22 seriously. A doctor who supervised rescue operations at the wreck scene on a desolate mountain slope, 312 miles west of here, said he feared the death toll would be much higher.

The trains—an eastbound passenger and a westbound trooper—rammed into each other on a curve only half a mile past a 500-foot canyon.

They were scheduled to meet at a nearby whistle stop but a railway official in Vancouver said today the passing order was never delivered to the troop train—westbound from Sioux, Man., with 340 members of Canada's Special Service Force. They were headed for Fort Lewis, Wash., and possible duty in Korea.

Army officials said that the bodies of 10 soldiers were taken from the shattered remains of three railway coaches. Two of the injured died en route to hospital in an emergency train. Four soldiers are missing and believed dead. Four crew members of the giant mountain-type locomotives were still buried today in the crumpled remains of their engines.

Ice-coated

The emergency train — remnants of the 17-car troop train—lumbered into the Canadian National Railways station here early today. It was coated with ice and many of the windows were broken.

The temperature was 15 degrees below zero as the injured were removed on stretchers through the train windows to a waiting fleet of 12 ambulances — all available in Edmonton.

The soldiers were members of Canada's Special Force bound for

Ford Workers Stage Walkout After Layoff

WINDSOR, Nov. 22 (CP)—An unauthorized walkout today of assembly-line employees of Ford Motor Company of Canada was announced by a company spokesman.

Roy England, president of the Ford local of United Automobile Workers (CIO), said he did not know anything about the walkout.

Assembly-line workers returned to work this morning after a two-day layoff which the company said was caused by material shortages and lack of parts for new-model passenger cars.

More than 5,000 Ford workers were made idle two weeks ago during the factory change-over to 1951 models.

Talks With Company

"We don't know whether it is a walkout or a lockout," Mr. England said. He was discussing the situation with the company and the union would have a statement to make later today.

The company said that the big plant four, where assembly operations are centred, was closed down. There was no further indication from the company on what happened at the plant.

Board May Hold Public Inquiry

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 — (CP). — The Board of Transport Commissioners will decide later whether to hold a public inquiry into yesterday's train wreck in the Rockies, it was announced today.

Vancouver and Calgary officers of the board, the Federal agency that regulates the railways, have been at the scene of the wreck and will report their findings to the commissioners here. The commission then will determine whether the circumstances justify a formal inquiry.

In the event one were ordered, officials said, it might not open for three or four weeks, since many of the witnesses would be among the injured now in hospital.

The last wreck subjected to a formal board inquiry was a train collision September 1, 1947, at Dugald, Man., in which 31 persons were killed.

To Take Active Part

Canada To Boost Air Aid To Europe

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 (CP). — Canada is planning to boost the proposed scale of her air-power contribution to the peacetime defence of Europe, Air Marshal W. A. Curtis has indicated.

The original plan, before Korea was that one fighter squadron at a time would go to Britain to train starting early next year. The chief of the air staff, in a November news letter to former airmen, indicates that this proposal will go by the boards and that more than one squadron will serve abroad simultaneously.

Further he strips away any doubt that the squadrons are ticketed for anything less than European defence, and says "direct aid" for the United Nations and for the Atlantic Pact powers has become one of the two main purposes of the RCAF's big expansion program.

Two Programs

The chief says the RCAF operational elements "are being equipped and trained to operate anywhere" and said that in addition to the transport squadron now in U.N. service to Korea:

"Our next operational contribution will be made early next year when a fighter squadron will be moved to the United Kingdom. It will be followed later by others all eventually to be using Canadian-built aircraft. . . And air contribution to Europe is of the greatest value."

Air Marshall Curtis is out of town but a spokesman at headquarters said it is possible that more than one squadron will be posted to Europe at one time once the fighter squadron expansion program really swings into stride next year. More than five fighter squadrons are slated to be formed.

The first to go to Britain, No. 421 of Chatham, N.B., will be equipped with RAF Vampires in Britain at first and then get Canadian-made F86 Sabres, deliveries of which should start by the end of this year.

Air Marshall Curtis urged former members of the force to seek recruits so it can have a waiting list of candidates. He said it needs men for virtually every trade as well as aircrew candidates.

He said top priority in the internal part of the RCAF program is being given to air defence and secondly to maritime — that is coastal and anti-submarine—operations. All squadrons would be at wartime strength, that is, considerably larger than is normal in peacetime.

Canadian Comeback

Merchant Fleet Afloat

By JOHN LeBLANC.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 (CP). — Canada's deep-sea merchant fleet is staging a comeback.

A years ago it appeared headed for the economic rocks. Now, it is sailing smoother waters.

And it is about 50 per cent greater than was anticipated by the government last December when it announced a subsidy plan to keep a fraction of the post-war fleet under the Canadian flag for a year.

In Mothballs

At that time, Canada had about 175 deep-sea vessels of the dry-cargo type, and many of them were in "moth balls" for lack of business due tot heir high operating costs in a keenly-competitive market. The fleet appeared to have little chance of survival.

"It has been demonstrated," Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons last Dec. 9, "that Canadian vessels with their present high costs cannot be operated."

Await Pool

A government plan was put into effect, aimed at salvaging a portion of the fleet temporarily, until the creation of a shipping pool of North Atlantic Pact powers that would provide Canada with ships in event of war.

This called for retaining only about 40 vessels under the Canadian flag, to be assisted for one year only—this year—by a $3,000,000 federal subsidy. As many of the remainder as possible were to be transferred to British registry, with their ownership remaining in Canada.

Permission was obtained for putting 123 ships under the British flag. But in the meantime ocean shipping business has picked up, and Canadian owners of only 95 of the ships have taken advantage of the scheme to man their vessels with lower-wage British crews and participate in sterling cargoes.

Stopped In Operation Fired From Hospital

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Nov. 22 (AP)—A non-Roman Catholic doctor said tonight he was stopped from performing a sterilization operation by a sister in a Roman Catholic hospital.

Dr. J. M. Stephens, 36, said he was "dismissed" from the staff of Catholic Mercy Hospital here for attempting to sterilize a maternity patient. He said he considered the operation necessary from a medical standpoint.

Sister Mary Stanislaus, in charge of the operating room involved in the incident, denied that Dr. Stephens was dismissed. She said he was "denied the use of the hospital" for violating a "national code of ethics established for Catholic hospitals in regard to these matters."

Giant Plane Crashes Two Dead

10 Men Parachute From Army Bomber, Crew Usually 15

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 22 (AP) — A giant B-36 bomber crashed today about 30 miles southwest of Fort Worth. First reports were that 10 men bailed from the craft, which is the world's largest land-based bomber. At least two men were reported dead. The B-36 usually carries a crew of 15.

The six-engined craft fell about 4½ hours after taking off from Carswell Air Force base here, home of the Eighth Air Force.

The plane crashed about seven miles west of the small town of Godley where two men killed in the crash were taken to a nearby farm.

"An American Air Lines pilot says 10 men bailed out," a Public Relations officer said. "Ordinarily a B-36 carries a crew of 15."

Only twice before has one of the far-ranging giants crashed. Last Feb. 14 one crashed along the British Columbia coast. Seventeen airmen parachuted and 12 later were rescued from coastal islands. Five airmen were killed Sept. 16, 1949, when a B-36 failed to complete a take-off from Carswell and roared into a nearby lake at 100 miles an hour.

Ald. Gillespie Battles Vs. Craft Costs

A verbal battle was waged at the monthly meeting of the Recreation Commission Tuesday night before a decision was made to buy a kiln for the pottery classes at Dixon House.

The spark that set off the fireworks came from Ald. James Gillespie, the council's representative on the commission, after Mrs. James Wharry, handicraft chairman, had presented the cost of a satisfactory kiln to the commission $230, without installation costs.

For some time the commission has been discussing a kiln for the handicraft centre at Dixon house to be used in the pottery classes.

Ald. Gillespie reminded the commission that $497 out of the budget's $600 for crafts has already been used and "I thipk that's plenty for crafts".

Mrs. Wharry countered saying that crafts can become one of the most important recreations in the city. She added that she was just going to suggest that a full-time craft teacher and organizer be employed by the commission. Across the country, she added, groups are trying to build up Canadian crafts that have been forgotten.

Several members said that they understood that the craft groups were gradually becoming self-sustaining. R. E. MacDonald, treasurer, reported that $2310 was spent in 1948 on crafts and their working equipment. He didn't recall how much had been spent last year.

Unconvinced

Ald. Gillespie said then, "I'm not convinced of the need for craft classes." He added later that if it was an educational proposition, it should come under the Board of Education.

R. J. Bolton and Thomas Allen then joined in support of Mrs. Wharry.

Colonel Bolton moved that $400 be granted for the kiln and its installation. The motion passed with one dissenting vote.

Fort Lewis, Wash., from Shilo, Man.

They were of the Second Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Railway officials in Edmonton said all cars on both trains were steel construction.

No injuries were reported among passengers on the other train, the Continental Limited bound for Montreal from Vancouver.

Railway officials said the 17-car trooper was slightly late as it pounded through Canoe River siding and upgrade along a wooded hillside.

Crashed On Bend

As it rounded a bend it ground headlong into the locomotive of the flyer. The baggage car and three sleepers were flung off the rails. Two sleepers were shattered, the front of the third badly damaged.

Baggage and express cars of the flier were derailed.

A cloud of steam enveloped the wreck as the heating line from the locomotive burst.

The cars were quickly sheathed in ice as the steam met zero temperature.

Help Injured

Troops and passengers poured out of the trains to help the injured. Their efforts were hampered by the bitter cold and six inches of snow lying on the mountainside.

The soldiers quickly organized aid for the injured. Two dining cars on the troop train were cleared for use as a hospital.

Dr. P. S. Kimmett of Edson, Alta., a passenger on the Continental Limited, took charge. His wife acted as nurse. They were assisted by Jack Cook, CNR regional first-aid officer from Vancouver, and a Mrs. Lennie of Edmonton.

Wrecking Trains

An emergency telephone was rigged to communication lines damaged in the wreck, and a report of the crash brought wrecking trains and medical aid from Jasper, Alta., and Kamloops, B.C.

As passengers not engaged in helping the injured waited three hours for help, they huddled in the heatless coaches of the trains.

Six hours after the wreck, an emergency train made up of undamaged coaches of the trooper moved down the mountainside.

Residents of Jasper had organized accommodation for the injured in the small town hospital and in the school auditorium, but officials decided to continue to Edmonton after some ice was removed from the running gear of the coaches.

Doctors, Nurses

As the train rolled east early today, a one-car special from Edmonton carrying army doctors, nursing sisters and medical orderlies from western army command went west to meet it at Edson, Alta., half way to Jasper.

The train was loaded with medical supplies and first-aid equipment.

Aboard the hospital train were 42 soldiers listed as stretcher cases—22 of them in serious condition from scalding by steam—11 injured who were able to walk and the bodies of 12 of their comrades recovered from the wreck.

Names Withheld

Names of the soldiers were withheld until their next-of-kin had been notified.

Engineer of the troop train was Harvey Church, and his fireman was P. D. Prosinuk. Engineer of the other train was J. J. Stinson and fireman Adam Oleschuck.

Known injured on the troop train were two Winnipeg porters, W. Walsh and W. W. Worrall, P. Godein, pantryman, and C. Clouzeau, news agent.

If things go as well as they did in the best year in the past, Alex stands to shove as much as $13,000 in his blue denims.

88 Sold

The fair tried a new feature this year—the "sale of stars." For the first time breeding cattle are being sold at auction at the Royal. Eighty-eight Aberdeen Angus, Herefords and Shorthorns were sold at three separate auctions in the last couple of days and brought a total of $41,745.

Aberdeen Angus have brought the best average price so far and a bull owned by Edwards Brothers of Walford, Ont., was sold for $8,350, highest price ever obtained for an Aberdeen Angus bull in Canada and the highest for any animal sold at the fair this week.

Shorthorn $2,550

Thirty Shorthorns last night brought $24,320. Highest price of $2,550 was paid by Freling Huysen of Homdel, N.Y., to S. C. Bennett of Georgetown, Ont., for a junior yearling bull that finished fourth in his class.

At the horse show the fair's classy night-time attraction, Great Britain last night won the international judging competition to tie Mexico with three firsts in the seven nights so far of the riding contest. Canada picked off the other first place Monday night.

Tonight in the international team challenge trophy contest, the teams from Mexico, Chile, Republic of Ireland, United States, Great Britain and Canada meet here for the last time this year.

Order New Trial Operation Case

TORONTO, Nov. 22 (CP) — The conviction of an Ottawa laboratory technician, Edwin Berkeley, for manslaughter and his eight-year prison sentence both were quashed by the Ontario Court of Appeal yesterday. The court ordered a new trial.

Berkeley had been convicted by an Ottawa jury before Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder of causing the death of Jean Kritsch through an illegal operation. The case was heard last May.

The appeal, presented by G. Arthur Martin, was based on the claims that the trial judge had erred in failing to direct the jury that it could find that others were accomplices, that it was dangerous to convict on the evidence of witnesses suspected of having been accomplices, and that the Crown had not proved that the autopsy, on which the case was based actually was performed on the body of Jean Kritsch.

Lakefield C of C Endorses Mains

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 22—(ENS).—The Lakefield waterworks and sewage disposal issue which will be presented to the residents November 30 was unanimously endorsed by the Lakefield Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night. A secret ballot was taken at the general membership meeting.

Reeve W. C. Grant, guest speaker, spoke on this year's issue and pointed out that the business men have the least to fear from the cost of the project as they can write off their portion as business expense. The same applies to people who own houses and have a leased them. The vote took place after he had spoken.

Elwood Northey, past president of the chamber and a druggist, spoke in favor of the waterworks but objected to the current proposal because it does not cover all the village. C. J. Davis, saying that the village required waterworks, warned that without it the danger of a typhoid epidemic exists.

A discussion was held and plans made for a membership drive to be convened by Wesley Graham. The chamber also discussed projects for advertising the village. Signs were suggested at Highway 28 at the Buckhorn road and at the sixth line of Douro.

New Collegiate Finances

Ratepayers are being asked on election day to approve the raising of $585,000, to build a new collegiate. In other words, they are asked to vote themselves an increase in taxes, which is always unpleasant even when necessary and advisable. However, the $585,000 wallop will not be as hard to bear as some people are inclined to think. In fact, it will be only a glancing blow. After 1958 the new Collegiate will cost taxpayers less than 25 cents extra on every $1,000 of their assessment. The way we arrive at that amazingly low figure is as follows:

* * *

The yearly payments, over a period of twenty years, on debentures amounting to $585,000 will be approximately $38,000. At the present assessment of the city, that works out to less than a mill. This mill—one dollar tax on every thousand dollars of assessment—will be significantly offset in the school tax rate by 1958 and '59. In 1957 two debenture issues to provide for the building of the Collegiate and Vocational School addition in 1927 will be paid off; in 1958 a third debenture issue for the same addition will be redeemed. These three, totalling $397,000 require yearly payments of approximately $27,000. Thus by 1958 this $27,000 annual drain on the school taxes will have ended. The debentures for the proposed new Collegiate will require an annual payment of about $38,000. Therefore after 1958 the added burden of debenture payments which the new school would impose would amount to only $11,000. This would be about a quarter of a mill on the rates, or 25 cents on each thousand dollars of assessment.

* * *

What would the extra tax be on an average property assessed at $4,000? It would be only four dollars. Even that would be reduced by a quarter because of annual government grants on the new Collegiate—to three dollars. For six or seven years, from 1952 to 1958 or '59 the debenture payments on the Vocational School and the new Collegiate would run concurrently. After that time the old debentures will have been redeemed, and the extra burden on taxpayers would drop to about a dollar on a $4,000 assessment; or, taking into account the Provincial grants, to about 80 cents.

* * *

Another cheerful point to consider is this: The Vocational School debentures issued in the '20's bear interest at five per cent. It is expected that debentures on the new Collegiate would cost less than three per cent. in interest. The only cheap thing about building these days is the interest rate. For municipal Peterborough it is the cheapest it has ever been.

* * *

Ratepayers should not fear the cost of supporting the Collegiate by-law. Plans for financing the new school are rational. It will be no great burden; only three dollars tax on $4,000 assessment.

The Mystery of Canadian Pilgrim

Elsewhere on this page appears a letter from a former Wing Commander of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. who takes issue with our criticism of the affair of Canadian Pilgrim. The writer obviously speaks with authority on wartime flying, in which great risks are necessarily involved and we would take his word as final in such matters; it is the task of commercial peacetime flying, however, to eliminate every possible risk, and we do not believe that this was done in the case of Canadian Pilgrim.

It is one of the strictest rules of commercial flying in the seven recognized long-distance passenger companies in Canada, that when a pilot has once handed in his flight-plan at the point of his departure, he must not depart from it in any way without making his intention known to the authorities on the ground. Canadian Pilgrim took a completely different route from that which was scheduled, flying over terrain which one eminent Canadian flyer has called "the graveyard of Europe"; apparently no one knew that this change had been made until after the crash.

We did not say that 58 passengers was an overload on such a trip; we said that it was a full load. And we must repeat our assertion that it is not the place of civilian passenger planes to seek new air-routes; their job is to get their passengers from one place to another without doing anything which is calculated to put those passengers in unnecessary danger. If it can be shown that no needless risk was taken on Canadian Pilgrim none will be happier than we.

A Winter Campaign In Korea?

The splendid advances made last month by U.N. forces, chiefly Americans, seemed to have brought the war in Korea within a few days of the end. The bogging down in the last four weeks has therefore come as a sharp disappointment to western observers, and a trial to the men on the spot and others who may be sent there. Why the halt, with victory and the border so near? One reason was the stiffer resistance and the Chinese forces encountered. Another is that winter has come to Korea, winter more severe than those in Italy which brought the Ortona campaign to a dead stop at the end of December 1943, and the Po River campaign to muddy, wet, indeterminate halts in October and November and to a final winter line in December, through wet plains and snow-covered mountains. Mechanized armies cannot win decisive victories in northern winters. It may be that a winter line must be formed in Korea, and that the final phase may not come until spirng.

There is hope, however, now that the great advance has been made and the distance to the border is relatively so short, the thing can be ended without mounting a major offensive which would require better weather than Korea will provide until March. To carry on static warfare for four months within firing and bombing range of the Manchurian border would impose military and diplomatic difficulties likely to be dangerous. The world would breathe more easily if the Korean war were to be concluded before next year. This is possible, as it was possible to advance in limited instances in Italy during the late autumn.

Sir Richard Turner, V.C.

Last week we carried a photograph of two distinguished Canadian soldiers, both generals. The one's face is known to every Canadian: Viscount Alexander, Governor-General The other was known to every Canadian fifty years ago: Sir Richard Turner, V.C., K.C.B., K.C.M.G., D.S.O. Fifty years ago on November 7th, then Lieutenant Richard Turner performed a feat of great valour which won him the Victoria Cross. The citation appearing in the London Gazette of November 23rd, 1901, reads as follows:

"On the 7th of November, 1900, at the Komati River (Lillefontein), two guns of the British column, rear guard to a convoy, were attacked by an overwhelming force of Boers. Endeavours were made to extricate the guns, but Boers following in pursuit in large numbers, the horses of the guns became very exhausted and came down to a walk, Lieutenant Turner with a party of Royal Canadian Dragoons, although twice wounded, gallantly dismounted his men, and from his personal initiative, succeeded in saving the guns."

Lieutenant Turner, V.C., also received the D.S.O. in the Boer War and promotion. At the outbreak of the Great War he was a lieutenant-colonel. At the war's end he was a lieutenant-general and a Knight Commander of the Bath and a Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George.

Now in his eightieth year and living in retirement in Quebec, he is Canada's most distinguished elder soldier.

A Tear For France

France is believed to have got off lightly in the last war, compared with the Great War. This is true, as regards human casualties, if one may use the word 'lightly' in reference to more than half a million killed.

The French government has just computed that its country's total of persons killed during the last war was 576,000. In the war of 1914-18, France lost 1,301,567, (By comparison, the British Empire had, in that war, a total of 1,104,800, killed or dead of wounds, and the U.S.A. 50,280.) France's lesser figure of the late war is wry comfort, and there are newly disturbing elements in it. Of the total of 576,000, 198,000 were killed in action from 1940 to 1945; 9,844 were shot for resistance activities; 37,006 were killed in Maquis (organized resistance) operations; 59,225 were killed in air-raids, and 182,000 died in captivity to which they had been deported for political or racial reasons. It is these last several categories, new to the annals of modern war, which are frightening and most distressful; and also the round figures: '576,000 casualties'; '198,000 killed in action', '182,000 deportees'. Terribly vague round numbers they are.

Canada's killed in the last war numbered 41,992.

NOTE AND COMMENT

As the Calgary Herald sagely remarks, one man's mate is another man's poison.

The full title of the new Swedish monarch mentions that he is King of the Wends, a now forgotten tribe. As the Calgary Herald remarks, this corresponds to being C.C.F. leader in Quebec.

ON THE MARGIN:

War and Peace

THE TRAP, by Dan Billany (Faber and Faber, British Book Service).

I COMMENCED this book with a feeling of antipathy because, on the back flap of the dust cover, the publishers proclaimed that "The Trap is an outstanding book by a writer of natural genius." and this has been claimed by so many publishers about so much junk in recent years that I put two strikes against it before I started. But for once this was no idle claim, Dan Billany is dead now, he died before the book even reached his publisher and it has not been revised. Though how or where he could have improved it with revision is beyond me. It is a straightforward account of a young army subaltern's life and love during the war. It is not an unusual story but it is so magnificently written that you do not read it—you are there, living it. The realism of the camp life in the army, the troopship, the Libyan battleground, the prisoner of war camp, is easily understandable—these places were home to Dan Billany at one time or another—but the feelings of Elizabeth, the girl who marries the subaltern, especially when her home is bombed and her brother killed, are incredibly real and vivid. None of the characters ever commits a mistake that might render him fictitious. Mam is always Mother, infuriating, pathetic and loving. Dad is everybody's father whose dreams and plans had to bow to necessity and the cost of a family. David is the sort of brother most of us know well, who goads and teases and then does something kind and loving so that the teased one feels guilty for having lost temper. These people, and more, will invade your room whilst you have "The Trap" in front of you. If this is taken from Billany's own life he had a remarkable amount of patience; the effort to straighten out one of the young defaulters in his company in spite of endless setbacks and the disapproval of company disciplinarians is a wonderful example of a man's faith in the essential goodness of his fellows.

Critics and public alike have lamented loudly that "No great names came out of this war as they did out of the last" but great names can only arrive from great acclaim and most of the acclaim seems to veer to the side of the "Kittys" and "Forever Ambers" of this age which, interesting and amusing as they may be, will not serve to tell future generations of what we were but merely tells the present generation of the others long ago. Obviously great things did come from this war. We have counted and mourned the individual's losses, but we are only beginning now, in works like "The Trap" to gauge the sum total of the collective loss. Possibly the reason for the lack of general recognition of poets like Alun Lewis and Sidney A. Keyes, and many of their contemporaries is that they did not die crying "For King and Country" and extol the glories of war in verse and prose. They knew the horror and enormity of the thing required of them. They were not afraid to admit that war was the ultimate degradation; it was necessary and it was done but the literature of today does not try and dress it up. "The Trap" is not a 'pretty' book but it is an honest one and it is very readable. Although Dan Billany, were he alive, would be disgusted with comparison, he himself says in this book that "It seems to make it hard for a simple soul like me, who isn't certain what his own voice sounds like anyway, simply to model his simple personal story in the material of words" without, as he has explained earlier being accused of copying either Hemingway or Powys or Lawrence. But I, being humble and only capable of measuring by comparison, must say that in this work is that which is comparable to the best of Hemingway and the best of D. H. Lawrence and I hope the readers of this column will respect my humble opinion and now allow all that remains of Dan Billany to pass unnoticed. He died of wounds received while trying to end the activities of an informer and only the voice of his ghost in the form of his writing is left to be heard.

THE DREAMING SHORE by Olivia Manning (Evans Brothers, British Book Service).

THIS beautiful book takes the reader—or it may be a wanderer by foot, bus or car, using it as a guide—from Cork and the groves of Blarney all the way up the west coast of Ireland to the hills of Donegal and the Irish locks near Derry. This is "The Dreaming Shore", the past and present of countryside, mountain, littoral and islands which have suffered less from the rigours of progress than most other civilized regions of the earth.

Here are Cork and its busy contact with the outside world; the eighteenth century magnificence of Limerick; the ancient grandeur lingering in corners of Galway. It is the country where a young woman with a child in her arms might say, when asked how far it is to Dunquin, "It might be six miles now, but it's a long time since I've been as far myself". Sligo and the Yeats' country with its Lake Isle of Innisfree and, right there too, Coney Island, the original.

As the writer makes her way on foot and bus, she sees the poverty and the tinkers, the grandeur and the perversity and relates them without partisanship of the Irish or Irish emigre (she is English) and without being archly romantic. She even goes as far as to say that Ireland is both refuge and prison.

History, legend, and lyric are woven into the story with scholarly regard and narrative skill. There are stories of famous and infamous people; of Cromwell and clan, of Red Hugh O'Donnell, one of Ireland's greatest commanders; of the ancient Kings of Ireland, and the terrible account of James Lynch and his son Walter, c. 1492. The father, as judge, personally hanged the son who had killed his best friend, a Spaniard, in jealous rage.

There is the church of St. Nicholas in Galway, much as it was when Walter Lynch looked on it for the last time, with today's caretaker and guide whose "brilliant, intelligent glance takes a powerful hold upon the visitors"..... "'And now .....' a pause at the altar rail, a great intake of breath and a glance round to ensure attention before this last momentous anouncement, 'Twas here, at this very rail, that Christopher Columbus and his men knelt to receive the Mass before they set out to discover America. ''Twas there', his hand pats the rail, he sighs. 'Just here'."

It is a fascinating book to read; as rich in story, picture, (there are splendid illustrations) kindliness, phrase and shrewd sense as the Dreaming Shore itself. A fine present to oneself or a friend, and reasonably priced. It lacks an index.

Letters To The Editor

INJUSTICE TO PILOT OF CANADIAN PILGRIM

Sir: I read with great interest your editorial on the crash of the Canadian Pilgrim and, for once, I feel I am not in accord with your thinking. I feel this editorial is the product of a bystander and not a person qualified to judge the actions of the pilot, obviously the writer is not acquainted with the flying procedure in effect throughout the world, including Canada, and that is that once airborne the Captain's word is the final word—the responsibility is his and the final decision also.

I feel the crew of the aircraft in question has been paid a great posthumous injustice. We are not familiar with the conditions that existed inside the aircraft, so who are we to judge whether he was to take a short cut? Did anyone know whether he was operating at full power and at what altitude? Who are we, at this distance, to question when the answers will not be known for some time—if at all. I should hate to question the writer's theory that this could not happen to Trans Canada, may I say that on one trans-Atlantic trip on which I was a passenger and which was due to stop in Newfoundland the pilot announced that he would be landing in Montreal instead, this was his decision alone. Suppose he had miscalculated on fuel—this has happened.

The Curtis Company is operating as a charter company and is continually over new routes and sometimes without beams or radio aids. We cannot say this of Trans-Canada who will not carry fare-paying passengers until a route has been explored for sometime and under all conditions which of course makes any comparison between the companys quite unfair. If we are to advance the unscheduled airlanes of the world, which is most essential to the northern parts of our own country we must accept the routine carried out by the company and pilot of the Canadian Pilgrim.

In Canada hundreds of aircraft make unscheduled passenger flights every week and, when accidents occur, no great heed is paid to these except for rescue procedure. The pilot is not condemned for his route which at times may be open to criticism.

I feel I am as qualified to judge this from the facts which are availab.e, regrettably few as they are. (Is the statement that the 58 passengers constituted an overload a guess because 58 people just seem like an overload to the non-flying public or is it a known fact?) The undersigned has flown 3,000 hours in various parts of the world and at one time was Captain of an aircraft with RAF Trans-Atlantic Ferry Command where the pilot's word was, necessarily, the final one.

I do not feel we are in a position to condemn, it is always much easier to condemn than it is to do the right thing at the right time, when seconds count.

Yours truly,
WM. GARFIELD THOMPSON,
Ex-Wing Commander RAF, RCAF.

ENQUIRY ABOUT P.C.V.S.

Sir: Would you please enquire and print in this column the number of students 19 years of age or over who are attending the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School.

Thanking you,
"INQUISITIVE P.B.D."

ED. NOTE: In May, 1950, there were 77 students of 19 or over out of a total of 1,255 in P.C.V.S. Figures for this autumn are not at present available.

COUNCIL MORTGAGED MONEY

Sir: How about the taxes on the ratepayers in 1951 and 1952 for all this deficit at the hospital and this extra money to be voted on, for hospital, collegiate and other things in the offing. Are the council going haywire in the spending of the people's money? It is alright for the Council or Board to pass all these things just because they are proposed, but they should weigh the pros and cons of where they are going to get the money from. You know the taxpayers are not getting much more than they did in 1949 and see how the taxes have soared. If it goes much higher they will be taking the houses for the unpaid taxes as they have done before, because the ordinary working man cannot afford to pay much more. The food has gone up, the coal has gone up and now the telephones are going up, and lots of other things have gone up too—clothes, shoes, etc. No wonder we can't get new factories or businesses to locate here, the taxes are too high, so they go elsewhere. It is time this spending spree was stopped.

If we, as housewives, were to do the same as the Council—mortgage our wages before we get it where would we be? On the out, I'm afraid.

Yours truly,
(MRS.) F. J. PARSONS.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgements which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and keep, and do them. (Deut. 5: 1.)

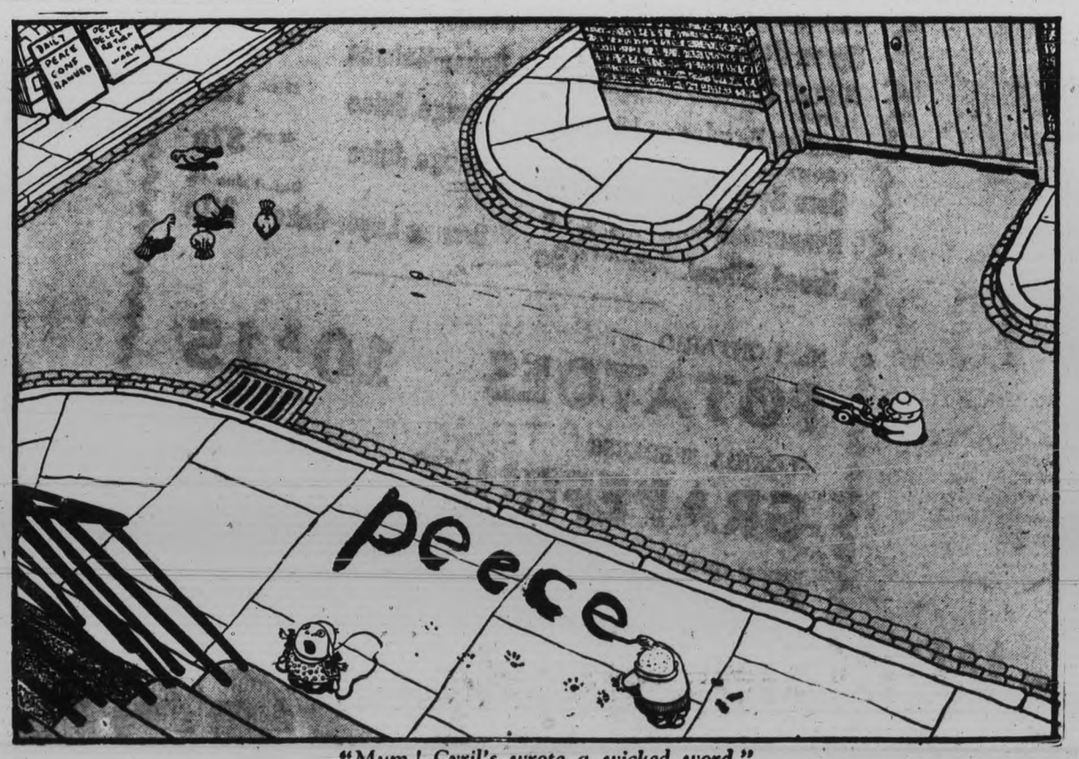
✧ ✧ ✧

When thou art come into the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations. There shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch, or a charmer, or a consulter with familiar spirits, or a wizard, or a necromancer. For all that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord: and because of these abominations the Lord thy God doth drive them out from before thee.

Thou shalt be perfect with the Lord thy God. For these nations, which thou shalt possess, hearkened unto observers of times, and unto diviners: but as for thee, the Lord thy God hath not suffered thee so to do. The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken. (Deut. 18: 9-15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

In the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink.... Many of the people therefore, when they heard this saying, said, Of a truth this is the Prophet. (John 7: 37, 40.)



✧ ✧ ✧

Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. (John 8: 12.)

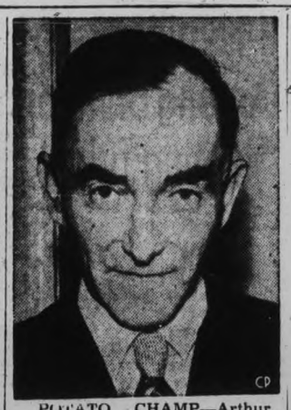
Doucett Opens $150,000 Bridge

CHESTERVILLE, Nov. 22 (CP) —A new bridge over the Nation river was opened in this Eastern Ontario community in bitter weather yesterday by Ontario Highways Minister Doucett.

The $150,000 steel and concrete three-lane span replaces a one-lane bridge which has served the district for 80 years.

The highways minister said the old Chesterville span was only one of 15,000 in Ontario which have outlived their usefullness. Eventually, he added, the Ontario government hopes to replace all of them with bridges similar to the bridge here.



However, "if we are to cope with the through traffic in our province we must spend more than ever before on the construction of King's highways in Ontario," he added.

The minister said that since 1941, motor vehicle registration in Ontario has increased by more than 300,000 and now is increasing at the rate of 15,000 a month.

Masked Marvel Beats Tim In Main Bout of Mat Card

The Masked Marvel downed the hero, Timothy Geohagen, in the final fall of the main pro mat bout at the Brock Arena last night as a hefty crowd booed lustily. Wee Willie Davis won and lost the semi-final with Pat Flanagan—and also ruined the ring—while the prelim between Tony Lanza and George Manson (subbing for Dan O'Connor) went to a draw.

SWEEPS WINNER—Smiling Mrs. Betty Leduc of Montreal holds her prize-winning ticket in the Army and Navy Veterans Association, Quebec Division, sweepstakes which brought her $32,000. She held a ticket on Coltbridge which won the November running of the Manchester Handicap.

The last fall of the night came at six minutes of the third round when the Marvel threw popular Tim, who scaled but 223 to the other's 242 pounds, over a quickly-vacated fans' bench as both grappled out of the ring. The Marvel got back into the enclosure in time to beat the count and win the fall, Geohagen being stunned temporarily. Some of the fans went after the Mask—who had roughed it all the way—and his hooded manager as they left the ring but no damage resulted, Wee Willie Davis being on hand to help them out.

Evened It Up

Tim took the second and equalizing fall in seven minutes with his special grip—a sort of paralyzing head-shaking hold—after first twisting the mask on his opponent so that the latter couldn't see. The Marvel had tried his usual stunt of pulling hair, rasping eyes and using the choke hold until Geohagen softened him up by tying him in the ropes and throwing tackles the Mask's way. The fans were happy over the fall. The grapplers stayed in the ring between falls to make up for time lost in the first round when a ring plank broke and had to be changed.

Though strong and a clean wrestler, Geohagen was outroughed to lost the opening fall in 16 minutes. The Mask played it dirty from the start and got away with a lot as referee Sammy Gotter was lost most of the time. The Mask used two knee backbreakers for the fall after softening Tim up in hard style. Once Tim got his Irish up to chase the hooded manager (busy giving advice in a corner) around the post. Some hard action but not too much good wrestling was seen.

The Best Bout

Wee Willie Davis and bouncing Pat Flanagan dished up a livelier struggle in the semi-final which went 18 minutes. Wee Willie had his hand lifted first for the fall but, when he brutally kicked his fallen foe out of the ring, the ref. jumped out and lifted the hand of the prostrate Pat. The latter was pounced on again after he got to his feet and was enroute to the dressing room. Up there, he was sick to the stomach from the hard kicks to the midriff. However, Pat proved faster and trickier throughout the go to give huge Willie (just 276 pounds to his 230) a rough time of it in a wide-open bout that had the fans yelling for him Willie finally got him with two throws into the turnbuckles and a body slam, his height and weight paying off. Then his aftergong rough stuff cost him the bout.

Tony Lanza of Montreal, 210 pounds, and 225-pound George Manson of Detroit, went to a 30-minute prelim draw. The ref. was roundly booed when introduced. The grapplers put on a good show, fast, rough and with some new stuff shown, but the fans didn't warm up for a time. Near the finish, the place was pretty much in an uproar as the rivals threw the book at each other. The fans loved the way Lanza rode piggy-back on his villainous opponent, but both got in a lot of illegal stuff at a hot clip, a bit too fast for referee Sammy Gotter.

Junior Marlies Hit Form Swat Flyers 3-1

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Marlboros, junior members of the Toronto Maple Leaf farm system, after a slow start are once again showing the form that carried them to first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A schedule last season. The Marlies knocked off the league-leading Barrie Flyers 3-1 atr Maple Leaf Gadens last night and 2xictory brought them to within two points of first place.

St. Mike's Win

The game, in which Marlboros held command throughout, was the first half of a double bill. In the second game, Toronto St. Michael's came up with their third victory of the season, defeating the still-winless Waterloo Hurricanes 5-1.

Undefeated in their last three games and loser of only one in the last seven, Marlboros last night made up for a 9-2 setback handed them by the Flyers in the previous meeting between the two teams this season.

They did it in fairly convincing fashion, scoring a goal a period and keeping the Flyers off the score sheet until the final frame when Leo Labine beat Don Lockhart on a solo effort.

Lumley Gets Two

John Lumley of Marlboros, who joined Labine for five minutes in the penalty box after a second-period fight, scored two goals, his second with Barrie shorthanded. Paul McDonald fired home Eric Nesterenko's pass for the other one.

Poland Hurt

Marlboros suffered a blow when centre Danny Poland had to be carried from the ice on a stretcher after a mix-up near the Toronto goal. He was unconscious for about 15 minutes before being taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. He was reported suffering from a possible concussion, although feeling better.

The second half of the twin bill marked the first meeting of the season between the ninth and tenth place clubs in the junior loop. St. Mike's, now six points out of third place, led 2-0 at the end of the first period on goals by Joe Ingoldsby and Fred Sandford. Bob Sabourin added one in the middle period, and Jackie Weldrake, who also assisted on two goals, shared final period scoring with Bill Dineen.

The Hurricanes came through with their only goal in the last period when Roger Maisonneuve beat Bob Shropshire on a passing play with Charlie Macdonald and Dunnette.

12 Losses

The Hurricanes, who now have a record of one tie and 12 losses, have taken steps to bolster their last-place team. They have obtained left winger Paul Oliver, who scored close to a point a game for Oshawa Generals, in a trade for right-winger Gordon Boniface, and also have signed Ross Kelley, a Toronto Mercantile League defenceman.

Cards Top Lasses

Cardinals rolled high pinnage of 2,980 and Curtin's had leading single of 1,102 this week in the Girls' City Bowling League at Duffus'. D. McArthur led the lasses in triples with 688 and D. Mason's 295 single effort was best. G. Marshall won the 577 blind score with her 558 roll. Other good singles were: E. Penrose 240 and 253, B. Morrow 265, F. Kakesh 287, M. Rogers 253, and D. McArthur 257.

Curtin's whitewashed Aces for the only blank of the evening, as 2-1 victories were recorded by Arcos over Dickson's, Cardinals over Towne Togs, Sevenaires against Collis', and by Marines over the Brintons.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Ice will be fast and the players faster this e'en at 8.30 in the arena the citizens built down below the CGE plant. On account of it is Kingston Nylons versus the Petes in an OHA senior "B" scheduled scrap. Fans know that those Nylons can step speedily and that they feature a long-passing game which canny, veteran forwards know what to do with in close. Folks also know that the Petes are much stronger than last season, having dropped but one game in seven starts so far—and that by a single goal. So, it adds up to a swell struggle of senior calibre, and should draw a hefty crowd of hockey lovers.

* * * * * *

PMHA-ers swing into gobs of action tomorrow p.m. at the arena, no less than six games being on tap. They start at six and go like this: Trojan bantams vs. Wolves of Otonabee, Trojan midgets vs. Marines, IOOF juves vs. Lakefield Lions, St. Peter's bantams vs. Marines, St. Peter's midgets vs. Martin-Hewitt, and Clapper's vs. the juvenile Trojans, winding up around midnight. Referees are Leggett and Lawless from six to nine, and Romhanyi and MacNamara from nine till the witching hour. It's a lot of hockey but each game draws its own fans, including the next of kin.

* * * * * *

But There Is No SOSSA

Having been asked several times lately what the COSSA grid title meant—if it was for the province, or what—maybe we'd better explain. The province is divided into five districts or zones. COSSA means Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association, and is a piece of Ontario running from the Georgian Bay area through Central Ontario to the Niagara peninsula. There is also the Toronto metropolitan district which runs its own show and does not playoff with other zone winners. The WOSSA includes London, Windsor and so forth, while the EOSSA is down Ottawa way. The NOSSA is up north. The zone winners don't meet as it's thought too much time would be taken away from school. Humph, it'd only be two more Saturdays with sudden-death games toward the Ontario title.

* * * * * *

Grid talk will be very much in the air till after the Grey Cup final Saturday, so we might mention that the local Orfuns aren't sitting back waiting till next mid-summer to get going. They are making plans now, including the importing of a couple of starry backs. Most of the 1950 squad will be available again, and Cach Bamforth plans to take in a coaching course to keep abreast of current grid teaching angles. After all, the Orfuns were second only to the good Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg, who later knocked off London Falcons for the provincial ORFU intermediate "A" title. The Orfuns will be back and lots stronger another season.

Ring Took Beating, Too

That popular Irish bar-bender (watch that one, Mr. Printer, eh?), Timothy Geohagen, came a cropper at the Brock Arena last e'en as the masked Marvel gained the deciding fall in rough manner. Chucked him over a fans' bench, recently vacated (but fast) by some customers. A hard go after a delay to fix a ring plank busted by Wee Willie Davis, a 276-pound hunk of villain, who was tossed about for a space in the semi-final by colorful Pat Flanagan. It turned out that Pat won this one while flat on his back out of the ring. Kicks on the tummy didn't agree with him and he was rather sickish later. A lively prelim betwixt Tony Lanza and George Manson ended in a draw. The Davis-Flanagan scrap was tops on the card, though not the main one.

* * * * * *

Buck Legrow scored four goals as Port Hope intermediate puckists edged Lakefield Indians 7-6 on the Ports' ice, and we note a number of familiar names in both lineups. Port Hope has Hehn, Marshall, Griffin, Casey, Legrow and possibly one or two more who have played up this way before. And Lakefield has Byers, Conlin, Jopling, Pagett, Hunter, Birch, Hopkins, Henry, Fawcett, Wasson, Quigley, Macindoo, Burton and Blewett. Not all Peterborough players, but quite a few from here, and others who have worn local livery at times. Blewett scored three for Lakefield, Quigley two and Jack Jopling one. Friday has Port Hope at Lindsay, and Bowmanville at Cobourg.

Big Lucky Prizes Balance Assaults on British Pools

By JEFFREY RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 22 —(CP)— Big money for a few lucky folk spells a setback for opponents of soccer pools, which some call Britain's No. 1 pastime.

Fabulous sums in recent weeks have confirmed 10,000,000 faithful pool followers in a Thursday-night social habit that would have shocked the Victorian fathers. New customers are also being attracted by the lure of large rewards.

Chances of winning are about 4,000,000 to one. Reformers and church groups firmly oppose the principle of pool betting. Yet every Thursday, like followers of a strangle cult, shilling and half-crown bettors go through the coupon-filling ritual in the hope that this may be the lucky week.

They're not discouraged by people like Sir Alan Herbert, who as an Independent member of parliament campaigned loud and long against pools. Said Sir Alan: "In pools, the promoter risks nothing at all except his overhead. He does not say he will give you 60-1; he says he may give you sixpence, six thousand pounds or six million pounds. It depends how many other mugs come in, and how much he takes out of the pool."

Religious associations campaign against pools on moral grounds and because the promoters' accounts are not audited.

Simple System

But the prospect of generous prize money, plus the average Briton's genuine interest in soccer, keep the pools alive. The system is simple. Each week the promoters distribute lists of Saturday soccer matches, and the customer using the symbols 1-2-X, for win, loss or draw, tries to forecast results.

Most popular forms are the "penny points," based on 14 forecasts requiring considerable clerical energy, and the "treble chance," calling for eight correctly-predicted draws.

Those who participate hope to be as lucky as the record prize winner, 50-year-old Mrs. Evelyn Knowlson, who recently collected £104,990 ($314,970) or Burma veteran Thomas Wood, whose £94,335 cheque left him (he said) feeling cool as a cucumber.

The Mr. and Mrs. Moneybags who win aren't always happy. Disagreement over who should get the biggest share made bitter enemies of two married couples who had been neighbors and close friends. Others are hounded by hard-luck letters. One pool company warns winners that there are a lot of sharks and sharpers ready to help spend the money.

But success is rare.

1 Familiar Face Among Bombers Sighting Title

By AL VICKERY.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 22 (CP). —It's said that familiarity breeds contempt.

Well, if that applies to football, then most of the 27,000 fans at Toronto's Varsity Stadium next Saturday should have nothing but the highest regard for Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

There's certainly nothing familiar—as far as the Grey Cup finals are concerned anyway — about this year's Bomber squad.

Bud Irving, a football veteran at 24, is the only member of the western champs who trotted out on the varsity grid in the last Winnipeg appearance in an east-west game.

Three Tries

He has come east with the team three times—1945, 1946 and 1947. That makes him the only active Blue Bomber with Grey Cup memories—even if they are all unhappy ones. Winnipeg lost all those Grey Cup games— and to Toronto Argonauts in each case, the same team in name at least that they'll take on again next Saturday.

Group the three losses—35-0, 28-6 and 10-9—together and you have a good reason why Irving wants to win the mug this year. On top of that, he figures this will be his last chance to play for a Dominion champion because he's quitting football at the end of this season.

Irving, who seldom hears his Christian name of Harold—plans to retire to complete his law course at the University of Manitoba. He's due to get his degree next spring.

Time To Quit

"I'm not getting the same kick out of playing now," says Bud. "So I guess it's time to pull out." Could be that it's because he's an alternate inside wing this season, whereas he was first string in past Grey Cup games.

In any case, Irving thinks it would "be nice to wind up on a championship club. And "if this team plays the ball they're capable of, we could win easily."

About the only consolation Irving got out of past Grey Cup games was what he describes as a "moral victory" in the 1947 meeting, one that was decided by a last-minute single kicked by Joe Krol.

Play Called Back

He was referring to a Winnipeg touchdown play which was called back on the referee's contention that the forward pass did not cross the line of scrimmage.

"I was playing guard at the time," says Bud. "I moved ahead a couple of steps on the play and Regan was ahead of me by at least one step—so how could he be on or back of the line?"

One of the leading performers in that east-west final is around the Blue Bombers camp this year. He's Bob Sandberg, the man who tossed the disputed pass. Although he's coaching and not an active player, Sandberg is probably another of the westerners who has a little extra desire for a victory next Saturday.

Music Has Charms

WISBECH, Cambridgeshire, England —(CP)— A local Sea Cadet band has been disbanded because the officers said its youthful members paid more attention to music than to seamanship.

GREY CUP VETERAN—Joe Krol, 31-year-old Windsor, Ont. half on Toronto Argonauts, will be playing his fifth Grey Cup game in the Dominion final at Toronto Saturday, Nov. 25. Krol, known for his kicking as well as his backfield playing, starred for Hamilton Wildcats in 1943 when they were victorious over Winnipeg, and was on the Argos 1945 and 1946 Grey Cup teams. He scored the winning point to defeat Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the 1947 contest.

Seven Entries Likely In District Puck Loop

HASTINGS, Nov. 22 (ENS). — Entries to the East Peterborough Hockey League must be in by December 1, with $10 entry fee, to Dr. W. H. Forde of Keene, it was decided at a league meeting here. Clapper's of Peterborough will put up a trophy for annual competition, Dave Wilson advised the gathering. The offer was gratefully received.

Possible entries are: Warsaw, Keene, Lakefield, Millbrook, Havelock, Omemee and Hastings. Each team may sign 18 active players. The next meeting will be held in Warsaw on December 4th.

Three Managers Still In Air In Ball Juggle

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP). — Burt Shotton, Bill Meyer and Marty Marion seem to be the best bets for the three open big-league baseball managing jobs.

Shotton seems to be in the strongest position of the three. It is expected his reappointment as Brooklyn boss will be announced soon. When Branch Rickey sold out his Dodger stock it was taken for granted that Shotton, a Rickey man, would not be back. Now it seems that idea was wrong.

Unless there is a storm of protest from the Dodger customers, kindly old Burt probably will be back for another term.

Pee Wee Reese, the popular Dodger shortstop, probably is the manager of the future. Reluctance to combine playing full time and managing, plus a loyalty to Shotton, is likely to delay Pee Wee's debut until 1952 or later.

Talks With Manager

In Pittsburgh, Rickey still is making up his mind about Billy Meyer. The talented skipper from Knoxville still has another year to go on his contract. After a conference with Rickey, Billy went home knowing little more than when he arrived.

Insiders at Pittsburgh say Meyer has a 60-40 chance of returning. Lou Boudreau, deposed Cleveland manager, has the best chance of the others.

Rickey has talked business with Boudreau with the managing job in view. Boudreau undoubtedly will accept if Rickey decides to make a change. The showdown is due by next Monday.

Fred Saigh still is going through his list of candidates for the St. Louis job vacated by Eddie Dyer. An original field of 18 is being narrowed day by day.

Marion Good Chance

Marion, often mentioned by Saigh as a potential managerial timber, is believed to have the inside track. A personable athlete with natural leadership qualities, Marty is definitely bound for a career as a manager. Whether it will be with the Cardinals in 1951 is up to Saigh.

Rollins To Enter Nets As Smythe Tries To Decide

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Maple Leafs probably have a bigger goal-tender problem than any other National Hockey League club. Theirs is a happy dilemma, however—which one of two top goalies to use?

Tonight, announced Conn Smythe, it will be rookie Al Rollins in the nets against Chicago Black Hawks. That means ageless Walter (Turk) Broda will sweat it out in a sideline seat at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens watching a young fellow go after his job.

"We'll use Rollins against the teams to which we lost games with Broda in the net," Smythe said last night. "We want to see how good he actually is. We have nothing to lose, so Rollins will be in the net here against Hawks and he'll play the next games in Montreal and Boston."

Plays In Detroit

On the basis of that, the 36-year-old Broda will be back between the pipes on the Leafs' Thursday night game in Detroit when the league lead could be at stake.

Toronto can't be toppled out of first place tonight because Detroit's Red Wings, who have whittled down their lead to a single point, are idle. In the only other game, the revitalized Montreal Canadiens will be trying to strengthen their hold on third place in New York at the expense of the last-place Rangers.

Rollins will be attempting to protect a perfect record. The 24-year-old native of Vanguard, Sask., whom the Leafs bought from Cleveland Barons last year, has played only three games for the Leafs this season and each one was a victory.

High Average

He's had the benefit of high scoring by the Leafs, however, because he let in a total of seven goals for an average of 2.33 a game.

Broda, the NHL's seemingly-permanent fixture from Brandon, Man., has a better goals-against average — 2.21 a game in 14 starts and four shutouts. The Turk has back-stopped seven winning starts for the Leafs, four losses and three ties.

In New York, Neil Colville's Rangers will be trying to keep the Gotham wolves from their door by beating Canadiens. Their record of only one win and seven ties in 17 starts has some New York sports writers hollering for a shake-up.

They meet a Montreal team that is flying after two successive victories over Chicago last weekend.

TOP JOCKEYS TIED

Jockey Willie Shoemaker booted across two winners Tuesday at Hollywood Park to tie Joe Colmone in their see-saw race for United States riding honors. Culmone had only one winner at Bowie, Alairne in the eighth race. The score now stands at 333 winners each.

Kingston Nylons Blast Belleville 16-2

KINGSTON, Nov. 22—All Nylon players except Doug Patterson and Bob Londry figured in the 31 scoring points racked up by the Nylons in their 16-2 rout of the Belleville Redmen in a OHA senior game here. The win was Nylons' second of the season.

Joe Catlin led the parade with six points, including four goals. Ken Partis, with three goals and two assists, Jack McKeown with three goals, Boy Joyce and Joe Watts, three assists each, and Ken Potts with two assists and a goal were other stars.

Keith MacDonald and Mulvihil were the Belleville scorers.

Belleville Wins First Beat Port Hope 5-2

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 22.—Belleville Rockets chalked up their first victory of the OHA junior "B" season here last night by defeating Port Hope Panthers 5-2. The win for the Rockets puts all five teams in the group in a tie for first place with two points each.

Darce Campbell and Doug Fisher were the Port Hope marksmen.

Mosher Scores Lack Of Controls

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 (CP)—A. R. Mosher, president of the 360,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, criticized a government prices expert Tuesday for ruling out price controls as the best means to cure inflation.

Mr. Mosher referred to a speech Monday by Kenneth Taylor, prices board chairman and assistant deputy minister of finance, who stated that the best means to cure excessive price fluctuations were through control of money and credit, "by wise taxation and spending policies and by a variety of other means that go to the root causes of inflation and deflation."

"The only trouble with Mr. Taylor's speech is that it comes just about nine years too late," Mr. Mosher said in a statement.

Russia Assumes Control of Aaland Islands In Baltic Sea

By THOMAS HARRIS

HELSINKI, Nov. 22 (Reuters) Russia has put a "trespassers will be prosecuted" notice on the Aaland Islands, Finland's Baltic dominion lying half way between her southwestern tip and the Swedish capital of Stockholm.

The Soviet minister in Helsinki, Lt.-Gen. Gregori Savonenkov, has told President Juho Paaskivi he will not permit any international guarantees for the independence of the island.

Finland he said in a long memorandum, is the best guarantor of the Aaland Islands' interests. Finland is linked to Russia by a military assistance and friendship treaty of 1948.

Own Government

Traditionally, these Swedish-speaking islands are independent and neutral. Their inhabitants have their own parliament and are exempt from military service in the Finnish armed forces.

The Swedes call the islands a "pistol pointed at the heart of Stockholm." The Russians say they are the "key to the western approaches to Leningrad." For this reason, the great and little powers have generally agreed to keep the islands unfortified.

The League of Nations was the formal guarantor of the independence and neutrality of the Aaland Islands before the Second World War. A paragraph in the home rule for the Aaland Islands act confirmed this.

Send Deputation

Now, Finland's agrarian-led government is preparing a more up-to-date act for the islands intended to preserve this paragraph. The islanders themselves had sent a deputation to present Paasikivi telling him that an outdated guarantee was better than none.

But Savonenkov insists this would be a breach of the peace treaty. Finland, he says, formally bound herself in the treaty to consider the league dead, and there must be no question of the United Nations taking over the guarantee.

His veto placed the pro-Russian prime minister, Urho Kokkonen, in a quandary. He could not tell the Aalanders outright that they were to have no guarantees by Moscow's orders. Nor could he afford to offend Russia.

Finally, he told parliament the government felt the guarantee clause should be dropped from the bill. Many members protested, but at last they agreed.

Shipping Season End

MONTREAL, Nov. 22 (CP). — Montreal's end-of-season shipping neared Tuesday with the announcement that the Head Line cargo-liner Fanad Head will dock here December 2, and clear the St. Lawrence River before the winter freeze-up. Meanwhile, more than 50 ships are scheduled to dock here before the ocean season ends, while mild weather may keep the Great Lakes shipping running up to December 3, closing of the Lachine Canal. Shipping officials said at least 20 inland vessels will winter in Montreal.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Supporters of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers have their own musical version of what the Western Canada Football champions are going to do to Toronto Argonauts in the Grey Cup final next Saturday.

Starting 24 hours before game time, when the main body of Winnipeg fans arrive, Toronto will hear a lot of a four-verse effort to the tune of "John Brown's Body."

The last western contenders with a fighting song the 1948 Calgary Stampeders, were presumably inspired to Grey Cup victory by "The Red and White Sweater" an Alberta version of "Put On Your Old Grey Bonnet." The 1949 Stampeders, who put their trust in mere cowboy orchestras and chuck wagons, were beaten.

The Bombs' song, author unknow, gives Argo coach Frank Clair a fair outline of the abilities of Bombers' starting line-up, including Winnipeg's own John Brown, all-star snap of the Western Conference.

The King Ranch's Assault launches another comeback today in a seven-furlong sprint at Hollywood Park. Making his first start since October 1949, the seven-year-old veteran will get a test in his campaign pointing toward Hollywood Park's $100,000 gold cup Dec. 9. Veteran rider Eddie Arcaro ends a temporary vacation to pilot the turf's triple crown champion of 1946 and a horse whose earnings of $672,520 make him the sport's fourth greatest all-time money winner.

Ken Doraty, former National Hockey League mighty mite, resigned as coach of Regina Caps, cellar-dwellers of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League. He will be replaced temporarily by Al Ritchie, former coach of Regina's Junior Pats of football and hockey fame and Regina Roughriders. "The Caps weren't winning for me, maybe they'll win for somebody else," were Doraty's parting words."

The British Boxing Board of Control gave its reluctant approval Tuesday to a bout between veteran British heavyweight Tommy Farr and American light heavyweight Lloyd Marshall at Carmarthen, Wales, Dec. 4. Farr, who once challenged Joe Louis for the heavyweight title, has won his only two fights of a comeback campaign this year. The Boxing Board said it would have preferred that Farr's next opponent be a British boxer.

Lou Boudreau says he is still undecided about his future but probably will reach a decision within five days. The 33-year-old shortstop former Cleveland manager who was rated the American League's most valuable player two years ago, is reportedly considering offers of employment from Pittsburgh Pirates, New York Yankees, Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators. He was replaced at Cleveland by Al Lopez, the former Indianapolis pilot, Nov. 10.

Horse trainer John S. Latimer drew a one-year suspension from the Maryland Racing Commission Tuesday after a hearing on charges that one of his thoroughbreds was doped Nov. 3 at Pimlico. The horse, Bob's Birthday, won a race by six lengths that day and paid $18.20 for $2. Racing steward Joseph Flanagan testified that tests later showed the horse had been stimulated with amphetamine, a drug of the benzedrine type.

Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, blasted in Balkan newspapers as a gangster of "imperialist sport," says he is pleased that "Voice of America" broadcasts are piercing the iron curtain.

"Yesterday I made a broadcast for the 'Voice of America' denying that the Communists hold all the world's records in sports," said Louis. "Today, a Communist paper in the Balkans called me a gangster.

"It looks to me like the Voice of America must be getting through to somebody."

Louis said that he would not ordinarily take the time to deny he was a gangster.

Red Skelton Climbs Aboard TV Band Wagon

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22 (AP)—Red Skelton, one of the few top comedians not yet in television, will take the leap next October. He is brimming over with plans.

"We'll film the programs here in Hollywood on color film once a month," he said. "We'll have our own theatre and use a revolutionary method which I can't talk about yet."

Skelton, an inveterate TV fan, has some interesting comments to make on the video debuts of his fellow comics.

"The trouble with most of them is that they are using techniques borrowed from vaudeville or radio," he said. "But television isn't either of those things. It is somewhere between vaudeville, radio and the movies.

Revolution

"The important thing to remember is that you are playing to the living room, not to the studio audience or anyone else."

The comic foresees a revolution in the entertainment industry. The movie workers don't have to worry, he said, but radio will be a shadow (or a whisper) of its former self. He even thinks daytime television will prevail.

"They say women can't watch it because of their housework," he observed. "But now the women have detergents, automatic laundry and dish washers and all kinds of conveniences. Pretty soon they'll be able to push a button and have their whole house vacuumed and dusted.

"I predict the next generation will produce a race of people broad-beamed and big-fingered from watching television and pushing buttons."

Bumper Catches Hose Pulls Out Gas Pump

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 22—(ENS)— When Joseph Golden of Cannifton, Ontario, driving a car owned by Mrs. Ruth Plane of the same town, drove in to T. E. Hall's Service Station in Campbellford Tuesday night to buy gasoline, he got more than he bargained for.

After paying for the gasoline, Mr. Golden started to pull away from the pumps, but the rear bumper of his car caught in the hose of the pump, and before the driver or the attendant noticed, the pump was literally torn out by the roots from its cement island.

An estimate of the damage was not readily available, but the pump will not be working for a few days. Police said the damage is covered by the insurance carried by the car owner.

Car Forced Off Road Turns Over In Ditch

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 22 (ENS) — Clarence Barnum of Campbellford escaped uninjured on Tuesday night, when his car was crowded off the road about four miles from Campbellford, as he was returning from Hastings.

A car travelling up a hill in the opposite direction crowded Barnum's car, and he lost control on the soft shoulder. The car turned over in the ditch, doing about $75 damage to the right side.

The other car did not stop, its driver apparently unaware of the accident he had caused. Provincial Constable Donald W. Erskine investigated.

Douse Chimney Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 22—(ENS)— Firemen were called out at about 6.30 Tuesday evening, to battle a blaze in a chimney in a building occupied by Sullivan's Sales and Service on Rear Street. The fire was quickly brought under control, and person occupying apartments above the garage were able to remain in their rooms. Practically no damage resulted.

QUEBEC, Nov. 22 (CP).—Quebec Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday replies to a questionnaire distributed this year among United States tourists showed that 92 per cent of them were satisfied with French Canada. The Chamber of Commerce said its questionnaire sought the opinion of tourists about accommodation prices charged and overall results of the visits to Quebec. Only eight per cent of the tourists replied "no" to the question: "Are you satisfied?"

London Sues Florist For Tax

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 22 — Judge Ian MacRae reserved decision yesterday on the city's assessment suit against Wright Flowers Ltd.

The city brought suit against the company for four years' business tax, a total of $511, claiming the business is a "florist" and thus comes under city business assessments. The company said it is exempt under a section stating farms, nurseries and market gardens are not eligible for business tax.

Wright's appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board against the assessment was recently thrown out when the Ontario Supreme Court ruled that neither the revision court, county judge or municipal board had authority to decide whether any person or business as assessable.

The ruling upset accepted assessment appeal procedure of the last 50 years, and forced the city to take county court action for recovery of the taxes.

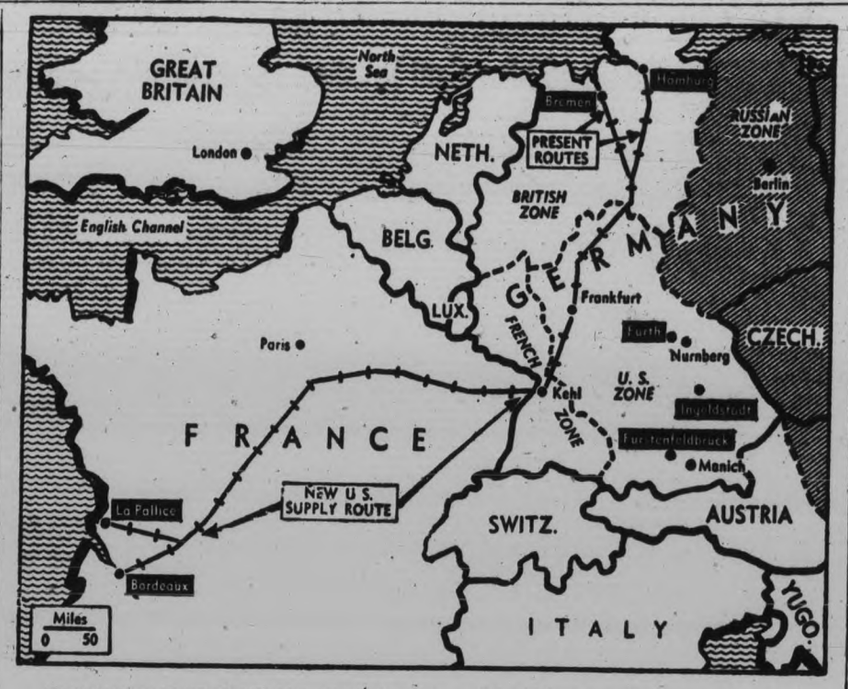
Admit 9 Children To Care Of Children's Aid In Month

A total of 598 visits were made and 193 offices interviews held by the staff of the Children's Aid Society during October, Miss R. Young, superintendent, told members of the board at their meeting Tuesday afternoon.

"During the month, 460 cases were known to us and of this number, 39 came to us as new cases," stated Miss Young. "Of the new cases, 17 were family cases. The problems presented were sex, misdemeanours among children, inadequate housing, desertion, illness, drinking, delinquency of children, non-support and planning for children to return to their parents."

Nine children were admitted to the care of the society during October, one child was placed for adoption by the society, one by another agency and one request for adoption by an older child was made. Eleven children were discharged from the care of the society—six being returned to their parents and five adoptions being completed. Two children were placed in foster homes for the first time and five children transferred from one home to another—two to adoption homes, two to the shelter and one from the shelter to a foster home. One child, who has been in a boarding home for several years is remaining in the home on adoption probation.



In the eight cases under the unmarried parent work, four were requests to interview the father of the child in regard to maintenance and four wished assistance in planning for their baby. Two financial settlements were obtained out of court and two by court action.

There were 52 Family Court hearings during October, all but eight were adult cases.

BECAUSE THE PRESENT U.S. SUPPLY PORTS of Hamburg and Bremen are too exposed to a sudden Communist attack from the east, 2,000 U.S. technicians and traffic experts have been sent to Bordeaux, France, to build a new emergency railway lifeline for military supplies. The line will run from La Pallice and Bordeaux, pass southeast of Paris to Kehl and enter Germany 80 miles from Frankfurt, headquarters of the U.S. occupation government. At the same time, the U.S. Army, in its biggest operation since occupation began, is shifting its important supply bases and lines away from exposed areas near the frontiers of Russian-held East Germany and Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia. In addition to Hamburg, Bremen and Frankfurt, big U.S. supply bases near Red-held territory are at Furth, Ingoldstadt and Furstenfeldbruck.

Can Prosecute UK Wildcatters

LONDON, Nov. 22 (Reuters)—British justice Tuesday upheld for the first time in peacetime the right to prosecute men taking part in a wildcat strike.

The London Session Appeals Committee dismissed sentences of one month's imprisonment passed on 10 London gas workers last month for doing so. But it fined each man £50 (about $150) for a criminal offence.

They had pleaded guilty under still-existing wartime legislation to taking part in a strike before the trade dispute involved had been reported to proper government authorities.

The men were nominees for 1,500 men who went on strike in protest against a three-pence hourly wage boost granted gas workers throughout the country in September by agreement between the Gas Council, their employers, and a confederation of workers. The strike deprived some 2,000,000 Londoners of gas.

James Dutton Resigns Board

The resignation of James Dutton from the Board of the Children's Aid Society was accepted with regret by the members of the board at their meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Dutton stated in his letter that he wished to resign because he was unable to attend board meetings regularly.

"We accept Mr. Dutton's resignation with regret, because over a long period of time, he has done a great deal of valuable work," stated T. T. Rodger, chairman of the board.

R. R. Faryon was nominated as chairman of the publicity for the society with power to add to the committee either from outside or from members of the board. Mr. Faryon was also appointed to represent the society on the Community Chest Fund.

Plans were discussed at the meeting for the Christmas party for the children that will be held on December 15.

The members of the Christmas party committee are Mrs. D. T. Diplock, general convener; Mrs. L. L. Maguire, Mrs. Charles Pilon, Mrs. Frank J. Lynch, Mrs. James Wharry, Mrs. P. M. Irwin, Mrs. J. R. Marshall, Mrs. Clarke, G. Collins, Mrs. J. H. Vernor, Mrs. Louis Yeotes and Mrs. N. S. Higgrns, Lakefield.

15 Miles Of Main Laid In 3 Years Throughout City

"The Utilities Commission has laid fifteen miles of water main in the last three years," Fred Hills, one of the three Commissioners said today.

"That represents a lot of work and materials and cost. The actual length of water main was 79,401 feet, for two years and ten months of this year to the end of October.

Mr. Hills decided several weeks ago to stand for re-election to the Commission if nominated Friday night. So far his name is the only one that has been mentioned for that civic body.

"To get a real appreciation of the work done by the Commission you have to review it once in a while. The extent of it is almost a surprise to myself.

"For instance, in these last three years, just to the end of October for this year, we have put in 1,412 new water services, and 58 hydrants have been set up.

675 New Lights

"We have also put up 675 new street lights, and have put into homes and other places 2,647 three-wire services."

At the same time, Mr. Hills said, the Commission has supplied water and electric services to five housing subdivisions, apart from other new housing accommodation.

"There's the area south of Braidwood, between Park St. and Erskine Ave., a big section in the south end.

"The Brookdale subdivision west of Chemong Road between Victoria Ave. and Wolsley St.; the Cherney subdivision at the west end of Weller St.

"There's Highland Heights, the area above McFarlane St., along the west bank of the canal; the Parkdale subdivision on the south side of Park Hill Road, east of Armour Road."

Mr. Hills said there were changes like the switchover to propane-air gas from the old antiquated system. Peterborough, he said, now had one of the most up-to-date plants in the country. That work was completed in July, 1948 when the new operation at the gas plant was begun.

"That's only part of the story of the Commission as a whole and its staff. There were also the additions to the plant, maintenance work and so on."

General Simonds At Institute

A view of the present strategic world situation was given the United Service Institute Tuesday night by Lieut.-General G. G. Simonds, CB, CBE, DSO, commandant of the National Defence College. Close to 200 members heard General Simonds speak and most met him socially in the officers' mess at the armouries following his address.

The speaker, a graduate of the Royal Military College in 1925, was introduced by Major K. N. Kingston and thanked by Major James McGrath.

General Simonds went overseas in 1939 and 1943 was attached to the Eighth Army in North Africa. He commanded the 1st Canadian Division during the conquest of Sicily and the first assault on Italy.

Later he was transferred to command the Fifth Armoured Division and in 1944 was promoted to command of the 2nd Canadian Corps through operations in Europe to the end of the hostilities. General Simonds commanded the 1st Canadian Army throughout the battles to clear the Scheldt approaches to Antwerp, during the absence of General Crerar. At the end of the war he assumed command of the Canadian forces in the Netherlands until the army was repatriated.

Suspended Sentence

Leslie Booth, 19, of Simcoe St., today received a year's suspended sentence from Magistrate E. A. Gee when he pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing an automobile battery.

Provincial Constable David Coffey testified the accused admitted taking the battery from Arthur Gilder, Smith township, and selling it and a car to a used car dealer. The car was Booth's and he was using the battery in it. Value of the battery was set at $10.

Rode From Dummer To Wed 50 Years Ago In Wind, Rain

At the parsonage of George Street Methodist Church 50 years ago on Tuesday, Margaret Baker and Robert Patterson, both 21 years of age, were married by the Rev. J. P. Wilson. They had come by buggy from their Dummer homes and returned to Robert Patterson's farm the same day in pouring rain and high winds. Even though it was a rugged honeymoon journey in those days, the spry couple have weathered 50 years of married life together with comparative calm. Many relatives and friends gathered at their farm home on Tuesday evening to celebrate the golden ceremony on the 4th Concession of Dummer Township.

Mr. Patterson still works his sizeable farm, the same one which he cleared of pine stumps in his youth. He runs the place with hired help and three years ago got a tractor to replace horsepower. His main agricultural interest is his herd of 95 Hereford cattle which he has built up in the last 30 years. Although they are prize beasts he does not bother to show them and was surprised that one of his range-fed cows took fourth place in a highly-competitive show at the Norwood Fall Fair this year.

"My grandson inveigled me into it and I was agreeably surprised," he said.

The Pattersons have one daughter, Mrs. Alfred Golloher (Edna) of Sudbury, two grandsons, one granddaughter and four great-grandchildren. They have never gone to Sudbury to visit them and, in fact, have never done much travelling of any kind. They drive to Peterborough and Norwood now and then but are content to stay on their homestead most of the time.

Mr. Patterson is the son of the late John Patterson and Eliza June Gardner and his wife is the daughter of the late George Baker and Mary Jane McCracken.

Anderson's Statement Filed But Not Read In Court

Glen Allen Anderson, 25, of 4 McKellar St., was bailed for trial Tuesday by Magistrate W. R. Philp. Anderson was charged with dangerous driving following an accident October 25 on Highway 28 in which 45-year-old Gordon Ham was killed.

Tuesday's hearing centred on a tight battle between T. J. Carley, KC, and John A. Bradshaw on the admissibility of a statement made by Anderson to two provincial police officers.

The statement was admitted by His Worship, but was not read, Magistrate Philp said in admitting it:

"I think it might be admitted without it being read into the record or shown to the press."

Examining Provincial Constable F. M. Rawlings on the admissibility of the statement, defence counsel Carley asked: "Isn't it a fact that the accused told you he didn't want to say anything?" — "Yes."

"What did you say them?" — "I asked him some further questions about the accident."

"You mean to say you disregarded his statement that he didn't want to say anything?" — "We carried on a conversation."

"Without giving a further warning?" — "Yes."

"And these questions and answers were reduced to writing?" — "We carried on a conversation."

'But wasn't it taken down in writing?" — "Yes."

Crown counsel Bradshaw asked Constable Rawlings if the usual police warning had not been given to Anderson. Rawlings said it had.

Mattered What He Signed

Provincial Constable A. T. Eadie, in the trial within a trial, testified that Anderson asked Constable Rawlings if it mattered whether he signed the statement.

"Rawlings said that if the statement were the truth, it made no particular difference," Constable Eadie told court.

"Have you any recollection of the truth never hurt anybody or Constable Rawlings saying that something to that effect?" asked Mr. Carley. — "Yes."

Mr. Bradshaw recalled Constable Rawlings, and asked him if, when he was taking the statement from Anderson, he was taking it for the purpose of a report to the Department of Highways. The officer said he wasn't.

"Did you at any time tell the accused that you were not taking the statement for the purpose of a report to the department?" asked Mr. Carley. — "No."

"You didn't tell accused what your intention was?" — "No."

Evidence revealed Anderson signed the statement.

Dr. Leslie Calvert, who treated Anderson at hospital, said he had told the officers that he thought accused would be able to be interviewed. "He seemed rational," the doctor testified.

Arguing on admissibility, the crown counsel said, "I submit I have founded a sufficient basis for the admission of the statement. The doctor has testified that the accused was fit for an interview; the accused was warned, and he answered the questions voluntarily. The question raised about the officer's mention of truth applies only to the signature. The statement could be proved without that."

Mr. Carley said he did not see how the statement could be regarded as admissible.

"The statement must be proved by the crown to have been voluntary. Both officers realized accused did not want to make a statement. After that, they took down questions and answers. They admit they did not take down all the questions or all the answers.

"And they admit the one officer said the truth never harmed anybody. That is an inducement."

Magistrate Philp interjected: "Is that an inducement or a moral maxim?"

"It is a combination," said defence counsel. "The time and circumstances under which it is uttered must be considered. The accused does not have to prove affirmatively that there were threats or inducements used. The crown must prove affirmatively that they were not.

"The public belief is that they must make a statement to an officer. In law, they are compelled to do so."

Such statements, said Mr. Carley, were required by a section of the Highway Traffic Act and would be used for a report to the Department of Highways. Once these reports reach the department, he said, they became privileged and could not be used in court.

Advertising Said Integral Part Of Selling

Advertising is a "high-speed selling tool" the Sales and Ad Club were informed Tuesday night by W. J. McWhirter, Toronto, manager of the major appliance section, appliance division CGE district office.

Mechanization, or "the elimination of waste effort in the interests of efficiency," is already recognized at the manufacturing level in industry, said Mr. McWhirter, and this applies equally to selling.

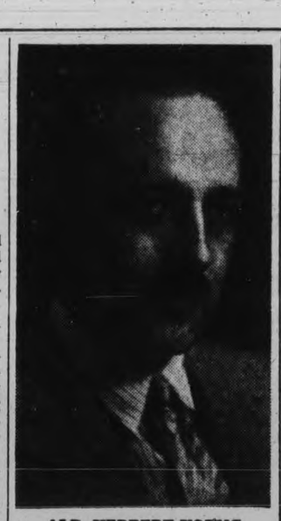
Mr. McWhirter, active in merchandising for the last 20 years, addressed an audience of 130 Sales and Ad members on "the place of advertising in the modern market." The November meeting of the Club was in the Empress hotel's Kawartha room.

"Advertising serves the man who produces by enabling him to dispose of his goods, and it serves the customer by telling him what he can add to his pleasures and satisfactions of life."

Increases Production

By stimulating demand, advertising increases production and decreases unit production costs. It makes bulk distribution possible.

New products coming on the market gradually pass through four stages in the eyes of the consumer, Mr. McWhirter related. First they are novelties, then luxuries, then staples, and finally necessities.



"Advertising is an integral part of selling," he said. And he urged businessmen to use the various means of advertising: newspapers magazines, outdoor advertising (billboards and posters), and radio.

Generally, the problems of selling can be classified under five headings: 1, contact the potential customer; 2, arouse his interest in the product by suggesting his need for it; 3, ensure the correct preference (i.e. your product); 4, supply the personal touch; 5, clinch the sale.

These days sales often have to be clinched in a matter of minutes, said Mr. McWhirter. And a well thought out system of advertising would complete the first three of these five classifications before the potential customer even entered the store.

This is an example of "high speed selling, or mechanization at the retail level.

Mr. McWhirter also said that there is no lack of salesmanship but a lack of salesmen. Present sales staffs are often unable to cope with the volume of their potential business.

ALD. HERBERT YOUNG

Three Aldermen Candidates For Re-election

Ald. Herbert Young will be a candidate for re-election to the council if he is nominated Friday night.

"If I get a nomination, I have decided to let my name go on the ballot," said the present chairman of the parks committee.

Ald. Adam Sands told the Examiner that his decision would depend on the nominations meeting in the city council chamber Friday evening.

Ald. J. E. Gillespie and Ald. A. B. Burrows have already announced that they will accept nomination.

Ald. H. Dodds declared his intention some weeks ago of contesting the mayoralty with Mayor M. J. Swanston.

Percy Luther definitely decided some time ago to seek election to the council. He was actively interested in the reunion of the 93rd Battalion, and preferred that his name should not be associated with the nominations until after that event of the Remembrance Day week-end.

Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) decided recently to put forward two of their members, Alfred Barber and Orville Martin, as candidates for the aldermanic board. It was reported that Junior Chamber of Commerce were considering the nomination of one of their members, Grenville Lathangue, an employee of Western Clock Co.

Ald. P. J. Anglesey was a Jaycee nominee.

20,198 Voters

The total number of 20,198 persons who are eligible to vote at the municipal elections is 766 more than a year ago, as compiled by City Clerk E. A. Outram.

There are 7,560 owners of property listed as Public School supporters and 1,677 owners shown as Separate School supporters.

There are 4,024 tenants Public School; and 992 tenants, Separate School. Another group is the 4,547 persons who are listed as municipal franchise voters. Of them 3,649 are Public and 898 Separate. They are eligible as husbands or wives of otherwise qualified voters.

Patricia Mason Much Improved

Five-year-old Patricia Mason, 586 Charlotte St., for the second day in succession is reported by hospital authorities to be "much improved".

She was taken to Civic Hospital Monday morning shortly after her three-year-old brother Jimmy Mason died choking. The boy had complained of a sore throat only five hours before he died.

Dr. C. B. Waite, pathologist, is trying to find out what the organism was that caused death. In the meanwhile it has been classed by Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, as a form of "tracheitis" (an infection of the windpipe.)

Civic hospital authorities said the organism or virus is apparently prevalent in Peterborough although the symptoms and course of the disease are usually milder than was the case with Jimmy Mason.

Dr. Kelly said the boy had no immunity "natural or acquired" and the reaction to the infection was fatal. His sister, who had the infection before he did, was taken to hospital for observation and today was again declared "much improved".

Today Dr. Kelly reiterated his previous statement that there is no epidemic and nothing for parents to get alarmed about. Unusual precautions by his department are considered unncecessary.

20,198 Have Right To Vote On Big Business of City Total $1¾ Million This Year

With a mayoralty race promised plus voting on two majo money by-laws, civic officials are hoping for at least a 60 per cent. turn out of the electorate on December 4. So City Clerk E. A. Outram told the Sales and Ad club, Tuesday night. Mr. Outram said there are now 20,198 names on the Municipal Voters' list. Last year only 6,593 voters, or 36.5 per cent. of the electorate went to the polls. It is not enough to say "vote as you like but vote." A reason for voting must be shown the individual elector, he said.

"If you want Peterborough to have good schools, efficient police force, adequate fire protection, smooth roads, sound bridges, well lighted streets, a decent public library, proper recreation, clean parks and playgrounds, dependable garbage and ash collection, and sewers and storm drains to carry away waste—if you want these, you should be interested in municipal government."

'All these and many other functions which make for satisfactory living conditions in modern Peterborough are entirely dependent upon decisions reached at the City Hall."

And it is the voters who choose the mayor and council that make these decisions.

Running Peterborough is big business, Mr. Outram said, and the business of every ratepayer. This year the total expeditures of all civic departments, dependent directly on the municipal budget is $1,733,951.82.

Following is a brief breakdown of the total budget:

Council:

On public library, recreation commission, police and fire protection, board of works, and administration of justice $926,686.99

Less receipts other than taxes, such as parking meters, provincial grants, licences, police court revenues, parking stickers $213,628.46

Taxes, Assessment

This year the taxpayers of Peterborough paid into the city treasury $1,520,323.29, said Mr. Outram.

He stated that in the last 10 years the assessment for general purposes had increased from $24,842,360 to $35,030,175. Next year the total assessment will probably exceed $37,000,000. Keeping in step, the city's population has grown from 24,171 in 1940 to 36,716 in 1950.

"In 1946 the city's net debt was $995,198, while at the present time the debt is $5,612,087," he said. "The new debt has been created for the Civic hospital, new wing of St. Joseph's hospital, additions to schools, paved roadways, sewers, sidewalks, sewage disposal plant, better fire protection, and better board of works equipment."

"The tax rate is mounting and has reached an all-time high of 49.5 mills. Indications are that the rate may go as high as 53 mills in early future years unless there is a revision of assessments."

Today, said Mr. Outram, assessment values on homes in the city are averaging about one-third of actual sales values at present prices.

More Realistic Assessments

"If the assessments were to bear a more realistic ration to actual values the tax rate would be materially reduced though taxes paid would be the same."

"I am not suggesting that the higher tax rate is wholly due to the increased debt," he continued. "Remember that municipal services are simply another service which the individual buys. The cost of all other commodities cannot be double, or even tripled, without the cost of municipal services also increasing."

Besides voting for mayor and council, the voters must on December 4 say "yes" or "no" to two money bylaws: one for a new collegiate totalling $585,000, and the other to complete financing the Civic hospital, $300,000.

Mr. Outram said city officials were hoping for at least a 60 per cent turnout of the voters.

"Representative government has its greatest opportunities for success in the municipal field. If we cannot make our form of government work in the management of our cities and towns how can we make it succeed in the larger fields of provincial and federal politics?... Your vote will help to give Peterborough good municipal government".

Small Boy Drank Camphorated Oil

Two-year-old Jeffrey Field returned home from St. Joseph's Hospital at noon today after a brief stay caused by his gulping part of a bottle of camphorated oil.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Field, 638 Armour Rd., Jeffrey last night watched his mother rub his chest and then place the camphorated oil on a bedroom radiator to warm. He imitated his mother's actions by rubbing his own chest for a while; then he reached for the bottle and took a healthy swig.

When Mrs. Fields smelt the camphor on his breath when she returned to the room, he was whisked off to St. Joseph's where he had his stomach pumped out. Today his condition is considered "fine."

Two Days Marked For Thanksgiving In The United States

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) President Truman has proclaimed Thursday, Nov. 23, as the national day of Thanksgiving. But two states, Arkansas and Texas, will have their own Thanksgiving Day on Nov. 30. These states will observe both holidays.

President Truman fixed the Nov. 23 date in line with a congressional resolution calling for Thanksgiving on the fourth Thursday in the month.

But in Arkansas, the law listing the state's legal holiday sets the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving. Since this is a five-Thursday November this year, that means Nov. 30.

There'll be a little confusion in Arkansas over the double holiday. Some federal workers in the state will observe the earlier date, others the later.

The situation is different in Texas. Gov. Allan Shivers proclaimed both dates as Thanksgiving with the explanation that Texas "has enough to be thankful for to have two Thanksgiving days."

Also, Shivers pointed out, banks and other businesses would close on Nov. 23 and many of the state's traditional college and high school football gomes are set for Nov. 30.

The tangle over different Thanksgiving dates began in 1939, when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt decided to make the next-to-last Thursday as the date for celebrating.

Mr. Roosevelt reasoned that it would help business to have a longer interval between Thanksgiving and Christmas. His idea was that most Christmas shoppers don't get going until Thanksgiving is out of the way.

Little Hope Anglicans Join Union

LONDON, Nov. 22 (Reuters)— A committee of churchmen today gave little hope for early success in reuniting the Church of England and other Protestant churches.

The committee, which has been studying the problem for 2½ years added, however: "We rejoice in the removal of many misunderstandings and in the large measure of agreement that has been reached."

The report now goes to the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the various Free Churches for consideration.

The carefully-worded 50-page document—which abounds in such phrases as "might be considered" —made it evident that progress towards reunion will be slow.

Ministry

The most crucial and complex difficulty was that which has arisen over the centuries over the question of the ministry, and especially over the special position of Bishops in the Church of England.

The report discussed the possibilities of the Free Churches appointing Bishops in some form of the Anglican system.

The practice in some lay church- of accepting women into the ministry and of lay celebration of Holy Communion would, from the Anglican point of view, "gravely complicate and perhaps prevent interchange of misistries and the establishment of intercommunion."

From one pound of tea you will get 200 cups of good brew. This requires 3 quarts of 18% cream and 2 pounds of loaf sugar. Twelve pounds of ham, weighed after cooking, should supply everyone with a good slice. Twelve quarts of potato salad should be sufficient.

Oven Dinner

Clear Tomato Soup (see notes)
Baked Smoked Cottage Roll
Pan Roasted Yams
Crisp Green Salad with Lemon French Dressing
Apple Crunch Pouring Cream
Coffee

Directions

We had this dinner last night. I was going to add that it is easy to prepare, but on second thought realized that Marianne had shredded the salad and pared the apples for me. No wonder it was easy.

I can say this with authority though—it is a well balanced meal with complementary flavors.

The cottage roll seems to be a good buy, with no bones to pay for and surprisingly little fat.

Clear Tomato Soup

To one 28-oz. tin of tomatoes add 2 oxo cubes, 2 slices onion, 1 cut-up stalk celery with leaves, 2 cloves, ½ teaspoon peppercorns ½ to 1 teaspoon salt and simmer covered, for 15 minutes. Strain. Have ready 2 tablespoons melted butter with 1 tablespoon flour stirred into it. Stir this into the soup until it thickens, then simmer a few minutes to cook the flour. Serve in bouillon cups with a little mound of salted whipped cream on top.

The Smoked Cottage Rolls we buy these days come to us tied with a lot of string. Boil it first in water to cover, about 20 minutes to the pound. Drain and remove string and cover with mixture of ½ cup brown sugar mixed with 2 teaspoons dry mustard and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Tie with enough string to keep it from spreading apart and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour, with parboiled yams around it.

The yams have a better flavor and softer consistency if parboiled before pan roasting.

The Crisp Green Salad contained 1 cup finely shredded cabbage, about 1 cup tops of sprigs of watercress well washed, slivers of green and red sweet peppers, and one-half a small head of lettuce. A clove of garlic had been left in the French Dressing bottle and was noticeable enough to flavor the salad but not to linger on the breath. We used lemon juice instead of vinegar in the French Dressing, for at this time of year we should think of boosting our vitamin content. Remember that all of the citrus fruits and tomatoes, contain Vitamin C.

Apple Crunch

This is like apple crumb, but calls for some rolled oats. Slice about 7 apples in buttered deep pie plate. Over them sprinkle ⅓ cup white sugar mixed with 2 tablespoons flour and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Mix together ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup rolled oats, ¼ teaspoon each salt and soda. Spread over apples too. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until top is crunchy and golden. Serve with pouring cream, or if this dessert is used at a meal where the first course is not too substantial, it is very good with ice cream.

Variations: (1) Substitute 1½ cup corn flakes for the rolled oats. (2) Use nutmeg and grated lemon rind in place of cinnamon.

Take New Turn In Comics Ban

TORONTO, Nov. 22 — (CP) — The growing campaign against objectionable comic books has taken a new turn.

The annual board meeting of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario yesterday decided that not only do they dislike crime and sex comics, they are also opposed to the ones containing characterwho wreak havoc with the King's English.

A resolution approved at the meeting asked that these books also be banned because they tend to counteract the effect of much of the teaching in schools.

Another resolution which won approval urged that women be permitted to serve on juries in Canada. It asked that the law banning women from jury duty be amended.

Mrs. R. G. Purcell of Fort William was elected president of the institutes, succeeding Mrs. J. R. Futcher of St. Thomas.

DOROTHY DIX

Difficult for Romance To Overcome 3-day Beard

DEAR MISS DIX — My fiance comes from a good family. His morals are indisputable and he seems to think that these two good points are all he needs. He is so careless of his appearance that I am ashamed to be seen out with him, or to present him to my friends. I do not think we girls are asking too much that the men who take us out should shave daily and have clean nails and hands, to say nothing of ears. We do not expect them to be expensively dressed, but their clothes should be clean and pressed. We do not mind scuffed shoes, but they should be shined. And it doesn't cost much to have last year's hat blocked. What am I to do about this ragbag fiance of mine?

A DIX FAN.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER—I don't see what you can do unless you give him the air or send him to the laundry, both of which might be purifying processes. If you could make him realize that it is a choice between you and the bathtub, he might overcome his aversion to soap and water, but I doubt it. There are people so constitutionally opposed to cleanliness that the mere thought of an ablution sends them into fits of hydrophobia.

It Must Be Love

You must, indeed, have an overwhelming passion for your boy friend if you still love him in spite of his looking like something that has just been fished out of the gutter. I cannot imagine anything that would cool off a girl's love for a man quicker than grimy fingers and dirty ears. Nor can I fancy how romance can survive a three-day's beard.

Nothing else is so disillusioning in either man or woman as personal slovenliness. It is really easier to overlook spots on a man's character than it is grease spots on his vest. Perhaps heredity and environment may have made him what he is inwardly, but his being outwardly sloppy and unshaven and unshorn is nothing but pure laziness.

"The apparel oft proclaims the man," said Shakespeare, and a wiser thing was never uttered. A fine coat doesn't make a fine man, but it shows what kind of a man is wearing it. It may be of the finest cloth and cut by a master tailor, but if it needs brushing, pressing and cleaning, and is reminiscent of all the meals he has eaten for days, then than man is careless, inefficient. He will do slap-dashy work and as little of it as he can get by with. But if a man's threadbare coat is pressed; if his frayed collar is clean; if his broken shoes have been blackened, you will not go wrong if you set him down as a man who will make the most of his opportunities, who will be on his tiptoes about his job and who will succeed in life.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young girl engaged to a boy whom I love dearly and he loves me, but we are both afflicted with jealousy. When he even so much as talks to another girl I go wild and say hateful, catty things which make us both miserable. He does the same way with me, though in a milder form. Is there any way to overcome jealousy?

S. AND J.

ANSWER — I think the only cure for jealousy is large doses of common sense repeated as often as necessary, but there is no use in prescribing that for the victim of this dread disease because no one will ever try it. Perhaps they can't because they haven't got it, for no sane and reasonable person ever suffers from the green-eyed monster.

Consider your own case. You say you grow wild with jealousy if your sweetheart even so much as talks with another girl. Why? You say he loves you. Then why isn't it safe for him to talk to any girl or all the girls in the world if you are so sure he prefers you to anyone of them? Do you think he is a liar and a cheat? If you think your sweetheart is a cad and a philanderer who has to be watched every moment, why do you want him? If you think he is a fine honorable man, what are you afraid of?

Jealousy is the manifestation of an inferiority complex and it is also the sign of a mean and suspicious disposition. Think better of yourself and have faith in the one you love. There can be no happiness in a marriage in which there is not trust between a husband and wife.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 21, an unmarried mother with a child of 4. My stepfather is 40 years old. He wants to marry me and will give the child his name. Is there anything wrong in my marrying him? Will people talk very much if I do? My mother is dead.

H. L. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If your stepfather is a good, kind man and you are fond of him, I think that to marry him would probably be the best solution to your problem. Certainly there is no moral reason why you should not do so. Probably your acquaintances will gossip about it. You can't help that. You will just have to shut your ears to it and console yourself with the thought that they will soon tire of discussing you and your affairs, and that you are doing the best thing you can for your child.

What's Right

You are playing bridge at a friend's house and hold poor cards all evening.

WRONG: Keep complaining about your hands and saying no wonder your opponents are piling up such high scores with the good hands they are holding.

RIGHT: Don't complain. Realize that it is as important to be a good sport when you are playing cards as it is in any other game.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Fruits, Cheese or Bacon In Muffins Give Variety

For ideas aplenty and all sorts of tips on correct handling and baking so that breads will come out right you must see "250 Breads, Biscuits and Rolls," the nineteenth title in the series of twenty-four cookbooks that The Examiner is making available to its readers a book a week.

The Bread Book is crammed full of delicious recipes, for yeast breads, quick breads, coffee cakes, doughnuts, fritters, muffins, pop-overs, pancakes, waffles, rolls, buns, and biscuits. Photographic illustrations show how they should look when properly baked and how they look if incorrectly prepared, with explanations of what makes them come out wrong. Many of the recipes are given with variations to suit individual taste. Here, for instance, is a muffin recipe and just a few of the many different ways you can alter it:

Muffins

2 cups sifted, enriched flour; 4 teaspoons baking powder; ½ teaspoon salt; ¼ cup sugar; 1 egg beaten; ¼ cup melted shortening; 1 cup milk.

Sift dry ingredients together. Mix egg, shortening and milk together thoroughly. Combine mixtures, stirring just enough to dampen flour. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) 25 minutes. Makes 12 to 15.

Bacon Or Ham

Reduce sugar to 2 tablespoons and add ½ cup coarsley chopped, crisp bacon or fine-cut, boiled ham to dry ingredients.

Blueberry

Add 1 cup blueberries to dry ingredients.

Cheese

Add ½ cup grated cheese and ⅛ teaspoon paprika.

Cranberry

Add 2-3 cup chopped cranberries mixed with 2 tablespoons sugar.

Nut

Add ⅛ cup chopped nuts.

Pineapple

Add 1 cup crushed pineapple to dry ingredients.

To get your copy of the Bread Book all you need do is clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c to The Examiner office, your carrier boy, or to any of Braund's Home Food Markets, or Dominion Master Stores. By mail, send 30c (5c for handling costs) to Cookbook Department, Peterborough Examiner.

Amazing Variety Of Wildlife Within Reach

Wildfire colour shots all taken within 30 miles of New York City, shown by Allan Cruikshank to a full auditorium at the Queen Mary School Tuesday night provided one of the most interesting film lectures of the Audubon Screen Tours sponsored by the Peterborough Nature Club.

Mr. Cruikshank, nationally known for his wildlife photography, grew up in New York. He obtained his formal education in New York University, and was on the staff of the American Museum of Natural History. During his career he has lectured widely on birds and other wildlife subjects on platform and radio. He is now official lecturer of the National Audubon Society as well as bird instructor at its nature camp in Maine.

In his lecture titled "Trails for Millions." Mr. Cruikshank delighted the audience with his demanding stage personality. His all-colour motion pictures were made even more pleasing by his wit and interesting anecdotes.

The speaker explained to his audience that he has found within rapid reach of millions of metropolitan dwellers, an amazing variety of wildlife. Within an hour of Times Square, there are haunts which seem a world removed from subways, offices and night clubs.

"You don't have to go far afield for the study of nature," stated Mr. Cruikshank. "Here, in the largest city in the world, New York, nature study can be rewardingly pursued. Birds come to visit and stay. Right in this metropolitan area, a wildlife photographer can find an exciting region in which to exercise his skill."

In addition to his films and lecture, the speaker gave imitations of the birds' own calls and songs.

Mr. Cruikshank was introduced by J. L. McKeever, president of the Peterborough Nature Club.

Investment Record

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 (CP).—The highest level of private and public investment in Canada's history is expected this year, the trade department announced last night. The department estimates the total investment in 1950 at $3,900,000,000 or an increase of $500,000,000 over the total for 1949. The increase is partly due to a rise in construction and machinery and equipment costs.

Canada Seaway If U.S. Fails To Join Project

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier reiterated last night his belief that consideration must be given to an all-Canadian route for the St. Lawrence seaway if the United States Congress continues to cold-shoulder the project.

Mr. Chevrier reviewed the background of the long-pending hydro and waterway development on the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes route in an address prepared for delivery in the CBC free-time political broadcast "The Notion's Business."

He recalled that Canada and the United States had signed in 1941 an agreement—still awaiting U.S. congressional ratification—for joint development of the scheme, and added:

"If it is impossible to obtain the joint development referred to in the 1941 agreement, then consideration must be given, as indeed it already has, to an all-Canadian route."

Guarantee

Completion of the seaway, he said, would "guarantee forever" an all-water route for Canadian wheat, coal, petroleum and other products at substantially-reduced transportation cost through the elimination of trans-shipment at the Ontario points of Prescott, Port Colborne and Port McNicoll.

It also would permit quick exploitation of the newly-discovered iron ore fields in Northern Quebec and Labrador.

On the hydro side of the development, it would provide another 9,000,000 horsepower, of which approximately 6,000,000 would be available to Canada. Ontario's acute power shortage was being accentuated by increasing defence production.

Many Attend Havelock WMS Silver Jubilee Meeting

HAVELOCK, Nov. 22 (ENS)—A large congregation attended the Women's Missionary Society Silver Jubilee service in Havelock United Church on Sunday evening when Miss Louise Scott, RN, of Toronto, a missionary on furlough from Central India was the guest speaker.

Miss Scott has made an outstanding contribution to the Christian ministry of healing carried on in the hospitals operated by the United Church of Canada in that part of their overseas service. She gave a vivid portrayal of her work in connection with the church's ministry of health and healing, spiritual as well as physical. She told of instances where natives had passed their state hospital in order that they might enter the mission hospital to hear the gospel story. Miss Scott stressed the greatness of the task facing the church and the responsibility which rests not only on the missionaries but those on the home front through the work of the WMS and the Missionary and Maintenance Department.

Mrs. G. W. Chiles, president of the local WMS introduced Miss Scott. The members of the WMS and the evening auxiliary, augmented with visitors from the WMS and evening auxiliary of Norwood United Church and the missionary society of St. John's Anglican Church, Havelock formed a procession and marched into the church, occupying the centre pews. The young people's choir of voices led the service of song and rendered two anthems. Mrs. R. Campney presided at the organ, with Mrs. W. M. Platt pianist, and Mr. Harry Anderson, violinist.

Following the service, a social hour was spent in the Sunday School room of the church. Miss Scott was the guest of Mrs. G. W. Chiles whilst in Havelock.

J. E. Williamson of Toronto was the speaker at the morning service in the interests of the Ontario Temperance Federation.

Falls While Hunting

BETHANY, Nov. 22 —(ENS)—Alfred Johnston is in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough with a fractured knee cap, resulting from an accident received while deer hunting at the Bethany Dollar Bridge Camp in the Loring District. The accident happened last Tuesday, when a frash fall of snow made walking hazardous. Mr. Johnston slipped on some snow covered rock. Members of the party rendered first aid and the group returned home on Wednesday evening. An examination by Dr. G. M. Longfield at Bethany revealed the knee cap badly shattered and he was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for an operation on Friday.

Girl, 17, Unable To Concentrate Sues Driver Of Car

TORONTO, Nov. 22 —(CP)—A 17-year-old girl Tuesday told an Assize Court jury that she "can't concentrate" as a result of a highway accident two years ago.

Betty Ross is suing William V. McFadden and his son, Earl, of Elmvale, Ont., for unstated damages, charging she suffered serious and permanent injuries when struck by the McFadden automobile near Balm Beach in Simcoe county Aug. 5, 1948.

The defendants claimed the girl "did not take due care of her own safety under the circumstances in that she walked on the travel portion of the highway at night with the traffic, without a light, dressed in clothing barely discernible."

Dr. Kenneth G. McKenzie said the girl suffered brain damage. She had been paralyzed on the right side of her body for some time after the accident and the use of her right hand was still impaired.

The girl testified that she is unable to do housework, cannot bowl or swim and suffers from frequent dizzy spells.

Peace Rumors Rife Through Korea Battlefronts Quiet

TOKYO, Nov. 23—(AP)—Peace rumors appeared suddenly today amid quiet on the Korean battlefronts. Talk of a negotiated settlement was touched off by: 1. Chinese Communists suddenly released 27 wounded American prisoners. The freed men brought this message—"The Chinese do not want to fight the Americans." United Nations military authorities clamped a "top secret" lid on details of the release.

2. Chinese Communists, with an estimated 100,000 men in northwest Korea, continued to withdraw without a fight.

3. U.N. troops did not move up to take over abandoned Red fortifications.

"There is a reason" why U.N. troops have not advanced, a spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said. He would not say what that reason was.

Buffer State

Col. M. P. Echols, headquarters information officer, denied reports that any peace negotiations were in progress "at this level."

In Washington, State Secretary Dean Acheson told his Wednesday press conference that creation of a demilitarized buffer zone between North Korea and Communist China's Manchuria has been discussed.

But he said no agreement has been reached. He added that discussions were with friendly foreign governments.

Immediately after the unexplained release of the 27 prisoners, a trustworthy source in Tokyo denied that any peace negotiations were going on anywhere. Later, Echols amended that to deny negotiations at "this level."

Reds At U.N.

Speculation arose that the peace question might be taken up at Lake Success by a Chinese Communist delegation en route to the U.N.

Echols has denied reports that efforts were being made to work out a mass surrender or withdrawal of Chinese forces, whose sudden appearance in Korea in late October prolonged the war.

Nevertheless the Chinese were withdrawing everywhere. Chinese Nationalists in Taipei said the Chinese Reds had been ordered to fall back because of heavy casualties, intensive bombings and superior U.N. fighting power.

Actually, there was no more explanation of the withdrawals than of the unprecedented release of the 27 prisoners.

The American POWs were driven in trucks 60 miles southward from a prison camp at Pyoktong on the Manchurian border. They were hidden by night to avoid U.N. planes, and were released

Gov't To Sell Butter Stocks At 57c Retail

OTTAWA, Nov. 23—(CP)—The federal government will start into the selling end of the butter business Dec. 1. The price—to the retail trade only—will be about 57 cents a pound.

It's all done under the price support program. The government buys up butter to take it off the market in the big production months of early summer. Now, with production falling off seasonally, the government is selling the butter back to the trade.

The idea is to keep prices stable in summer, when supplies are heavy, and to prevent them from jumping unduly in the winter when butter is in short supply.

Will Vary

The price at which the government will sell will be 57 cents for first grade creamery butter delivered in carload lots in Ontario and Quebec, but it will vary in other zones according to transportation costs.

In the Maritimes it will be 57 cents, in British Columbia 56 and in Saskatchewan 53.

The government declined to say how much butter it has to sell, except that it was "fairly substantial." In 1949, the government's butter purchases totalled 48,000,000,097 pounds.

The Agricultural Prices Support Board says it expects the announced prices can be maintained, although the general figure will be reviewed later.

In general, the price the government is selling is about what the government paid for the butter last spring. Some was bought in March and April at 58 cents a pound and the rest during the summer at 53. The government will probably lose a bit on the deal because it is covering storage, carrying and delivery costs.

Police Quell Egypt Students

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 23—(Reuters) — Steel-helmeted police used nightsticks to disperse high school pupils who demonstrated outside the British consulate in Alexandria today. Several students were arrested.

Fuad Serag Eldin Pasha, Egyptian minister of the interior, a few hours earlier had forbidden all demonstrations throughout Egypt after two days of anti-British student marches.

The minister said the government had learned that "subversive elements" were working among the demonstrators to carry out acts of violence.

The state of alert proclaimed throughout Egypt yesterday is to last "until further notice," he

Conservatives Seek House Vote On Egypt

LONDON, Nov. 23 (Reuters)—Uproar broke out in the House of Commons tonight as Winston Churchill announced the Conservatives would seek a vote on the government's Egyptian policy.

In a stormy interchange with Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister, Churchill said he would ask the Commons to pass a motion which could lead to the fall of the Labor Government.

Churchill pressed the government to explain why it changed its mind suddenly about sending tanks to Egypt, which has demanded that Britain pull out of the Suez Canal zone and the Sudan.

CRASH SURVIVORS — Survivors of the train crash that claimed 20 dead or missing and 58 injured, mill about beside the piled-up coaches of the troop train that piled head-on into a transcontinental passenger train near Canoe River, BC. In this wirephoto, some of the soldiers who were bound for Fort Lewis, Wash., for further training, can be seen carrying one of their buddies from the wreckage.

Shaw's Ashes Put In Garden

AYOTT ST. LAWRENCE, England, Nov. 23 (Reuters)—George Bernard Shaw's ashes were mingled with his wife's today and then scattered over the garden of his home here.

The simple, private ceremony was carried out in accordance with Shaw's expressed wish by his doctor, C. T. Brobyn, who attended him until he died three weeks ago.

The ashes were not buried in historic Westminster Abbey, London, or any other church because of declarations in Shaw's will and possible offence to the feelings of churchmen, according to F. Wynd Hurst, the public trustee, who was responsible for a decision on Shaw's burial.

Considered

"The whole question of a Westminster Abbey burial has been carefully considered," Hurst said today.

"In view of the declarations in Mr. Shaw's will and the views expressed in many of his writings it was thought that the feelings of churchmen would be offended if the eccelesiastical authorities made any move to allow the burial of his ashes in any religious national shrine."

The scattering of the ashes was carried out in accordance with a clause of Shaw's will made known today. In it he said he wanted his ashes to be mingled with his wife's and be scattered over the garden of his home—"where we lived together for 35 years, unless some other disposal of them should be in the opinion of the trustees more eligible."

"Personally I prefer the garden to the cloister."

Brazil Train Crash Kills 5, Injures 50

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 23 (AP)—At least five persons were killed and 50 injured today when the fast Sao Paulo to Rio de Janeiro express was wrecked near Morro Agudo, 30 miles from here. Railway officials said four cars jumped the tracks due to spreading rails.

WOODBURY, N. J., Nov. 23 — (AP). — Ernest Ingenito, 26, charged with killing five of his estranged wife's relatives, has been found to be "perfectly sane."

U.S. Goes After Local Reds

By JACK ADAMS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—The government has fired the opening gun in what may well be a history-making battle with the Communist party in the United States. Attorney General J. Howard McGrath formally charged last night that American Communists are ruled by Russia and owe first allegiance to "the Red flag".

He called on the new Subversive Activities Control Board to force the party to register with him the names of its leaders and members, and give an accounting of its sources of revenue.

His petition constituted the most sweeping condemnation of United States Communist activity ever put out by any official of the American government.

"In the event of a war between the Soviet Union and the United States," McGrath said, "the Communists in the United States have obligated themselves to act to defeat the military efforts of the United States and to aid and support the Soviet Union."

First Charge

McGrath's petition gave the subversive activities control board its first business. Created by the Internal Security Act, passed by Congress last September, the five-member bi-partisan panel was appointed by President Truman a month ago.

McGrath's petition put the next move squarely up to the Communist party. It must now appear before the board to explain its reasons for not registering voluntarily.

After hearings, the board must decide whether to order registration. Failure to comply with the order calls for fines and imprisonment. The Communist party has said it will fight registration through the courts on the ground that it is a violation of the civil liberties clause of the constitution.

Such a legal battle might take years.

The attorney general's office has about 100 organizations described as Communist on its "subversive list." None has appeared to register voluntarily.

No Co-operation From US In Windsor Clean Up—Frost

TORONTO, Nov. 23—(CP)—Premier Frost said today that Ontario authorities have received little or no co-operation from United States law enforcement agencies to combat vice conditions in Windsor, Ont., opposite Detroit. He made the statement in a letter he wrote to Senator Estes Kefauver, chairman of a U.S. Senate Investigating Committee, who said this week in Detroit that his committee will investigate suspected connections between Detroit and Toledo gambling interests and a race-wire service in Windsor.

Wrote Garson

At the same time, the Premier announced he has written Justice Minister Garson that "higher levels of government" could do much to wipe out handbooking by taking action against telephone and telegraph companies and possibly radio stations that distribute racing information. He said control of such communications rests with the Federal government.

Mr. Frost wrote Senator Kefauver that he had directed the provincial police to take all possible action to stamp out the activities of any gambling or vice agencies, regardless of whether the agencies had their roots in Ontario or were merely branches of U. S. gambling and vice syndicates.

Origin In U.S.

"May I draw your attention to the fact that the problems in regard to gambling and vice in Ontario have their origin in the United States in nearly all cases. Our force here cannot effectively deal with the problem without the co-operation of the U. S. law enforcement agencies . . . other than very courteous hearings, we have received no action on the American side.

"While we have given leads and information to the U.S. authorities, we have had no instances here of leads being given to us by the American authorities."

Steps had been taken to correct certain conditions in the Windsor city police force.

Driver Jumps Clear Of Exploding Truck

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP)—Don Stevens, 22, of Waterloo, jumped unhurt from his truck last night when flames burst from 15 exploding oil drums after the rear axle of the vehicle snapped on the highway at suburban Dixie.

Provincial Constable Frank Major said Stevens was "lucky to be alive. Flames climbed 75 feet in the air." The driver was bound for Toronto with a full load of 45-gallon drums at the time.

6 More Soldiers May Die Of Crash

JASPER, Alta., Nov. 23 (CP)—The death toll from Tuesday's mountain train wreck threatened to climb above 20 today as the Canadian National Railways scheduled the resumption of traffic.

The main line track just west of Canoe River, B.C., where a 17-car troop train plowed headlong into an oncoming, 10-car passenger train as they rounded a curve, was cleared of wreckage late last night. The wreckage had been piled 50 feet high.

First east and west trans-continental traffic was scheduled to resume through the remote, winter gripped whistle stop this morning.

In hospital at Edmonton, 312 miles from the scene of one of the worst train wrecks in recent Canadian history, at least six soldiers fought for their lives Authorities at University Hospital said they were "dangerously ill."

Train Rammed From Behind Crowded With People Home For Thanksgiving

Number Of Dead Expected To Mount As Many Critically Hurt, Brakes Locked, Train Stopped—Motorman

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Two crowded Long Island rail road passenger trains crashed last night with a blinding flash during the Thanksgiving eve rush hour, killing 76 persons and injuring more than 330. Many of the injured are in critical condition. Of the 76 dead, 75 have been tentatively identified. One body, that of a dark-haired girl, lay unidentified in the County Morgue. The death toll of 76 was confirmed by police and morgue attendants.

It was the worst railroad accident in the history of New York State and the worst in the United States since 1943, when 79 died in the wreck of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Congressional Limited near Philadelphia.

Not until 3:30 a.m. EST today —nine hours after one train rammed into the rear of the other —were the last bodies removed from the wreckage.

Most of the dead were wedged in two telescoped smoking cars, finally pried apart at 4:45 a.m. All night long ambulances carried bodies from the scene of the wreck in Kew Gardens to the Queens County morgue a mile away.

The disaster was the second in nine months for the 116-year-old Long Island Railroad. Thirty-one persons died Feb. 17 in a head-on wreck at Rockville Centre.

The quiet residential area of Kew Gardens—in Queens borough 13 miles from Times Square—became a scene of sickening horror an instant after the electric trains crashed with a blinding flash.

Motorman Dies

The motorman of one train lived and was questioned by authorities. The other died.

The surviving motorman, William Murphy, 61, said he slowed his train for a signal and the brakes locked for some unexplained reason. The train ground to a stop.

The second train—only minutes behind on the main line—crashed into the rear of the standing one.

Acting Mayor Joseph Sharkey, surveying the scene, said:

"It's time we find out why these things happen so often on

Rebels Brace To Meet Gov't Army In Nepal

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 23—(AP). — Unconfirmed reports from Nepal's border today said rebel forces are bracing themselves for a battle with government forces at Bhairawa, western gateway to the kingdom.

The dispatch said other insurgent forces are mobilizing five miles east of their remaining stronghold at Parasi to meet the advancing government troops. Parasi lies 95 miles west of the key town of Birjanj, which fell to government forces Monday.

Nepalese King Tribhuvana fled to India recently after the prime minister, in a palace revolution, placed the monarch's three-year-old grandson on the throne.

UN Won't Attack China UK Tells Reds

LONDON, Nov. 23—(Reuters)—Britain has formally assured China that United Nations forces in Korea have no aggressive intentions towards China, the Foreign Office announced today.

A message to this effect from Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin was delivered at the Chinese Foreign Ministry in Peiping yesterday by J. C. Hutchinson, the British charge d'affairs.

He handed it to the Chinese Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, Chang Han-fu.

The Foreign Office said:

"The purpose of this message was to reaffirm the objectives of the United Nations in Korea, as publicly stated in various resolutions of the UN, with a view to reassuring the Chinese that the fulfilment of these objectives was no threat to the security of China and would in no way endanger legitimate Chinese interests in the area."

The Foreign Office said Bevin would make a statement on the Korean problem in the course of next week's foreign affairs debate in the Commons.

Commenting on the message to China, the spokesman said that the western powers are still discussing ways and means of dealing with the problem set by China's intervention in the Korean conflict.

This was understood to refer to the possibilities of creating a demilitarized "buffer" at the Korean-Manchurian border as a guarantee to China that her power installations on the Yalu River will not be touched.

Board To Probe B.C. Train Wreck

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners announced today it will hold a formal inquiry into the Nov. 21 train wreck at Canoe River, B.C., that killed 20 persons.

The board said it now has officers obtaining evidence and information concerning the accident, but the date of the inquiry will depend to some extent on the availability of witnesses now in hospital.

It was expected the hearings would be held at Edmonton. They would follow the pattern of a public inquiry held by the board into a 1947 train wreck at Dugald, Man., in which 31 persons lost their lives.

Top Legal Brains Confer

Canada Seeks Constitution Changes

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 —(CP)—A committee made up of some of the top legal brains in Canada's 11 governments will meet today to renew study of possible solutions to this country's unique and complex constitutional problem.

The committee, composed of Justice Minister Garson and the attorneys-general of the 10 provincial governments, will meet in private about 10 a.m. EST in the railway committee room of the Commons.

Want Formula

But the committee will attempt anew to find a suitable formula for all amendments to the Canadian constitution in the future. It also is schedule to study methods of drafting a Canadian constitution that would be domiciled in Canada and be a purely Canadian document.

A report will be prepared and submitted to the third plenary session of the federal-provincial constitutional conference, scheduled to be held immediately following the general federal-provincial conference on fiscal and other matters, which opens Dec. 4.

Last January, the federal and provincial governments met here and agreed that Canada should have authority to make constitutional amendments without recourse to the United Kingdom parliament. The committee of attorneys-general was established to work out the details of a formula for amendments in the future.

Some Progress

A second plenary session was held in Quebec last September when it was reported that some progress had been made.

The Quebec conference requested the committee to consider the various formulae submitted by the different governments "with a view to arriving at an amending procedure satisfactory to all governments concerned."

The committee also was "authorized to study the methods and techniques whereby a Canadian constitution can be domiciled in Canada as a purely Canadian instrument."

Passed By Britain

The present constitution—the British North America Act—is a British instrument. It was passed by the United Kingdom parliament in 1867 when the Canadian provinces—then British colonies —decided to federate.

The Canadian parliament, since 1949, has had the power to amend the constitution on all matters within federal jurisdiction. The provinces, since 1867, have had the right to amend the constitution on matters solely within provincial jurisdiction.

The United Kingdom parliament still has to be asked to make any amendments to the constitution on matters within the joint jurisdiction of federal and provincial governments.

World's Largest

Arab Pipeline To Open

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 23 (AP)—Crude oil, life-blood of the modern age, will begin pulsing across the Arabian desert through the biggest pipeline in the world early in December, the Arabian-American Oil (Aramco) says.

The first of what soon will be a daily flow of 3,000,000 barrels of oil a day is to gush through the 31-inch steel pipeline, from Saudi Arabia through Jordan, Syria and Lebanon, into a tanker off the ancient phoenician city of Sidon on Lebanon's Mediterranean shore.

Cut Out Ships

No longer will it be necessary for slow ships to tote the "black gold" around the 7,000-mile route from the Persian Gulf through the Suez Canal.

The Trans-Arabian Pipeline Company (Tapline), formed by Aramco to build and operate the huge pipe, started construction at the Saudi Arabian end of the line in 1947. The project cost more than $250,000,000.

Agreement

Arabian-American, owned by the Standard Oil Company of California, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Oil Company and Socony-Vacuum, has a long-term agreement with King Ibn Saud which gives it control of the rich oil fields in the Moslem King's country.

With the help of the new pipeline, Arabian-American hopes to step up its daily record rate of production from nearly 600,000 barrels to 800,000 barrels.

Trade sources say the United States navy gets more than 50 per cent of the company's output; but most of the oil reaching Sidon is expected to go to Europe.

Men Build Liner Without Management

GENOA, Italy, Nov. 23—(Reuters)—Men of the huge Ansaldo ship yard today began work on a new 25,000-ton Trans-Atlantic liner—57 days after the yard's management quit in a labor dispute.

The Ansaldo plant, employing some 23,000 men, had been working in spite of the management's absence.

The trouble began when about 2,000 men were dismissed by the Ansaldo management. They turned up to work as usual, backed by both Communist and non-Communist trade unions.

The management walked out as a counter-move after posting notices announcing a temporary closedown.

To help the workers, who are receiving no pay, gifts have arrived from many parts of industrial northwest Italy.

UK Holds Up Tanks As MPs Howl

Wait For Talks With Egypt Before Shipment

LONDON, Nov. 23—(CP)—Shipment of 16 new-type British tanks bought by Egypt was postponed last night following protests from both Labor and Conservative members of Parliament.

Members from both sides of the House of Commons had protested that the tanks and other British weapons might be used by Egypt in an attempt to drive Britain's troops out of the Suez Canal zone.

Foreign Undersecretary Ernest Davies soothed rebellious Labor members by assuring them no tanks will be sent to Egypt until Foreign Secretary Bevin has completed talks with the Egyptian Foreign Minister on the Anglo-Egyptian question.

The tanks—which are almost paid for—were ordered some time ago and there would be a serious breach of contract if the deal were called off, Davies said.

Treaty Change

The squabble between Britain and Egypt was started by King Farouk's demand for revision of the 1936 treaty under which Britain is authorized to maintain troops in the Suez Canal zone until 1956. Egypt also asked cancellation of the 1899 agreement under which the two countries share the rule of the Sudan. Negotiations over the Egyptian demands are expected to take place next week.

Before Davies' statement, Winston Churchill, Conservative leader, had moved a motion of censure on the sale of arms to Egypt. If such a motion passed the Commons, where the government has a slim majority of five, it would force the Labor government to resign.

Withdraw Motion

However, political observers said it now is likely that the opposition leader will withdraw the motion.

During the debate, stormy at some points, Labor member Sidney Silverman asked Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell:

"Wouldn't it be a reasonable precaution not to deliver much more of our much-needed defence equipment to Egypt until it's quite clear that it won't be used to drive our forces out of the Suez Canal?"

Shinwell termed the question "very hypothetical" and repeated a pledge made by Bevin last Monday to fill the contract which "includes a very small number of new type 52-ton Centurion tanks." But, he said, Britain does not intend to export arms in the future outside Atlantic Pact countries "unles it is in our strategic interests."

Britain Makes Plan For Reds' Withdrawal

LONDON, Nov. 23 — (AP) — Britain was reported last night preparing a three-point program which she hopes will lead to a withdrawal of Chinese Communist troops from Korea and eventually end the fighting there.

Informed sources said the British move would seek to assure the Chinese Communist government that UN forces in Korea:

1. Regard the Manchurian frontier as inviolate.

2. Want, above all, to localize fighting.

3. Are ready to set up demilitarized buffer zone along North Korea's frontier.

Arrest Leaders In Plot On Truman's Life

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — (AP). —Two Puerto Rican Radical leaders, suspected of being chief plotters in the attempt to assassinate President Truman, were held in separate New York jails today, under heavy guard.

The men, seized late yesterday by secret service agents, are Julio Pinto Gandia, 42, veteran terrorist and president of the New York unit of the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party, and Juan Bernardo Lebron, 28, past president of the New York unit.

More Due

More arrests were believed in the offing.

The wives of two men who attempted to kill the President in Washington— Oscar Collazo and Griselio Torresola—were arrested here on conspiracy charges shortly after the November 1 gun battle outside Blair House.

Frederick H. Block, Assistant United States Attorney, said a Federal Grand Jury has evidence of "the possible existence of an organized plot" to kill the President, with the gunmen "having been guided in their mission by Gandia and Lebron and the gunmen's wives."

Await Trial

Torresola was killed by a Blair House guard. Collazo, wounded by the guards, is awaiting trial in Washington.

The two would-be assassins, both New York City residents, were active in the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party—a radical group which demands complete independence of the island from the United States. The party recently staged an armed uprising.

The charge against Gandia and Lebron is that they conspired with the two wives—Mrs. Rosa Collazo, 42, and Mrs. Carmen Torresola, 22—against the safety of the President. They were held on $50,000 bail each for hearing December 6, the saem day the two women are to appear.

Housing Project Services Cost Owner $19,965

Estimated cost of sewers and connections and roadmaking for the proposed housing subdivision at Park St. and Braidwood Ave. is $19,965.69 payable by the owner, as reported to the council by City Engineer A. E. Chalmers.

Mr. Don Ephgrave recently informed the council that he had taken an option on that property with the intention of building some 50 or 60 houses. The area is owned by Canadian Ventilating Shades Ltd.

Council's practice in assisting such projects was formerly to do the required work and then have it charged later to new owners. The money had to be borrowed, because that accommodation of services accumulated into substantial amounts. Debentures were issued, and also, as it transpired, purchasers suddenly discovered that the item of municipal costs against their property was considerably more than they had anticipated.

Know Full Costs

The first change of method made by the council was applied to Cobourg Lumber Company in their present subdivision at High and Frank streets. An essential difference is that purchasers of such houses know the full cost when they get their deeds. The city requires now that the services be paid for at the outset, and the builder, knowing that cost, distributes it evenly over all the houses of the subdivision.

In the agreement drafted by Mr. Chalmers it asserts that construction of sanitary sewers with connection for each lot to the street line shall be done by the owner. (On Park St. the main sewer is already constructed; only connections to each lot will be required.)

Services to be constructed by the city are listed. Watermains and connections to be done by the Utilities Commission; also the electric lighting service.

Grading street and oiling the surface are to be done by the city, also storm drains. The owner of the subdivision is required to deposit with the city clerk petitions under the Local Improvement Act, requesting the grading and oiling of any streets in the subdivision. The petitions shall be sufficiently signed to meet the requirements of the Act. City assumes 40 per cent of the cost of oiled crushed gravel roadways and 60 per cent is charged to abutting property.

The owner shall deposit with the city such monies as are required to construct and install the aforesaid services, and pay required fees. The city shall be entitled to a fee of five per cent of the cost to the owner of the listed works for engineering services and supervision by the City Engineer.

Works to be done by the owner shall comply with standards and requirements of the City Engineer.

Here is another of the clauses: "The owner shall notify each purchaser of land in the subdivision of all the services provided by the owner, and the services supplied by the city under the Local Improvement Act to cost of which will be assessed against the abutting property."

The city shall not complete the grading, gravelling and oiling of any street until the sufficiency of the petition can be certified by the city clerk and the construction bylaw for the work has been assessed. Gravelling and oiling will not be done in any block until 90 per cent of the houses in that block have the roof completed.

There are other details, but this summary suggests the new type of agreement between the city and the owner of the subdivision as conditional to work being begun and carried out.

Dock Strike Red-Inspired

CANBERRA, Nov. 23—(Reuters)—Australia's labor minister Harold Holt, told the house of representatives today he has "little doubt" the Sydney waterfront strike, now tying up 75 ships and 200,000 tons of cargo, was Communist-inspired.

Holt said the government, concerned at the serious developments of the strikes in Sydney and Melbourne, would soon announce plans for dealing with disputes.

He added he was reluctant to believe the Melbourne waterside strike affecting 50 ships was also Communist-inspired.

this particular line. It's a crime."

No Arrest

However, after questioning Murphy, district attorney Charles P. Sullivan said:

"There will be no arrest until negligence is shown."

An assistant district attorney, Albert Short said later that police and state public service commission employees inspected all car brakes that could be tested, and nothing was found defective on brakes of either train.

He said marks on the tracks indicated the second train skidded about 1,000 feet.

After the wreckage was cleared away, service on the line between Manhattan and Jamaica was resumed at 6:45 a.m. EST. Trains had run during the night on other branches of the railroad.

Sharkey said he is issuing today an order restricting the speed of Long Island trains within the city limits to 25 miles an hour. He estimated the second train in the crash was going 40 to 50 miles an hour.

Sullivan said Murphy told him the brakes were working normally when the first train pulled out of Pennsylvania station at 6:09 p.m. EST bound for Hempstead.

The second train, guided by motorman Benjamin J. Pokorny, 55, who died in the crash, left at 6:13 p.m.—four minutes later — on its way to Babylon.

The crash occurred at 6:32 p.m.

2,100 Aboard

More than 2,100 rush-hour passengers—many homeward bound for a gay holiday—were jammed into the 12 electric cars on each train. Some were standing in the aisles.

Flying glass, and jagged, deadly steel knifed through the cars.

In the cars where the impact occurred many passengers died where they sat, mangled as though between two giant flat-irons. It took hours to pry the cars apart, using power saws, jacks and aectylene torches, and some injured still moaned in the death trap after midnight—six hours after the crash.

There was no explanation for the apparent failure of a block system to halt the second train after the first one stopped.

The great city of New York turned itself inside out to aid the victims. Rescue workers by the score and some 200 police went to the scene.

Race Help

Doctors came from throughout the city, bringing blood and medical supplies. They set up an emergency operating room in a nearby private home for amputation cases.

Despite the terrible scene, raucous 'teen-agers pushed noisily against police lines that held back 5,000 onlookers. Police finally had to plead over a loud speaker for them to "please keep quiet."

Two young internes, Paul E. Soffer and Arnold R. Sanders, worked with quiet heroism beneath the ghastly man-made daylight of searchlights. They squeezed their way between the telescoped cars. For 4½ hours they lay there ministering to trapped passengers.

Saved Many

Then they crawled out and collapsed—credited by superiors with saving the lives of two-thirds of the surviving injured.

A scene of heartbreaking sadness was being enacted meanwhile at the nearest police station, the clearing house for news of the dead and injured. Weeping women sought news there of relatives aboard the train.

The Long Island carries an estimated 300,000 passengers a day, commuters from the business beehive of Manhattan to the quiet cottages and estates of Long Island.

10 Miles Away

The wreck scene is about 10 miles from Rockville Centre, where last February's wreck occurred. In that crash one train ran through a stop signal and collided head on with another. Besides the 31 dead, over 100 were injured.

Many safety measures were recommended after a long state investigation into that wreck.

Damage suits piled up against the bankrupt Long Island and still are being settled.

The motorman of one train in the earlier wreck was tried for manslaughter. But he was found innocent after he said he blacked out and never saw the stop signal.

Cattle Rustlers Busy In Northumberland

BRIGHTON, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP) —Police said cattle rustlers are operating from trucks under cover of darkness in this district. A $150 reward has been offered for information leading to their conviction. Three Murray township farmers are said to have been victimized.

Fred K. Denyes said two cows valued at $700 altogether were taken from his barn. William Ames and A. J. Andrews also lost stock.

Provincial constable H. E. Bonisteel is investigating.

Funeral Held For Primate G. F. Kingston

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP). — The funeral of Most Rev. George F. Kingston, Primate of the Church of England in Canada and Archbishop of Nova Scotia, was held today in stately old St. James' Cathedral, attended by a host of church dignitaries from across Canada.

Archbishop Kingston died here Monday at the age of 61. He had suffered a heart attack a week earlier.

His predecessor as Primate, Archbishop Derwyn Owen of Toronto, also died of a seizure and was buried from St. James' just three years ago.

Lay In State

The body of the former bishop of Algoma lay in state all day yesterday in the downtown cathedral, with clergy and laymen representing all the church's dioceses in Canada taking turns in maintaining a continuous watch at the four corners of the casket.

A meeting of the executive council of the church's General Synod was adjourned for this morning to enable the 150 clerical and lay delegates to the meeting to attend the funeral. Several of the 25 bishops and archbishops here for the meeting took part in the simple but impressive service.

The sky was grey and the morning air chill as the crowds assembled outside the church and quietly found places in the oaken pews.

Most Rev. W. R. Adams, Metropolitan of British Columbia and Acting Primate, celebrated Holy Communion. He was assisted by Most Rev. Phil Carrington, Archbishop of Quebec, who read the epistle, and Most. Rev. Ralph Sherman, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, who read the gospel.

The solemn office for the burial of the dead was sung by the cathedral choir, led by choirmaster W. Wells Hewitt. Also taking part in this portion of the service were Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman, who succeeded the primate as bishop of Nova Scotia; Rev. F. H. Cosgrave, former provost of Trinity College here; and Rev. Canon J. E. Ward, rector of St. Stephen's church here.

Twenty-five members of the Canadian House of Bishops sat in the chancel. In the nave of the church were fellow clergy, sisters of religious orders and representatives of other communions.

The Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, was represented by an aide. Hon. Ray Lawson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, represented the provinces.

The acting pallbearers, nearly all close friends were: W. A. Kingston, L. R. Kingston, E. L. Kingston, G. H. Kingston, R. A. Kingston and Rev. Derwyn Owen, son of the former primate.

Honorary pallbearers were clergymen from the diocese of Nova Scotia.

Among the mourners were members of the primate's immediate family, including his widow; his daughters, Mrs. H. B. Greensted, Jr., of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Mrs. W. J. Orr, of Toronto; and his only son Rev. F. Temple Kingston chaplain at the Nova Scotian naval base H.M.C.S. Cornwallis.

about a mile in front of the U. S. 1st Cavalry Division lines.

No Officers

The prisoners—all other ranks—said they were well fed, well treated and cared for by two captured American doctors. They were not questioned about U. N. military dispositions.

Whatever the Chinese reason for releasing the Americans, it was a thanksgiving day gift for the freed men. Most American soldiers in Korea celebrated the U.S. Thanksgiving by eating turkey.

On the battlefronts only patrol action was reported. They moved on the heavily-manned northwest front, around the Changjin reservoir which U.S. Marines are enveloping in the centre of the peninsula, and near the Manchurian border town of Hyesanjin held by the U.S. 7th Division.

Keep Withdrawing

Reds withdrew wherever U.N. patrols approached, although they often outnumbered the patrols.

South Koreans moving up the east coast ran into less opposition as they approached Chongjin, 55 miles from the Soviet border. Other South Koreans took Hapsu Wednesday and captured Sackang after a brief fight.

U.N. air raids were relatively light, concentrating on secondary rail lines in the northwest.

A strange lull has been hanging over the northwest front for more than a week. United Nations forces have advanced slowly and usually against no opposition. Chinese troops, when encountered, have exchanged a few shots and then broken off contact.

Today a headquarters spokesman disclosed that an American patrol had gone all the way into Unsan and then withdrew. Asked why the Americans didn't remain there, the spokesman replied cryptically, "there's a reason."

Market Climbs Industrials Up

TORONTO, Nov. 23—(CP)—Prices advanced to new high ground as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrials climbed strongly for the second straight day with gains ranging to more than two points. Steels and papers led the board with a solid list of gains.

Base metals were ahead although several key issues declined. Gains ranged to 75 cents and Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Noranda, East Sullivan, Quemont and Waite Amulet were leaders that were higher. Golden Manitou, Consolidated Smelters and United Keno Hill traded against the trend with losses.

Senior golds firmed with fractional gains while junior producers drifted downwards in quiet dealings. Losses in junior golds were limited to pennies.

Harvey Court Of Revision

A Court of Revision for Harvey township sitting in Buckhorn, heard twenty appeals on assessment and confirmed the assessor's evaluation except on a cottage property owned by P. A. Hunt which was reduced $50. The Court itself revised upwards the assessment on two other properties: of Nelson Windover by $150 and J. G. Elliott by $50.

Among the 20 appeals was one against assessment on a house on canal property. This was struck off the rolls. T. J. Carley represented the appellant Robert Dixon. J. A. Marchen asked that a lot assessed against him be taken off the roll, as it is government property. This was done.

Eleven persons requested changes of addresses and description of property on the rolls.

County assessor S. G. Sparling was present when the court was held, Reeve J. G. Elliott presided.

The Court was adjourned to resume sittings on Saturday, December 2, at Buckhorn.

Flower Grows In Lung Of 2-Year-Old Girl

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 23 (AP). —A sunflower plant was found growing in the lung of a two-year-old Kansas girl yesterday. True, it had only a half-inch-long sprout and roots, but the flower seed had germinated and was making lusty growth in the lower lung of Patricia Fredlake. Doctors removed the plant and Patricia was reported in good condition.

7,000 Workers Back To Ford After Walkout

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP) —Some 7,000 employees reported for work as usual today following unauthorized walkouts that closed all manufacturing operations yesterday at the big Ford of Canada plant.

Another 3,000 workers were due to report on the afternoon shift.

Representatives of the company and Local 200, United Automobile Workers (CIO) scheduled a meeting to discuss the dispute that started the walkouts in the auto assembly plant.

The regular midnight shift — not involved in the walkouts — went to work as usual last night after the union's policy committee said in a statement it saw "no reason" for the men to remain off their jobs.

Sixty-five employees in the auto trim department, centre of the dispute, were to be kept off their jobs pending the outcome of today's meeting.

Protest Jobs

Employees protested assignment of certain jobs in the department as men returned to work following a two-day layoff. The layoff had been called because of parts shortages during a present model change-over.

Some 7,000 day shift employees were idled as work stoppages spread from the assembly plant to the other three production plants.

An estimated 3,000 men on the afternoon shift did not enter the company gates. Crowds of employees milled about the entrances but there was no organized picketing and no violence.

Refused To Work

Robert S. Bridge, vice-president of manufacturing, said the company ordered the assembly plant closed when workers crowded the aisles and refused to return to work.

Abrupt work stoppages two hours later closed the foundry and machine shop plants. The fourth plant was closed at noon when employees did not return from lunch.

"As the man walked out they told many of the supervisors they must leave too," Mr. Bridge said. "The supervisors left under protest rather than risk possible violence."

Some of the foundry furnaces were believed damaged when molten metal was allowed to cool. Contraction of furnace linings would require their rebuilding. A company spokesman said there could be no immediate estimate of the damage.

US Supplies Arrive

BORDEAUX, France, Nov. 23 (AP)—Regular dockworkers yesterday began unloading the first contingent of supplies for United States troops in Germany to arrive since creation of an American transit base here. Phone Calls Tell Families News Of Disaster

By JACK RYAN AND LOU DOLPHIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(...) The telephone rang in a small suburban home in Garden City. A 17-year-old boy picked up the receiver.

"Oh," he said, not wanting to believe. Then, slowly, "father always took the 6.09."

The telephone rang again at Floral Park. A father answered.

"Is it certain? Are you sure he is really dead?"

Yes.

"Oh God. Why, that's our last boy. The other was in a B-17."

The telephone rang again—a shrill, impatient death knell, making the rounds of the pretty commuter communities that dot Long Island.

A woman answered at East Rockaway.

She screamed.

Rings All Night

All night long the telephone rang, ringing in scores of homes that will not celebrate Thanksgiving today.

The calls brought the tragic news of a major disaster on the Long Island railroad—the worst train wreck in the history of New York State—and one of the worst in the history of the United States.

A warm and happy crowd had pushed and jostled its way through the loading gates at Manhattan's Pennsylvania staion only a few minutes before. The day was over, tomorrow was Thanksgiving, and the big city's commuters were hurrying home to wives and families.

About 1,200 of them boarded No. 780 on the bankrupt Long Island railroad. It was the 6.09, bound for Pleasant Hempstead.

Another 1,000 crowded on to No. 174. It was the 6.13 headed down the same track for Babylon through Rockville Centre.

Stood In Aisles

It was dark early, and a cold, chill moon, almost full, gleamed down on the track ahead. Inside the cars, hot and stuffy, the extra crowds stood in the aisles, swaying as the 12-car train plunged eastward.

It had been nine months since the disastrous head-on collision at Rockville Centre killed 31. Probably no body was thinking of that wreck when the 6.09 made an unscheduled stop.

This was at Kew Gardens, where the tracks run behind little bungalows in residential Queensboro, still inside the city.

But the brakes had locked, and nothing happened.

Then with a flash and a roar the 6.13 was on top of them from behind.

Saw Her Coming

"I heard her coming," brakeman Bertrand Biggam said hours later at Jamaica hospital, "but I thought she was on another track.

"I looked back, and she was coming like the devil. I thought 'my God! She's on the same track!'"

Then the onrushing car crashed in front of Biggam's face. It hurled him the full length of the rear coach, and let him escape, injured but alive.

Behind him, motorman Benjamin Pokorny rode the 6.13 to his death in a telescoping slaughterhouse of passengers.

His lead car went through and over the rear coach, splitting it, shearing bodies, rolling up steel, glass, green mohair and flesh into a tangled mass.

Those who lived all had their story to tell ... the screams, the flying glass, the odd dusty smell of the shaken coaches, the flash and power failure as the third rail short-circuited, the cries, the moans, and the wet, warm blood on hands and face.

This was New York city, and help was fast. But for hours nothing on earth could help the injured and the dying pinned in the narrow gap between Pokorny's car above, and the 6.09's rear coach below.

Casualties were compiled at the Richmond Hill precinct station. There lists were typed and posted.

As radio and newspaper headlines carried the news through the city—and the suburbs—nearly 200 women gathered there.

But others kept wondering why their husbands dallied while dinner spoiled. The trains are sometimes late ... but hardly that late.

Then the telephones began ringing.

At Garden City it rang in the home of Harry Eidt, a 50-year-old architect.

"We wondered what had happened," said the voice at the end of the line, speaking calm and evenly.

Then it broke into a sob.

"We were waiting supper for him."

Large Budgetary Surplus

At the end of the first seven months of Canada's fiscal year the federal treasury has a surplus of more than $363 million, although the Minister of Finance budgeted for a surplus of only $20 million for the whole year. Does this mean that there will be so much money left over at the end of the year that taxes can be reduced, or at least not increased? No.

* * *

As always, a heavy part of the bills come in during the last months of the year. For instance, last year by the end of October there was a surplus of more than $300 million. By the year's end, after five more months in which the surplus could have been increased, on the pattern of the first seven, it was whittled down to $111 million. The same whittling process will apply this year, and with greater force because military expenditures already authorized have hardly begun their drain on the Federal treasury. However, in view of the unanticipated high levels of employment, production and business, all of which contribute to the higher tax yield, the surplus will probably be larger than the $20 million budgeted for. Further, the rate of expenditure for defence purposes will not have reached its peak by next March. There will not be, however, any surplus of the size it is now. But there will be a goodly one, and that is the danger. Surpluses in Government hands are too frequently an invitation to Government departments to spend recklessly.

* * *

There are two reasons for not expecting a reduction in taxes; and even for expecting a marked increase. One is the vast sums which Canada will have to spend next year—and for many years thereafter it is safe to predict—on rearming Canada and the western world. We have unfortunately only begun this process of staggering spending for defence. The other reason is that the Government has attempted to use taxation to control inflation. It is called cyclical budgeting. In boom times the policy is to lay aside for a rainy day and withdraw money from circulation. In slack times the policy is to spend so as to increase employment and production and put more money in circulation. The government is still following this policy, though less thoroughly than in the war years.

* * *

If the Government believes in this policy it should itself practise what it imposes on others. It is taking money out of the hands of citizens through taxation; thus it is limiting their spending abilities. The Government should also limit its own spending wherever it can and in whatever departments possible. Even in the Department of National Defence there are undoubtedly surplus brigadiers and unessential chair-sitters. If the Government wants to limit spending, it should begin with itself, the largest spender of all.

John Bull No Doting Mother

A Fraserville reader veers off on a tack from the comment we made about Mr. George Drew's statement that Canada is buying much from the U.S. which she could be buying in Britain. The reader says: yes, imperial ties are supposed to work both ways, and it is time that Britain gave Canada a sharp rap on the knuckles, reminded us of that tie, and demanded that we accept sterling instead of insisting on payment in American dollars which Britain has not got.

It is well to remember that Britain is John Bull the trader, no doting mother or even Mother Hubbard. Her nineteenth century commercial eminence was not achieved by sentimental deference to "imperial ties". Britain formed, pulled and twanged the imperial ties just as it suited her purse and pride. She continues to twang them whenever it is to her advantage.

Ties are connections between two or more things. As our reader says, imperial ties are supposed to work both ways. Britain is at one end, Canada at the other. During the war Canada made special efforts to help and feed Britain. Canadians took less than the world market prices because they expected in return a guaranteed, steady market in years ahead. But Britain abrogated many of these contracts when she felt them hampering her. She found it more profitable to buy wheat from Russia, beef from South America, cheese from Holland and Denmark.

It is precisely because the Britons have put so much stress on Imperial ties and jerked them heartily that Canada feels entitled to point out that they are two-way ties, and Russia and the Argentine are off the imperial path.

Our correspondent says that Canada should accept sterling in payment for her goods, and not require American dollars. We point out that Canada had an acute shortage of American dollars, too; chiefly because Britain was unable or (in more recent times) unwilling to play her role in the British-Canadian-American trade triangle. Does Russia accept sterling from Britain in exchange for her wheat? Nominally yes; practically, no. She takes British steel, machinery, electrical appliances, farm implements in exchange. Russia is prepared to trade at a loss on these deals; she needs these goods wherever she can buy them at whatever cost, in her task of re-construction and arming the Communist third of the world.

Canada does not need to make such deals, either with Britain or Russia. We have our own wheat, our own machines. We do buy heavily in Britain, but need not do so at a loss.

Canada is a true daughter of trading Britain. She has learnt at the mother's knee not to be deluded by flag-waving blandishments, and to dicker as well, if not as heavy-handedly, as John Bull. But she has not yet acquired the coyness of Britain in pulling imperial ties for old trade's sake.

We Know Them By Their Smell

From time to time we receive Letters to the Editor which are not what they seem; they are signed with false names, and they are dated from street addresses which do not exist. They are usually embittered attacks on somebody in a prominent position in Peterborough. The worst of these letters are those which the writer has signed with a genuine name, but not her own—for we regret to say that most letters of this kind are in feminine handwriting.

Most of these letters we reject at once, for they are libellous, and we have no intention of uttering libel. But a few of them seem to be rooted in a genuine grievance, and are written in terms which we could print—if we knew for a certainty that the letter was genuine.

How do we know that it is not? Newspaper editors develop a special sensitivity about such things. There is about such letters an intangible atmosphere—an almost imperceptible smell, so to speak—which arouses suspicion. And when suspicion is aroused we have to spend a good deal of time checking names and addresses, and phoning people who have special information, until we know for certain that the letter is genuine or not. And all this trouble—we wasted fifteen minutes investigating a phoney letter about a candidate for the Board of Education yesterday—because somebody has been so malicious and unprincipled as to write a letter and sign somebody else's name to it.

We repeat, as we have done so many times before, that we publish letters signed with genuine names, or with pseudonyms, but in all cases the true name of the letter writer must be communicated to us. We are not under the slightest obligation to publish any letters from readers whatever, but we do so in order to give people with genuine opinions a forum for the expression of those opinions. It is the abuse of such a forum by sneaks who sign their neighbour's names to letters which they have written, which makes newspapermen cynical.

Sabotage!

The news of the wreck in the Rockies, in which a troop train was involved was hardly out before such highly reputable sources of news as cigar stores and barber shops were buzzing with the rumour that saboteurs had been at work. "Sabotage, you bet. Just wait and see. Remember in the last war . . . " By noon the rumour-mongers were slightly abashed when it became known that the sorry accident was a result of the failure to deliver a train-stop order. But they still whispered 'sabotage'.

Why do people delight in giving themselves and others the jitters? Is it a desire to make life like the crime dime novels? Is Canada so war-fevered that an accident involving men in uniform must be attributed to saboteurs—domestic Reds or foreign spies?

NOTE AND COMMENT

A newspaper sermon praises something which the writer calls "The Warm Mind". Not to be confused, of course, with the hot head.

A contemporary defines an optimist as a man who lends money to a relative. Perhaps the optimism lies in the use of the word "lend".

A brief, mysterious news note tells of a man in Detroit who snapped a policewoman's garter in error. If this has a moral, it is that you should look at the hat before you snap the garter.

A Warning From History

By
W. ARTHUR LEWIS
(Professor of Political Economy in the University of Manchester)

I HAVE just spent three months reading the history books, seeking to discover the causes of economic progress and decline—especially decline. Why did Egypt, after a thousand years of extraordinary inventiveness, go into a decline, about 2500 B.C.? Why did the great prosperity of the Roman Empire melt away in the third century A.D.? Why do the last three centuries of Chinese history contrast so strongly with the progressiveness of earlier times? At what point did the vigour of Islamic society begin to peter out?

NEEDLESS to say I have found no answers. Historians are scared of this kind of question. Very few will touch it, and these few have to face the scorn and ridicule of most of their colleagues. The causes of economic progress and of stagnation are still almost any man's guess.

All that my quest has yielded, besides three months of escapist pleasure, is the simple generalization with which, in any case, I started. Societies cease to expand when they cease to be flexible. The secret of progress is to be able to meet the challenges that time may bring.

MY quest was not entirely escapist. Ever since about 1870 the economic foundations of Britain have seemed to grow steadily less secure. From 1870 to 1914 industrial production grew only very slowly, much more slowly than in the decades before 1870, and much more slowly than in rival industrial countries. The rate of growth of exports fell off. Britain clung to old industries, while the world's new industries, like steel and chemicals, and the world's new scientific methods of production, flourished more vigorously elsewhere. By 1914 Britain was no longer the world's industrial leader in any dynamic sense.

The period from 1918 to 1939 was even worse. Industrial productivity per man started to grow more rapidly, but there was heavy unemployment and declining trade. These brought the humiliating climax of 1931, when the pound had to be devalued; a climax which has been followed by two decades in which the country has not paid its way.

HERE is enough to give urgent practical importance to a question which might otherwise seem apt only for an escapist essay. What is it that makes small nations great and great nations small?

Since 1947 we have done well. Production has raced ahead at an unprecedented rate. Exports are expanding. We are even paying our way (just). But we are doing this in very favourable circumstances. Two major competitors, Germany and Japan, are prostrate. A third, the U.S.A., is showering money all over the world and generating an inflationary boom. Shall we do as well when the impact of the war has passed away?

FLEXIBILITY is clearly the secret of our survival. These islands cannot support their fifty million inhabitants, still increasing by two milions every ten years, except by international trade. This means that, in competition with larger and and more powerful rivals, we must be able to sell to the world what the world wants, at prices that the world will accept. What the world wants is changing all the time, and unless we can change our products accordingly we are sunk.

Now it is perfectly clear that the reason for our relative stagnation from 1870 to 1939 was that we failed to keep up with the changing demands of international trade. It was the United States and Germany that were pioneering the new trades, while we clung to the old. It is clear also that our progress in the last few years is no index to our soundness. Ever since 1945 the world has been hungry for goods, and any manufacturing country could sell anything. But shall we, when this phase is over, be able to offer the world what it wants?

THERE are four danger spots at present. Two of them we are working to remove; but the other two seem only to grow more dangerous.

First, we must again become the country which is foremost in starting up new lines of production. We must invent new commodities to take the place of the old ones which pass out of international trade as new countries industrialize. We lost our leadership in this sphere to Germany and to the U.S.A. when we neglected to develop industrial research, and concentrated instead on pure science. Nowadays everyone knows this, and it is heartening to see the rate of absorption of scientists into industrial laboratories.

Everyone knows, secondly, that we cannot compete on reasonable terms unless our productivity increases at least as fast as that of other countries. We are taking up scientific management. And our trade union movement is beginning to lose its restrictive outlook, and to learn, from the American movement, what it can do to advance productive efficiency.

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT who can be hopeful of the third necessity, which is labour mobility? We cannot produce the right things unless we can shift labour out of the wrong industries into the right ones. Over this vital movement we have lost all control, and have no vestige of a plan for retrieving control. This autumn, five years after the end of the war, the Minister of Fuel and Power threatens us with a winter coal crisis due to lack of manpower in the mines. Our labour supply flows its own sweet way. If in 1960 it is to be found in the industries where it is wanted, this will be nothing but a most unlikely stroke of luck.

◇ ◇ ◇

JUST as unpromising is the fourth spot. New commodities and efficient production are both highly correlated with the birth and growth of new firms. Our present industrial giants may be highly efficient, but heaven help us if fifty years from now they are still the leading firms in our economy. For new ideas you must have new men and new firms, and any economic system in which the new cannot rise up and challenge the old is doomed. But what is the prospect of new firms today? To this important question I shall return next week.

AS things stand now, one can be pretty confident that in twenty years' time Britain will not be able to supply the goods which the world will then want. Our labour will be unshiftable, and our ageing firms will be ossifying through lack of challenge from new rivals.

Of course, it need not be so. We can meet the challenge of a changing world by developing internal flexibility. Will we, or shall the tale read "Egypt in 2500 B.C., Rome in A.D. 200, China in A.D. 1600, Britain in . . .?"

Letters To The Editor

SENSATIONAL REPORT OF DISEASE

Sir: As a Peterborough citizen and mother of a family I should like to say a word about the alarmist action of the Toronto morning paper. On its front page on Tuesday there appeared a headline which suggested that a mysterious disease was about in Peterborough because of the sudden death of a small boy.

The paper had not waited for the judgement of the people who were trying to find the exact cause of death—the local medical authorities.

Now I suggest that this sort of sensationalism is wrong and plays upon the fears we all feel for the safety of our children. It is the worst kind of sensationalism which a responsible paper should not permit and reflects on the good name of our city, by a wild exaggeration of the facts, which were later stated by our M.O.H. and appeared in good time and suitable print in your paper.

Yours sincerely,
E.M.

BRITISH MONEY, BRITISH TASTE

Sir: I noticed in Saturday's Examiner that you seem to resent the fact that Great Britain has recently agreed to purchase some coarse grain from Russia—grain which you believe could have been purchased from Canada.

I would be glad to know if Canada is willing to be paid in sterling (as Russia will be), or do you suggest that Britain should borrow some more American dollars for the purpose?

You also report the Canadians must in future do without red cheese because English buyers prefer white. I'm afraid I cannot see any logic in that statement, as, if the English prefer white cheese, the obvious plan is to permit only white to be exported and, at the same time allow coloured cheese to be manufactured for home consumption.

Yours very truly,
MUSIC LOVER.

ED. NOTE: The point made by Music Lover about cheese for export is precisely that made in our editorial.

CHIGNON SITUATION MISUNDERSTOOD

Sir: I am in reply to your article on page 5 of Saturday's Examiner, about the hair situation in Peterborough.

When you say that your reporter asked a beauty expert about a chignon and the so-called expert had never heard of it—why 90 per cent. of our patrons know what a chignon is.

There are a great number of shops in Peterborough whose cuts, styles, hair colouring and perms compare favourably with American hairdressers, Paris, France, Hollywood and New York. In fact our Peterborough girls are noted for being smart.

I sold a transformation or wig four months ago, a perfect match for less than $70, not twice the amount as was stated. We also have braids and chignons for $10.

I put on a hair style show two years ago for the Beta Sigma Phi at the Y.W.C.A. Mr. Lou Fenkell was present, owner of the Toronto Human Hair Supply, and we passed every type of human hair-piece through the audience to be inspected.

Thanking you for your space and inviting your misinformed reporter to our salon to be "transformed".

I am, Yours sincerely,
(MRS.) JO DONOGHUE.

Equal Partners

(Ottawa Journal)

Bertrand Russell says in New York he considers Britain now a satellite of the United States. Partly true, though decreasingly, in the economic sense.

But let nobody imagine London just takes orders from Washington.

Actually Britain and the United States are equal partners: U.S.A. has the advantage in money and men, but Britain, to the defence of democracy, contributes not only money and men but her rich experience, her geographical position in the defence work.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw. And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of David? But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils.

And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: and if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand? And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges.

But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you. Or else how can one enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house. (Matt. 12: 22-29.)

EXODUS FROM SHEFFIELD

Plans To Shoot Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP)—Lesley Sander, a New Yorker who hopes to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel, is expected here today to talk over plans for his hazardous trip, scheduled for Sunday.

Anthony (Jiggs) Rufrano, Niagara Falls welder who is building a steel barrel for the 37-year-old interior decorator, said yesterday he will try to persuade Sander to postpone the venture until spring.

Rufrano said he will argue for postponement on grounds that the weather these days is cold and changeable and chance of drawing a good crowd of spectators unfavorable.

Two days' more work will be required to weld together the 1,000-pound barrel.

Night In Doghouse

AURORA, Nov. 23 (CP). — A couple of young hitchhikers have been taken home to Sudbury after spending a night in a kennel here. The two 10-year-olds set out from Sudbury to visit a sister of one of the lads. They apparently couldn't locate here, and police found them after they spent a cold night in a doghouse.

GOOD LUCK!—Aboard the troop train that crashed into a passenger train Tuesday near Canoe River BC, were these members of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. They are shown being wished bon voyage by Brig. R. E. A. Morton, left, commanding officer of the Army's Prairie Command, when leaving Camp Shilo, Man., for Fort Lewis, Wash., to train with other troops of the Canadian Special Force. Left to right, they are: Gnrs. D. C. Robertson, Windsor, Ont.; H. Mynett, Kelowna, BC; R. L. P. Payette Cornwall, Ont.; K. M. M. Proven, recently of East Wemyss, Fifeshire, Scotland, and T. D. Snell, Regina.

First Mackinaw Coat 139 Yrs. Ago

Recognized winter wearing apparel in Canada and the northern United States, the Mackinaw coat will observe its 139th anniversary this year, and thereby honor the region of its origin—Northern Ontario, relates The Sudbury Star.

Captain Roberts was the commander at Fort St. Joseph, on the island of St. Joseph in the St. Mary's River in November, 1811, when the weather started to turn cold.

Appeal for Aid

Fearing that his men would freeze in the frigid weather, Capt. Roberts sent a letter to Capt. Evans, adjutant at the military headquarters in Quebec, which read in part as follows:

"All hopes having now ceased of the arrival of the schooner Hunter, or any other vessel from Amherstburg, with the clothing of the detachment, I am, this day (November 20 1811), obtaining upon my requisition to the storekeeper of the Indian Department, a consignment of heavy blankets, for the purpose of making them into great coats, a measure the severity of the climate strongly demands and one, I trust, the commander of the forces will not disapprove of, when he is informed that not a remnant remains of the coats served out to them in the year 1807, and that they have received none since."

Job for Askin

Captain Roberts wasted no time in ordering John Askin, keeper of the King's stores, to start work in the coats. Halfbreed women were engaged to do the work and the blankets selected were 3½ point Hudson Bay blankets. The color ordered was blue, but as there were not enough blue blankets, the order was finished in red and in plaid.

The following spring the British soldiers captured Fort Mackinaw from the Americans, and it is said that a factor in the victory was the high morale of the British after spending a comfortable winter clad in the blanket great coats.

In the winter of 1812-13 coats were needed for marching from Fort Mackinaw to Montreal, and as it was expected that the snow would be deep, Captain Roberts ordered a short, double-breasted coat made from the Hudson Bay blankets.

Trappers, woodsmen and others saw the British soldiers clad in the short, heavy winter coat, and it was not long until the Mackinaw coat was generally accepted for all types of civilian wear.

Nylons Edge Petes By 6 to 5 In Overtime Heat of Hot Tilt

By yanking out a 6-5 decision in overtime over the Petes here last night, Kingston Nylons took a tight grip on third place behind the second-place Petes, with the local Eagles out in front of the race. About 700 fans saw the homesters drop a tougnie in Civic Arena after a fine fray between two well-matched squads. Jonnny Armstrong's hot shot from an angle after he skirted defence with less than a minute to go caught a corner of the cage in the extra inning for the victory.

Armstrong was the Kingston hero as he potted three goals in a neat night's work. Aitken, Patterson and McKeown got one each for the winners, as Potts and Harrison had an assist apiece. Jake Wade and Arn Dugan led the home squad with three points apiece, and Honey Tompkins was good for two, Fryia and Gus Leonard each having an assist.

Both goalies turned in a sterling chore with plenty to do, while the big and bumping Kingston defence shaded the home blue-line guardians. There was little to choose from between the opposing forwards.

Play Ragged

Play was scrambly in the first frame when the Petes had a 2-1 margin, but warmed up and showed better hockey in the even second chukker, with the Petes again having a 2-1 scoring edge. Nylons put on the pressure in the third to have a 3-1 advantage, tying the score late in the heat to force overtime. It was hot and pretty even in the extra heat, with the Petes having more hard shots on goal but Nylons getting the payoff counter shortly before the gong. They served four of the six penalties in a clean contest.

Mason went off early for holding but was back before any damage was done. Wade stabbed twice with Dugan's pass in close before he finally fooled Udall to tally. Tompkins cuffed home another shortly at point-blank range with Fryia and Gus Leonard aiding. Late in the period, Armstrong tied it early in the hunt on fast-breaking combination and a neat finish with Potts. Armstrong tried it early in the second from Harrison on a pass-out and slap shot inside, but Wade got that one back from Dugan on a neat bit of work by both going in and fighting through the defence. Patterson was off for interference when the Petes went up 4-2 as Duan rapped home Tompkins' rebound at the goal mouth. Londry got the nod later for holding.

A Broken Stick

Collins was waved over to start the third for playing with a broken stick but returned in time to see Aitken rap one in during a hot scramble on Harding's doorstep. Patterson got the finger for tripping and Gus Leonard went off for a time with a two-stitch cut near the mouth. Play was hot this period with Kingston pressing but the Petes also testing Udall on return thrusts. Patterson's screened shot from near the blue line hit the mark, and then Wade's angle drive slipped under Udall and the Petes seemed to be home free with less than two minutes to go. Nylons poured in there and McKeown got the equalizer in close in a scramble at 18:25 to send it into overtime. Patterson went off early in the added heat for interference but Nylons withstood hot pressure till he returned. Each goalie in turn had to hop and it looked like a tie till at 9:27, Armstrong got around defence fast to blast a sizzling angle drive into a corner of the cage for the winning marker. Teams.

Nylons: Goal, Udall; defence, Watts and Londry; centre, Partis; wings, Catlin and Gerow; alternates, Plumb, Patterson, Armstrong, Harrison, Potts, Joyce, Aitken and McKeown.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, E. Leonard and Davison; centre, Wade; wings, Dugan and Mason; alternates, G. Leonard, Tompkins, Fryia, West, Garvey, Collins, Jopling and Millar.

Referee, L. Feffering; linesman R. Oulmet.

Blue Bombers Outweigh Argos But Lack Depth

By JACK MITCHELL

TORONTO, Nov. 23 — (CP) — From the standpoint of weight, Winnipeg Blue Bombers hold a hefty edge for the Dominion football final here Saturday. The Western Canada champions' starting line-up outweighs Toronto Argonauts by an average of 11 pounds a man.

Winnipeg's 12 first-stringers average out to 207 pounds a player, if you take vital statistics issued by the club as accurate. On the same basis, the Argos average 196 pounds.

The Bombers are lighter in the backfield, with their five starting ball-carriers averaging 171½ pounds to 176 for the Eastern Canada champions. It's the Winnipeg wingline, bolstered by a couple of giant 260-pounders, that tips the scales in Bombers' favor by averaging 232½ pounds, compared with 211 for Argos.

Weather Influence

You can't pick a Grey Cup winner just from those figures, of course, because there are other considerations—speed, ability and fight to name a few. But should the weather come up heavy, weight could work in Winnipeg's favor.

There's another important factor. Argo coach Frank Clair says he intends to stick to his platoon system of offensive and defensive teams, whereas Winnipeg's Frank Larson plans to use a number of his first-stringers in iron-man, 60-minute roles if necessary.

That shouldn't make much difference in relative weights because the Argo defensive team averages about the same as the other 12. But it may answer one question. Is it more tiring to stay on full-time or to trot on and off the field every two or three plays?

Both teams use their imports in their first strings. Argos' are Curtis, Bass, Dekdedrun, Hirsch, McCormick, Kerns and Whaley. Winnipeg's are Casey, Jacobs, Brown, Johnson, Tinsley, Henke and Aguirre.

Play 60 Minutes

Larson told newspaper men at London, Ont., where Bombers are training for the game, that all his imports have played 60 minutes in a number of the team's 17 games to date, and all are prepared to do it again. On the other hand, Clair usually changes 10 at a time, with Whaley, Dekdebrun, Hirsch, Bass, Curtis or Toogood often doing double duty.

When the Bombers have their starting 12 on the field, they weigh a total of 2,486 pounds. The Argos' offensive team totals 2,355. That means there'll be just short of 2½ tons of bone and gristle shaking Vasity Stadium Saturday.

Skips are reminded that the Neill Trophy play commences on Wednesday, December 6, at 7:00 o'clock. Give your entry to the committee so they will have ample time to prepare the draw.

Are you entered in the Walker bonspiel set for next Wednesday, November 29?

Dr. Ralph Clark, D. Best, Dr. McCartney, and A. W. Smith won their three games at the Oshawa bonspiel yesterday, and return on Friday for the final round.

Mrs. T. Doughty, Mrs. V. Selkirk, and Mrs. M. Holt are skipping rinks today in the bonspiel sponsored by the Toronto Ladies' Curling Club.

There may be a catch in this, but here is what we read on the notice board Wednesday evening: "Lowe wins a game—don't need Allan."

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Some odd characters decorate the scene in every sport, but none can match the pro grapplers for oddities. Efforts are being made now to bring a new one here for one of the weekly shows—a party known to the wrestling folk as Lord Athol Layton of Surrey, England. Complete with Gerald, his friend and manager—a former RAF officer. 'Tis said that Layton has the longest reach in the world, 86½ inches. Hm, a good type to reach over for some of those Canadian and USA dollars, eh? He is six feet, six and a half tall, and bumps the beam at 256 pounds. A judo expert who (so 'tis said) has been undefeated in 116 bouts in Singapore, Java, India, England and, more recently, on this side. What next, mes enfants?

* * * * * *

Tossing 'em through the hoop this week-end, we note a twin bill for the girl basketeers Friday eve in the YW gym. starting at eight chimes. It'll be Nurses Srs. vs. Black's first, and then CGE 'gainst the undefeated Lindsay Grads in the nightcap. Latter have put a real challenge on the local squads in this hoop loop so far this cool semester. The male cagers are at it Saturday p.m. in the YMCA in House League tussles, beginning at seven. With Buicks having a bye, Chryslers roll against the Meteors first, and then it is Fords trying to outrun the Monarchs. Quite the motor league, what? High schoolers won't see action for some time yet.

Lindsay And IOOF-ers

Puck followers can wend their ways down Park St. south this Friday evening to see an OHA junior "B" joust betwixt Lindsay Kin and the local Oddfellows. First meeting of the season for these clubs. Reports out of Port Hope are that the Lindsay lads are rougher than some of our city streets, but we think the IOOF-ers have learned how to protect themselves in tough tussles by now. These big juniors in the group are all full of hustle and fight, so fans can be sure of lots of hot action every game. Each year sees several junior grads making good in senior "B" company, an indication of the calibre of hockey shown in junior "B" ranks here.

* * * * * * *

That was a tough one to drop, that 6-5 overtime loss for Petes at the hands of Kingston Nylons here last eve. Looked like the two clubs would settle for a draw till Johnny Armstrong slapped one home with less than a minute left of the extra inning. A clean fray and plenty exciting the last half. The Petes had a margin for quite a space, but Nylons kept battling back and they have plenty of punch—as the Quinte crew will agree after that 16-2 shellacking. For the Jopling bunch, we liked the work of Tompkins, Wade, Dugan and Fryia on the attack and Harding in goal. Some of the others shone, too, and they all toiled hard. Nylons are no soft touches by any means and will be tougher still as the season wears on.

Eagles Rule The Roost

So will Queen's, as we've said before. They made it a mighty close fit for Eagles in Kingston last eve before Mick Magee's scrappers fought back to eke out a 7-6 win. This, coupled with the Petes' loss here, means Eagles are ruling the roost at the moment. Freddy Mortimer, Bob Parnall and Andy Milne were most effective on the firing line, while Johnny Godfrey gave a masterful display of defensive work, Ross Nicholls being good also in goal. Whole team battled hard, seeming to catch fire in the third chukker to come from behind and take the tilt. That's the never-say-die spirit they showed in two previous campaigns in winning group honors and going so far in provincial playdowns. They play the Redmen on Quinte ice tomorrow night.

The Ontario Catholic Athletic Conference sends along its lists of grid all-star selections, picked by the coaches and athletic directors a few days ago. The senior "A" first and second teams do not concern us, but we see where four St. Peter's players made the first team in the senior "B" group. Harry O'Neill at half, Terry O'Leary left inside, Gerald O'Reilly left middle, and Frank Farley left end were chosen. And on the second squad, John Jones was named at half, Jack Armstrong the quarterback and Tom Cavanagh the right end. St. Mike's and De la Salle were the other teams in this senior "B" setup. Our congratulations to the local gridders picked.

Cleveland Beats Pittsburgh 4-3

By The Canadian Press

Cleveland's Barons Wednesday night further increased their lead atop the Western Division of the American Hockey League, squeezing out a 4-3 decision over Pittsburgh's third-place Hornets.

It was the first home reverse for the Hornets since the Barons downed them in the season opener.

In other games, Hershey Bears defeated Springfield Indians 3-2 and Buffalo Bisons played to a 5-5 overtime tie with Providence Reds.

At Providence, the Bisons overcame a 4-0 first-period deficit to earn their tie, scoring five goals against Al Bentley, the Reds' sub goalie. Harvey Bennett, the regular netminder, was forced out with a cut under the eye.

At Springfield, Hershey held off a late rally by the Indians with right-winger Gerry Brown escoring two goals for the Bears to provide their margin of victory.

Lumber Kings Tie 3-3

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (CP). — Pembroke Lumber Kings, playing their first scheduled game of the season in the Eastern Canada Hockey League, held the league-leading RCAF Flyers to a 3-3 tie at the Ottawa Auditorium last night.

Hotel Rooms Hard To Get As Final's Ducats

By MEL SUFRIN, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP). — Know what makes hotel clerks prematurely grey? It's things like Grey Cup finals.

There's only one thing as tough to get in Toronto this week as a ticket to the east-west football final between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Argonauts. It's an hotel room.

A check indicates that room clerks in Toronto's 150 hotels are tired of saying "no" to football fans seeking reservations. The clerks' big worry is how they're going to honor even confirmed reservations.

Worse Than '49

Hotel managers say that the rush is worse than last year when two teams from outside Toronto —Montreal Alouettes and Calgary Stampeders — met in the big game.

"Very rugged," was the comment of the manager of the Royal York, largest hotel in the Commonwealth. The 1,200 rooms will be filled largely by visitors coming from the west.

At the King Edward, next in size with about 1,000 rooms, about the only ones who can be positive of their reservation are the members of the Blue Bombers, who will arrive in Toronto Friday.

No one section of the country has a monopoly on reservations, although a large group will be in from Winnipeg. Telegrams for rooms for the weekend have come from as far as Saint John, N. B., and Vancouver.

Cabins Scarce

Note to football fans from out of town: if you think it will be easy to get a room in a tourist home or heated cabins on the outskirts of town, don't think you're the only one with the idea.

The room situation in this city of 750,000-odd population has been tied up in knots by a football game attracting 27,000 persons.

Toronto's Tod Sloan who fired two markers to help Toronto Maple Leafs to a 5-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

Army Downs North Bay

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (CP). — Army edged out a 3-2 decision over North Bay Black Hawks last night in an Eastern Canada Hockey League fixture.

Pete Leichnitz opened Army's scoring in the third period and put Army ahead a bit later after Ringler had tied it up. Morland tallied at 12:39, but Army's Blondin, in the last minute of play, came through with the deciding marker.

TWO-WAY THREAT—School teacher Tod Toogood hopes to teach Winnipeg Blue Bombers a thing or two come Saturday, when Toronto Argonauts meet Bombers for the Grey Cup. The 155-pound half is used mostly on defence, where his runbacks are a major threat.

Eagles Take Over First Spot By Downing Queen's, 7 To 6

KINGSTON, Nov. 23.—Peterborough's high flying Eagles nearly had their wings clipped here last night when the cellar-dwelling Queen's Combines gave their best game of the OHA senior season before losing a 7 to 6 decision. In the meantime the improving Nylons shaded the Petes by 6 to 5 in an overtime thriller in the Liftlock City and prevented their victoms from remaining in a first place deadlock with the Eagles.

Queens struck for three goals early in the struggle, led by 4 to 2 at the second intermission and were up 5 to 3 in the last before the visitors roared to four consecutive counters in a space of eight minutes. The Gaels however hung on with determination scored their last goal at 14:25 and made it a ding-dong duel until the finish.

Ten penalties were handed out by referee Bill Holway and six of them were served by the visitors. Oddly enough only two of the Combines were banished but the time expended was 16 minutes owing to the fact that coach Johnny Carr-Harris sat on the penalty bench twice for minor offences, and once for disputing a decision with keen favor.

Awarded Goal

Early in the middle session referee Holway awarded the Eagles a counter on a shot by Milne although the goal judge failed to flash the light. Carr-Harris questioned the verdict and Holway waved him out via the misconduct route.

Queens carried the play to their opponents from the start of hostilities and threatened to provide a stunning upset when Wild, Sweetman and Keenleyside scored in succession, the last named hitting the webbing at 10:55. F Mortimer replied 25 seconds later.

The spell was broken at 1:05 in the middle period when Milne got the disputed goal that reduced the Gaels' advantage to one Smith of the Eagles was handed a penalty early in the session and Carr-Harris followed when he debated a questionable point with referee Holway. Later F. Mortimer and Montgomery of the Eagles were banished and the Combines appeared to have passed safely through the storm when Amby Dunn got their fifth marker.

Struck Hard

Lalonde of the visitors, with Vitarelli assisting, cut the lead in the last period but "Bud" Ohlke, in combination with Don Murray and Carr-Harris, got it back at 4:45. Then in a lightning-like thrust a Hill to Crowley assault clicked in a space of seven seconds and so fired the Eagles that they racked up three more counters, F. Mortimer, Milne and Coombs being the successful marksmen. That sustained effort won the game but took a lot of reserve strength out of the invaders But they managed to restrict the Gaels to the goal scoring by Carr-Harris at 14:15. A minor to Hill and a major to Montgomery placed the visitors in danger but fast backchecking and Johnny Godfrey's defensive generalship and individual performance balked the Tricolor until the finish.

Carr-Harris with a goal and two assists, and Don Murray, with three assists, were the losers' most effective attackers. Freddy Mortimer paced the Eagles point getters with two goals and an assist while Parnall had two assists and Milne two goals.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Toronto players are having quite a battle of it among themselves for top spots in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

The Leafs hold down the first four spots, a fact that contributes greatly to Toronto's present standing atop the league.

Max Bentley is setting the pace in the field of assists with 18 which, added to his six goals, gave him a 24-point total for first place.

Tod Sloan joined teammate Sid Smith and Montreal's Maurice Richard in first spot of the snipers division, picking up the goals last night to bring his total to 10.

The leaders:

	G	A.	Pts
M. Bentley, Toronto	6	18	24
Kennedy, Toronto	6	14	20
Sloan, Toronto	10	8	18
Gardner, Toronto	6	10	16

Tommy Ivan Subs As Coach Spitfires Win

By The Canadian Press.

When Windsor Spitfires went looking for a coach to fill in for suspended Jimmy Skinner they wound up with nothing but the best.

The success of their quest was indicated last night when Tommy Ivan, coach of Detroit Red Wings took over the Windsor reins and directed them to a 6-3 Ontario Hockey Association Junior A victory over Oshawa Generals.

Ivan, whose Red Wings were idle, was subbing for Skinner, who was suspended last week after being charged with assaulting an usher at Barrie in a game there.

Farm Club

There's nothing surprising about Ivan taking the job. Windsor is a Detroit farm club. So are the Generals, for that matter.

The game was one of three played in the junior league. Waterloo Hurricanes maintained their winless record at Barrie where they dropped a lopsided 11-5 verdict to the league-leading Flyers.

At Stratford, the Kroehlers moved into sole possession of third place behind Toronto Marlboros by shutting out the eighth-place Guelph Biltmores 2-0.

Dutchmen Win

A single game in the OHA major circuit, at Hamilton, saw Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen step over Toronto Marlboros into a second-place tie with Hamilton by defeating the Tigers 5-4.

A goal by Billy Flick, his second of the game, with less than four minutes left provided the winning margin after the Tigers had roared back with four goals in the last period to tie the score.

Ab Conick, with two, Murray Comfort and Carl Liscombe were the Hamilton scorers. Dinny Flanagan, Jack Pernfuss, Art Hurst tallied for Kitchener-Waterloo as well as Flick.

The Windsor junior victory before 3,200 fans raised the Spits from sixth to fourth position in the 10-team league. Oshawa remains seventh.

After a scoreless first period, Harry Sinden sent the Generals into a lead. But Jim Anderson, Elmer Skov, Al Arbour and Martin Zorica scored in quick succession for Windsor before Lou Jankowski got Oshawa's second goal. Eldor Thomas and John Offidani got the two tallies in the last period for the Spits while Alec Delvecchio scored for Oshawa.

Game A Rout

The win for Barrie lengthened the Flyers' first-place lead to four points ahead of the surging Marlboros. The game was a rout as Flyers outscored the cellar-dwellers in every period.

Jerry Toppazzini, Don Emms, Lionel Barber, and Real Chevrefils got two each for the winners. Doug Towers, Danny O'Connor and Leo Labine getting the others.

Chuck MacDonald led the Hurricanes with two goals and an assist while Paul Oliver, Charlie Brooker and Warren Godfrey got one apiece.

Goalie Al Bennett got a lot of credit for the Stratford shutout victory over the defending OHA Junior A champions. He was especially good in the second period when the Kroehlers were two men short for a spell.

Bob Armstrong and Guy Henri were the goal getters, scoring just 25 seconds apart in the middle frame.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League doesn't think sudden-death overtime periods are what the fans want to spice up the game.

Why? Because they "don't produce the wanted results."

Commenting on a story by Barney Kremenko, New York Journal-American sports writer Campbell said the fans are satisfied if their team has managed to stave off attacks and finish a game in a deadlock. "Some of the most exciting games end in ties," he said.

"Furthermore, the majority of those extra periods end up in a tie. During the last five years when overtime periods were permitted, only 30 per cent resulted in a different decision."

On Kremenko's report that fans were deserting the lowly New York Rangers, Campbell said "it's a known that that people will root for a winning team in any sport. It's just human nature."

The Eastern Canada Intercollegiate boxing championships will be held at McGill University in February with the University of Toronto team as defending titlists, it was announced yesterday.

Paul Collins of Wolfville, N. S., Bob McFarlane of London, Ont., and Bill Parnell of Victoria, B. C., have been nominated for the J. W. Davies Trophy, awarded annually to Canada's outstanding track and field star of the year. Tom Lord, national track and field committee chairman said the winner will be announced after ballotting by committee officials.

Shortstop Eddie Miksis said yesterday that seven years with Brooklyn Dodgers was enough—"I'm tired of riding the bench." Miksis, back in his New Jersey hometown of Burlington said he wanted to be traded to some team where he could play regularly. "Sure, I want to be traded" Miksis said in an interview, "if they want me to ride the bench, then let them pay me a regular player's salary for doing so."

Assault, the terror of three-year-olds in 1946, hit the comeback trail yesterday and did it in winning fashion. The seven-year-old veteran, racing under colors for the first time in 13 months, seemingly toyed for a while with six rivals in the day's feature at Hollywood Park, the $4,000 Hyde Park purse, and then left them far behind in an easy roll down the stretch. Assault and his old saddle associate, Eddie Arcaro, won by two lengths, with a South American Horse, Repelux running second to overhaul Bernbrook, who finished third, in the last few strides.

An aerial preview of east-west football rivalry will take place in the skies over Toronto Friday, the day before Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Toronto Argonauts meet in the Grey Cup football final. Early in the day three Blue Vampire fighters from No. 402 City of Winnipeg squadron will climb to 30,000 feet and streak toward Toronto on a non-stop flight. Thirty minutes from the city they'll radio their position ahead. That will be the signal for three Vampires of the No. 400 City of Toronto Squadron to take off to intercept the raiders. The ensuing dogfight should be about as noisy as the game and the 27,000 fans the next afternoon at Varsity Stadium.

Eager Beaver

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP). — Harold White, 16, has some stitches in his shoulder and leg to show for his eagerness to get a newspaper. He ran across the street, heading in the direction of a newsboy last night, but couldn't stop when he reached the other side. He went through a plate glass window and had to be taken to hospital for treatment. "I expect I'll have to pay for the window, too," he said sadly.

Rangers Hold Children's Night, Get 2nd Win of Season

By The Canadian Press

New York Rangers have tried just about everything imaginable —including hypnosis—to snap them out of a winless streak. Last night they came up with something else: Children's Night. It worked.

Kids under 16 accompanied by a parent were admitted on payment of federal tax only. With the enthusiastic youngsters cheering them on, the Rangers chalked up their second victory of the National Hockey League season.

They lifted themselves out of the league cellar on a 3-2 win over the third-place Montreal Canadiens.

Leafs Win

At Toronto, the Maple Leafs stretched their first-place lead over the idle Detroit Red Wings to three points with a 5-2 victory over the skidding Chicago Black Hawks. It was the Hawks' fourth straight loss.

The Rangers, who in 15 previous games had lost eight and tied seven, saw their attendance boosted by the kids to 12,568, largest in several home games.

The New Yorkers scored all their goals in the second period with Zellio Toppazzini 20-year-old wing acquired from Boston last week, starting them on their way. Pentti Lund combined with Reggie Sinclair and Buddy O'Conor to notch the second, and veteran Edgar Laprade got the third.

With less than a minute of the second period to go, rookie Vern Kaiser tallied for Montreal. Defenceman Doug Harvey scored their other goal in the third period on an end-to-end rush.

Sloan Paces Leafs

Rookie Tod Sloan paced the Leafs with a two-goal effort before 12,876 fans. His first goal was of the flukey variety, the puck going into the net off goalie Harry Lumley's skate on a corner passout. But his second early in the third period, went in on a blazing shot.

Max Bentley, Harry Watson and Johnny McCormack collected the other Toronto goals, while Bep Guidolin and Rod Morrison connected for Chicago.

In tonight's games, the Leafs travel to Detroit while the Bruins journey to Chicago.

More Numbers To Deal

MONTREAL, Nov. 23 (CP). — Montreal and Toronto telephone users will have longer numbers to dial starting next May. G. H. Lowndes, Montreal division manager of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, last night told a Junior Board of Trade dinner meeting that a seventh digit would be added to exchange numbers in both cities at that time. He said this was due to an ever-increasing number of telephone users and a lack of exchange combinations.

Dry Wood and Atmosphere Prevent Cracks In Floors

Should cracks develop in a new, well-laid floor within a few weeks or months after installation, the cause can almost invariably be traced to a change in the moisture content within the wood itself. This change in moisture content as a result of absorption of moisture from the air is unfortunately not always fully appreciated and too often little or no effort is made to guard against it.

Reliable established manufacturers of hardwood flooring make every effort to properly dry their flooring stock before manufacture and to keep the flooring in proper condition as long as it is in their warehouse before shipment. They are concerned, too, with the method by which it is stored in the freight car for delivery to the retail dealer. As long as it is in their hands both manufacturer and dealer take every possible care to see that it is not subjected to conditions that would allow it to absorb moisture.

Usually, most of the trim will be installed, plastering finished and windows and exterior doors fitted and in place by the time flooring is delivered to the job. If it is delivered on a damp day or during rain under conditions allowing mosture to enter exposed boards such flooring is quite likely to produce irregularities in a short time. Very bad results may also be expected if the flooring is laid or even stored inside the house before the plaster or masonry of the walls has had time to become thoroughly dry.

High Humidities

Even without this type of more or less obvious exposure of the wood to moisture there is another type of exposure, less obvious, but no less important. During the time of laying the floor, scraping it, and completing the other items up to the time of occupancy, the general temperatures within the house both day and night are likely to be lower and the humidities higher than they would be in the same house if it were occupied. At this stage humidity can have a considerable bearing on the success of a flooring job.

Where a succession of damp days follows immediately after the floor is laid, and before the finish can be placed upon it, a very important pick-up in moisture content is likely to occur. The pick-up, of course, is very much slower after a floor has received even the first coat of its final finish.

Compression Set

Even a moderate absorption of moisture from the air is sufficient to cause a perceptible bulging of certain boards where they resist one another in the natural tendency to swell. Some crushing of wood fibre is bound to result from moisture increase in a tightly laid floor—resulting in the most common cause of nearly all cracking called compression set. If you were able to examine some well-laid flooring and see just how the edges go together, you would find that there is a relatively narrow edge that has to take the results of this compression, though the whole board takes up some of it. After a board has once been in this compressed condition it never again completely recovers.

A second moisture change, in which a loss of moisture occurs, takes place after the house is occupied, particularly during the winter when the house is heated at which time the average humidity is lower than it was during the construction period. Each board simply backs away from its neighbour and the width of the crack is roughly equal to the amount of crushing or "set" the board suffered at the higher moisture content. Such pressure may occur during a period when the house is unoccupied or unheated for several weeks during cold or damp weather or from contact with foreign matter in the cracks.

Better Flooring

The cure for cracks in a floor lies wholly in preventing them. See to it that the floor it put down dry, and then see that moisture compression does not occur afterwards.

(1) Assure yourself that the dealer has properly protected his stock while it has been in his hands.

(2) Do not allow it to be delivered on a rainy day.

(3) Make sure that the plaster or masonry walls are dry before the flooring is delivered.

(4) Eliminate all badly crooked boards or use them in inconspicuous places.

(5) Maintain heat in the house from the time the flooring is delivered until finished by the painter. The house interior should preferably be maintained at least 15 degrees F. above outdoor temperature and should not be allowed to cool below, say 70 degrees during the summer or 62 to 65 degrees when the outdoor temperatures are below freezing. While temperatures a little higher than this will do no harm, any severe overheating must be avoided. After receiving the protective coat of finish, temperatures comparable with those occurring in the house during occupancy should be maintained. Very little heat, of course, is required in mild, dry weather, but spells of damp or cool weather are likely to occur in any month of the year. Whenever possible the heating plant should be placed in the house before the interior trim goes in, in which event it will be available as a means of supplying the necessary heat.

Maintenance of proper temperature conditions will further reduce the hazard of damage from carelessness in the preliminary seasoning or storage of the flooring after manufacture. It is often a good idea to have the flooring bundles broken open on delivery and the stock spread out in the heated house for several days before being laid.

Money Root of Most Trouble In Married Life—Minister

WINNIPEG (CP).—The love of money isn't the only root of all evil—it's also the chief cause of marital grief, according to Rev. J. Burton Thomas.

There's not much chance of a successful marriage unless a wife is "definitely, accurately and completely" aware of her husband's financial position, he told a young couple's marriage-guidance clinic.

He said the family budget should be planned to give each partner some personal money, "even if it means only an extra two-bits a month to spend."

Despite all the talk about sex, more trouble had been caused in marriages by money problems.

Mr. Thomas' talk was called "A Minister Look at Marriage." He said the path of "most disastrous consequences" for young folk was to choose the wrong life partner.

"If there is to be any guarantee of happiness or success, the choice must involve a third person, God, who must always be consulted," he said.

First guide-post to a happy marriage was: "Caution before you leap."

"Too many young people are grabbing the first thing that comes along, just like in a cafeteria, and having to pay for it afterwards."

Falling in love and staying in love were vastly different. Basic problems must be met before marriage which is "an institution, not a reformatory."

Love brushed aside barriers and by-passed problems. Critical judgment was often dulled until it was too late.

"When sex attractions come in the door, reason and judgment fly out the window."

A pre-marital glimpse by young couples of themselves 10 years after marriage "looking at each other across the breakfast table" would bring a drop in the divorce rate.

Second guide-post is that marriage is a partnership for life, demanding teamwork—"despite the story Hollywood tells and what is read in magazine and love stories," Mr. Thomas said.

The third is recognition of the "till death do us part" factor. Anything less was not a true Christian marriage.

Marriage was the greatest individual case of co-operation known to man. Marriages based on a church background for each party had spiritual resources from the start.

"I should be the last to deny the possibilities of love at first sight," he said, "but I don't think it happens as often as many say it does."

Travelling from England to Halifax, the ship was heading for St. John's for supplies when she went aground Nov. 17 in a dense fog. Inset is Capt. R. A. Winn, master of the Flatholm.

Among Friends

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP). — J. W. Perkins, a hardware merchant who issues radio licences for the government, was fined $5 yesterday for not having a radio licence.

Woman Still Married Collects No Alimony

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP) — Mrs. Bertha Maynard, whose request for alimony in addition to a $1,200 lump settlement she accepted from her husband was refused by the Supreme Court of Canada said yesterday that legally she still is married.

She sued for divorce in 1946 and obtained a decree nisi—a temporary decree. But she has not applied for a decree absolute—which would wholly dissolve her marriage to Cecil E. Maynard. Until such time as a decree absolute may be granted, she still is Maynard's wife, she said.

(The Canadian Press reported erroneously Nov. 20 in a dispatch from Ottawa that Mrs. Maynard was a divorcee.)

Horse And Dogs Earn Easy Life

WINNIPEG — (CP) — Two shaggy dogs and an old horse are living a life of leisure here.

Shep and Bounce, the collies, and Rock, a 17-year-old horse, inherited a $5,160 estate when their mistress, Mrs. Elinor Scott, died at Fisher Branch, Man.

Friends of Mrs. Scott, who have been taking care of the animals, said the elderly farm woman had lived alone with her pets for many years. When they die, the estate will go to the Fisher Branch Hospital.

70 Days Substituted For Strokes Of Strap

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP) — It's a toss-up whether 21-year-old Thomas Townley of Granby, Que., came out on top as a result of an appeal launched against a sentence for assault.

Here's the rather complicated story:

Townley was convicted of assaulting a 30-year-old woman after a dance in Brockville last May 14. He was sentenced to 20 days, plus 10 strokes of the strap. He appealed, but before the appeal was heard, Townley was released after the 20 days without having received the strap.

Wednesday the Ontario Appeal Court decided that Townley wouldn't have to receive the strap. Instead, it decided, he would serve 70 more days in jail.

That's seven days in exchange for each stroke of the strap.

Get Employees' Votes Can. Truckers Urged

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP) — Arthur Hailey, editor of Bus and Truck Transport, a Macleam-Hunter publication, said last night that Canada's trucking industry should try to enlist the votes of its employees to strengthen the political position of trucking.

In a speech before the annual banquet of the Motor Truck Club of Toronto, he said "this potential voting bloc—the most powerful weapon we have—can be influenced by the trucking industry and I believe we should begin to do it," said Mr. Hailey.

". . . perhaps, with this potential power ranged behind us, we can go to the political parties and say: 'Change your policies on trucking—or else!'"

He named as "oponents of trucking" the CCF railway management and unions, the ship-by-rail association, and the Saskatchewan and federal governments.

Can't Concentrate Awarded $16,000

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP) — Betty Ross, 17-year-old girl who lost her power to concentrate because of a motor accident two years ago, was awarded $16,000 damages by an assize court jury last night. Her father, David Ross of Toronto, was granted $1,494 for hospital expenses. The court directed that the award to the girl be kept in trust until she is 21.

Announce Streets

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23 (CP). — Microphones will be installed in most of Winnipeg's 134 trolley buses "in the very near future," C. H. Dahl, general manager of Winnipeg Electric Co.'s Transportation Division, said yesterday. "Our present plan is to have the driver announce at each stop the names of the next two streets," Mr. Dahl said.

Doctor Awarded $800 By Court

COBOURG, Nov. 23—(ENS)—One auto damage case and two divorce actions were heard at the sittings of Supreme Court presided over by Mr. Justice J. W. King, which concluded yesterday morning.

Judgment for $800, with costs, was awarded Dr. Daniel C. McVicker of Deseronto in his suit against Roy Ament of Haldimand township. Dr. McVicker sued as the result of an accident which took place on November 19 last year on the Shelter Valley Road in which his car and a truck owned by the defendant were involved. Plaintiff asked $449.30 for damage to his car; $450 for loss of his car while it was in the garage plus $150 for damage to his clothing.

Judgment was reserved in connection with the divorce action brought by Frances Somerville of Cobourg against Ray Somerville of Newtonville. Decree-nisi was granted in the divorce proceedings brought by Michael Kressall of Red Lake Ont. against Mary Kressall of Colborne.

Another divorce case, Keeler vs. Keeler was laid over along with an automobile damage action, Wannamaker vs. French, to another court.

Miss Shirley Rosebush was in charge of the program: a reading, "Thanksgiving," by Mrs. Earl Waldie; community singing; a reading "Bones," by Mrs. Murr Thackeray; a quiz by Miss Barbara Skuce concluded the program.

Mrs. Adams, assisted by her daughter, Miss Myrna Adams, served refreshments.

EYE TOPICS

DAVID BREWSTER

Expert In Optics

Long after his other accomplishments have been forgotten, David Brewster will still be remembered as an inventor of toys.

David Brewster, a scientist of Scotch descent, invented the kaleidoscope in 1810, the stereoscope in 1849. Both have remained popular among the young to this day. Yet toys or not, any person, regardless of age, who took the trouble to master the principles involved in these devices would have a pretty good elementary understanding of the science of vision.

The stereoscope consists of two lenses and a rack for holding two pictures of the same scene—each taken from a slightly different angle. As we look through the lenses, the pictures seem to fuse into a single image giving a strange effect of depth and reality. This is possible because in ordinary seeing each of our eyes views objects from a slightly different angle; thus the retina of each eye receives a slightly different image. But the mind fuses them into one, and by a kind of miracle we perceive one image apparently having three dimensions. This faculty enables us to judge distance with great accuracy and to see objects "in the round" instead of flat as in an ordinary photograph.

The stereoscope is today used in many types of scientific investigations. In some cases it is also used as a means of giving eye exercises to the young. In normal vision both eyes move harmoniously, and this is necessary to give a single image. Sometimes the muscles do not move in harmony and the result will be a squint or even "crossed" eyes.

Bank Statements Reveal Growth

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor

This is the season for the annual meetings of banks. These institutions are close to every part of the Canadian community, and their summations of the country's state are of particular interest.

Imperial Bank of Canada and Barclays Bank (Canada) have already met, and here are a few excerpts:

I. K. Johnston, president of Imperial:

The last ten months have been remarkable for the continuance of the high levels of employment and business activity which have characterized the whole period since 1945.

Exceed Predictions

The value of our gross national production, which is calculated to have been somewhat over $16,000,000,000 in 1949, is likely to exceed $17,000,000,000 in 1950. This is estimated to represent an output of goods and services 75 per cent above that of 1939.

Our total working force has increased by about 75,000 in the year, and of the 5,300,000 persons employable, less than two per cent were without jobs at the date of the last survey in August.

And from H. A. Stevenson, president of Barclays:

Canada's labor income for the whole of 1948 was $7,130,000,000, and for 1949 $7,630,000,000. For the first six months of this year it was estimated to be as high as $3,862,000,000 with the probability that for the full year it will exceed $8,000,000,000.

Wheat Crop Down

The wheat crop has been somewhat of a disappointment, though not as to quality. . . . In all probability this year's bigger but deteriorated crop will produce less revenue than did last year's smaller one.

Income from other crops will be higher but marketings of livestock are expected to be slightly lower and, during the last half of the year, at prices lower than in 1949.

Mineral Wealth

Our country's mineral wealth has been barely tapped and the growing dependence of the United States on Canada as a source of vital metals. . . emphasizes the potentialities of our mining industry and its value as an asset to the country's foreign trade and to the community of western nations.

The year has witnessed great strides towards the commercialization of Alberta's oil. Newsprint, lumber and pulp have outstandingly increased production.

Industry of all kinds heavy and light, now is enjoying happier relations than heretofore with labor, and with the advantages of recent large plant expansion, has been operating on a scale without precedent under peacetime conditions in our history.

WEED PROBLEM

Ragweed control is difficult because the light pollen may be carried great distances by the wind.

SEEK BUDDIES — Members of the Canadian Special Force search the wreckage of a troop train that collided Tuesday with a passenger train near Canoe River, BC, with about 20 dead or missing and 58 injured. Most of the casualties were buddies of these men, members of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery headed for further training at Fort Lewis, Wash. This wirephoto was taken by a passenger on one of the trains.

Priest Criticizes Overloading Plane

QUEBEC, Nov. 23 (CP)—Abbe Noel Blanchet, Quebec priest attached to St. Roch parish, yesterday criticized what he termed overcrowded conditions aboard the "Canadian Pilgrim" when he set out for Rome as a passenger in the plane Oct. 30.

(The "Canadian Pilgrim", operated by Curtiss Reid Airtours Ltd. crashed at Mont L'Obiou in the French Alps Nov. 13 with the death of 58 passengers and crew members while flying from Rome to Montreal.)

Abbe Blanchet who reached Quebec yesterday after flying home from Rome said in an interview that engine trouble forced the "Canadian Pilgrim" to return to Dorval shortly after take-off Oct. 30 and the plane got away only the day after. Abbe Blanchet said he left the plane at Paris and continued from there to Rome by train.

(In Montreal a spokesman for Curtiss Reid Airtours said the aircraft did return to Dorval shortly after take-off Oct. 30 because one engine developed a collapsed piston. "However," said the spokesman, "this could happen to any airplane.")

Highgrading Serious Judge Upholds Term

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP) — Mr. Justice R. E. Laidlaw of the Ontario Appeal Court said yesterday that highgrading is "a most serious crime, particularly in the north," and that only by the severest penalties can it be discouraged.

He dismissed the appeal of Charles Henry Lamothe, 50, against a five-year sentence for highgrading. Lamothe, a diamond-driller, claimed a Kenora county judge had erred in the admission of evidence and that the jury was not charged on law relating to circumstantial evidence.

Film Success Of Alan Ladd Puzzles Experts

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23 (AP)—Why is Alan Ladd so popular?

Hollywood likes to analyze everyone's success, and Ladd is a puzzler. His size is below average and his pictures have stimulated little or no interest on the part of the motion picture academy, yet they are amazingly successful and help pay for Paramount's highbrow flops.

Recently Herb Stein of the Hollywood Reporter wrote that only five stars are sure-fire sellers on the covers of fan magazines—Liz Taylor, Esther Williams, Jane Powell, June Allyson and Allan Ladd. And Ladd has been on more fan mag covers in the last five years than all other male stars put together.

"Why?"

"Don't ask me," said Ladd, "I don't know the answer."

But a studio aide hinted the reason: Smart handling of Ladd's career by the actor and his manager-wife, Sue Carol. No other star (possible exception Joan Crawford) takes such good care of his fans.

Watching Fans

"When I started playing bits and began to get a little mail," he declared, "Sue and I decided to try to answer all we could. We've stuck to our plan. It has been very interesting. Through the letters we've watched kids grow up, marry and start raising families.

Handling the Ladd mail is no small matter. The Ladds employ three or four secretaries and the studio has an equal number. The volume is reportedly around 20,000 pieces of mail a month. All but routine requests receive personel answers. The Ladds spend a good percentage of their spare time reading and answering the mail.

"Some stars have rubber stamps to make their signatures," said Sue. "Allan signs every photograph and letter himself."

FAST SERVICE—L.S. Gordon Taylor of Dartmouth, NS, and Niagara Falls, Ont., left, got priority service when urgently required at the bedside of his eight-month-old son, seriously ill in a Toronto hospital. Serving aboard the carrier Magnificent in the Atlantic, he was flown to the Azoresz by Lieut. Roger Harri of Edmonton, centre, in a Navy Firefly. A. A. Schellink Taylor's divisional officer, provided escort in a Sea Fury. From the Azores, a US military plane carried him to Stephenville, Nfld., and a civilian plane finished the trip.

US Cities Unprepared For Atom Bomb Attack

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—If the atom bomb should fall cities could put into action only a small part of the civil defence effort needed to save lives and rally from the attack.

Mostly, the cities blame the federal government for this state of affairs.

They complain that the government hasn't told them in detail what to do—that they can't get a real civil defence organization going until they learn who's going to pay for it."

These are the highlights of a report made public Tuesday by the American Municipal Association, made up of 10,500 cities and towns.

BUSH DOCTOR—Dr. Paul Rivard is right up to date in the bush. The International Paper Company doctor operates a bush radio network in the rugged North-western Quebec area around Clove. He supplies time signals medical information and other advice and information to survey parties deep in the bush. Dr. Rivard, at Clove since 1933, relaxes by carrying on conversations with radio "hams" across the country. Here he sits amid his $10,000 300-watt transmitter.

777 Ashburnham Residents Asking For Bus Service

Population of the immediate area of Ashburnham whose residents are asking for bus service is 777 people as shown in the records of J. E. Davis, assessment commissioner.

There are 193 houses in that McFarlane Ave. neeighborhood, just west of the canal, and the assessed value of the properties is $441,835. Most of the houses have been built in the last three years, many of them in the last 18 months.

It is likely that the petitioners to the city council are thinking of a bus loop by way of McFarlane St., Ludgate St., Woodbine Ave. or Caddy St. and Armour Road. That is only a suggested route, probably to be considered in the Bus Company's survey of the area.

Some details of the area as taken from the assessment roll that was prepared this year are:

Woodbine Ave.—28 houses; 113 persons; $49,915 assessed value.

Erskine Ave—One house; nine persons; $1,400.

Euclid Ave. —34 houses; 153 persons; $61,245.

Caddy St.—41 houses; 153 people; $43,770.

Welsh St.—17 houses; 73 people; $43,770.

Centre St.—10 houses; 35 persons; $21,200.

Beverley St.— 20 houses; 59 persons; $54,420.

Simmons St.— 15 houses; 62 people; $37,490.

Ludgate St.—6 houses; 25 persons; $14,215.

Watts Ave.—9 houses; 42 persons; $23,550.

McFarlane St.— 12 houses; 53 people; $29,195.

That section of Ashburnham north of McFarlane St. and west of the canal was long considered beyond the residential perimeter, mainly because general demand for houses in Peterborough had not then extended to such vacant properties. It was also looked upon as outside the reach of community services.

As other lots and blocks of land filled up, attention was directed to that canal side. Housing development was encouraged by the city council and the Utilities Commission, and there is now east of Armour Road and south of Swanston Ave. a compact neighborhood.

To the north of this old Caddy St. block, is the Sands and Bateman housing sub-division to Park Hill Road.

Policy of the Bus Lines has been to try to provide accommodation sought by residents of new areas such as Western Ave. and Monaghan Road south. They have also a loop through the south end of Ashburnham. As to what the revenues are from the various routes, that is a concern of the company. It may be recalled that the late Frank Mitchell, who established the local transport system, used to say that, in so far as possible, new routes would be assumed providing there was some reasonable prospect of business, even to the extent of a deficiency that might gradually be reduced, or that might be assumed somewhat as a liability against the general revenues of the system.

Gideons Give Civic 150 Testaments

A total of 150 bedside Testaments were presented to John Hornal, superintendent, for the new Civic Hospital at a dedication service Sunday.

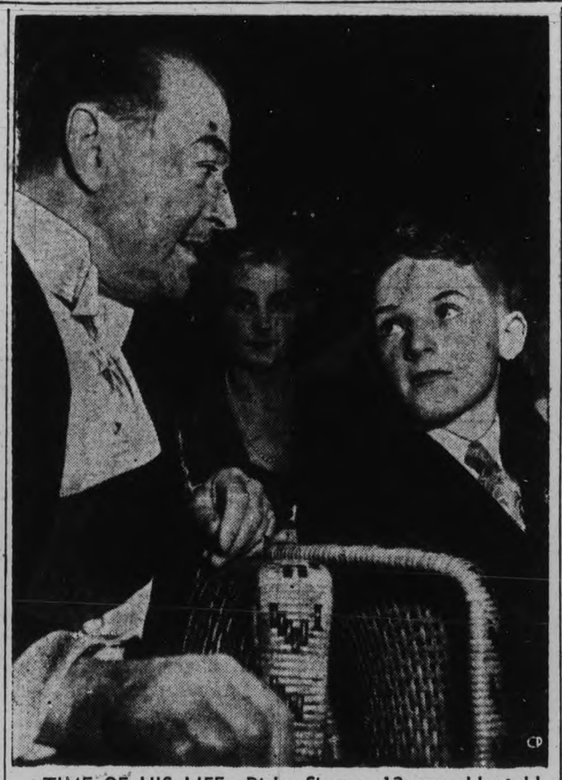
Lewis Parks acted as chairman and Charles Collins, president of the association, spoke briefly. Major C. G. Everitt, representing the Ministerial Association, spoke highly of the Gideon work and then closed with a dedication prayer.



Superintendent Says Great Need Mitts, Sweaters

There were nine children in the shelter on November 1, Mrs D. T. Diplock, convener of the house committee, reported to the board of the Children's Aid Society at their meeting Tuesday afternoon.

During the month of October, 10 children were admitted to the shelter and eight left.

Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society stated that there was a great need for larger knitted woollen mitts and for knitted sweaters. "If there are any groups interested in this work, their assistance would be greatly appreciated," stated Miss Young.

Shelter donations and articles of clothing were made during the month by the following persons: Mrs. I. Butler, Mrs. C. Collins, Junior Welfare League, Mrs. Robertson Davies, Trinity Mothers' Auxiliary of the Baby Band, Mrs. W. Scollard, Mrs A. Graystock, Mrs. C McGee, Mrs. S. Give Fair Board Grant For Park Roadway

Provision for a grant to the Exhibition Board toward the cost of a roadway through Morrow Park was made by the council Monday night.

At the beginning of the year, an item of $3,250 was placed in the budget in the expectation that the directors of the Exhibition would agree to the roadway which has been discussed from time to time for years. One-third of that amount is required for an extension of this road from the south fence of the Exhibition Park to McGill St. That leaves around $2,000 as the grant for the work on the road through the exhibition grounds from the George St. gate on Lansdowne St.

The directors have agreed to accept this financial arrangement. The work is to be done while the paving contractors are in this area, and before winter closes down on such operations.

Details of the extension of George St. south remain to be mutually accepted, and it is understood that the work is to be done under the supervision of City Engineer Chalmers.

This extension of George St. is the accomplishment of a promise made by the council to the ratepayers south of Lansdowne St. in their demand for a short-cut roadway through Morrow Park.

Red Cross Calls Blood Donors Need Is Urgent

An urgent drive for more blood donors in Peterborough is being carried on by the Red Cross this week.

"We need donors very badly," stated Mrs. Charles Ray, chairman of the Peterborough Blood Donor Service. "Since the enlargement of the two hospitals in the city there has been more surgery done and more patients require blood. It will be very hard to carry on this service unless more blood donors volunteer."

Save $20,000 a Year

This blood service in Peterborough is completely voluntary. The donors give their blood free and consequently the patients are not charged for it. With the exception of Hamilton, Peterborough is the only city in the province where a free blood supply is available. Because of this, the Red Cross saves citizens approximately $20,000 a year.

"Industry in the city has done its part in supplying their full quota of blood donors," stated Mrs. Ray. "We need donors particularly from the general public. A great many of the present donors have given more than 20 donations and two have given over 30 and we would like to have new donors to take their place. We need 40 donors a week."

The age limit for donors is from 18 to 65 years. A donor is called every six months unless he wishes to donate blood more frequently. No one is allowed to give blood in less than three months. Less than one pint of blood is taken at one time.

The importance of a blood service is revealed by records kept by the Red Cross. In the First World War 70 per cent to 80 per cent of patients with abdominal wounds died. In the Second World War 75 per cent recovered. In 1943, more than 21 per cent of maternity deaths were due to haemorrhage. It is considered now that fully 75 per cent of these could have been saved had prompt and adequate blood therapy been available.

Each year many Canadian citizens meet violent deaths, but as experience during the war showed, many more would die if there were not an adequate supply of blood available in the hospitals to be used at a moment's notice.

SAFETY MEASURE FOR CITY SCHOOL CHILDREN, in operation this week for the first time, gives protection on busy traffic intersections at six points in the city, Lansdowne St., at May's School, Lansdowne and Locke Sts., Weller St., and Monaghan Rd., Monaghan Rd., and Sherbrooke St., Park-Sherbrooke and Read Sts., and Murray and Water Sts. Jack Stratton Killed In Auto Crash

John W. Stratton, 42, son of Mrs. Clare Stratton and the late Albert H. Stratton, of Peterborough, was killed Wednesday in an automobile accident at Menomonie, Wisconsin. His two companions are reported to have been fatally injured and died later. The three were on their way to Toronto from Calgary to see the Grey Cup football final on Saturday and Mr. Stratton planned to visit his mother in Peterborough.

He was born in Peterborough and received his primary education in public schools here followed by five years at Trinity College School, Port Hope, Royal Military College, Kingston. He was a graduate of McGill University. Mr. Stratton served overseas in the Second World War with the RASC with the rank of Captain.

Following the war, he was engaged in the brokerage business in Toronto and later as an accountant with the Royalite Oil Company in Calgary.

Besides his mother he leaves two brothers, Wilfred W. and J. Reginald Stratton, both of Toronto. Mr. Stratton was former member of St. John's Anglican Church.

The body is being brought to Peterborough where the funeral service will be held at his mother's residence, 373 Park St., on Monday at 3.30 p.m. Burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

JOHN W. (JACK) STRATTON of Calgary, formerly of Peterborough, who along with two companions, died on Wednesday as a result of a motor accident in Menomonie, Wisconsin.

Zahodniks Get Extra Month By Supreme Court Decision After Sentence Appealed

A month's imprisonment has been added to the sentences of the two Zahodnik brothers—John, 38, Toronto, and James, 33, Hamilton—convicted in Peterborough last June of assault occasioning actual bodily harm on James Hogan, former proprietor of the Melody Inn. James Zahodnik was also sentenced to a month's imprisonment for assaulting and beating Mrs. Hazel Hogan, wife of the proprietor, but it will be concurrent with the first count.

This judgment has been handed down by Supreme Court Justices Laidlaw, Hope and Bowlby at Osgoode Hall following an appeal by the Attorney-General on the recommendation of Crown Attorney John Bradshaw.

On June 9 Judge D. B. Coleman at the Peterborough County general sessions (jury) levied a total of $400 in fines on the two men. James was ordered to pay $200 on conviction of assault occasioning actual bodily harm on Hogan, and John $100 on the same count. James was fined an additional $100 for assaulting and beating Mrs. Hogan, causing actual bodily harm.

Asked Prison Term

At the time Mr. Bradshaw asked for "an adequate prison term", but Judge Coleman said he did not regard the scuffle at the Melody Inn as a grave offence and he imposed fines only.

Mr. Bradshaw later recommended to the Attorney General that an appeal be launched against what he considered as so light a sentence. W. B. Common, special prosecutor for the Attorney General's department, represented the crown, and J. W. Brooke represented the Zahodniks.

The Supreme Court decision included the fines as levied by Judge Coleman but added the two terms of a month's imprisonment.

The two Zahodniks, along with their younger brother Paul and William Yuzwa, on November 17, 1949, started out for Bryson, Quebec, on a hunting trip. They passed through Peterborough and then stopped at the Melody Inn, just northeast of Lakefield, for some coffee.

Hogan testified they became abusive when the coffee was not served immediately. An argument developed, and he swore he was struck by James Zahodnik while the other three men held him.

Fracas Ensued

He said he received a black eye, cut mouth and bruised thigh in the scuffle. When he tried to grab a club the three men took it from him. And when Mrs. Hogan reached for the telephone James tore the wire from the wall.

Mrs. Hogan tried to push James out the door of the restaurant but was seized and dragged outside. She was shaken up when she was allegedly pushed to the ground by James.

After leaving the restaurant the men jumped into a truck and drove through Burleigh Falls, Buckhorn, Bobcaygeon and then turned south toward Lindsay, escaping police roadblocks and cruisers as they went.

A wild stabbing affray outside the Big 20 Cafe, Lindsay, in which Jack Loucks was killed and three other men injured, resulted in all four men being charged with murder. All but Yuzwa were acquitted at the preliminary hearing. After two trials Yuzwa was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced earlier this month to six years in the penitentiary.

Neither Paul Zahodnik nor Yuzwa—the latter facing the murder charge—was committed for trial on the assault charge.

Dr. Ralph C. Honey

As things stand, five have already intimated that they would seek election to the 1951 and 52 Board of Education. Frank Jobbitt, chairman for the past two years and six years a member of the board; Dr. Ralph Honey, who in the past two years has been chairman of the appointments committee, was chairman a year ago of the special salary committee and has for four years served on the accommodation committee; W. B. Gordon, who for two years was a member of the board, but retired two years ago, and is now seeking re-election, and two new candidates, Mrs. Blake Bell and John Sparrow, supervisor of apprentice training in the CGE.

There are four vacancies on the board.

DR. ROSS MATTHEWS, a member of the Board of Education for the past two years, announced today that he would not be a candidate on Dec. 4.

Memorial Tribute To Archbishop

"Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee the crown of life," was the fitting epitaph given by Archdeacon W. P. Robertson at the memorial service for the Most Rev. George Frederick Kingston at St. John's Anglican Church this morning.

Archbishop Kingston died Monday in Toronto after a week's illness. Archbishop of Nova Scotia, he has been Primate of the Church of England in Canada for the last three years.

"We sharing in the last rights of a very beloved man," stated Archdeacon Robertson. "A man who was so interested in everything, so brilliant and who conducted his great work in the church with great dignity of manner."

Tracing the career of this noted churchman, Archdeacon Robertson followed the paths of memory in his personal acquaintance with Archbishop Kingston in a very moving tribute.

Assisting in the service were the Rev. W. H. Kibblewhite, the Rev. W. J. Gilling, the Rev. C. W. Balfour and the Rev. E. C. Moore.

The funeral service for Archbishop Kingston was held today in St. James Cethedral, Toronto. It was attended by Church of England dignitaries from across Canada.

Blackstrap Back On Shelves, Cattle Have No Monopoly

"Blackstrap?" said the woman behind the grocery counter, with sustained query mixed with doubt and an unmistakable note of derision. Just as if she were saying: "Surely not blackstrap, or am I hearing things right today?" Then with no customer denial or correction of the implied impeachment, she said: "That's what we used to feed the pigs down on the farm."

And they are still feeding the pigs and the rest of the livestock with the West Indies by-product of white sugar and rum. Tank cars of blackstrap are regularly delivered in Peterborough to the Quaker Oats Company and to Co-Op Services.

Probably there are other uses for it, but blackstrap is one of the ingredients of livestock feeds that are sold in large quantities throughout the farm district. And it is not solely for palatability or smack that makes the cows lick their lips after a big ration.

Something of Shock

At any rate there is a down town girl who says she'll laugh to the end of her days at the recollection of that grocery store greeting, and the unbelief and something of shock which she caused.

She is one of the disciples of Gaylord Houser, the man who wrote the book about Look Younger and Live Longer,—advocate of yogurt, wheat germ, blackstrap or crude molasses and brewers' yeast.

You may not know it, or even be slightly interested in the fact that Dr. Houser has put stocks of bottled blackstrap in most of the top level drug stores of Ontario.

Demand for it forced Drug Trading Co., Toronto, to do the bottling and get the stuff on the shelves. News from travellers in the trade said that in the Literary Digest for instance so many people asked for blackstrap after reading an abridgment of the Houser book that the druggists were forced to accommodate their customers.

No Longer A Monopoly

One man's writing has put blackstrap in many, if not all, Peterborough drug stores, including main streets. Cattle are not going to have a monopoly of its merits any longer. Approving memory recalls with some little access of appreciation of domestic medical lore in the years of our grandmothers and of neighborhood matriarchs as they mixed and spooned out their sovereign tonic of spring: molasses and sulphur.

It has been suggested that possibly more of this cheap sweet will reach into the cookery of farm homes, instead of leaving all its values for chickens, cows and hogs.

Outdoes Spinach

Montreal Star published a story the other day under the heading "Molasses smacks spinach flat as muscle builder says doctor"..... "Pop Eye is out of date with his emphasis on spinach to prevent iron deficiency in the diet of children. The latest thing is molasses. That was the good news mentioned by Dr. Albert Royer of Ste. Justine's Hospital at a meeting of the Montreal Medico-Chirurgical Society at the Children's Memorial Hospital."

"Molasses contains three times as much iron as spinach by weight," he reminded the doctors. "And it often is easier to get young children to take molasses. It is the simple way to maintain the amount of iron in the diet necessary to prevent anemia."

Dr. Royer was speaking on the anemias of infancy and childhood.

It might also be of interest to the Houser cult to hear about a yogurt demonstration at a meeting in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, several weeks ago.

Meanwhile as in years past, the livestock feed factories are getting blackstrap in those big railway tank cars the same type as the gasoline freight cars. Some one said recently—no wonder the dairy cows look better and are living longer. Maybe some of that medicine might be dished out to the farmers. They wouldn't know themselves in a couple of weeks, just like the slim girl who has a blackstrap joke that is unconsciously helping the Gaylord Houser missionary work.

Dismiss Charge Careless Driving

A charge of careless driving against Thomas A. Rowan, London St., was dismissed today by Magistrate W. R. Philp, not because the Magistrate believed Rowan's story of how an accident happened, but because the crown failed to prove the location of the point of impact.

"This charge is being dismissed because there is no proof of the point of collision. As far as Rowan is concerned, I don't believe him at all," His Worship said.

Magistrate Philp said that the basis of his disbelief was the fact that Rowan denied he had been drinking and that two police officers swore he had been. Furthermore, his worship said, Rowan told a story of a conversation which was completely denied.

The accident occurred October 21 on the Buckhorn road near Selwyn and cars driven by Rowan and Roy J. Holden.

Rowan said that some days after the accident Holden came to him to talk about the accident, and told him that his (Holden's) car always pulled to the left. Holden denied telling Rowan this.

Rowan said he was driving south on the road and that he was blinded by Holden's headlights. Holden, who was driving north, said he thought Rowan's car was crowding him toward the east ditch.

Provincial Constables Russell Pollard and John McKendry both testified that Rowan smelled strongly of liquor. Constable Pollard said there were no marks on the road to indicate the point of impact.

BOOKS FOR SERVICEMEN

The Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion is issuing an appeal for local residents to supply reading material for the armed services—particularly those of Canada's special force and those on active service. Interested residents are requested to donate books of good fiction and the digest type of recent magazines. The reading material will be accepted at Branch 52, Murray St. Then it will be shipped to headquarters in Ottawa.

Woman First Admits Driving Later Denies It In Court

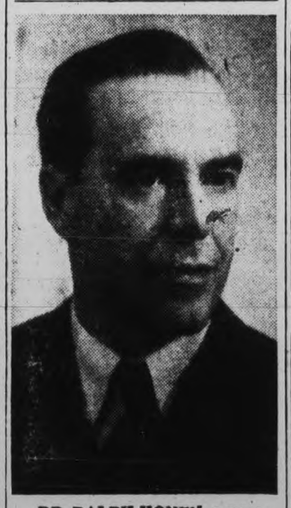
A charge of careless driving against Mrs. Rita Barrie, Otonabee township, was dismissed Wednesday by Magistrate E. A. Gee when evidence revealed Mrs. Barrie had not been the driver of a car involved in an accident on the Keene road, October 13.

Provincial Constable David Coffey told court that at the time of the accident, Mrs. Barrie told him she had been driving. Wednesday, witnesses stated that Robert Keitel, also of Otonabee, was the driver.

A charge of attempting to obstruct justice was laid against Mrs. Barrie and she was convicted and fined $25 and $8 costs by Magistrtae Gee.

Constable Coffey testified he arrived at the Keene road shortly after the accident, and that a car owned by Albert Whetung of Peterborough, was in the east ditch. The car Mrs. Barrie said she was driving was parked about 300 feet south on the west side of the road.

The two cars had met in collision near a bridge about a mile south of Highway 7. Whetung said he was driving northwest and was well over on his own side of the road. Keitel said Whetung was going at a "terrific rate of speed" and that he (Keitel) was well on his own side of the road.



Frank Sullivan, RR 8, Peterborugh, said he saw the accident, and that the cars touched on the east side of the centre line. The Whetung car skidded out of control for about 70 feet and went into the east ditch.

The left front headlight and the left front fender of the Barrie car were damaged.

John Barrie, husband of the accused, said that Sullivan had told him he knew nothing of the accident. 'He said he saw the car go into the ditch, but that he didn't see the collision," Barrie testified.

Cross-examining Keitel, crown counsel John Bradshaw asked: "Why didn't you tell the officer you had been driving?" "Because I didn't have a driver's permit with me."

In dismissing the charge, Magistrate Gee said "I don't know what Mrs. Barrie's idea was in concealing the fact that Keitel was driving. This is a case where the wrong party was charged. Dismissed for lack of evidence."

Famed Harpist Miss Dilling To Give Opening Concert

Mildred Dilling, who plays at the Collegiate Auditorium on Saturday evening in the first of the season's subscription Community Concerts, has received world recognition as one of the outstanding harpists of our time. Born in the U.S.A., her musical studies were begun in the States; later she continued them in Europe under Henriette Renie, the great French harpist.

Her European debut took place at the Salle Erard in Paris. Such was the success of this initial appearance that she was immediately engaged for gala concerts at the Trocadero and the Salle Gaveau, the largest concert halls in Paris, followed by concerts on the continent and in the British Isles. While in Europe, the American artist was given the distinction of being the first solo harpist to broadcast over the radio in Ireland, the land of the harp. She was also the first harp recitalist to appear before the television cameras of the British Broadcasting Company.

Returning to this continent, Miss Dilling soon duplicated her Continental triumphs. She has appeared in recital in all 48 of the United States and in Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Central and South America and Hawaii. She has appeared as soloist with many of the nation's leading orchestras. Her frequent New York recitals are brilliant events in the music calendar of the metropolis. She has appeared as guest artist on many of the musical shows of the American networks.

MILDRED DILLING WITH ONE OF HER 32 HARPS.

32 Harps

During a recent interview Miss Dilling stated, "My ambition is to get everyone playing the harp again." She is not deterred in the pursuit of her crusade by the fact that the harp seems unlikely to become a universal instrument. Nor is she bothered by the common assumption that lady harpists should be content to be placed on the fringe of a large masculine orchestra and allowed to contribute only an occasional unobtrusive glissando to the total effect. It has perhaps never occurred to her that in a small way she is helping to defeat her own purpose by reducing the number of harps available to the public. There are approximately 4,000 in the USA and of these she has 32, almost all of which she keeps in the living room of her New York apartment. Her collection includes an African harp, a Mexican harp, a couple of Irish harps, a Welsh harp, and a Scandinavian minnesinger's harp, which is her oldest, dating back to the 16th century. Her favorite is one designed by Cousineau, a French craftsman, whose clients included Marie Antoinette.

Miss Dilling has had many pupils, one of whom is Harpo Marx, and while in Hollywood she gave him a lesson a day. When their paths do not cross for an exceptionally long time, Harpo rings up her studio and takes his lesson by long distance telephone.

All told, she spends less than six months a year in her New York studio in which are her harps and an incredible number of what might be called objects d'harp; closets full of harp music; sets of china and lampshades decorated with pictures of harps, books about harps and books dear to her though they contain no more than a single drawing of a harp; and small harp curios, such as a Mexican figurine of a tiny harpist who is supposed to move about violently when a live fly is put in a hole in his head. Miss Dilling has never seen this knick-knack in operation, because, as she rather ruefully told one friend who inquired about it, "I have never been able to catch a fly."

Will Hold Vote In Haliburton On Liquor Store

HALIBURTON — The "wet" and "dry" forces of this northern settlement are going to let the village residents decide which faction they support early in December. On the 13th of next month the residents will go to the polls to vote for or against the opening of a government liquor store in Haliburton.

The "dry" forces of the village are being rallied by the ministers of the community. These temperance advocates include Rev. T. Rutherford, United Church, Rev. Mr. Dean, Pentecostal, Rev. Mr. Cathcart Anglican, Lieut, Miller, Salvation Army, and Mr. Schnit, gospel lay preacher. Mr. W. C. Bailey is chairman of the temperance committee. Supporters of the "dry" policy for the village are said to be extremely active in their campaign to keep liquor outlets out. They contend that a liquor store in the village will not increase business nor in any way contribute to the general prosperity of the community.

The "wet" forces are reported to have the support of several local business people who are said to be of the opinion that a liquor store in the village would mean increased business for them. The so-called "wet" forces are claimed to have been promoting the vote for considerable time by forming committees, getting up a petition and so forth.

CANADA-U.S. BOND — An anonymous donor presented this stained-glass window portraying scenes from Canadian history to the Washington, D.C., Cathedral. The window will be formally dedicated Nov. 26 as a mark of friendship between the two countries.

Lumber Companies Burn Slabs at Haliburton Mills

HALIBURTON — With wood at a premium in some parts of Ontario, and with it bringing a good price under any circumstances, an unusual story has unfolded here in the highlands of Haliburton.

Two lumber companies operating in the district are reported to have had to burn large quantities of good quality hardwood slabs because they couldn't give them away and they couldn't continue to store them. A local resident says he was awakened one night by a brilliant reflection in the sky. At first he thought it was perhaps his garage on fire but on checking found it was a reflection from a big fire some distance away. Investigation by this resident the next day is reported to have unfilded the story of the burning slabs.

According to the story he told, large quantities of hardwood slabs on the property of one lumber operator were bull-dozed into a huge pile and the torch applied. The slabs blazed with a light that was visible for miles.

The reasons behind the sacrifice are varied. One source says the slabs were piled in a swampy area and therefore didn't provide very tempting lure even though truckers could have had them free. It is stated that the slabs mights not have been destroyed if it had been winter and the ground frozen sufficiently to support heavy trucks. Another reason advanced is that in the cases of these operators it was necessary to dispose of existing slabs before they could begin the coming winter's cut.

Meanwhile it is reported that institutions in the village are paying up to $9 per cord for hardwood slabs of similar quality to those which were stacked and burned. One villager stated that donations of the slabs would have been gratefully received by schools, the hospital and other organizations needing fuel.

People Insulted As Trial Shifted

NAPANEE, Nov. 23 (CP) — Lennox and Addington county council yesterday expressed indignation over a ruling which moved the second murder trial of James Fosbraey from Napanee to Picton.

Fosbraey was convicted last week of manslaughter in the slaying of his wife and sentenced to life imprisonment.

At a meeting the council resolved to petition the attorney-general's department that no criminal case be moved from one county to another if it requires a jury.

Reeve Edgar Decew of Camden township said the change of venue had cast a reflection on the people of the county.

The change of venue was granted on application by defence counsel who contended that prejudice in Lennox and Addington was too great to make it possible to select a fair trial jury.

Newspaper Editor, Former Canadian, Dies

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 23 (AP) —James Alexander Stuart, former editor of the Duluth Herald and News-Tribune and one of the northwest's best-known newspaper men, died yesterday in Tampa, Fla. He was 75 years old.

Born in Collingwood, Ont., he came to Duluth at the age of 16 with his mother and got a job as copy boy at the Superior Morning Leader. That job started his 54½-year career as a newspaper man. He resigned as editor of the Herald in January, 1947.

Told To Plead Guilty By Police 'Dangerous'

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP) — Mr. Justice C. W. R. Bowlby of the Ontario Supreme Court said yesterday the "dangerous" actions of policemen who persuade suspects to plead guilty — to shorten their trial and get a light sentence—"must stop."

He dissented as two fellow judges—Mr. Justice R. E. Laidlaw and Mr. Justice J. A. Hope—upheld the conviction and sentence of three Cochrane district men accused of theft.

Counsel for Dugel Cameron, Fernand Domualin and Louis Therriault said there was evidence that provincial police persuaded them to plead guilty. Each was sentenced to two years less a day.

Mr. Justice Laidlaw and Mr. Justice Hope said the appeal failed because the magistrate who tried the three men had twice queried them on their pleas.

Chevrier Predicts Steel Replaced

VANCOUVER, Nov. 23 (CP)—A forecast that iron and steel will be replaced in the future by "light metals" in Canadian industries was made here yesterday by Transport Minister Chevrier.

"It may be that the important characteristics of the years before us will be the replacement of iron and steel with light metals," he said. "New discoveries on the industrial front bring forth new demands for lighter metals and alloys."

Bouncing Baby

LONDON—(CP)—Mrs. Irene Brady has high hopes for her infant daughter Sally. At the age of eight months, Sally can walk, talk and sing.

WRECK SCENE—The arrow marks the location of a crash between a troop train and a transcontinental passenger train Tuesday, in which 20 persons were killed or missing and 58 others injured. The 17-car troop train was heading for Fort Lewis, Wash., lower right, with members of the Canadian Special Force. Majority of those hurt were soldiers.

Britain Fights Guerrillas In Malay Jungle Battles

KUALA LAMPUR, Malaya—(Reuters)—The war Britain has been fighting in Malaya for the last two years is one without a front line. It has few pitched battles. It flares briefly around an isolated rubber plantation, a tin mine deep in the jungle, a village in a clearing.

Out of the tropical forest come the "Faceless Men"—the enemy—dressed in black or jungle green, armed with rifles, knives and tommy-guns.

A few hours later they fade again into the green undergrowth, leaving behind the blazing wreck of a rubber store, the bullet-ridden bodies of European planters, the hacked corpses of Chinese who would not co-operate.

How many they are, even who they are, no one knows for sure. But for two years they have tied down British and Malayan forces vastly superior in numbers and equipment, and the acts of terrorism are increasing. It is reported that "incidents" in October totalled more than 500.

They began soon after the end of the war. After three years of Japanese occupation, most of the peninsula's heterogeneous population was glad to see the British back.

Long Peninsula

The Malaya Federation occupies a peninsula reaching down from the continental mass of southeast Asia towards the Indonesian archipelago. The States of Thailand and Burma lie to the north and running down into the narrow neck of the peninsula to the northeast is Indo-China.

The Federation covers about 50,680 square miles. Its capital is Kuala Lumpur, some 30 miles from the east coast and about 200 miles northwest of Singapore, the independent British Colony that occupies the "toe" of the peninsula.

The 1947 population of almost 5,000,000 included 2,400,000 Malaya, 1,880,000 Chinese, 530,000 Indians and 9,600 Europeans.

In June, 1948, the British authorities, alarmed by the spread of terrorism, declared a state of emergency throughout the whole Federation.

Malcolm Macdonald, British Commissioner-general for southeast Asia, said the capture of key agitators had foiled a Communist plan to overthrow the Malayan government and set up a Soviet Republic.

In August the Communist forces were estimated at 10,000 almost all Chinese, with enough modern weapons to arm 4,000. British forces, consisting of about a division when the terrorist offensive began, were strengthened. Police numbered about 29,000.

The "Briggs Plan"

In March this year the British government appointed a "strong man" to co-ordinate the campaign against the terrorists.

They chose Lt.-Gen. Sir Harold Rawson Briggs, 55-year-old wartime army commander in the Middle and Far East. He formulated the widely-publicized "Briggs Plan." Its details have never been officially made known but its mainspring was understood to be the "domination of populated areas."

Security forces believed the terrorists could not have held out for so long without help from the civilian population. They thought this help came mostly from 300,000 Chinese squatters scattered throughout the peninsula.

If the squatters could be gathered into permanent settlements under government control, the guerrillas would lose their main source of food and shelter and could be left to rot in the jungle.

The "Briggs Plan" began to operate June 1. Colonial secretary James Griffiths, back from a visit to Malaya, told the House of Commons June 12 not to expect quick and spectacular results.

From the beginning of the emergency until the end of July, 1,948 civilians were killed, wounded or missing. Of these, 688 were Chinese, 334 Malays, 139 Indians, 74 Europeans and 19 Indonesians.

In the same period 2,539 terrorists, mostly Chinese, were killed, wounded or captured. Police lost 445 killed and 467 wounded.

Up to the end of June British Army casualties numbered 113 killed and 188 wounded.

Royal Winter Fair Officially Ends

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP). — They packed up the 1950 Royal Winter Fair last night. Ontario Agriculture Minister Kennedy put the finishing touches to the 1950 agricultural show by declaring it officially closed.

Most of the 17,000 entries are en route home by truck and freight, but eight freight cars loaded with livestock carry the hopes of exhibitors to the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago.

The six world champion seed-growers named at the Winter Fair—including 13-year-old Ricky Sharpe of Munson, Alta., who won the wheat championship—will be competing for "king" titles at Chicago's International Hay and Grain Show.

40 Miles To Doctor

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Nov. 23 (CP). — An Indian chief trekked 40 miles across the frozen northland Tuesday to report sickness among the children at Fish River, nearly 200 miles north of here. From Snake Lake radio station he called far-north La Ronge for aid. Three sick Indian children were taken to La Ronge. Their illness was diagnosed as mild chicken pox and they were flown home.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Rich White Fruit Cakes More Appeal for Christmas

Believe me, fellow conspirators, November is the month to stock your food-pile or pile your food-stock or pool your feedstack or whatever you do if you want to have added to your cooking stature after Christmas is a pleasant memory.

You can't do that on milk and water food, my hearties, it takes famous recipes, fastidiously made and festively eaten to achieve the reputation this cooking club craves.

After all of that highhanded boasting some inspiring recipes are indicated. Well, I have them or I would have been quiet long ago.

What they are are two recipes for rich white fruit cakes. I like a well-made white cake much better than dark cake for I think the spicing of a dark cake smothers some of the lovely fruit flavors.

The opposite is true of a white cake. The orange and lemon juice usually called for in them serves to accent the other fruit flavors.

All-white Fruit Cake

One cup each butter and granulated sugar (or use untinted margarine), 5 eggs,, 2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon each baking powder and grated lemon rind 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup bleached Sultana raisins (steamed for 10 minutes and dried before adding), ½ cup each pale portion of citron sliced thinly, and finely sliced candied pineapple, 1 cup blanched almonds. Cut the fruit as directed and dredge with one half cup of the required flour. Cream the butter until pale and light and cream in the sugar until full of air and light (this is what gives this its "world beater" reputation) and beat in the egg yolks. Sift over these the flour that remains sifted with the baking powder. Fold in alternately with the lemon juice and rind and flour-dredged nuts and fruits. Mix very well, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into loaf pans which have been lined with buttered paper. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for two hours. standing pans in centre of oven and having shallow pan under cakes containing water all during the baking period.

White Christmas Cake

One and one-quarter cups white sugar, 1 cup butter, 1 lb. glace cherries (these may be all green or all red or half of each), 1 pound bleached Sultana raisins, one-quarter pound citron peel, 5 eggs, one-half cup unstrained orange juice, 3 cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, one-quarter pound ground almonds, one-quarter pound fine shredded cocoanut.

Cream the butter, then add the sugar and beat as long as your arm holds out. if you do not have an electric beater. Sift the flour with the baking powder and salt and dredge the fruit and nuts with one-half cup of flour mixture. Add the flour mixture alternately with the beaten eggs (not separate) and orange juice. Mix in the dredged fruits and nuts and mix very well. Bake in loaf pan which has been lined with paper and buttered. Temperature must never go higher than 350 deg. Fahr. and pan of water should be below cakes throughout. It requires about 2 hours too.

When cakes are taken from pans and cooled thoroughly, wrap them in wax paper, then in heavy towels, then store in airtight tin containers in cold place for at least 3 weeks.

Canadian Art Exhibition Viewed by 50,000

WASHINGTON (CP). — More than 50,000 persons have visited an exhibit of Canadian painting—first ever held at the National Galley of Art.

The exhibition, on view from Oct. 29 to Dec. 10, has received favorable comment from press and public, and warm commendation from David E. Finley, gallery director.

Mr. Finley spoke of the large number of able and original Canadian painters "who have interpreted their own country, and especially its landscape, with the deep feeling that comes only with a love of one's native land.

"The work of many of these artists," he said, "is widely appreciated in the United States. But, with the exception of the exhibitions held recently in Boston and Richmond, there have been few opportunities for the American people to become acquainted with the great body of Canadian painting.

Canadian Trends

The exhibit comprises 87 paintings, from public and private collections, assembled by the National Art Gallery of Canada.

Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, chairman of the board of trustees, said the purpose is 'to show the main trend in Canadian art during the last 50 years."

Eight paintings from the 18th and 19th centuries provide the historical background.

The Washington Star said editorially that not all the paintings will please everybody. But, it said, the extremes which bring this about prove once more "the richness, the variety, the power of Canadian culture."

Canadian Habits Shock Senorina

Senorina Egle DeCarlo arrived this week from Italy intending to make her home in Peterborough and is visiting her cousins, Mr. Carman DeCarlo and Mrs. DeCarlo, Wilson Ave., and Mr. Nicholas DeCarlo and Mrs. DeCarlo, Murray St. The Senorina, a pretty, brown-eyed young woman, comes from the small town of Rocco, San Giovanni, where she was employed in the manufacture of fine lace and embroidery. Her conservative upbringing has taught her that only "bad women" use make-up and smoke cigarettes, so her impressions of Canadian women since landing at Montreal last Friday have been something of a shock. She is sure she will never use them though she is trying hard to learn a new language and new customs.

Record Shows Films Always Faced Slams

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Hollywood thinks it has taken an awful beating lately. But it has always been the target of criticism.

The movie industry now is smarting under varied attacks. A senator has denounced its morals. Censors mangle its pictures. Movies are attacked on one hand as too commercial, and the other as too highbrow. Theatre attendance slumped enough to provoke a big advertising campaign on the theme "Movies are better than ever."

Back in 1922 there were newspaper editorials saying "because two prominent figures in motion pictures have recently been the centre of a scandal, the entire profession is put under a cloud."

That wasn't any Bergman-Rossellini affair, but it rocked the film colony just as hard. Ace director William Desmond Taylor had been found dead with a bullet in his back. The furore was over some letters he left behind to actress Mary Miles Minter. That case was never solved.

The incident prompted producer Samuel Goldwyn to write a clause in his contract providing for discharge of actors whose private life reflected discredit on the industry.

Prophesied Doom

About that time, Will Hays, appointed by the industry to censor its product, took office. Newspapers urged him to make a thorough house-cleaning. Hollywood's future was questioned.

Headlines were reminiscent: Should New York or Hollywood be the production centre? The old articles were on movies, of course. Nowadays the question concerns television.

The moguls themselves were divided in the old days. Goldwyn built what he called the biggest and best studio in the world in Culver City. Jesse Lasky demonstrated equal faith in New York by erecting a lavish studio on Long Island.

Times were tough a quarter century ago, too. But instead of shouting "Movies are better" the producers in those days urged fans to take matters in their own hands. One of them wrote: "If you don't get what you want, shout for it. Producers strive to please."

The general run of Hollywood news hasn't changed much. Only the names are different, and not all of them, as witness Gloria Swanson.

Trip In Sewers Paris Thrill For Sightseers

By CAMILLE LEMERCIER

PARIS —(Reuters)— Tourists in search of new sightseeing thrills can now take a boat trip along the sewers of Paris.

Every Thursday in summer, and every Thursday in winter, a trap opens slowly near the Madeleine Church and a sewerman in blue overalls, long rubber boots and sailor cap pops out among the elegant west end crowd on the square.

Parisians and provincial visitors who have seen the municipal posters advertising the ride, and foreign tourists who have heard about it through travel agencies, gather around.

They pay about five cents to the sewerman and descend a winding iron staircase. The tourists find themselves in an arched gallery built with paving stones. A small motor boat waits on the stream of polluted water. On either side of the stream, which is about 11 feet wide and three feet deep, runs a platform. The arched ceiling is about 10 feet above water level.

An occasional miniature drawbridge spanning the stream opens up as the boat chugs upstream slowly from Madeline to the Place de la Concorde, beneath the famous Rue Royale.

Carried by Current

The boat does not use its engine for the downstream, the sewerman operates a single scull at the rear.

Lighting is provided by petroleum lamps. Electricity in all forms is banned from the sewers because of the seriousness of any short ciruit in such a damp atmosphere. Gas is banned to avoid danger of explosion.

There is a sewer, however small, under each street of Paris, and all sewers follow exactly the course of the street. They bear the street name as well as its house numbers. Beneath each private or public building, a whole set of pipes reaching into the sewer gives a condensed picture of the house's sanitation and facilities.

Current on the sewer streams is stormy enough to carry away a man in a main sewer and to become dangerous in rainstorms. Accidents are few, though on an average two scavengers a year are drowned.

Small Group in Home League Makes $250 From Work For Annual Tea and Bazaar

What can be accomplished by a few active women in a short time was shown Wednesday when the Salvation Army Home League of Byersville (Chamberlain St.) held the annual Christmas bazaar and tea with an extension of the increasingly good success of past years. About 400 visited the bazaar and about 100 stayed for tea. Their patronage gave a net profit to the League of nearly $250.

About 30 women are members of the League but only half that number are very active, owing to the demands of their families. Babies and small children had to be brought to the tea so their mothers could take part in this event but it is a tradition of the Salvation Army that meetings and gatherings are attended by the small fry. This south end branch has a Sunday school attendance of more than 100 with only about 60 adults at services. The Branch is closed for the summer months and re-opened in September.

Miss Clara Barnes, organizing secretary, and Mrs. David Best, treasurer, were supervising in the bazaar room.

Receiving at the door were Major and Mrs. H. Everitt who have taken charge of this branch since coming to Peterborough. The bazaar was officially opened by Brigadier and Mrs. R. Gage who came from Belleville for the purpose. Major C. Everitt and Mrs. Everitt were also attending.

Yard Of Cloth Contest

A handwork and ingenuity contest was recently set in motion among League members, each contestant being given a yard of cotton to work with. Judges must have had a good deal of difficulty in picking winners for it seemed that each of the three prize-winners was worthy of top place. A little girl's smocked dress was made by Mrs. J. Sloan and won first prize. Mrs. L. Jones won second for her embroidered pillow case and Mrs. H. Tippet's idea for a child's bedspread bordered with rows of pink and white chenille and centred with a matching animal design was given third prize.

Tea Room Decked

The tea room was under the organization of Mrs. Tippett. On this afternoon it was glorified with lovely flowers donated by various florists of the city. The tea table was centred with a Christmas scene of reindeer on the snow, evergreens, silver bells and red ribbon and this was mirrored in the reflector base. Red roses were in flanking rotund rose bowls.

Garlands of red and green tied to Christmas bells criss-crossed overhead and sideboards and tables were decked with bouquets of yellow and bronze 'mums and more of the festive colors.

Adjutant A. Woods and Mrs. R. A. Hunter were pouring the tea and servers attending the individual tables were Mrs. C. Moore, Mrs. L. French, Mrs. B. Reid, Mrs. R. W. Oliver, Mrs. E. Gilpin, Mrs. L. Jones, Mrs. H. Winterbottom, Miss Janet Dobson. Mrs. G. Thomas was replenishing the plates and Mrs. A. Pagett was taking tickets at the door.

Bazaar Attendants

Tables around the four sides of the upper hall were laden with the goods for sale which brought in a splendid sum for the treasury. Mrs. W. Halstead and Mrs. E. Hedge were selling home baking. Mrs. T. Mills attended a table of children's toys, Mrs. H. J. Parnell had the aprons, Mrs. M. Tully and Mrs. T. Trotter were at the candy table. Mrs. W. Christmas and Mrs. Albert Reid operated a fish pond and parcel post parcels sent in from all across Canada and the old country were sold by Mrs. E. Hele and Mrs. H. Shears.

The handwork table included knitted goods, hankies, embroidery, pillow cases, crochet work, and small wares. It was attended by Mrs. B. Meeks and Mrs. J. Sloan with Mrs. C. Everitt assisting.

No Guarantee Song Popular First Written

NEW YORK —(AP)— Nobody "writes" popular songs, says Irving Berlin.

The little man who has composed many song hits explained that a popular song is simply one that becomes popular; it can't be invented with any guarantee of success.

"Schubert's 'Serenade' and 'Pagliacci' are popular music in just the same way as any other song that strikes a chord in the people," he said.

"When it fills a need of the people, when it strikes that chord, never mind whether it's a commercial success. If it fills the need it's popular music and maybe it becomes folk music."

Berlin leans forward to tap a forefinger on the desk:

"If you could hit on a tune that strikes the same responsive chord in everyone in all the world, there would be no wars. Music is the greatest force that draws people together." Maybe it sounds naive, but there is no doubt of his sincerity.

He points out how songs like "Easter Parade," "White Christmas" and "God Bless America" became such wide favorites. Altogether he has published 800 songs in 43 years. A "goodly percentage" have become lasting hits.

Some Bad, Some Good

Irving Berlin can observe his tunesmith career and his songs with clinical detachment—"some of the songs were embarrassingly bad." He has "maybe a dozen" he likes best but won't say which they are.

Right now Berlin is resting up from the rigors of creating the music for Broadway's new success, "Call Me Madam." He thinks it is Ethel Merman's "greatest show,"—but the music?

"Of course I'm grateful to the critics who said it is one of my best scores. But no one can tell everything about a score the first time they hear it. I say, let's wait a year and then we'll know whether it is music the people want."

Several tunes were pulled out of the show after rehearsals started — in Berlin's pungent phrases they "died like a dog." Another, "It's a Lovely Day," was deleted from a previous score and used in "Madam" because "it fits here." "You're Just in Love" was created "under deadline pressure" after the show was in the works.

Berlin is 62 and his first tune "Marie from Sunny Italy" was published in 1907.

500 Take Their Afternoon Tea With St. Paul's Ladies' Aid

St. Paul's Ladies' Aid members are saying today "It was a wonderful day and a wonderful tea."

Attendance at their annual gathering of friends and the sale of work, Wednesday afternoon in the church parlours, totalled more than 500 yet the interest of nearly 600 was evidently in the affair since 450 tickets were sold previously and 135 ladies paid cash admissions at the door. These figures make the affair a greater success than last year when the number of guests exceeded expectations and preparedness in the kitchen.

General convener Mrs. W. A. Burrell made sure there would be no scarcity of refreshments again and for those who had their tea as late as six o'clock there was ample.

All those who came were given a hearty welcome by president Mrs. J. Stevenson and vice president Mrs. J. Hornal, as well as by Mrs. C. G. Boyd who was receiving with them.

Decorating was done by Mrs. J. M. King and carried out in the theme of the coming festive season. A new carpet and newly upholstered chairs on the platform received prominence by their effective surroundings of evergreen with glistening snowballs, silver balls and red ribbon.

The table bouquet of large white 'mums with red roses had a mirrored reflection underneath. Tall white tapers, corner-set in small silver holders, were entwined with ivy. The handsome tablecloth, loaned for this occasion each year, is of cream damask with rose design painted on each corner.

A background of music throughout the tea hours was provided by pianist Mrs. E. Caldwell.

The tea pourers were Mrs. P. Hawthorne, Mrs. G. Lee, Mrs. F. Rowan, Mrs. F. Finnie, Mrs. J. McLeod and Miss E. Allen.

Small tables for the guests were each with centrepiece of evergreen and pine cones. The ladies serving at these were Mrs. B. McLean, Mrs. J. R. Allen, Mrs. F. Hall, Mrs. D. W. Clark, Mrs. J. H. DOROTHY DIX

Long Courtship, No Proposal Wastes Girl's Best Years

DEAR MISS DIX: We are three girls, 27 years of age. We each have a nice boy friend with whom we have been going steady for seven years. While they are apparently very much in love with us, they always put marriage off until the future, which always seems to get farther and farther away. They each have fairly good positions. Although they are true blue so far as other girls are concerned, we are getting discouraged, as we realize we are getting near the shelf age and ther is still no sign of wedding bells. Our once ardent love is gradually fading and we are wondering if it will stand the test much longer. What do you suggest?

Dorothy Dix

THREE OLD MAIDS

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: My suggestion is to give the young gentlemen the air. If at the end of seven years' weary waiting they still shy away from the altar, you may be very sure that they have no intention whatever of ever heading into it.

Attentions Without Intentions

There are plenty of men like your lukewarm lovers whose attentions are without intentions, and they are one of the problems of courtship with which inexperienced girls have to deal, and which they are so incapable of handling adroitly that it makes us wish for the good old days when about the third time a young man visited a maiden her father took him aside and asked him if he was serious or otherwise.

Of course, if a girl is so much in love with a man that she is willing to waste her youth on a gamble that some day her shilly-shallying sweetheart will come to the point and pop the question, that's one thing. But if a girl is just a normal girl who wants to marry, settle down and have her husband, her children and her home, she is foolish to let any man take up her time for more than six months unless he means busines, or there is some very definite and real reason why he can't marry.

The custom of "keeping company" is a disastrous one for girls. It gives the men all the breaks. By always being Johnny-on-the-spot, by assuming the right to be jealous if any other man looks at the girl and by monopolizing her society they keep away the suitors who would like to marry her, and then when they are tired of the girl or they see someone they prefer they simply fade out of the picture.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: For four years I have had an affair with a married man whom I love very desperately. I knew he had a lovely wife, but I didn't think that the little affection he gave me and the little money he spent on me hurt her. Now he has forsaken me for another woman and I can't stand it. I want to hurt him just as much as he hurt me. Shall I tell his wife all about it or what?

BROKEN HEARTED

ANSWER: The only thing you can in decency do is nothing. You say that you would like to hurt him as badly as he has hurt you, but that is an impossibility because you love and he does not. We can only suffer the agony you are enduring through our affections, and he loves nobody except himself.

You are being paid back in your own coin for the wrong that you inflicted upon a sister woman. Do not imagine that she was ignorant of your affair with her husband. No wife is so dull but who knows by a thousand signs when her husband has ceased to love her and become interested in another woman.

Do not add to the suffering you have caused her by telling her all the details of her husband's infidelity, and do not humiliate her by making it public. No doubt in secret she has eaten her heart out with her bitter knowledge, but she has been able to save her face before the world by pretending ignorance. And she has been able to keep up the fiction to her children that their father is a man who is worthy of being respected and imitated. Don't take that small comfort away from her.

The best thing for you to do is to shut your teeth on the story of your wrongs and try to forget the man who has been as unfaithful to you as he was to his wife. Such a man isn't worthy of any woman's love or tears.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19 years old and have been going steadily with a girl of 18 for the last two years. I love her dearly. I am working, but making a small salary, and my chances for advancement are very slim. I would have to give her up entirely and wouldn't want to hurt her feelings, but how long can we go on, things being as they are?

E. P. JR.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: At your age I think it would be far better for you and the girl to quit seeing each other instead of burdening youselves with a long-drawn-out engagement that would be a blight upon both of you. You are still children, no matter how grown-up you think you are. And you have no idea of what you are going to be yourself when you realy come to man and womanhood, nor what qualities you will want in a wife and husband.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Bread Book Gives Hints For Best Home Made Loaves

Every housewife with a little spare time on hand should at one time or another try to bake bread. The whole family will probably insist that it become a weekly institution and it will be well worth the effort if a good recipe is followed and all the information necessary for successful bread baking is kept in mind. To make sure you are using the best possible recipe with the best possible tips on handling of the dough you should obtain "250 Breads, Biscuits and Rolls," the nineteenth cookbook in the Culinary Arts Institute series of twenty-four cookbooks currently being made available to readers of The Examiner.

For a moist, pleasantly flavored, good keeping break you might start with potato bread, and here is an excellent recipe from the Bread Book:

Potato Bread

3 potatoes
1 cake yeast
2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
6 to ½ cups sifted flour

Cook pared potatoes in boiling water until tender; mash in liquid and heat 2 cups to lukewarm. Crumble yeast in ¼ cup of the liquid. To remaining liquid, add shortening, sugar and salt. Add softened yeast and ½ of the flour. Beat; add remaining flour gradually. Knead on floured board until thoroughly elastic. Place in bowl, cover and let rise. When doubled in bulk, divide into 2 parts, shape into loaves and place in greased pans. Let rise again until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven (75 deg. F.) 45 minutes or until bread shrinks from sides of pan. Makes 2 (1-pound loaves.)

You will certainly want to see all the different types of ryes, whole wheats and soy breads suggested in the Bread Book as well as the pages of directions on correct handling of dough, use of ingredients, and the photographic illustrations on just how to knead dough properly.

To get your copy of the Bread Book all you need do is clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c to The Examiner office, your carrier boy, or to any of Braund's Home Food Markets, or Dominion Master Market. By Mail, sand 30c (5c for cost of handling) to Cookbook Department, Peterborough Examiner.

Jurist Deplores Leniencey On Old Offenders

LONDON — (CP) — A "get tough" campaign against lawlessness, with punishment that strikes fear into the hearts of criminals, is advocated by Lord Oaksey, who presided at the Nuernberg trials of the Nazi war leaders.

Addressing the annual meeting here of the Magistrates' Association, Lord Oaksey deplored the trend towards lenient treatment of habitual offenders and the easing of discipline in prisons. Neither, he said, had the deterrent effect of protecting society nor preventing private vengeance.

The only categories of punishment at present were imprisonment, corrective training and preventive detention.

"Does anyone," he asked, "really believe that these forms of punishment are appropriate for those who beat old men and women within an inch of their lives?

Must Strike Fear

"To me it appears that some form of imprisonment should be so hard as to strike fear into the hearts of the most hardened criminal."

Rather than impose one form of imprisonment, Lord Oaksey suggested there should be sufficient grades of punishment to enable a judge to decide what appropriate sentence should be imposed, both in time and quality. It was a mistake, he submitted, for the prison commissioners to determine what form of punishment a criminal should undergo.

Lord Oaksey asked why prison officials were protected by forms of corporal and dietary punishment which were not applied in the protection of the public.

"The reason is, it seems to me, that members of the public who have the misfortune to be beaten up are organized in no trade union and cannot make their views felt," he said.

Mission Circle Holds Fall Thank-offering

MILLBROOK, Nov. 23 (ENS) —Mrs. Ernest Powell was hostess to the Golden Link Mission Circle for their autumn thankoffering meeting Tuesday evening. There were 27 members present. Mrs. Homer Ouellette was in charge of the worship period. She gave a Japanese prayer, and the scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Arnold Fallis. Mrs. Lawrence Winslow gave a vocal solo.

The Golden Links Circle had already had the banner for three consecutive years and felt it should be given to the circle of the presbytery having the next highest standing.

Miss Ethel Thorn told of attending a church service in Collier St. Church, Barrie, where Margaret Smith, the only Golden Lniks Mission Circle to volunteer in full time church work, is working as deaconess.

It was decided that later in the new year there should be a meeting in which the Afternoon Auxiliary, the CGIT and the Mission Band will be asked to join, when the Japanese film 'Fryita" will be shown.

Miss Edith Clarke reviewed the first chapter of the study book on Japan. Others taking part in presenting the study book were Mrs. Eric Fallis, Mrs. Lawrence Winslow, Miss Marjorie Skitch, Mrs. J. A. Thompson and Mrs. Hobbs.

A collection of Japanese curios was shown by Mrs. Doris Ingham. Supper hostesses were Miss Edith Clarke, Mrs. B. B. Dawson and Mrs. M. E. Hobbs.

Y's Men's Speaker In China 37 Years

A veteran of 37 years of YMCA work in China, one year with UNRRA, and 26 months in Korea, George A. Fitch, world services representative of the North American YMCAs, will be guest speaker at the Y's Men's Club tonight. Various organizations throughout the city have been invited to hear Mr. Fitch speak on Korea.

His work in China took him through 23 out of China's 24 provinces and he has worked in Shanghai, Nanking, Chungking, and Lanchow. For his heroism as director of the safety zone of Nanking during its seige by Japan, Mr. Fitch was decorated by the Chinese government with the Order of the Brilliant Jade. For a time he served as acting mayor of Nanking.

When Mr. Fitch went to Korea in 1947, he found the YMCA movement reduced under Japanese occupation to a single local association in Seoul with 200 members. When he left in August, 1949, there were over 150 student YMCAs in high schools and colleges and 19 city YMCAs.

Mr. Fitch has been through Communist-controlled areas of China and has had official and unofficial business with both the Kuomintang and the Communists for years. He was a witness at the war crimes trials in Tokyo.

British Peer Advocates Abolition of Death Penalty

LONDON —(CP)— Abolition of the death penalty except for crimes involving the safety of the state, is advocated by Viscount Templewood, Britain's Home Secretary 11 years ago.

Giving evidence before the Royal Commission on Capital Punishment, Viscount Templewood, as president of the Howard League for Penal Reform, declared a state execution, however inflicted, was a repulsive proceeding.

He told the commission that during his tenure as Home Secretary from 1937-39, when he was known as Sir Samuel Hoare, a reprieve had been granted whenever he had any doubts about the guilt of a condemned person. He believed, however, there was always a real danger an innocent might be hanged.

"The penalty is irrevocable and it is inevitable that mistakes may be made," he said. "I am opposed to capital punishment in peacetime in any form. However carefully the death yenalty is inflicted a state execution is a repulsive business. Its only justification would be the safety of the state."

Viscount Templewood cited the following reasons for his opposition to the extreme penalty:

It abandons the possibility of reforming the murderer; being irrevocable, it gives no opportunity for reversing a wrong sentence; it places a hateful duty on all who take part in the execution; it lowers the moral standard of the whole community.

Reformation Possible

Evidence from 35 states that had abolished capital punishment showed clearly, he said, there had been no increase in the rate of killings. It also disclosed that murderers could be reformed.

He hoped the commission would recommend suspension of executions for a sufficient period to test the effects of life imprisonment as a deterrent against murder. But if capital punishment was to be retained, he suggested differentiation and classification of the crime of murder.

Imposition of the death penalty was suspended for a trial period by the present Socialist administration. It was reinstated, however, two years ago as the result of public clamor following a wave of violent crimes.

Asked by the commission chairman, Sir Ernest Tower, if he regarded the mere loss of liberty as sufficient punishment, Viscount Templewood replied:

"If it is accompanied by a wide and effective prison system I think the deprivation of liberty is punishment much greater than most people imagine. But it ought to be accompanied by a rigid and austere life of hard training."

MADRID, Spain, Nov. 23 — (Reuters)—The Madrid-Corunna mail train was derailed in Corunna province today, injuring 22 persons, two seriously. Four coaches left the rails.

$100,000 Fire Sweeps 3 Lumber Yards

TORONTO, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Total damage was estimated at $100,000 in three lumber company fires in the East End last night and a fourth that started in a pile of shavings in the plant of Dominion Manufacturing Company.

Fire marshals launched an investigation of the lumber company blazes. Capt. Sam Hill said preliminary investigation uncovered nothing to link the outbreaks with a firebug but he said it was peculiar that there were three fires of the same type in one night.

The lumber firms concerned were Edmund Hinds Lumber Company, Simpson Planing Mill and Hillock Lumber Company.

Mines Busy

JOHANNESBURG — (CP) — A report of the work done in the Rand Gold Mines was given by R. B. Hagart, president of the Transvaal Chamber of Mines. He said more than 70,000,000 tons of rock will be moved this year from the underground workings to the surface.

Germany Assumes Pre-War Debts

BONN, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP) The West German government will formally declare itself responsible for the pre-war foreign debts of Hitler's Reich within a few days, it was authoritatively learned today.

After this declaration the Western Allies will begin relaxing some of the occupation controls on the Federal Republic.

Informed sources said in revised occupation status would give West Germany its own foreign office and greater powers over its internal affairs among other things.

The Reich's many creditors cannot be expected to be paid at once, however, financial experts are working out a settlement plan. But it will be many months before the tangled skein of Germany's financial affairs is unravelled.

Charge Red Jets Have UK Engines

LONDON, Nov. 23 —(AP)— A member of parliament asserted today Russian-made jet planes out-performed US fighter craft in Korea and are powered with engines sold to the Soviet Union by Britain.

Conservative Reginald Bennett raised the question.

The Labor government has acknowledged selling Russia almost 200 Rolls-Royce Nine jet engines in 1947 and 1948. Critics of this action claim it enabled Soviet engineers to produce jet power plants in the speed-of-sound class much sooner than would otherwise have been possible.

Lt.-Col. Tokaev, fugitive Russian aeronautics expert, wrote in the British magazine Flight last August:

"It is not an exaggeration to say that the USSR was probably 10 years behind the world's foremost exponents of jet development.

"Having awakened from their slumbers those responsible suddenly realized they had strayed into a dangerous blind alley. But the way out appeared quite unexpectedly. The British authorities sold to the Soviet government a certain number of jet units —the excellent Nines."

Engineer's Oversight Caused Death–Jury

TORONTO, Nov. 23—(CP)— An oversight on the part of a fruit train engineer caused the collision with a yard engine in which Earl Ogilvie, 21, was killed Sept. 11, a coroner's jury ruled last night.

J. R. Cooke, fireman, said he saw a yellow signal light as they neared a switch and warned the engineer about it three times. He said he saw an open switch but before he could warn Ogilvie, the train had run through it and crashed into the yard engine.

Ford To Build Montreal Plant

WINDSOR, Nov. 23—(CP) — Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., will build a $1,000,000 parts and accessories distribution depot in Montreal, Rhys M. Sale, president, announced today.

It will occupy a 10-acre site on Cote de Liesse Road, will employ about 75 people, and will serve most of Quebec and parts of Eastern Ontario.

It is part of a program under which a new parts and accessories division of the company has been set up at Windsor, where a $4,000,000 parts depot is planned, and under which a $900,000 depot is being built at Winnipeg.

Hayman Predicts ORFU To Drop From Grey Cup

MONTREAL, Nov. 23 (CP). — Lew Hayman, general manager and coach of Montreal Alouettes, thinks the Big Four and western leagues will henceforth handle the annual Grey Cup football show; that two games should be played—that the Big Four-ORFU playoff will drop out of the picture.

Hayman's views are set forth today in Elmer Ferguson's column in the Montreal Herald. The Alouette boss is quoted:

"So far as the gentlemen of the Canadian Rugby Union are concerned, they mean well and they do the best they can within their limitations. But professional football in Canada has come to be a big operation, and has outgrown its babyhood and has outgrown that sort of supervision.

"I think you will find that next year the two Big Fours—east and west—will take over the operation of their own business, run their leagues and the championship playoff themselves, on the same basis as world's baseball series is conducted by the clubs concerned.

"And I believe the Grey Cup is too big to be decided by a single game. . . . Half a million people want to see this game, only 27,000 get the chance. If two games, total score, were played, it would be more fair to the teams, would eliminate the chance of a fluke play or a fumble deciding the title."

Recreation Needs Surveyed In Report To Commission

Peterborough's recreational needs which should receive immediate attention were outlined to the commission Tuesday night by the policy committee. Eight requirements were listed in a survey made following a request from the Kinsmen Club for a possible recreational project.

Alex Sinclair, director, reported that in Peterborough there are 7,926 children between the ages of three and 15 years. These were subdivided into age groups as follows: three years, 1,091; four years, 844; five years, 648; six and seven years, 1,342; eight and nine years, 1,166; 10 to 13 years, 1,967; 14 years, 454; 15 years 414.

At the present time with 26 acres of playgrounds, the city is short 10 acres under the requirements laid down by the National Recreation Association (one acre per thousand population).

"It is apparent that very little consideration was given to planning for recreation areas in the early years of the city. In the central portion, there is practically no vacant land, most of the areas being taken up with commercial or industrial use. While there is some suites and bachelor apartments in commercial buildings and some multiple family dwellings, the percentage of population is small."

Playgrounds Needed

He explained that the eastern and southern areas have sufficient requirements, but some thought should be given to securing areas for future developments. The western and northern areas need additional areas and facilities. Plans should be made for at least two additional playgrounds in each area and two tot lots.

The committee through Mr. Sinclair added that there is a possible area, triangular in shape, at the end of Hastings St. between Clonsilla and Albertus St. It has been ear-marked for recreational purposes.

Mr. Sinclair also pointed out another area consisting of 11 acres on Stewart St. north of Bellevue at the city limits. This lot should also be considered in the near future, he said.

"Outside of these two areas, there appears to be very little suitable land owned by the city and set aside for playground use".

Swimming areas, Mr. Sinclair continued, should be considered on Little Lake as soon as the pollution of the water has cleared.

The committee reported that following Dr. R. A. Kelly's recommendation, shelters with toilet facilities and drinking fountains should be provided for at Hamilton, Fleming Place and McKellar playgrounds.

They recommended that the Nashua Paper Company property should be made into a baseball field for minors and that steps be taken to implement these suggestions in the near future as all are urgently needed.

William Bennett suggested that a letter, containing the requirements listed according to importance, be sent to all the service clubs. The recreational needs were then listed as: (1) Clonsilla-Hastings playground; (2) two swimming beaches; (3) shelters on the playgrounds; (4) Nashua company property for ball park; (5) Stewart St. playground; (6) shower facilities at Ashburnham hall; (7) improvements at Westclox minor ball property; (8) craft supervisor for city.

The affimative side was taken by Earl Nelson, Arthur Ward, and Clifford Broadworth; negative by Raymond Richardson, Donald Yule, and Charles McCleary. The judges, Mrs. Donald Pollock, Mrs. Mary Morrow, and Mrs. Archibald McCracken, found it very close, giving the negative side 29 points, the affirmative side 27.

Government Begins Investigation Of BC Train Wreck

EDMONTON, Nov. 24—(CP)—Police and transport department officers today gathered evidence for a formal inquiry into the Canoe river troop train wreck while the search went on for the bodies of the last two of the 20 persons killed. In Ottawa, the Board of Transport Commissioners announced yesterday that a public inquiry will open Dec. 11 at Edmonton. Board officials now are obtaining information on the collision at Canoe River, 312 miles west of here, the announcement said.

In Kamloops, B.C., it was learned that R.C.M.P. investigators have launched an on-the-spot probe at the remote Rocky Mountain disaster scene. R.C.M.P. Commissioner S. T. Wood said in Ottawa that the police are acting in their capacity of British Columbia Provincial Police.

The Kamloops report said that the police have talked to survivors and railway officials. It was reported without confirmation that they had requested from the Canadian National Railways certain papers concerning dispatch of the troop train and the transcontinental flier which collided with it.

No Order

Railway officials said previously that failure to deliver an order was responsible for the wreck.

With regular traffic resumed on the CNR's main line through the Rockies, railroad workers continued probing through wreckage in the search for the last of the missing bodies—a soldier and a locomotive engineer. Six bodies were recovered yesterday.

A brief military funeral was held here yesterday for 12 of the crash victims, all soldiers. A few hours later, an RCAF transport plane headed east with seven of the dead. It will fly as far as Newfoundland, taking the victims to their eastern Canadian homes for burial.

Bury Two

Two men will be buried here while the remaining three will be sent home by rail.

The death toll of 20 included 16 members of the 2nd Regiment Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and four railroad men.

One of the bodies removed from the wreckage yesterday could not be identified immediately. Closer examination of the body, believed to be that of a soldier, will be made when it reaches here.

Six wreck survivors, "dangerously ill" in Edmonton's University Hospital, were holding their own, medical authorities reported late last night.

US Map Takes In Swath Of Canada Pearson Queries

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Canada has asked her Washington ambassador to make inquiries about a United States military map which purports to show American jurisdiction extending over a vast area of Eastern and Northern Canada, External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

He told a press conference it would be "ridiculous" to infer that the map means the U.S. has assumed defence responsibility for the area. It was associated with establishment on Oct. 1 of a unified northeast U.S. command to give a single administrative control over U.S. military units in Newfoundland and Baffin Island.

Not Serious

He indicated Canada doesn't take a serious view of the incident except that the department fears that release of such maps outside military ranks can cause resentment and misunderstanding.

In this case, a reporter got hold of this one and wrote a story about it.

Mr. Pearson, laughingly putting the map down to the foibles of military map-makers, said the new command takes the place of the old Newfoundland base command. The headquarters remained at Fort Pepperell, Nfld., near St. John's.

Four Bases

The U.S. had been "extremely scrupulous" in making the move, discussing it with Ottawa. The command's jurisdiction, at present, covered units at four Newfoundland bases and a military weather station on Baffin Island. The station would cease to come under U.S. control in 1951.

The minister said the deparment had tried to find out from the U.S. embassy here "where the map came from" but couldn't. So Ambassador Hume Wrong was put to work in Washington.

US Holiday Dead Hit Record 188

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (AP)—The United States today counted a record-breaking number of accidental deaths for a Thanksgiving holiday.

The crash on the Long Island railroad Thanksgiving eve, killing 77 persons, was the main factor in boosting the toll to a high for the holiday.

A survey showed a death toll of 188, surpassing last ye ar's record high of 181.

Traffic accidents this year took the lives of 83 persons—as compared to a record of 123 on Thanksgiving Day last year. In addition, there were 28 other fatalities listed under miscellaneous causes — shootings, fires, drownings and others.

The survey covered a period from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Thursday, local time. It included only persons killed or dying of injuries suffered in accidents during those hours.

United States traffic deaths for the first nine months this year totalled 24,580—or 90 every 24 hours.

Prisoner Breaks Jail With Bare Hands

EVANS CITY, Pa., Nov. 24 — (AP) — A powerfully-built man escaped from the Evans City jail after bending bars and tearing out a mesh screen in his cell window yesterday. Police said Walter Lee Johnson, 36, of New Kensington, Pa., used brute strength to force his way out of jail. Police said Johnson was jailed on burglary charges.

Train Roared Past Warning At 65 MPH

Dewey Takes Over Investigation Says 'Human Failure'

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—(AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York said today that preliminary evidence indicates "a human failure" was the cause of the Thanksgiving-eve Long Island rail road wreck which took 77 lives.

Dewey, who cut short a vacation to lead one of the several investigations of the wreck started today, made his statement after a meeting with the State Public Service Commission.

As the Governor spoke there were demands for quick action by national, state and city officials to put an end to the carnage on the Long Island. It was the second major disaster in a year on the railroad.

Dewey said commission findings showed the express which plowed into the rear of a stalled train had passed through one warning signal and one stop signal at full speed of between 60 and 65 miles an hour.

The warning signal was 1½ miles from the scene of the accident.

Death Toll 77

The toll stood today at 77 dead and 332 injured. With three score victims still in hospitals, 15 of them in critical condition, it was feared the death list would increase.

Dewey and Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri cut short post-election vacations and flew home.

Both expressed horror and grief over the crash of two crowded Long Island rail road commuter trains.

One electric train plowed into the rear of another, which was stalled about 10 miles from Times Square. With a deafening roar and a blinding flash from the

UK Holds On To Marshall Aid

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuters)—A Treasury official today denied Ottawa reports that Britain has decided to forego further Marshall plan aid rather than ease dollar trade restrictions.

The official said no such deal had ever been suggested by either side.

The United States had never offered to continue Marshall aid if Britain would relax the restrictions. Britain had never offered to relax them if the United States would continue the aid.

The official said the position was simply that the United States and British governments were reviewing Britain's over-all position, in an effort to reach agreement on what Britain's future aid should be.

Informed officials said in Ottawa yesterday that Britain had decided to forego further aid rather than ease dollar trade restrictions. This, they said, was not expected to bring any worsening in Canada's exports position but it would have been more favorable if Britain had taken a different course.

Australian Dockers Back To Jobs Monday

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 24 (Reuters).—Dock workers at this big port, whose strike has held up all coastal and overseas shipping here for the last four days, today decided to return to work Monday.

In Sydney, the second major Australian port, dock workers were still on strike over a dispute on overtime pay.

The Melbourne men walked out because 17 men were fired for refusing to work on a ship they claimed to be unsafe.

They decided to go back while awaiting the decision of an independent arbitrator.

A LONG ISLAND RAILROAD express passenger train rammed the rear of another passenger train near Jamaica, NY., Wednesday night and 77 persons died in the tangled wreckage, 332 others were injured. In the hours that followed rescuers strove desperately to help the dead and injured. Picture shows the interior of one of the bottom cars.

Hydro To Start Niagara Plants

TORONTO, Nov. 24 (CP) — The Ontario Government is expected soon to approve plans for an early start on the first of a series of new Hydro developments at Niagara Falls.

Hydro Chairman Robert H. Saunders said today the matter will be placed before the cabinet within a day or two, with a possibility that the go-ahead will be given Monday.

Earlier this week, it was learned, the Hydro Commission authorized an early start on the Sir Adam Beck-Niagara generating station No. 2 at an estimated cost of $157,000,000. The station, named after the "father" of Ontario Hydro, will be part of Hydro expansion on both the Canadian and U.S. sides of the Niagara river.

Agreement Signed

Authority for the necessary increased water diversion was given the Ontario Hydro and the New York State Power authority in an agreement reached this year by the federal governments of each country.

Meanwhile, the Ontario commission is proceeding with the establishment of camps for construction workers to be based at Niagara Falls. Mr. Saunders said this work is well under way, with bunkhouses and other camp buildings being brought from other hydro developments in Northern Ontario and on the Ottawa river.

32 In Cold Parade For New Province

FORT WILLIAM, Nov. 24 (CP) —Thirty-two persons braved subzero temperatures last night to continue a secession campaign for the part of Ontario north and west of Sault Ste. Marie.

Political patronage was charged against the Toronto seat of provincial government by four speakers, including Ald. J. J. Spooner who heads the secession movement.

The new province would be called Aurora, the meeting was told.

Toronto is "sitting snugly off the taxes we pay," members of the group said.

Include Germans In Army For Europe Says Schuman

STRASBOURG, France, Nov. 24 (AP) — Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France called today for a West European army including German units as a basis for world peace. Schuman told the European Consultative Assembly that "there is no other solution possible for Germany's security." To rearm Germany with a national army would provoke a reaction in the East of great importance. Outlining France's project for a European army, Schuman said that, with units integrated in the European force, renewal of conflicts between national armies would become "definitely and effectively" impossible.

The foreign minister cited his own plan for pooling European steel and coal resources and said "we must follow the same method in the military domain."

Schuman did not mention a proposed size for German units in the projected European army, an issue which has divided France and the United States in current Atlantic Pact talks on the French plan. He said, however, that some countries would naturally have to have larger military establishments because of their own political situation.

No Discrimination

"No discrimination will be made between participating countries," said Schuman, "Only transitional dispositions would have to be made, taking into account the fact that most of the participating countries already have national armies while others do not."

German spokesmen have said they will contribute troops to a European army only on a footing of complete equality.

Schuman, whose remarks were greeted with loud applause, declared France is determined to push for European unity in political, economic and military spheres.

"To unite Europe is our immediate and direct task—that was the idea of the council of Europe," he said. "No other policy can save Europe."

Explosion Cuts Preston Hydro

PRESTON, Nov. 24— (CP) — Fire swept the Preston Hydro station today following a mid-morning explosion which disrupted the power supply in this Waterloo county town of 7,500 population.

First reports indicated that Hydro employees escaped serious injury. One man, however, was said to have been blown out a door by the blast. His identity was not learned.

Two hours after the explosion, firemen still were battling the flames. Fire fighters from Galt, three miles southeast, came here as a precautionary measure to prevent the fire from spreading.

There was speculation that the explosion was caused by an overload of electricity. It was overcast here today, with snow falling, and Hydro consumption was heavy up to the time of the blast.

The station is on the eastern outskirts of town, near Riverside park.

Coffee Causes Death Of UK Industrialist

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuters)—A cup of coffee led to the death yesterday of Sir Frederick Bain, deputy chairman of the British Imperial Chemical Industries, it was disclosed at an inquest today.

One-armed Sir Frederick Bain, 61, was attending a dinner 10 days ago in honor of Lewis Douglas, retiring United States ambassador, when he choked over his coffee.

He fell to the floor fracturing five ribs.

Coroner C. W. Roberts said death was due to intestinal obstruction accelerated by the fall.

Sir Frederick, born in 1889, rose from small beginnings to lead British Industry as president of the Federation of British Industries from 1947 to 1949.

100,000 Advance On Front Up To Eight Miles; MacArthur Flies To Fight

Go Ahead With US Aircraft Protection Meet Little Korean Opposition Temperature Freezing On 80-Mile Front

TOKYO, Nov. 24—(AP)—A 100,000-man United Nations Army drove forward on a broad front today in an all-out offensive to end the Korean war before Christmas. The first thrusts carried up to eight miles. The attack is moving "according to schedule," Gen. MacArthur announced tonight 12 hours after flying to the northwest front to direct the all-out assault. Elsewhere Allied divisions forged ahead in a giant pincer movement.

The assault along the 80-mile northwest front was moving ahead against "stubborn but failing resistance," MacArthur said.

U.N. losses were "extraordinarily light."

The attack was in the frozen northwest, where Gen. MacArthur said new Communist armies have joined an estimated 100,000 North Korean and Chinese Red troops. It came after a prolonged lull and rumors of peace.

The U.N. Commander flew to the front to supervise the drive toward the Yalu river border of Manchuria. He said:

"Tell the boys when the reach the Yalu they are going home. I want to make good on my statement that they are going to eat Christmas dinner at home."

He did not elaborate.

Later MacArthur flew over enemy lines and along the winding Yalu. Then he returned to Tokyo. He was escorted by jet fighters.

Combat troops of three Allied Corps jumped off in freezing weather Friday morning along an 80-mile front. The U.S. 2nd and 25th divisions and a Turkish brigade quickly moved up to take over a 25-mile sector in the middle of the line.

The advance, covered by Allied planes, met little opposition. There were gains also on the northeast Korean front. The northwest push began from a line 45 to 60 miles south of the Manchurian border.

A tank-led U.S. 24th division task force drove eight miles west on the road to Sinuiju,, entryway for Chinese Communist armies in the extreme northwest. Sinuiju was in flames today, presumably from Allied air attacks.

The 24th Division reached Naechongjong, on the same route it travelled four weeks ago to within 14 miles of the Manchurian border before Chinese Red attacks forced its withdrawal.

March Unopposed

On the right flank, two columns of the South Korean 1st Division marched unopposed on Taechon, major Communist base and key road junction on highways leading to the vital Suiho hydro-electric development. The columns were seven miles south and southeast of Taechon.

A 25th Division task force of the 9th Corps rescued 26 American prisoners-of-war during a seven-mile advance north of Chinese Reds Arrive To Hurl Charges At U.S.

By STANLEY JOHNSON

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Nov. 24 —(AP— A nine-member Chinese Communist delegation arrived in New York today to press Red China's charge of American aggression before the United Nations Security Council.

The group, which was met by Russian delegate Jacob A. Malik and representatives of iron curtain countries, refused to speak to reporters as it alighted from a British Overseas Airways plane.

Later in a statement to the press Wu Hsui-Chan, leader of the delegation, said he hopes the U.N. will give "just treatment" to the Red Chinese charge that the United States has committed "armed aggression" against Formosa.

The Chinese Reds came with the permission of the United States government, despite the fact that Communist Chinese soldiers are fighting United States troops in Korea.

U.N. officials do not expect an immediate council meeting on the Peiping charges. Instead they look for several days of private conversations among the Chinese, Russians, British and Indians, and perhaps among other delegations.

U.S. Youth Held In Ont. Shooting

DETROIT, Nov. 24 (CP)—Police are holding a 20-year-old Detroit youth and are seeking a second youth in connection with the Monday night shooting in London, Ont., of Clare Galbraith, 20-year-old Public Utilities worker. Galbraith died Wednesday from a bullet wound in the stomach.

Russell J. Bechard was arrested at his home here yesterday. Police said they are now seeking Walter E. Rowe, 20, who lives with Bechard. Both are employees of the Chrysler Corporation here.

Detective Martin Blank of the Detroit police said Bechard confessed that he and Rowe were the Claxton Reviews Troops In U.S.

FORT LEWIS, Wash., Nov. 24 (CP)—On foreign soil, on an American holiday, Canada's defence minister and his country's United Nations brigade met here yesterday.

Nearly 7,000 troops, the bulk of Canada's Korean brigade paraded in pouring rain before Defence Minister Claxton. And the minister was pleased with what he saw.

It was the finest parade he had witnessed, "even in two world wars."

"The special force was raised as part of the Canadian army, not only for the defence of Canada but also to carry out undertakings of our country under the charter of the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty.

"You are the first force to be designated for this purpose. We hope other countries will follow.

"Part of the force will be moving soon to continue their training and if necessary to go into action in Korea. The remainder will continue training here until the unified command advises and the government, if necessary with the approval of parliament, takes some other action."

Two Railway Men Suspended After Crash

MONTREAL, Nov. 24 (CP). — A Canadian National Railways spokesman said here today that two railway workers have been "automatically suspended" as the result of the head-on collision of two trains at Canoe River, B. C., Tuesday.

The spokesman declined to reveal the names of the two men "because of possible legal action that might be taken against the company." He explained that no charges had been laid against the men and the suspension order was following "normal practice" in railway accidents.

Winter Sweeps Canada East of Rockies

TORONTO, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Wintry weather gripped most of Canada east of the Rockies today.

The cold spell that chilled the Prairies yesterday spread eastward across Ontario and was due to reach Western Quebec by tonight. Farther east, temperatures dropped below freezing in the Atlantic provinces.

South To Gulf

Weather men said the surge of Arctic air thrust as far south as the Gulf of Mexico. They added that warm air pouring across Alberta today should end the cold snap on the Prairies by tomorrow.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., where high winds halted the movement of freighters carrying ore and grain through the great ship canals, a foot of snow fell during the night.

A snowfall about as heavy was reported at Caledon, 45 miles northwest of Toronto, in an area that took the brunt of a snowstorm sweeping southeastward off Georgian Bay.

Reaches Toronto

The storm reached Toronto shortly before noon, following a night that saw rain turn to freezing sleet.

Between 7 a.m. EDT and 8 a.m., the temperature in Toronto took an eight-degree drop. Water and slush on the streets froze so fast that sanding trucks could not get around to all the icy spots that developed on streets and highways. Traffic Inspector Vernon Page reported a general slowing down of rush-hour traffic and scores of minor accidents caused by skidding.

Cold For Game

Snowflurries were expected to continue in the Toronto area tomorrow. A temperature drop to five degrees above zero was forecast for tonight with a maximum tomorrow, the day of the Grey Cup football final, of 20 degrees.

The Ontario Department of Highways sent out its snowplows and sanding crews in many parts of the province. It warned motorists to drive with care in districts where roads were icy. It described as particularly hazardous Highway 11 from Toronto north to Bradford and most roads in the Muskoka and Haliburton regions.

U.S., Russia Differ

Japan Peace Split Wide

MOSCOW, Nov. 24 (AP). — Russia today revealed sharp differences with United States suggestions for provisions of an early Japanese peace treaty.

The Soviet press published an exchange of notes between John Foster Dulles and Jakob A. Malik, American and Soviet delegates, respectively, to the United Nations.

Western diplomats here said the notes showed fundamental and far-reaching disagreements between the United States and the Soviet Union on the Japanese treaty question.

U. S. Proposals

The Russian report said the U.S. proposed:

1. Recognition of Korean independence;

2. United Nations trusteeship over the Ryukyu and Bonin Islands with the U.S. as trustee;

3. Determination of the status of the Pescadore Islands, Formosa, South Sakhalin, and the Kurile Islands by the big-four or, if there was no agreement in a year by the U.N. General Assembly;

4. Japanese and American units and possibly other armies to guarantee jointly Japan's security until other measures are worked out.

Russia's Answer

Malik, the Russians said, replied:

1. How are the U.S. proposals on Japanese security to be interpreted in view of the 1945 Potsdam agreement guaranteeing withdrawal of occupation troops after conclusion of a peace treaty?

2. The status of the islands mentioned were decided by the Cairo declaration of 1943 or the Potsdam declaration; neither provided for any U.S. trusteeship;

3. Since the big four agreed not to conclude a separate peace with Japan, does the U.S. plan such a treaty?

4. What is being done to ascertain the point of view of (Communist) China on the proposed treaty?

Sports Exploit Canadian Youth Athlete Charges

TORONTO, Nov. 24—(CP)—A former Montreal athlete charged in a Church report here last night that amateurism in Canadian sports has become a farce.

Dr. J. C. Flannigan, a former Captain of McGill University football and hockey team, called for an examination of what he termed "the present recruitment for professional sport" as it affects every phase of a youth's life, including his attitude toward commercialized Sunday sport.

His report was tabled at a meeting of the council for social service of the Church of England in Canada.

Should Investigate

Dr. Flannigan said the recruiting of youths for professional sport should be investigated, on the grounds that parents and teachers suffer misgivings over High School and University students forming part of "so-called amateur teams, often sponsored by professional hockey representatives, or less-reputable sponsorship."

The report cited in particular the raising of the age limit from 16 to 18 years for the signing of the National Hockey League's "C" form at a N.H.L. meeting last year. It claimed this was a "confession that some of the criticism of exploitation of juveniles in hockey had adequate supporting evidence."

(A "C" form in effect is an agreement between a pro club and a player who has yet to sign a professional contract).

Big Business

In his report, Dr. Flannigan deplored the passing of "home-brew" teams which "contributed so substantially to local morale. Hockey, baseball, and football . . . are big business enterprises . . . all of which tends to control, subsidization, and monopoly," the report added.

The Council adopted a resolution demanding that laws governing Sunday sports in Ontario be strictly observed, and it requested the House of Bishops to issue a strong statement in support of the Lord's Day Act.

Bancroft Farmer Faints When Given 6 Months

TORONTO, Nov. 24—(CP)—Murray Ross Spence, 43-year-old farmer from Bird's Creek, just north of Bancroft, fainted in the courtroom Thursday when sentenced to six months for uttering forged documents. A charge of theft of bonds valued at $500 was withdrawn for lack of evidence.

The Crown claimed Spence introduced a woman to an employee of a west-end branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The woman cashed the bonds, forging a signature. Police have been unable to locate the woman.

Defence Counsel R. C. McLean said Spence's conviction and sentence would be appealed.

Kiwanis Club Supports New Collegiate Bylaw

Unanimously the Kiwanis Club passed Thursday a resolution to support and to use their influence to secure passage of the new collegiate bylaw which will be presented to the ratepayers Dec. 4.

Charles Hurst, chairman of the club's public affairs committee, presented the resolution which reads:

"Whereas education of the young people of Canada is a primary requisite for the maintenance of our way of life and, whereas the future general well-being of the people of Peterborough depends to a considerable extent on the welfare of the children of Peterborough of today and, whereas the facilities for secondary school education in Peterborough are very inadequate and, whereas the Peterborough Board of Education has proposed a bylaw for the construction of a new collegiate to take care of the pressing present and future educational needs of the children of the city of Peterborough, therefore be it resolved that the Peterborough Kiwanis Club go on record as being in favor of this bylaw for a new collegiate and that the members of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club be urged to vote for and to use their influence to secure the passage of this bylaw on election day."

Bechard is reported to have said that his companion did the shooting.

The detective said Bechard admitted he and Rowe took three automatic pistols and a revolver in a Windsor home after tying up Mrs. Trevelyn Brown, and then hired a taxi to take them to London.

No Such Address

The driver, John Jolly of Windsor, said they gave a London address which he did not know and he pulled into a service station to ask the way. He became suspicious when he found there was no such address, and tried to call police.

One of the men then pulled a gun and ordered them into the station, saying he was going to take all their money.

The cab driver broke and ran and one of the gunmen fired a shot at him. He missed and hit Galbraith instead.

Bechard is reported to have signed extradition waivers this morning and will be turned over to Windsor police sometime today.

Rev. Jas. Belford Former MPP Sheriff Dies

WARKWORTH, Nov. 24.—Major the Rev. James Franklin Beatty Belford, M.A., member of the Ontario Legislature for East Northumberland in the first government under the premiership of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, died Thursday at his residence, Mount Olivet, east of Codrington. He was Sheriff of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham from 1935 to 1937.

Major Belford was ill about two months, returning a short time ago from Kingston Military Hospital. He was born at Brighton, Ont., Oct. 22, 1867, son of William James and Joanna Belford. His parents were of Irish descent. He was a graduate of Campbellford High School, Bishops College, Manitoba, and also the University of Manitoba.

Ordained in Winnipeg

In 1898 he was ordained in the Church of England at St. John's College, Winnipeg, and carried on parish work first at Clearwater and Gladstone, Man. He then spent nearly three years with the Church Army overseas, a home missionary corps of the Anglican Church. On his return to Canada he was appointed to parishes at Windsor Mills and Richmond, Quebec, and during the First World War he was a Major and Officer Commanding a Quebec forestry depot. In 1918 he was a special Canadian representative with the British American Mission to Massachusetts and Maine.

Major Belford returned to Brighton and church work in 1918, and resumed duties in Anglican parishes of that district, including Warkworth, Wooler and Roseneath. He also was listed as a farmer, in specifying his later occupation. In December 1893 he married Eleanor McCracken, daughter of Robert McCracken of Eden, Man. She died four years ago.

The body is resting at the Allen Funeral Home, Warkworth, until Sunday when service will take place in St. John's Anglican Church, Warkworth, at 2 p.m., conducted by his brother, Rev. Canon H. O. Belford, of Marbleton, Que. Interment will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery, almost opposite the Belford residence.

Major Belford was for years a leader in the Conservative party of Northumberland county. In the provincial elections of 1923 he defeated Wesley Montgomery, the UFO member, in the east riding of the county, while Sam Clark, Liberal, was defeating Fred Boggs Conservative, in Northumberland West.

At one time he was mentioned as prospective Minister of Education. His ability as a public and political speaker attracted attention beyond his own county, and he filled many campaign engagements for the Conservative party. Major Belford possessed notable eloquence as a speaker, and he could also turn it to the rough going on the stormy hustings of Northumberland county. He was a doughty foeman in the days of Sam Clark, Milton Maybee, Fred McArthur, Wm. G. Robertson, W. A. Fraser, now member of the Senate of Canada, and many others.

Major Belford could flick the sensitivities of the Liberals of the riding with more sting than any of the other speakers of his local party at that time.

third rail, the front and rear cars of the two 12-car trains telescoped.

Death and terror struck the 2,100 passengers, many of them crowded in the aisles.

Nine Hours

Vast rescue forces were on the scene minutes after the crash, but it took nine hours to get the last mangled body out of the sickening death trap of twisted steel.

The motorman of the second train was killed, and the cause of the disaster is still uncertain.

Wednesday night's rush-hour wreck—the worst American rail disaster in seven years—killed more than twice as many persons as the Long Island Railroad collision nine months ago at Rockville Centre.

33 Killed

Thirty-three were killed and 125 injured in the Feb. 17 head-on collision of two trains at Rockville Centre—10 miles east of the Thanksgiving eve wreck near Kew Gardens, Queens.

The second disaster on the bankrupt railroad brought a rising tide of public indignation, which had not died down since the Rockville Centre tragedy.

Drastic Action

Dewey ordered the State Public Service Commission to investigate the wreck and "the entire management of the railroad."

Dewey said the crash demanded "drastic action" to protect the railroad's 300,000 daily riders.

Before leaving Cuba, Impellitteri ordered appointment of a four-man city committee to investigate.

Industrials Sag Following Gains

TORONTO, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Industrials turned mixed as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Following two days of strong gains to new high ground they opened firm but profit-taking, starting late yesterday, picked up speed to slow the board to a standstill. Papers, refining oils and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains in the groupings.

Base Metals also turned mixed. Consolidated Smelters, Labrador, Quemont and Waite Amulet gained up to 75 cents while Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Noranda and Steep Rock dipped up to 50 cents. New Calumet was a feature, trading strongly for a 26-cent gain.

Golds were mixed and narrow. In the senior group, Dome and Giant Yellowknife added fractions. Junior Producers were fairly quiet.

Western Oils advanced with small gains.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,647,000 shares.

Blame Icy Roads For Three Accidents

Icy roads caused three accidents in the Peterborough district today, provincial police reported.

In one, a car driven by Leonard Titus, Hunter St., skidded off Highway 28 near the waterworks and went into the ditch. One front wheel of the car was broken off.

Details on the other two accidents were unobtainable, but it is believed they were minor. City police reported no accidents.

A boy on a bicycle narrowly missed being run over by a city bus at George and Charlotte Sts. today when his bike slid out from under him.

He sprawled on the slippery pavement only a few feet in front of the bus, which was moving slowly. The driver applied the brakes, skidded for a few feet, and stopped inches away from the lad.

Peconi Petitions To Run Car Lot

Thirty-two names are signed to the petition asking city council to grant Nick Peconi a licence to operate a used car sales lot on the north side of Otonabee St., opposite the C. V. Wood lumber mill.

Otonabee St. is the extension of Lansdowne St. east of the Locks Bridge.

The petition was submitted by Elliott and Chandler, acting for Mr. Peconi, who owns 9½ acres. "We are informed that it is supported by all the residents in the area with the exception of two," the accompanying solicitors' letter affirmed.

The petition itself submits that the immediate area of the Peconi property has been established as a commercial area by reason of the fact that at the north side of Lansdowne St., west of Armour Road, there is now established one gasoline service station, one woodworking plant, one rooming house and three residences (two of which residences are occupied by persons carrying on business on the north side of Lansdowne St. in the immediate vicinity."

"There is established directly across the road from Mr. Peconi's lands a sawmill on land which is partly in the township of Otonabee and partly in the city.

Other Businesses

"There is now established on the south side of Lansdowne St. west of Armour Road, a body shop, a public hall, a beauty parlor, a service garage and a store. There is also a gasoline station on the east side of Armour road immediately adjacent to the area with which we are concerned.

There is a store and gasoline station on the southeast corner of Armour Road and Lansdowne St. in the township of Otonabee."

The Peconi property extends from the highway down to the C.N.R.

"It is respectfully submitted that it would be unfair to refuse Mr. Peconi a licence after permitting other businesses to be established and particularly because it cannot be said that the area is anything other than a commercial area."

The preamble of the petition says: "We, the undersigned residents and occupants of business establishments on Lansdowne St. both sides, west of Armour Road hereby petition the members of the council to grant Nic Peconi a licence to operate his business as vendor of used cars on the parcel of land comprising nine and one-half acres on the north side of Lansdowne St. on part of which there is a modern residence owned and occupied by Mr. Peconi."

Yongbyon. Most of the prisoners were wounded and suffering from frost bite. The rescue was in the general area where Chinese Reds released 27 other American prisoners two days ago.

The 25th Division, spearheaded by two tank columns, bracketed Ipsok.

Artillery Barrage

Elements of the U.S. 2nd Division, attacking after a night-long artillery barrage, pushed more than six miles, moving three miles beyond the rail centre of Kujang against small arms and mortar fire.

The South Korean 2nd Corps, on the right flank of that drive, advanced more than a mile. The Republican 7th Division moved up to positions six miles north of Tokchon.

The South Korean 8th Division advanced to a point seven miles north of Yongwon.

Less than half of the Eighth Army's 100,000 men were committed to the initial stages of the offensive. Mobilized behind the spearheads were well-organized and well-supplied reserves, ready to exploit any break-through in the deep defences the Communists have been reported building in the mountains.

Opposition In Centre

The Commonwealth 27th Brigade was taking part in the push.

The heaviest opposition reported was in North-Central Korea.

There the Chinese threw a fresh division—the 89th—against the previously unopposed U.S. 7th Marine Regiment moving up the west side of Changjin reservoir.

The Marines fought through deep snowdrifts and five heavily defended Chinese road blocks. They smashed through an estimated 1,000 Communists to a point three miles south of Yudam, western tip of the great reservoir.

The Marine 5th Regiment moved two to three miles up the east side of the reservoir without a fight.

Hold On Yalu

Farther to the northeast the U.S. 7th Division expanded its hold on the Yalu river border area around Hyesanjin.

Tanks of the 17th Regiment, andy U.N. unit on the border, turned their 90-millimetre guns on a Red mortar battery and silenced it in a four mile push southwestward toward Samsu.

The 32nd Regiment, coming up from the southeast, captured Samsu, 10 air miles from Hyesanjin. An enemy force reported there earlier in the week had vanished.

Two regiments of the South Korean Capital Division smashed through "light ineffectual resistance" on the east coast to within seven miles of Chongjin, last big Korean city south of the Soviet Siberian border.

ONE TRAIN riding on top of the other when two Long Island Railroad express passenger trains collided killing 77 and injuring 332.

Alexander To Become Farmer In Britain

OTTAWA, Nov. 24—(CP)—Viscount Alexander said today he's going to become a farmer when he gives up his job as Governor-General of Canada.

Opening the national headquarters of the Agricultural Institute of Canada, he confessed he is no agriculturist, though born on a farm.

But he added he intends to "take up farming in real serious style" when his official duties come to an end.

Viscount Alexander, whose term recently was extended a year into the spring of 1952, has bought himself a country home 23 miles outside London. It has 11 acres of wooded land.

Ford, Union Renew Talks On Disagreement

WINDSOR, Nov. 24 — (CP).—Negotiators for Ford Motor Company of Canada and the United Automotive Workers (CIO) were scheduled to meet today in a second day of talks reportedly aimed at settling their two major disagreements.

Neither side would comment, following yesterday's seven hours of discussions.

The negotiating groups are headed by Wallace H. Clark, Ford vice-president of industrial relations, and Roy England, president of Ford Local 200, AUW.

A union spokesman said the two-month-old union demands for supplementary wage increases were "definitely on the agenda."

Seniority Rules

The second dispute before the two groups is the union claim that the company did not abide by seniority rules in its large-scale layoffs during the change-over to 1951 passenger car models. The change-over is almost completed but no agreement has been reached on union requests for reimbursements of employees it alleges were wrongly laid off.

An isolated dispute over seniority touched off unauthorized walkouts Wednesday that idled 10,000 workmen and closed down all Ford production plants for the day. The men followed a union request that they return to work yesterday while the dispute was being discussed.

Union wage demands, made last September, are for pay boosts to meet rising living costs. It turned down a company offer to negotiate a five-year contract, and said company terms were not adequate. The present one-year contract expires next May.

IMPERIAL BANK OF CANADA EXECUTIVES ADDRESS 76th ANNUAL MEETING

Toronto, November 22:—The 76th Annual Meeting of Imperial Bank of Canada was held today at the Head Office in Toronto. Mr. I. K. Johnston, President, in his address to the Meeting said in part:

The value of our gross national production, which is calculated to have been somewhat over $16 billion in 1949, is likely to exceed $17 billion in 1950. This is estimated to represent an output of goods and services 75 percent above that of 1939. Our total working force has increased by about 75,000 in the year, and of the 5,300,000 persons employable, less than 2 percent were without jobs at the date of the last survey in August.

We have had like the United States a declining surplus on our world trading but this has been much more than offset by a large and mounting inflow of capital. In part, this inflow represented long-term investment in Canadian industry and resources based on growing optimism as to the future of this country.

One development which could help significantly both in the immediate situation and in terms of long-run progress would be an increase in the rate of immigration. We need additional hands to perform the work which must be done and well-selected immigrants could contribute greatly to the desired increase in production.

Our need for power and the necessity of getting Labrador iron into the Great Lakes Basin is making continually more urgent some definite steps toward the long deferred St. Lawrence seaway. Indications that the Canadian Government is preparing to press the project with renewed vigour are to be welcomed. Beyond the economic case for it, its place in the strategy of defence makes it a stern necessity.

Prospects and Problems

Clearly, in any look at the future, the impact of the necessary defence expenditures upon which we and our neighbours are already embarked looms up as the major problem confronting us. The effect of these on economies which are already operating close to capacity involves very definite risks. The amounts are not so large as to be unmanageable but, in the present circumstances, they can be dangerous.

Canadians may look forward with sober confidence to the future ahead. The problems are great and difficult but they are more manageable than some have been in the past. For the immediate future, they are likely to be problems of too much rather than too little business activity. For the more distant future we have great advantages. There has been great advance in the past five years in the equipment of our industry and in the knowledge of how to develop our resources. There has been a great step forward in the increase in our confidence in our own ability to chart our course.

Despite the many crises and the successive problems, we have come through the post-war period much more fortunately than any would have been willing to predict in 1945. Our own internal development has proceeded at rates which are well up to the limits of safety. Despite warnings and misgivings the United States has persisted in an international policy which has opened its markets and its capital resources to world use. Europe and the United Kingdom have made real progress back toward prosperity and ability to stand on their own feet. There are hopeful signs that the Atlantic community may develop into more than a mere defensive alliance. But over all hangs the grave shadow of war and the recurring threat of war. To persist in the policy of strength which has given us initiative and a chance to influence events, will require sacrifices and restraint. But we cannot afford to play less than our full part nor can we miss the great prize of ultimate stability in the world by making our own contribution less than of the maximum effectiveness. Above all to realize the full promise of the future we must have courage; continued courage in government to lead, even though the path may not be a popular one; courage on the part of management, labour, farmers and business men to co-operate for greater productivity; courage even on the part of consumers to restrain their purchases in the confidence that it need only be a postponement. With courage and mutual confidence, we cannot be defeated from within while presenting a strong front to the aggressors.

Toronto, November 22:—Mr. L. S. Mackersy, General Manager, Imperial Bank of Canada, speaking to the 76th Annual Meeting of Shareholders held in Toronto today, said in part:

The Seventy-Sixth Annual Statement of the Bank, now before you, shows total Assets of $526,748,659, the highest figure yet attained, the increase during the year being $7,708,000.

The profits before provision for depreciation and taxes were $2,650,308, an increase of $540,233.

Deposits at $477,747,176, showing an increase of $1,477,000 are again at an all-time high.

Our investments, not exceeding market value, total $220,766,412.

Loans total $205,442,793, an increase of $12,285,000. These loans are widely diversified and carefully supervised and the increase shows that we are continuing to do our full part in meeting the requirements of both our large and small customers. We especially welcome the large number of small customers and consider their business very important.

General Business Conditions

Reports on business conditions, received from branches and gathered from other sources, continue to reflect a high level of economic activity, and it seems likely that this year of 1950 will see peak levels established both in production and consumption.

Farm income will not equal that of last year. The original prospect of a much better than average wheat crop, unfortunately, was not realized being substantially affected both as to yield and quality by an early and severe frost. While other field crops will produce a higher income, this is offset by reduction, to some extent, in livestock marketing and, in addition, the farmer last year received a comparatively larger equalization payment covering an adjustment of the prior four years. The year can, perhaps, be described as one in which the farmer has not been able, to any extent, to add to his gains in progress made in recent years.

The oil development in Alberta continues unabated with over 600 additional wells this year to date, that number being added to almost daily. Oil is now flowing through the pipe-line to Regina. Exploration is proceeding actively, and this applies also to the neighboring Province of Saskatchewan. It is reasonable to expect new fields will be found and developed and, even with the experience to date as a guide, it is difficult to grasp the full and final possibilities of our oil resources. The present benefit to our economy is of importance, and this will undoubtedly grow tremendously.

Important steps in the vast iron ore development of Labrador and North Eastern Quebec brings closer the time when Canada will be one of the most important producers in the world of this basic and essential material, and this will be of tremendous importance to our economy. Its development is a notable example of intelligent vision backed by courageous use of financial resources.

Further, and in some respects quite remarkable, progress has been made in the field of business generally. This includes lumbering, pulp and paper and all types of manufacturing and distribution. Industrial production is now about double that for any of the years immediately prior to the war. However, we should not permit this continued record of advancement to make us complacent. Great strides have been made, but inflation is gaining. Not only does this affect our internal trade but, more particularly, there is added danger of pricing our products out of world markets. It must be borne in mind that while permitting the Canadian dollar to find its own level it cannot help but be beneficial in the long run—the immediate effect will be to increase the cost of our exports in terms of American dollars.

At the moment, more Canadians are gainfully employed than at any time in our history to the extent that the leading field of "short supply" is man-power. I am definitely of the opinion that a well-planned policy towards attracting the right type of immigrant is a need.

Educational Problems And A New Collegiate

We have already discussed in these columns the need for a new collegiate and the method by which it could be financed. Today we wish to touch on a few other problems which have a bearing on the question of whether or not a new collegiate should be built. The first of these concerns the situation of the proposed new building, which would be on Monaghan Road south of McKellar St. The growth of Peterborough toward the south has been the most remarkable single feature of city development in the past fifteen years; fifty per cent. of the city pupils in P.C.V.S. at present come from south of Sherbrooke Street. If a new collegiate is to be built, it seems clear that it should be in the south end of the city.

* * *

This leads us to the suggestion which has been made that the Board of Education should take over the old Nicholls Hospital Building and use it for the new collegiate. Such a proposal does not bear serious examination. The building would have to be re-modelled extensively for that purpose, involving expense at which we dare not even guess. It must be remembered that the old hospital building has been condemned by the Department of Health; what would induce the Ministry of Education to take it over as a school? And if the building could be made suitable for a school, what would be the result? Simply that pupils would have to travel anything up to three miles to attend it.

* * *

Criticism has been expressed of the Board of Education's policy of permitting pupils from rural districts to attend P.C.V.S. if they choose to do so. The fact is that the Board has not a completely free choice in the matter; the present Vocational wing was not built originally as a city school and the percentage of debentures paid by the government was granted by the Ministry at the time of its building on condition that the school should be open to rural as well as urban pupils.

* * *

There are approximately 300 rural pupils in P.C.V.S. at present, and of these about 150 could be turned out on two years' notice from next June. But the county pupils are guaranteed education there because it is their nearest vocational school. The Peterborough High School Area Board pays for the education of these pupils, shouldering a proportionate share of the capital cost and of the debenture and current costs. Therefore it cannot be said that the county pupils are a burden upon the city educational system. Nor can it be said that 150 pupils among 39 classes makes a very great difference to any single class.

* * *

The revision of the entrance system, as we have said before, means that children will be entering the city high school in greater numbers; the revision of the curriculum means also that a two-year course has to be provided for boys and girls who intend to leave school at the earliest possible age which is sixteen. The increased numbers and the new special course cannot be properly handled in the present building.

* * *

Peterborough does not face these problems alone. Oshawa, a smaller city, now has two collegiates in operation. Brantford this year is asking for $970,000 to build a new high school. A new district collegiate to accommodate 430 pupils is to be built in Goderich. The growth of the province necessarily means new schools.

* * *

Certainly a new collegiate will cost the taxpayers money, and at a time when our city expenses are the highest that they have ever been. But to vote against the building of a new collegiate will not settle our problems, nor will it, as some people have suggested, teach the Board of Education a lesson. For it is not, in the end, the Board of Education which needs the new collegiate; it is the boys and girls of Peterborough who must have a high school where they can do the work which will fit them for life.

"Peace, as we know it is many years away in Korea", says a commentator. Well, even the way we know it could be improved.

Toronto In A Moral Sweat

Toronto annually goes into a high moral fever just before elections. The cry is now full. The mayor is talking about "the gutter press" of the city. A United Church preacher has charged that bars and taverns are centres of "moral debauchery". A United Church Council has taken up the cry and asked the city officials to use the $260,000 it gets from Provincial liquor sales profits to police the bars and beer parlours.

This annual agitation about its own morality is somewhat touching to outside centres listening-in. So many Torontonians seem to get conscience-stricken and to have nostalgic yearnings for the moral front of a quiet village clustered around a white-spired church. (Perhaps too many of them have been buying Christmas cards.) But Torontonians have to face it. They do not live in a quiet village. Theirs is a great big city with all the noise, confusion of purpose and lives, clash of interests and variety of entertainment, ethical outlooks and desires, of a million people. A big city has its quota of moral debauchery, whether it has bars or not. Even villages have debauchery, in keeping with their size.

We are not unduly worried about Toronto. These twinges of moral passion pass off, the noise dies down, and the city is shown to be not as bad as it was painted.

No Province Should Play Vishinsky

Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan, addressing the Canadian Club of Winnipeg last Monday came up with a vivid analogy. He was discussing the need for constitutional amendment in Canada, and said that no provinces should be allowed to frustrate the will of all other provinces in reforms or legislation for the general good of Canada. Individual provinces should not be allowed to "play Vishinsky", he said.

It is an apt transference from the council chambers of U.N. where Mr. Vishinsky's veto has so often blocked other nations' best intentions to make U.N. the vital force it was designed to be. At the recent constitutional conference it was agreed as a working basis that all provinces and the Federal parliament must unanimously consent to any amendment affecting minority rights. This is a sweeping clause. Minority groups have inalienable rights, but there is a limit to the extent of these "rights". They are no longer rights when they constrict the development of the country and the improvement of the society generally. As Mr. Douglas said, it would be a tragedy to allow Canada to get into such a state of rigidity that its social reform would be paralyzed by the veto of one province.

Making A Billion Dollars In Ten Years

The Unemployment Insurance Fund which began to take in money on July 1st, 1941, has collected, up to October 31st of this year, the stupendous total of $926,979,544—almost a billion dollars. This total is one indication of the high level of employment and productivity which Canada has had throughout those ten years.

This sum was created from the following contributions:

By employers and employees	$713,578,577
By Federal Government (one-fifth of that above)	142,720,260
Interest	70,616,059
Fines, etc.	64,647

All of the $926,979,544 is not sitting in the kitty waiting for bad times. Nearly a third has been disbursed in unemployment benefits: $301,221,072. There is left the large sum of $625,758,472.

The Fund seems very large, even to cushion the present big labour force insured under it. We question whether the present rates of payment by employers and employees need be maintained, and whether the several boosts in the wage levels below which insurance is compulsory have been necessary. An employee has to be earning $4,800 a year or more now to escape compulsory insurance. Will a person capable of earning $4,799 a year ever be pushed into unemployment, except by a depression so severe that even the biggest of Unemployment Relief funds could not help him?

NOTE AND COMMENT

A report on the sex life of the lobster says that the creature is mongamous. So are a lot of crabs.

Have you heard about the hunter who spent ten days in the woods and bagged nothing but his trousers?

The Boy Scouts have announced that their members will not hitch-hike in future, except in cases of emergency. A good example from a good source. A hitch-hiker who has no unusual need of a ride is a beggar.

A Hollywood survey says that women like a man with a moustache. In the presence of a woman with a moustache, however, men tend to become a little restless.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, on the hill at Ida: My inquiry two weeks ago about this church has got the ear of the present rector, the Reverend A. A. Chote, and of some of his Cavan parishioners. They have supplied interesting information.

The Church is older than any in Peterborough, by many years. It was founded in 1819. The Rev. Samuel Armour (after whom Armour Hill is named) was its rector from 1833 to 1953. He was the first Anglican clergyman in Peterborough, and first headmaster of the Government School, before he moved to Cavan. He is buried in the Ida church cemetery. It has had only four rectors in its first 100 years.

Its rectors have been: The Rev. Jos. Thompson, 1819-1833, a missionary from England. He died in 1844 and is buried in its (St. John's) cemetery. Next was the Rev. Samuel Armour (1833-1853), buried there in 1853. Next was the Venerable Archdeacon Thomas W. A. Allen who served 52 years (1853-1905) and is buried in its cemetery. Next came Canon W. C. Allen, assistant rector and after the Archdeacon, rector, (1883-1928)—a total of 45 years. Thereafter the changes have been more rapid: Archdeacon W. Simpson 1928-42; the Rev. A. E. Chevis 1942-45, when he died and was buried in St. John's cemetery; the Rev. C. M. MacLean (1945-49) now in the U.S.A.; and the Rev. A. A. Chote, incumbent since 1949.

St. John's, Ida, is one of the really ancient churches in Ontario. Nothing in Peterborough can hold a candle to it. My informants write:

"The first church was originally on the south-east corner of the present church property at the foot of the hill and was built in 1819. This original church was destroyed by fire in 1822. Then Rev. J. Thompson divided the church property for a cemetery and a church, and built the second church on a site which was about the middle of the present cemetery. This second church was struck by lightning and was destroyed by fire, in 1865.

"The present church was built in 1866. The story is told of one of the masons who assisted in building the church, standing on his head on one corner of the present church tower after it was completed. James Storie, a son of one of the Cavan Blazers on hearing this story went down to the church one moonlight night and repeated the same act. He was only 14 years of age. This Jas. Storie, afterwards founder of the Oshawa Gas Fittings, was always interested in this church and community. He later gave a generous donation to the building of the present Parish Hall of St. John's Church.

"The first death recorded in the cemetery records is that of Christopher Hagerman interred Aug. 16th 1819 (age 50 years). The second interment was James Murphy of Cavan on Oct. 14th., 1819. The first person interred in the new Cemetery was John Dowson aged 4 years, in 1822. The oldest head stone is that of Jane, wife of Thos. Staples who died in 1823."

SIR: How many Knights of the Round Table were there?

ANSWER: That is a tricky question. According to the Merlin version of the Arthurian legend King Leodegrance of Cameliard gave the round table, together with a hundred knights, to King Arthur as a wedding gift, upon his marriage to Guinevere, Leodegrance's daughter. But the table was made to seat 150.

DEAR ALPHA: When reading the accounts of the 93rd Battalion's history published in the Examiner at the time of the re-union November 11th, I noticed that the battalion never fought as a unit, but was disbanded in England. What Peterborough regiments have fought as regiments, and in what wars?

ANSWER: No Peterborough regiment has ever gone to battle: in the North Western Rebellion, in the Boer War, in the Great War, or in the last war, as far as I have been able to find out. The Peterborough Rangers, like the outfit from which it stemmed, the old 93rd, was recruited here, fiddled around Canada for several years (chiefly on the west coast) acted as a reinforcement depot for other regiments already overseas, and also as a holding unit for conscripts and the like. In the last year of the war it did go over to England, there to be disbanded like its predecessor, the 93rd.

Whether or not the military authorities at Ottawa do not trust a Peterborough regiment to be able to fight as a regiment, I do not know. But the fact stands, that, despite all the colonels and majors, old soldiers and patriotic talk of past glories, Peterborough has never in all its history been represented by its own unit on the field of battle.

This is rather surprising, in view of the military nature of the first settlement of this county. Or perhaps it is as a direct result. Originally, officers and men of the Wellington army, and British veterans of the 1812-14 war against the United States, were given grants of land here to ensure that the district would be patriotic and British. The process of grants was accelerated after the Irish immigration. The authorities then seemed to fear that this area could become a hotbed of disloyalty. It never did, of course.

Even to this day—or rather—up to the end of the last war—patriotic Peterborough has never had its own regiment allowed to win laurels for itself on foreign fields — on any battle-fields. Instead, it has had to find release for its patriotic impulses by feeding and comforting soldiers in training camps (like the one at the Exhibition grounds during the war), and by attempting to claim parts of other regiments—like the Glengarry Highlanders and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment—as their very own.

ALPHA: Which came first, the Prayer Book or the Bible?

ANSWER: I suppose you mean the versions in common church use. The Book of Common Prayer dates from 1549; the Authorized Version of the Bible 1611. Thus, for instance, the psalms read differently in the Prayer Book from the versions in the Bible.

FOR THE RECORD: Of special interest to many readers of this column who delight in local history, substantial and scandalous: Charter meeting of a re-formed Peterborough and District Historical Society is to be held the first Tuesday in December. An organizational meeting of interested persons was called by the Library Board last month. Out of it came a decision to revive the society which has been defunct for some forty years, and a committee was appointed to make arrangements for the first meeting. This committee, one of Alpha's spies tells him, met secretly last week in a subterranean chamber in one of our public buildings, and made plans for Tuesday, December 5th. Various pre-eminent and sub-eminent personages of the district (incl. P'borough) are being approached to fill the essential offices, and a list of accepted nominees will be presented to the meeting, which may add to the names.

People attending this meeting may become Charter Members and have their names recorded for posterity in the Blue Book.

Letters To The Editor

TAKE A TIP FROM KITCHENER

Sir: I would appreciate space in your valuable paper to ask a few questions which puzzles many of your readers including the writer.

1. Who are "The Powers That Be," in charge of the Civic Arena?

2. Why do they appear to believe that the patrons of hockey prefer to line up in the wind, snow, cold or rain for anything up to two hours to buy tickets? Then stand (if you are not lucky enough to get a seat) and freeze for another two hours while watching the game?

3. Do they not realize that at least many hundreds more would attend if these conditions were cleared up and the place were big enough! All seats are marked; let's sell all of them in advance and do away with the pre-game freeze-up and long standing, plus 1850 tactics! We are living in 1950 and should plan ahead, not back. Lakefield boasts a larger rink at less cost and one-tenth of our population, which brings to mind the Memorial Centre.

There are no pros and cons as to where the new Kitchener Memorial Centre is to be situated. It is about half built and on the outskirts of the city where parking problems are nil, and accommodating the public (who they know will get there or bust) is their chief concern.

Civic Arena, with all aforementioned handicaps, which are definitely not a drawing card, is a paying proposition. Why not build a Memorial Centre taking the same view as Kitchener where the facilities are adequate to the requirements of the people of Peterborough in the future as well as the present. Then our own talent will not have to leave our city to gain fame and fortune for themselves and some other city.

Yours truly,
K. P. WILLS.

WATERWORKS, POLIO AND LAKEFIELD

Sir: I don't live in Lakefield so I suppose I shouldn't butt into their voting business about putting in a waterworks, but I read the writer "Progressive Villager" in tonight's letters to the editor and wondered when he talked about seepage from the village's septic tanks.

Did that seepage have anything to do with the outbreak of polio in the village two years ago?

If septic seepage has anything to do with germinating polio I'd say they had better get in some waterworks, but quick.

Yours,
CONTENTED FLUSHER.

LAKEFIELD WATERWORKS AGAIN

Sir: May I presume on your courtesy again, to discuss further the Lakefield waterworks project?

It is argued that MANY industrial firms would locate in Lakefield if we had waterworks. I believe that about the first question asked in such cases is the amount of taxes payable and, sometimes, a request for exemption of taxes altogether, over a certain period of time. If taxes were doubled or almost doubled, as we fear would be the case, where would be the inducement for factories to locate here?

If the part of the village to be served will cost nearly half a million dollars at the end of twenty years ($495,342.00 and our total assessment doesn't reach the million mark); and with extra annual operating costs, which, I believe, good authority estimates at approximately $7,000.00, what in the name of all that's reasonable, would the servicing of the whole village cost? This, I understand, is promised at some future date.

If septic tanks are as detrimental to the health of the community, as some would have you believe, why is it that the Department of Health issues bulletins, giving instructions as to how they should be installed?

Believe it or not, we are all for progress, if it doesn't come at too high a price.

VOTE NO on November 30th and save your homes from being further mortgaged by more debentures!

Yours truly,
GRACE A. YONGE.

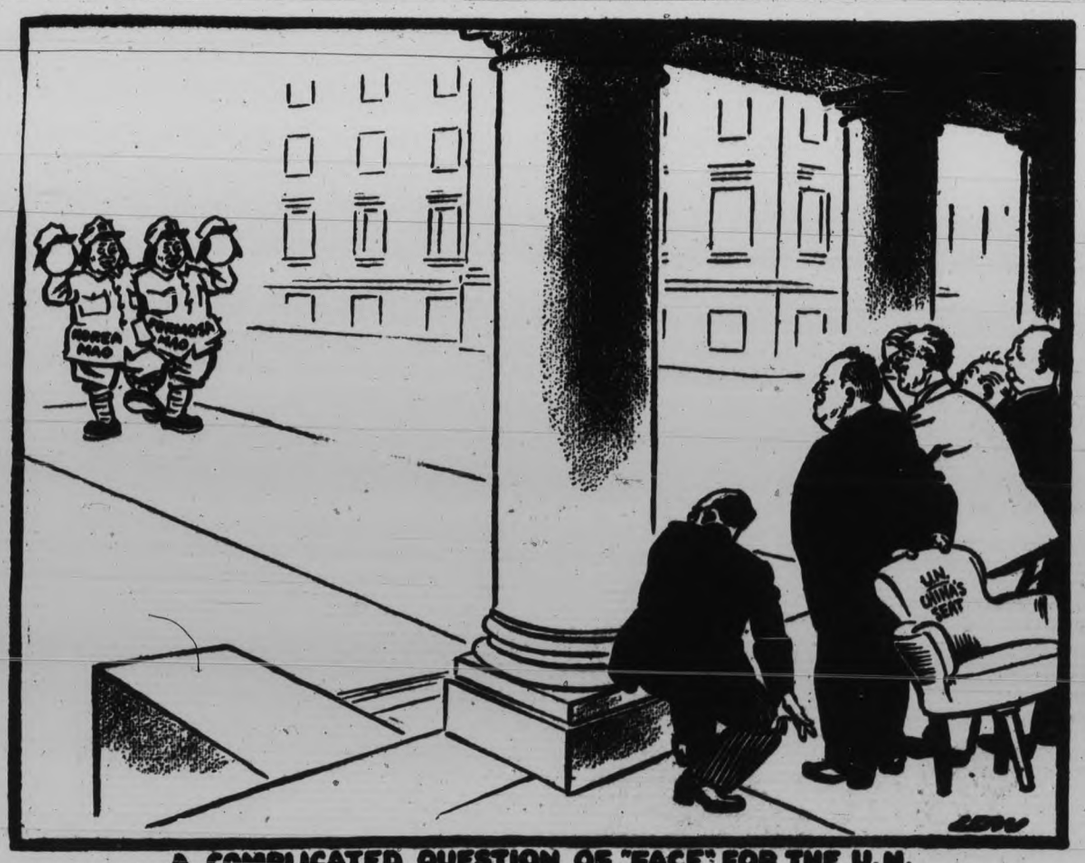
Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal, even as unto babes in Christ....For ye are yet carnal: for whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk as men? For while one saith, I am of Paul; and another, I am of Apollos; are ye not carnal?

Who then is Paul, and who is Appollos, but ministers by whom ye believed, even as the Lord gave to every man? I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase. So then neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth; but God that giveth the increase. (I Cor. 3: 1, 3-7.)



❖ ❖ ❖

But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged of you, or of man's judgement: yea, I judge not mine own self. For I know nothing by myself; yet am I not hereby justified: but he that judgeth me is the Lord.

Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who doth will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts: and then shall every man have praise of God. And these things, brethren, I have in a figure transferred to myself and to Apollos for your sakes; that ye might learn in us not to think of men above that which is written, that no one of you be puffed up for one against another. (I Cor. 4: 3-6.)

A COMPLICATED QUESTION OF "FACE" FOR THE U.N.

Across The Continent

Back To The Blue Pacific Nothing Ever Looked Better

By JACK SCOTT

Nothing in a full 15,000 miles has given us the same sense of elation as driving toward the Pacific with the knowledge that before the day was done we'd be camped beside "our" ocean.

In the history books they make a great thing of the thrill for those early explorers, Cortez and Balboa and company, when they topped the last rise, shaded their eyes, and sighted the sea for the first time. I'm prepared to argue that the thrill goes just as deep when you know what lies ahead. Then you have not merely the expectation of something beautiful, but of something missed. And rediscovery is always headier wine than discovery.

We left our desert camp outside Yuma, Arizona, early in the morning and drove first through the incredible Sand Hills, California's own, personal Sahara, where you keep an involuntary eye on the horizon expecting to sight a camel train or a robed shiek on a white Arabian.

Then we went across the wide, dry Imperial Valley into the little town of El Centro and this had a curious psychological effect on my wife and me.

A couple of years ago when we travelled down to Mexico, we'd passed through El Centro. The knowledge that we were back on a highway we'd traversed before gave us both the feeling of nearing home. Any recognized landmark — the chalk white town of Plaster City, for example—heightened this illusion. With some 1,800 miles to go we were talking as if we'd reached the outskirts of our town.

This sort of illusion is common when you travel fast and far. Time itself gets all twisted up. If we reminisce about adventures last summer in the Alberta foothills or talk about the long drive through northern Ontario it's as if we were recalling events of years ago.

Again, the drive down the eastern coast of the United States from Maine to Florida seemed a million miles because everything was strange to us. Yet we contemplate the same familiar distance from California to British Columbia as if it were no more than a pleasant Sunday drive.

I suppose it's a tedious moral, but it seems to me that anything in life is easy — once you've done it.

Going Up

At El Centro we faced a choice of routes. We could turn north and follow the Imperial Valley up past the Salton Sea, into Palm Springs and down to Los Angeles. Or we could tread on directly west over the mountains to San Diego and that little old blue ocean. We decided on the mountains.

It was a long and agonizing climb. In less than 10 miles the road rises from sea level to more than 4,000 feet and there's still more ahead before you reach the Tecate Divide Summit and start roller-coasting down to the Pacific.

This was the longest, steadiest pull of our whole trip, including the Canadian Rockies, and finally made up my mind to write a glowing testimonial to Mr. Ford. Towing our cumbersome beast with a car like this is like hitching a racehorse on a plow but it has never let us down.

The barrier between the Imperial Valley and the waiting sea shouldn't be dignified by the word "mountain." It is, more correctly, the biggest pile of boulders you are ever likely to see; as if all of the boulders in the world were raked up and left here in the world's back yard.

When you've seen enough of this craziness of nature you may then contemplate the craziness of people. All through these hills people have climbed up to precarious levels to paint their names or initials on these stones.

You see a boulder high over the road, looking as if a slight push would send its tons of weight trundling down the mountainside, and there, in neat white paint, the words: "John Fraser, Detroit, Mich."

What manner of man, you ask yourself, was this, to make that dangerous climb (carrying a pail of paint) simply to leave his mark?

I suppose there is some inner compulsion to make our small bid for immortality by leaving our imprint on the imperishable stone or, for that matter, the wall of a lavatory.

One other type, has roamed these hills with paint and brush. The highest, most dangerous looking boulders have the message "Jesus Saves." And you wonder about the strange evangelists, found the world over, who risk their foolish necks to paint over the most beautiful parts of God's own world.

Same As Ever

Is had begun to rain by the time we reached the summit and when we neared San Diego the California dew was lashing down in sheets. Our first view of the ocean was definitely anti-climatic, a grey, lifeless blob through the half circle left by the busy windshield swipes.

We turned off Highway 80 onto Highway 101, the coast route, and followed the shoreline as the day grew greyer and wetter. North of the beach of San Juan Capistrano a sign came up through the rain: "State Park — House Trailers Only." We turned in, found a place to set up house and went to bed with the rain drumming its nails on the aluminum roof. We were feeling a litle cheated.

Up at seven in the morning to a glorious day and there it was: Pacific Ocean as far as the eye could see and right at our sandy doorstep.

You can talk about your Atlantic and its awe-inspiring power but for an ocean to sit down beside and look out to a horizon and dream you can't beat our ocean. I can't imagine ever living away from it.

Indian Band Makes Peace With Canada

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Nov. 24 (CP)—The last small band of Indians to accept "treaty money" has sworn allegiance to the Crown.

The formal ceremony took place Tuesday on the Witchegan Reserve, 50 miles northwest of here. The Indians acknowledged for the first time the cession to the Crown —under an Indian treaty originally signed by the Crees in 1876 —of the whole of Northern Alberta and Saskatchewan.

And they received the same treaty gifts as their forefathers: $25 for newly-elected Chief Louis Thomas; $12 to each other man, woman and child who put his mark on the treaty document.

But more is in store. Then new houses were promised for the reservation, to replace the mud-and-log dwellings which the Indian families have used in past winters. They will also receive new educational and vocational benefits as treaty-signers.

Members of the small Witchegan band for nearly 75 years refused to accept benefits from the white man's government. They did not go to school. Missionaries visiting them were given a cool reception.

Even now, 30 of the 85 in the band refused to have anything to do with the Canadian government. They refuse family-allowance payments and treaty money.

Hall Of Fame For Football Likely Next Year

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A Canadian football Hall of Fame, a permanent shrine to honor the immortals of the gridiron and officials associated with its development, may become a reality in 1951.

Football officials, queried by The Canadian Press on their views about formation of such a memorial, generally favored the idea.

"It is a wonderful idea and it would be an honor and a tribute to the great players of the game and to the people who have fostered it through the years," Eric Cradock of Toronto, president of of the Interprovincial Union, said.

Will Recommend It

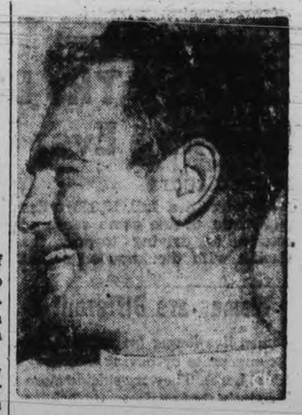
Cradock added he would recommend formation of the Hall of Fame to the Canadian Rugby Union board of governors at the CRU annual meeting next February.

"It's a good thing," CRU president Tom Alison of Toronto said. "I'm in favor of the idea. The Hall of Fame probably would be similar to that set up by hockey (at Kingston, Ont.) and baseball (at Cooperstown, N.Y.)."

Harold Bailey, veteran secretary of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, told CP it was a "great idea."

Jim McCaffrey, manager of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four, said he had never given the idea of a Hall of Fame much thought "but I believe it would be a good thing if it had the right guidance."

Hayman In Favor



"A grand idea," said Lew Hayman, coach of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four. "It is natural that the idea of a Hall of Fame would find wide acceptance and would do a great deal for sport."

McCaffrey and Hayman will attend the Ross Trimble memorial dinner at Toronto tonight and both said they would talk it over with other club officials. It is expected more than 700 officials and players from nearly every section of the country will attend the dinner.

Trimble, a former player and coach, died suddenly at his Toronto home last March.

Tourist traffic in Norway in 1950 included 346,247 foreign visitors, 40 per cent more than in 1949.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Our friendly enemies of the gridiron campaign, Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts, are in important action tomorrow aft at two in the lakeshore town. Playing Montreal Flyers a sudden-deather for the Dominion intermediate "A" football title. The west doesn't challenge, so this is for it all. We don't mind tossing in a plug for the Ghosts as they're worthy warriors of the grid, and have been for some years. Much of this credit is due to chaps like Fred Dufton, Bus Edwards, Bob Lucas and some more. Not forgetting Scotty Black. Yes, playing coach Bob Cooper has a fine team and we hope the game draws well, and that the Ghosts take the title.

* * * * * * *

Many will wend their ways to Toronto on the morrow for the East-West final, the Grey Cup classic, between Winnipeg Bombers and Toronto Argos. Not having seen either squad in action this year, we won't attempt to guess the winner. The Grey Cup playoff has become the biggest sports attraction in Canada in recent years. Like the Rose Bowl game in the United States. It receives scads of free publicity across the country in the papers, and it's too bad Varsity Stadium holds only a little more than 27,000 fans. Many more want to see it, but they'll have to take the game over the radio. That's what we'll be doing.

Juniors Burn It Up

Lindsay Kinsmen tackle the local Oddfellows in an OHA junior "B" joust at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena. A hefty Friday night puck crowd should be on deck to see these husky young rivals roar into each other. They don't go out there just for the skate in group matches—no, sir, they tear right into each other at a hot clip and keep it up to the finish. They're young enough and ambitious enough to burn up far more energy than senior hockeyists do during a 60-minute game. More power to 'em. Wish we had the hustle and the disdain for conserving energy we had when that age.

* * * * * * *

While the Petes are idle this eve, the Eagles have a senior "B" game down in Bella Villa. Eagles are atop the heap at the moment with six wins and a tie in seven starts, while Petes are next with five victories and a tie in eight games. Nylons are coming up fast with three and four, while Belleville is just a step ahead of the cellar-place Queen's. The Gananoque crew, which plays a single interlocking schedule in this group, hasn't seen action yet, due to no ice. We still like Queen's, despite their poor showing to date, and figure they'll be tough onions ere the schedule ends. But they'll all have to be plenty tough to take either of the local outfits. It's junior hockey again here Monday.

PMHA-ers In Action

Results of four Peterborough Minor Hockey Association games have been received and unofficial word of another one, a one-sided win for the midget Marines over Trojans. Clapper's juves won 6-2 over Trojans, Oddfellows downed Lakefield juveniles 3-0, Martin-Hewitt midgets pulled out a 4-3 verdict over St. Peter's, and Empress bantams nudged St. Peter's 2-1. Dave Kerr is sponsoring the Empress bunch, run by Al Watkins. We're told by Arn Olmstead that an extension on signing certificates has been made to Dec. 1 and that 18 players may be signed with 25 dressed, including a spare goalie. OMHA juves may play in the OHA until Dec. 15, and body checking in the centre zone is permitted by juveniles and midgets.

Girl softballers wound up their season at a fine dinner last p.m. in the Legion, 70 players and about 20 guests being on deck. Prexy Bill Flint presided over the enjoyable affair and a number of congraulatory speeches were made ere they broke it up for dancing. R. S. Cotton presented his senior trophy to Westclox, J. H. Vernor did the honors with the intermediate Knox Trophy to Ashby's, and Harry Baptie did likewise with the junior Quaker Cup to Dominion Woollens. Mrs. Ashby presented the most valuable player award, the Ross Trophy, to Marg Hawthorne of Westclox, long a top star in this circuit. The girls look for a better season in '51.

Decide If Ottawa To Get Pro Ball

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 24 (CP).—A meeting of the Border Baseball League's directors on Sunday will decide whether the Jersey City Giants of the International League can locate in Ottawa.

The Ottawa Nationals club wants to transfer its border league franchise to Cornwall, Ont., so the Giants can come in to the capital.

John G. Ward, president of the league, said T. P. Gorman, head of the Ottawa team, had made application to him asking the transfer be allowed. The president of the Class C league said the matter would have to be decided by the directors of Border League, who are the club owners.

The Border League directors will also discuss the amount they will ask the Jersey City club for the Ottawa territory which they control.

Arrangements will also be made for directors to inspect the playing field and other facilities at Cornwall.

Ottawa was the largest city in the Border League and also drew the largest attendance last year—going well over the 100,000 mark.

Girls' Cups Presented At Softball Loop "Do"

Trophies were presented last night at the annual wind-up banquet of the Girls' Softball League with nearly 100 players and guests in attendance at the Legion Hall. R. S. Cotton presented his senior cup to Westclox, J. H. Vernor gave the intermediate (Knox) trophy to Ashby's, and Harry Baptie presented the Quaker Trophy to the junior Woollens. The Ross Trophy for the most valuable player was presented to Marg. Hawthorne of Westclox by Mrs. Ashby.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Legion served a fine turkey dinner to the large representation. President Bill Flint expressed appreciation to all who had helped him through the season, one in which inclement weather kept down attendance and gate receipts. Those making the presentations spoke in congratulatory vein, and were thanked by those receiving the cups, Marg. Hawthorne, Joan Reynolds and Carol Ferguson. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing.

Here And There In Sports . . .

Detroit Red Wings Thursday night suspended forward Steve Black in the first such disciplinary action in the history of the National Hockey League club.

Manager Jack Adams, announcing the action just before the Detroit-Toronto game, said Black was sent down to their Indianapolis farm club two weeks ago. At the end of two weeks he left Indianapolis without permission and returned to Detroit.

At a subsequent conference with Black, Adams asked the 23-year-old forward to return to Indianapolis for one more week but he refused.

Black was not available for comment.

There's another Canadian championship football game Saturday. In Cobourg, 70 miles east of the scene of the Grey Cup struggle, the Cobourg Galloping Ghosts will be playing Montreal Flyers for the Dominion Intermediate championship.

The Ghosts, Ontario Union champions, will be trying for their third Dominion title in five years. It's the first try at the title for the Flyers, Quebec Union champions, but the Quebec league won the crown last season when HMCS Donnacona upset Dundas.

Two universities—one in India and the other in Pakistan—are to be helped financially by the Canadian football championship game in Toronto Saturday.

The all Varsity Aid Committee of the University of Toronto announced today that the University of Sindh in Karachi and the University of Jamia Millia Islamia in Delhi have been chosen because of damages suffered in rioting which followed separation of India and Pakistan.

A thousand motorists may provide the nucleus for a fund which the students hope eventually will reach $10,000. The committee has lined up parking space for 1,000 cars and will charge 50 cents a car.

Hockey's Big Seven

Bentley's 19 assists and six goals for 25 points puts him five points ahead of his nearest rival, team-mate Ted Kennedy, who went scoreless last night as Maple Leafs downed Detroit Red Wings 2-1. Kennedy has six goals and 14 assists for 20 points.

Leafs Out-Belt Wings 2-1 Battle Features 2 Fights

By The Canadian Press.

Only last spring, the members of two top teams in professional hockey suddenly lost interest in scoring goals and concentrated on trying to belt each other out of the rink. The president of the league had to read the riot act to avert a massacre.

Last night the same two teams staged a repeat performance. Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs, again the power teams in the National Hockey League, staged one of the longest and rowdiest battles in the memory of habitues of Detroit's Olympia. The Leafs won the game 2-1, but few of the gladiators seemed to be interested in the score.

Leafs widened their lead to five points over the second-place Wings, while Chicago Black Hawks moved into a third-place tie with the idle Montreal Canadiens by whipping the last-place Boston Bruins 4-1.

Detroit's biggest crowd of the year—13,873 fans—saw the Red Wing streaks snapped by the defeat. It was their first loss in 11 starts and their first setback of the season on home ice.

Sink Two

Toronto took a two-goal lead in the first 15 minutes of a quiet first period, in which only three penalties were imposed. Cal Gardner sank an angle shot at the 5:07 mark with Harry Watson and Gus Mortson getting assists. Then Joe Klukay scored a soft one on a 20-foot shot from dead centre.

From there on, the action grew rougher. Seven men paraded to the penalty box in the second period and 14 more in the third—six with majors.

Kennedy In First

The trouble started with a couple of embryo battles, the first between rival centres Metro Prystai of Detroit and Ted Kennedy of Toronto, the second featuring Detroit's Ted Lindsay and Toronto's Gus Mortson.

Then Detroit centre George Gee and Toronto defenceman Bill Barilko squared off and touched off a 10-minute brawl that involved everyone on the ice except the goalkeepers. Each drew a major for fighting, with Barilko getting an additional minor for high-sticking. Two other participants, Leafs' Bill Juzda and Wings' Bob Goldham, also went off for five minutes.

Three more minors crowded seven men into the penalty box.

Sawchuk Takes Part

Then a second outbreak late in the period even involved Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk. Lindsay and Leafs' Howie Meeker were given majors and the fiery Detroit winger drew an additional minor.

George Gee scored the lone Detroit goal with less than two minutes to play to deprive Al Rollins of a shutout in the Toronto nets.

The Black Hawks snapped a four-game losing streak at the expense of the hapless Bruins. Bep Guidolin tallied twice for the winners with Roy and Jim Conacher getting a goal apiece. Defenceman Bill Quackenbush was the lone Boston marksman.

Canadian Living Changes Mennonites

GRETNA, Man., Nov. 24 (CP).—Life in Canada is bringing changes in the ancient Mennonite traditions.

Since the religious sect established Manitoba settlements more than a half century ago, its leaders have fought a losing battle to keep sect members from adopting modern ways.

Now the use of German is being reduced in Gretna's Mennonite Sunday school.

An English language Sunday school paper has been introduced because many children can't read German. However, lessons are still taught mostly in German.

Eastern All-Star Gridiron Selections Show Big Four Supremacy

TORONTO, Nov. 24 (CP)—The supremacy of the Interprovincial Football Union in Eastern Canada, reflected in Grey Cup playoffs and exhibition games for more than a decade, was emphatically shown in the 1950 all-eastern team.

In an unprecedented vote of writers and coaches in senior football cities, the Canadian Press poll for Eastern Canada honors turned out to be an exact duplicate of the Big Four All-Stars. Five players from the Ontario Rugby Football Union and one from intercollegiate ranks made the second squad.

11 Imports

In addition to the 11 United States imports named to the first team, five were selected on the second. One—Jack Carpenter of Hamilton Tiger-Cats—tied with home-brew Fred Black of Toronto Argonauts for an inside berth.

Ballots were weighted to give equal voting power to each football city. First and second-team choices counting on a 3-1 basis.

Argonauts, who made only two first-string places despite their Eastern Canada title, took three more on the alternate team. Three more second-stringers were members of Toronto Balmy Beach, the Argo farm club that won the ORFU championship.

Here are the choices:

First team—Flying wing, Rod Pantages, Alouettes. Halves, Bill Gregus, Tiger-Cats; Ulysses Curtis, Argos; Edgar Jones, Tiger-Cats. Quarter, Frank Filchock, Alouettes. Snap, Ed (Buckets) Hirsch, Argos. Insides, Ray Cicia, Alouettes; Vince Scott, Tiger-Cats. Middles, Herb Trawick, Alouettes; Ralph Sazio, Tiger-Cats. Outsides, Vince Mazza, Tiger-Cats; Bill Stanton, Rough Riders.

Second team—Flying Wing, Johnny Chorostecki, Sarnia. Halves, Carl Galbreath, Balmy Beach; Virgil Wagner, Alouettes; Bob McFarlane Western. Quarter, Al Dekdebrun, Argos. Snap, Dwight Follin, Balmy Beach. Insides, Bruce Mattingley, Sarnia; Jack Carpenter, Tiger-Cats, and Fred Black, Argos (tied). Middles, Oatten Fisher, Balmy Beach; John Kerns, Argos. Outsides, Ralph Toohy, Alouettes; Keith Fisher, Sarnia.

Three members of the first team are repeaters—Filchock, Scott and Trawick. It was Trawick's fifth year in a row and Filchock's third. The other nine are all newcomers to Eastern Canada football this season.

Mazza and Cicia came closest to unanimous selection, drawing 15 of a possible 16 first-place ballots. Filchock barely edged out Argos' Dekdebrun, drawing eight first-place choices to seven for the Toronto quarterback.

Sweden's Hydro Has Highest Voltage In The World

A. E. Davidson, Engineering Consultant for the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario was the speaker at the Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Ontario meeting Thursday night at the Public Library.

The topic of Mr. Davidson's address was electric power generation and distribution in Sweden.

The speaker was a guest of the Swedish States Power Board in June of this year. During his stay he visited many of Sweden's new hydro-electric and steam generating plants.

"Swedish engineers are today in the forefront of hydro-electric and engineering developments," stated the speaker.

stated the speaker. "Sweden has the highest transmission voltage in the world. While we were in the country we inspected the new and pioneering 380,000 volt line which the State Power Board was completing during this summer. The highest voltage fully designed and being constructed elsewhere is 287,000 volts."

Underground Plants

Mr. Davidson explained many other interesting features of this field in which the Swedish Board have pioneered. Among these are the hydro electric stations and transformation plant which are built wholly underground for economic and defense reasons.

Sweden, like Canada, is developed 50 per cent hydro electrically. However, in Sweden 50 per cent. of the hydro developed is owned by the government and 50 per cent. owned privately. The privately owned developments are geographically near points of use, whereas the government owns those developments that are farther away from points of use.

Mr. Davidson explained that the visitors were quite amazed at the conveniences and efficiency in the developments in the northern part of the country. "The operators at these places showed great interest in their work," stated the speaker.

Mr. Davidson was introduced by Ross Dobbin, manager of the Public Utilities, and thanked by Duncan Bath.

At the meeting the nomination slate for the 1951 executive was drawn up. The executive will be elected by letter ballots which will be sent out on December 10. The new executive will take office on January 31.

The following names are on the nomination slate: R. T. Bogle, A. J. Bonney, C. B. Muir, J. L. McKeever, M. M. Vloth, G. T. Davis, D. A. Drynan, G. S. Wade, J. P. Watts, B. Ottewell, D. T. Bath.

Couple Destroyed 5 Licences Obtain Sixth To Get Married

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—Marriage was again at least a legal possibility today for Baltimore's most-licensed engaged couple.

Six times in the last 11 weeks Sylvan L. Carter, 22, and Violet J. Bull, 18, have obtained marriage licences. They destroyed five of them.

"She'd get mad, then I'd get mad," Carter recounted.

Licence No. 6 proved harder to get than the others. They'd used up all the allowable duplicates, the clerk told Carter when he applied yesterday.

But Carter insisted that he and his young bride-to-be could not wait the necessary 48 hours for a second original licence.

He went to the mayor's office, was sent to the governor's office, to the attorney-general's office then back for a consultation with Frank C. Robey, court clerk.

Robey said he told the youth:

"I'm going to issue the duplicate. But you should see the pastor of your church, and talk it all over, so you and the girl can live together happily hereafter."

Violet's mother reported last night that Carter had picked up his fiancee and he had said they were going to get married.

"I didn't take much stock in it," Mrs. Bull said.

They have not been seen in their usual haunts since, however.

No Sunday Sports Vote

St. Catharines city council has decided by a division of 6 to 4 not to submit a Sunday sports by-law to the voters at the municipal elections. They will vote on Jan. 1 in that town.

ON THE OUTSIDE — Mamoru Shigemitsu, right, is helped by his son, Atsushi, as he is parolled from Sugamo Prison, Tokyo, Japan. Shigemitsu was Japan's wartime foreign minister and signed the surrender aboard the USS Missouri. His release, after conviction as a Class "A" war criminal, had been protested by Russia.

6 Arrests Made After Robbery

TORONTO, Nov. 24 (CP)—Four men and two women were arrested last night following the armed robbery of a downtown cigar store operated by Michael Mandell.

Mandell told police two men entered the premises, hit him over the head when he refused to give up his money, and made off with $170. One of the men was armed.

Later police raided a rooming house and arrested Gerald Leonard, 21, of Sudbury John Fox, 21, Kenneth Coughlin, 23, Oand Douglas Thibeault, 21. The two women were arrested when found in the same place.

Fox was charged with escaping from Guelph Reformatory last August, armed robbery, wounding with intent to maim, and having an offensive weapon. Leonard was charged with armed robbery, wounding and having an offensive weapon.

The four others were charged with having offensive weapons.

Appropriate Gift

OSLO—(CP)—An exhibition of consumer goods made available through aid of the Marshall Plan was atended by cabinet ministers. Trade Minister Erik Brofoss stated the exhibit would enable the average citizen to appreciate Marshall Plan aid which in two years reached $375,000,000.

Teen-up Club Meets

WARSAW, Nov. 24 —(ENS)— The Teen-Up club met in the basement of the United Church. The meeting was opened by singing a hymn and Eleanor Edwards read the scripture followed by a prayer by Barbara Dennis.

Earl Elments gave the devotional Topic. The business part of the meeting was conducted by the president Miss Jean Payne. The next regular meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 29, instead of Tuesday.

Russia Interferes In Austria's Government

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).—Britain, France and the United States protested again today against alleged Russian interference with the Austrian government's control over its own police in the Soviet zone.

The new protest charged that the Russians have prevented Austrian authorities from maintaining law and order and demanded that Moscow order its representatives in Vienna "to conform strictly" to four-power agreements which would prevent such interference.

The American note, released by the State Department here simultaneously with British and French announcements abroad, implied there is a danger of the breakdown in four-power operations in Austria. It urged the Russians to take action to avoid "a serious deterioration of functioning of the quadripartite machinery in Austria."

An earlier protest, made November 10, evidently has been ignored by Moscow. The latest American action was taken with the handing of a note to the acting Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, by American Ambassador Alan Kirk yesterday.

Which Is Easier To Understand Woman Or Atom

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (CP)—Dear Boss: Youre a tough guy, Boss, wanting an explanation of this latest declassification of atomic information in terms the layman can understand. Naive, too.

Don't you know, Boss, that the layman has been getting mentally cross-eyed for five years trying to get down to friendly terms with the atom. It's like trying to understand women.

Well, this new announcement of declassification of dope about how to build low-power research reactors isn't going to make it any easier for him. But, like you suggested, Boss, we called an atomic expert and threw some of his own sentences back at him and asked him to come clean, to make it plain and simple.

Try This

We picked up the announcement and read these paragraphs at him:

"Certain data on the nuclear properties of uranium having significance in the design and operation of a research reactor will be released. Of more general interest is the fact that the low-energy thermal neutrons are captured in appreciable quantities by U235 without causing fission. It would be inferred from earlier studies of fission that almost all neutrons captured by the fissionable U235 would result in fission.

"However, a significant fraction of all thermal neutrons colliding with U235 are captured to form U236. Engineers designing uranium reactors must keep this fact in mind since these captured neutrons are not available to continue the chain reaction."

Simple

"Well," said the atomic expert, "this is about highly technical information largely of use for advanced courses in reactor physics. We've tried to explain it as simply and broadly as possible."

That nearly did it, boss, but we lured that expert into deeper ground and tied ourselves into atomic knots and this is the way he said it is:

Thermal neutrons are slow research neutrons as contrasted to fast neutrons used in the bomb. They are the nuclear bullets used to split the atom, that is to cause fission by exploding the nucleus of an atom of uranium 235 in two.

In this energy-releasing process of splitting or fission, more neutrons are turned loose and they in turn attack more atoms of U235 and split them. This is the chain reaction. It takes place inside a reactor.

Now, before this it was assumed that all those neutrons turned loose went right to work and split more atoms. Now the scientists know they don't. Some turn U235 into U236 which isn't any good in the atomic process. So they're lost.

The expert says they're not greatly worried because while this is going on some of the atoms of another form of uranium, U238, are getting mixed up with some of the neutrons and that produces plutonium and plutonium is just as good as the original U235 for fission.

He says they just figured anyone interested in how a reactor works ought to know from that this is so and that the scientific details will soon be published.

After this explanation, boss, we know you can hardly wait.

Unromantic Work

BROUGHTON, England, Nov. 24 (Reuters).—Shirtmaker L. Stodhart says modern girls think shirtmaking is unromantic.

That, he said, is why he can't get the 200 girls he needs to work in his factory here.

"Girls don't think much of shirt-tails," he explained glumly. "If they take up sewing for a living, they want to handle luxury materials."

Millbrook News

Among those from the Millbrook district who attended the Junior Farmers' banquet and dance in Newcastle Wednesday evening were: Arnold Breckenridge of the Dominion championship grain judging team for Junior Farmers at the Royal Winter Fair; Henrietta Wood, Margaret Aiken, Irene Frick, Melbourne, Earl and Ross Morton, Edwin and John Thorn, Mac Ingham and Bob Thompson.

The annual supper and Christmas tree for St. Andrew's United Church Sunday school will be held in the school room on December 15th at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Wilfred Fallis has been appointed convener of the committee in charge of the supper, and Rev. T. G. Husser and Mr. W. Elson, conveners for the program.

Chicken Not Enough

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuters)—Abraham Stanley gave one reason for wanting to divorce his wife:

"I like roast chicken but my wife gives me only cold boiled chicken."

An indignant judge yesterday refused Stanley's force petition.

"I have never known a case which was so weak," snapped the judge. "To seriously put forward this matter (of roast chicken) seems utterly ridiculous to me."

Unemployment Insurance Payments Better 301 Millions Since 1941 Superintendent Sullivan Tells Members Of Kiwanis Club

Payments in unemployment insurance in Canada amouted to $301,221,072.15 from its beginning in 1941 to October 31 this year, Bart G. Sullivan told the Kiwanis Club Thursday. Mr. Sullivan is Ontario regional superintendent of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Contributions since its start in 1941 totalled $926,979,544.33 at the end of October and the balance in the fund was $625,758,472.18. Employers and employees contributions since 1941 were $713,578,577.90 and the government's portion $142,720,260.22. Interest and refunds increased the total by $70,616,059.12 while fines amounted to $64,647.04 to also swell the fund.

Fewer Claims Paid

Benefit payments in the Peterborough district (counties of Peterborough and Haliburton, parts of Durham, Victoria and Northumberland counties) to the end of October this year were $452,187.87 as compared with $417,686.75 for the same period in 1949. The number of claim payments decreased this year to 30,276 from 32,227 in 1949. The average payment this year increased to $14.94 from $12.96.

The number of claims this year received up to the end of October also decreased. Initial claims numbered 3,744, renewal claims 1,316, for a total of 5,060 as compared with 3,768 initial claims, 1,385 renewal claims, for a total of 5,153 last year.

Older Workers a Problem

One of the greatest problems now facing the commission is the placement of the older workers, said Mr. Sullivan. Through a change from rural to urban living the problem has gradually increased. Mr. Sullivan illustrated that an elderly man on the farm can always find chores to keep him occupied, but with the present movement towards urban areas there is no place for him.

Mr. Sullivan said that most companies will not take on a new man over 45 years. Sometimes the figure drops as low as 35 years. This worker then has nothing to do but become a burden on the family. He himself becomes dis-satisfied and disgruntled. He often presents a severe domestic problem, said Mr. Sullivan.

This past summer President Truman called a conference to study the problem and Canada was asked to send representatives. Several states in the United States are trying to meet the problem by passing legislation making it unlawful to set an age for the worker. Mr. Sullivan said he did not believe the problem could be met by law, but only by an awakening of the public.

Through graphs Mr. Sullivan illustrated this problem in Ontario's potential labor force. Since 1911 the group in the labor force between the ages of 15 and 44 years has been gradually decreasing. In 1911 it was at its peak, 69 percent of the force but slumped to 65 percent in 1931 and 62 percent in 1941. Next year this group is estimated at 60 percent. By 1961 it will decrease to 57 percent and by 1971 to 53 percent.

The group 45 pears to 64 years is increasing. In 1911 the middle-aged part of the labor force was 23 percent. Next year Mr. Sullivan pointed out this figure will rise to 28 percent, then in 1961 to 30 percent and in 1971 to 32 percent.

The last part of the potential force is the workers 65 years and over. In 1911 they were only eight percent but have gradually increased until they will be 12 percent next year, 13 percent in 1961 and 15 percent in 1971.

Appeals to Employers

Mr. Sullivan appealed to the employers for co-operation. He asked them after engaging a worker to obtain the insurance book as soon as he is employed. If there is no book, he said, a check should be made with the National Employment office.

Mr. Sullivan also asked the employers who need workers to register their requirements at the local NES office. He explained that openings or vacancies help to determine the willingness to work of an applicant for insurance funds. Also, he explained, the office will do its best to find the proper man to fill the position.

William Mellis, manager of the local NES office, introduced Mr. Sullivan who was thanked by Blaine Till.

Coast Surveys Emergency Needs

VICTORIA —(CP)— British Columbia's civil defence committee soon will have available the result of a survey on resources considered necessary in either civil or military emergency.

Capt. R. A. Pennington, deputy provincial secretary and committee chairman, directed the survey.

It will list equipment available for use in clearing and rescue operations; forestry department fire fighting equipment; schools available for emergency hospitals or shelters and camps located some distance from "possible target areas."

Fisheries Department is tabulating the fleets of fishing boats and other small craft which might be called into play should an evacuation from Vancouver Island be necessary. It is assumed in such a farfetched case that other larger vessels would be busy elsewhere.

The Health Department would have ready its health units to form a mobile organization for any trouble spot.

Civil defence is a matter for local authorities but the province would act as co-ordinator and aid in any disaster area.

Gave Running Chance Shot At Wife Kisser

BRANTFORD, Nov. 24—(CP)—Wallace Williams, 30, said Thursday he gave James Williams, 50 —no relation—"a running chance" of 100 yards before he fired at him with a gun. Convicted of shooting with intent to commit grievous bodily harm, Wallace Williams was given a suspended sentence. Police said the charge was a sequel to a bay rum drinking spree on the Six Nations Indian Reserve. An argument started after James Williams tried to kiss Mrs. Wallace Williams.

Mrs. Thomas Cardwell, delegate to the Central Area Women's Institute Convention held in Toronto gave a very interesting report.

Mrs. Wilbert Graham reported that a "Farm Forum" had been organized at her home and four meetings had been well attended.

The president announced that the highlight of the December meeting would be an exchange of Christmas gifts, an auction sale and a pot luck dinner at noon.

Mrs. H. Pacey, Mrs. J. Thompson and Mrs. W. Wood were hostesses for the meeting and served tea and lunch.

Korea Bastion Of Democracy Says YM Expert

Korea is democracy's most important bastion, George A. Fitch, a veteran of 37 years with the YMCA in China and Korea, told members of the Y's Men's Club Thursday night.

More than money aid, religion was needed in the Far East, he said. At present, Christianity in Korea wields a far greater force than would be imagined from the number of Christians in the country — three per cent of the population.

As an example of the strength of a Korean's Christianity, Mr. Fitch told of a native Presbyterian minister who had two sons who were killed in a Communist revolt among South Koreanu troops in 1949.

The father interceded for the killer—who had been a classmate of the elder son—and saved him just as he faced the firing squad. The father's intention was to convert to Christianity the boy who killed his sons.

Hardy People

Of the Koreans, he said they were a hardy, generous, and hospitable people—hospitable even to the point of improvidence and generous to a fault. Their contributions to their churches and other institutes were large for their small incomes.

Mr. Fitch's service with the Y in China and the east began in 1909, and he acted as general secretary in most of the Chinese provinces. In 1946, he worked for one year with UNRRA, fighting famine inn the Yellow River area.

June, 1947, found him in Korea, re-organizing the YMCA's services there. He has been decorated three times by the Chinese government.

"QUALITY STREET" by Sir James Barrie attracted a full house at the Collegiate auditorium on the first of two presentations Thursday night by PCVS Senior Dramatic Club. First Sea Scout Training Course Set For Lakefield

A meeting of the provincial council on Sea Scouting was held on Thursday evening at the home of Commissioner W. H. J. Tisdale at Bronte, Ont. Fourteen representatives from Ontario, including Sea Scout Master Kenneth Jakins of Lakefield Troop, heard of plans for the improvement of calibre, supervision and leadership by means of stepping up streamlined courses in this branch of youth work.

Chief Executive Commissioner for Canada, Major-General D. C. Spry of National Headquarters, Ottawa and Chief Provincial Commissioner Frank Irwin of Toronto headed the panel.

The most interesting part of the discussion was the decision to hold the first Sea Scout training course next August at Lakefield. Representatives from all the provinces will attend and it was the guess of "Skipper" Jakins that the recent acquisition of two lease-lend islands and pending "deal" of the Trent Canal building on the Lakefield Wharf may have been one of the attractions for the Kawartha meeting spot.

"Of course, our natural waterways are the main reason for choosing Lakefield," said Jakins modestly.

A prominent yachtsman, also a member of the panel group, saw no reason why international sailing races could not be held in the Kawartha lakes at the same time.

PCVS Dramatists Present J. M. Barrie's 'Quality Street'

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

Since Maude Adams delighted the English-speaking world with it in 1902, J. M. Barrie's "Quality Street" has maintained a high degree of popularity. It is a rarity in the world of drama—a sentimental comedy which is also consciously and intentionally artificial in manner. It makes heavy demands not only on the credulity, but on the attention of the audience, for the dialogue is polished and subtle. And of course it makes much heavier demands on the actors, for this kind of comedy is of gossamer quality, and the lightest possible touch is needed to bring it off successfully. It says much for the actors and directors of the P.C.V.S. Senior Dramatic Club that they achieved a performance which, if it missed the heights, maintained a consistent high level. As Gary Stevenson said in a curtain speech at the Thursday night performance it had opened the world of Barrie to the cast and to much of the audience, and that is in itself a great thing.

Let us not single out a few of the actors for special praise. This was plainly a co-operative venture, in which everybody gave his best in whatever part was alloted to him. Who is to say that some contributions were more meritorious than others? How much of the charm of Act 3, for instance, was owing to the actors; and how much to the ingenious and pretty stage setting? Everyone on stage did well; there were no weak spots in the casting. Everyone off stage did well, too, as was plain from the smooth running of the performance, which set an excellent example by starting sharp on time, and keeping its intervals to the stated length.

The presentation of the play was uncommonly good. Both stage settings were admirable, and the lighting, within the limits of the equipment at hand, was managed with skill. The costumes were charming, though it must be said that the girls appeared to greater advantage than the boys. What the Duke of Wellington would have said if he had encountered an officer of his at a ball, with his socks hanging about his ankles, staggers the imagination.

The play was directed by Mr. R. L. Hale and Miss Margaret White, and the actors acknowledged their debt to these staff members most graciously.

The cast was as follws:

Miss Susan Throssel, Paulin Rusaw; Miss Willoughby, Faye Schwartz; Miss Fanny Willoughby, Laurene Keeting; Miss Henrietta Turnbull, Eleanor McBrien; Miss Phoebe Throssel, Patsy Johnston; Patty, Diane Cullen; Recruiting Sergeant, Jack King; Valentine Brown, Gary Stevenson; Master Arthur Wellesley Thomson, David Andrus; Isabella, Wyn Whyte; William Smith, Dennis Hale; Other School Children, Rosalind Stevenson, Carol Fausett, Eleanor Biddle, Dvane Dillman, David Parry; Miss Charlotte Parratt, Pauline Zacks; Ensign Blades, Doug Hancock; Old Soldier, Vyrtle Sisson; Harriet, Gail Craig; Lieut. Spicer, Don Allen; Dancers at the ball, Shirley Peryer, Ayis Buchanan, Jane McIntyre, Bill Carruthers, David Mitchell, Malcolm Chambers.

The children in the charming school scene were members of the Junior Dramatic Club—the stars of the PCVS plays of 1952-54.

In the interval between Acts 2 and 3, an admirable Student Night interlude was presented, in which PCVS fashions from the 'nineties until today were exhibited. This was done with great address and humour, and delighted the audience. It was, we may say, the best Student Night entertainment we have seen in eight years of attendance at the PCVS senior play.

OshawanCrashes Injures Head

Rennie Oulette, 26, of Oshawa, was taken to hospital here Thursday when the car he was driving went out of control and crashed through a guard rail on Armour Rd.

Today, officials at St. Joseph's Hospital said he had just regained consciousness and was suffering from undetermined head injuries and possible concussion.

Through Guard Rail

Police say Oulette was driving south on Armour Rd. when the car went out of control, broke through a guard rail and plunged down an embankment into the east ditch. The accident occurred just north of Highway 7.

Lou Cubbidge, R.R. 6, Peterborough, told police he was driv-in about 300 yards behind Oulette and didn't notice anything wrong until the car veered across the road.

He helped Oulette out of the car, and the Oshawa man lost consciousness as he was aided up the embankment. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. PC W. G. Scott investigated.

William Grant Acclaimed Lakefield Reeve

Reeve William C. Grant of Lakefield on Thursday night was returned by acclamation to his sixth term of office as reeve. A small crowd of 31—nine less than last year—turned out for the nomination meeting in the town hall.

Early today it seemed unlikely that there would be a contest for any of the municipal offices; but on November 30 the money bylaw for debentures of $352,000—covering the cost of the village's waterworks, sewers and sewage disposal system—must be put to the ratepayers for approval.

Nominees have until 9 p.m. today to qualify.

Only Four Nominated

All four of last year's councillors were renominated, but by noon today only J. L. Fraser had qualified. Ken Jakins, however, had previously declared his willingness to stand. Arthur Kingdon and Kenneth Morris have both indicated they would like to step down this year, but it is believed they will qualify by deadline tonight. There were no others nominated for Council.

Mr. Morris, if he accepts, will be starting his fourth term; while Messrs. Fraser, Kingdon and Jakins will be starting their second terms.

Charles Bickell was acclaimed hydro commissioner. He is starting his third term.

Three Vacancies

Four were nominated for the three vacancies on the Lakefield Public School Trustee Board, but by noon today only two had qualified.

One of them was Albert G. Buchanan, who in 1950 filled out the unexpired portion of Elwood Northey's term of office when Mr. Northey was appointed to the Lakefield District High School Board. The other was Mrs. Marjorie Wilford.

REEVE W. C. GRANT

The fourth nominee, T. W. Chaplin, declined to run, but he too will have till tonight to make up his mind.

This left the way open for acclamation of the trustees providing Dr. Reg. Campbell—like Mrs. Wilford, a newcomer—accepts and Mr. Chaplin declines.

Two veteran trustees declined to run this year. They were Roy Bullock, former chairman of the Board, and Melville Kingdon. Both had served 13 years.

The other three trustees, who will not be up for re-election till next year, are Charles Hunter, Stanley Richardson and Mrs. Reg. Doubt.

Lower Taxes, Fewer Services

Reeve Grant thanked the ratepayers for their support, and told them that if they wanted lower taxes they would get fewer services. He gave his annual report on county council activities; and said that in 1949 the deficit of some $30,000 was largely caused by the overspending of about $20,000 on county roads.

This year the county council had pared its expenditures to the bone, he said. The only major improvement was the elimination of the dangerous curve at Hamblin's Corners, Dummer township.

Councillors Morris and Kingdon expressed disappointment at the small attendance out to the nomination meeting.

Mr. Bickell said that the village had paid off the last of its Hydro debentures.

ONE HIGHLIGHT OF THEIR 50th WEDDING anniversary to-day of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Parkes of 206 Braidwood Ave., is to voluntarily take a holiday from work. A well-known master bricklayer who heads a three-generation skilled labour trio in Peterborough, Mr. Parkes feels that a day of rest, to cope with social activities, is worthy of the occasion.

South City Pair Married In UK 50 Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Parkes of 206 Braidwood are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary today. They were married in St. Paul's Anglican Church, West Smethwick, England, November 24, 1900.

Mrs. Parkes, the former Sarah Bates, was born 73 years ago in West Bromich, England. Mr. Parkes, 75, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Parkes was born in Black Heath, South Staffordshire, England.

Mr. Parkes, like his father, has always been a bricklayer and still works a full time day. His son Samuel and grandson Allan Parkes are also bricklayers. He came to Canada in May, 1910 and settled in Peterborough. Mrs. Parkes and their five children joined him in September of 1912. They have resided in this city since that time.

Mr. Parkes has one brother in Peterborough, Samuel W. Parkes. Mrs. Parkes has one brother Jack Bates of Davenport, Iowa. They have three sons, Samuel, William and J. T. Parkes; three daughters, Mrs. E. Williams (Eunice), Mrs. Samuel Robertson (Ida), and Mrs. D. H. McIntosh (Polly); eleven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren, all of Peterborough.

This afternoon a reception of friends and relatives is being held at Mr. and Mrs. Parkes' home. A dinner for the family at their church, St. George's Anglican, is being given this evening. It will be followed by a party for Mr. and Mrs. Parkes at their home.

To Sponsor History

Decision to sponsor the publication of Howard Pammett's history of Peterborough, which has been appearing in the Examiner, was made Wednesday at a meeting of the centennial committee.

Beyond the decision, no further plans have been made, chairman William Ovens stated, but the committee is "going through the proper channels for publication of the history."

They expect it will be in print by November of 1951.

Former CGE Man On Troop Train

The only Peterborough soldier connected with the recent troop train crash at Canoe Creek in the Rockies, which took the lives of 20 Korea-bound troops, was Gordon Thomas Thompson, a South African who served in the Canadian forces during the Second World War. Mr. Thompson came to Peterborough in July and, until a short time ago was employed at the CGE for a period of two months.

He boarded with Mrs. F. A. Kidd, at 259 Reid St. She received a postcard from him, mailed in the west, on the day of the accident. The short message said, "This is the life, alright."

Suspecting that Mr. Thompson was on the wrecked train, Mrs. Kidd contacted Mrs. Charles Ray, president of the Peterborough Red Cross Society, for definite information about him. Mrs. Ray was able to find out that Thompson was one of the slightly burned cases, though not seriously.

HAD NO LICENSE

William Scott, 18, of Apsley, was today fined $10 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp. Scott pleaded guilty to failure to produce a driver's license.

Harold Rehill To Enter Council Contest

Ninth to anounce his candidacy in the aldermanic field is Harold Rehill, who told The Examiner of his decision today. Mr. Rehill, who has operated a fuel and builders' supply business here for some years, said he has always been interested in civic affairs, but "never to such a great degree".

HAROLD REHILL

For the past three years, he has been a director of the Peterborough Exhibition Board. He is a member of Trinity United Church, of the Kiwanis Club, and of the Chamber of Commerce.

Born and educated in Peterborough, he operates the business started here by his father more than 50 years ago.

Dairy Farmers To Feature Butter In Opening Their Advertising Campaign In December — Federation Of Agriculture Resumes Monthly Luncheons Tuesday, Dec. 5 — Seed Drill Survey Shows Higher Quality Of Grain — Junior Farmers Entertain Minor Club Members.

Butter will be the first dairy product to be advertised in the national campaign which the Dairy Farmers of Canada have been preparing for months. They began last June by collecting a substantial fund from milk producers and since then they have been gradually developing plans of extending their advertising through the mediums of newspaper, magazines and radio.

Different dairy foods will be featured each month until next August. Butter gets precedence because that market has suffered a serious loss from the manufacture and sale of margarine.

The promotion of sales of fluid milk is listed for January. Emphasis will fall on concentrated products in February, and cheese gets its turn in March, during the Lenten season. Ice cream, cottage cheese and cream will receive attention in the spring and summer months.

Dairy Foods Bureau is the name of the organization that has been set up to conduct the national campaign. Erle Kitchen is its secretary-manager. He recently announced that the National Dairy Council and the Associated Milk Foundations were co-operating to give maximum effect to the work of the bureau "in the better merchandising of dairy foods."

The dairy farmers of this county have an excellent product to begin with, and it is altogether likely that this selling effort on a national scale will result in increased consumption of such products of established Canadian quality as milk, cheese, butter, ice cream and so on. Possibly it may be said eventually of the invasion of margarine into the dairy market that "it is an ill wind that bears no good in some direction."

The scope and detailed planning of the dairy industry's campaign suggests competence in management and direction which should advise a refunding effort some time next year. Collections last June did not pinch anybody in the dairy business. The enterprising spirit that proposed this broad and intelligent effort is bound to realize that advertising should be sustained, that nine months' propaganda, for that is what it amounts to, should not be suddenly dropped. In fact the experience of this collective effort may be so satisfactory that the dairy industry as a whole will be encouraged to continue a campaign which is an enlargement of the good work that has been done for some years by Milk Foundations.

WON $125 POTATO PRIZE

T. M. Weatherilt and Sons, Bethany, won two first prizes, one second and several others in separate classes at the Royal. The second prize was $125 awarded by Canadian Industries Limited to contestants belonging to 500 Bushel clubs. Their estimated yield of Sebagos was 607 bus. an acre.

Thomas Heath, president of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association, won the reserve grand championship in cheese at the Royal. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Heath of Rawdon township.

WOOL PRICE TREBLED

Prices at the Auckland wool auction last week, first of the new season ranged from 110 pence to 149 as compared with 33 pence opening a year ago, the season's average of 36 pence, and the all-New Zealand average of 38.

✦ ✦ ✦

OCTOBER HOG GRADINGS

Total hog gradings for all Canada in October was 389,984, a decrease of 33,606 from October last year, as reported by the Ontario Hog Producers' Association. Ontario supplied 164,666, which was 16,985 fewer than Oct. 1949.

Number of hogs for domestic distribution was 353,716, and export took 46,316; total 400,032.

Since the total of October gradings was 389,984, the association conclusion was to the effect that 10,048 carcasses came out of freezer or storage last month.

FORUM SUBJECT

"What's Happened to the Country Doctor?" is the Farm Forum subject Monday Nov. 27.

The Forum Guide says the modern doctor prefers the conveniences of a city practice to the hardship of country calls, and recognizes that the trend in town and township has been toward the concentrating of medical and surgical work in the hospitals, nearly all of which are of urban location. The hospitals provide facilities and care which cannot be expected of homes.

The Guide also comments that all medical schools limit the number of students they will take, and quote a statement that they receive ten to twenty times more applicaions than they accept.

✦ ✦ ✦

MEETING HERE MONDAY

Marketing of cheese made on the eastern border of the county may be one of the subjects discussed at the annual meeting of Peterborough County Cheese Producers Monday, Nov. 27, in the office of the Department of Agriculture. C. N. Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board will be present. Fred Crowe is president and Frank C. Paterson, secretary.

✦ ✦ ✦

FEDERATION LUNCHEON

Peterborough Federation of Agriculture resumes its monthly noon luncheons Tuesday Dec. 5 at the Empress Hotel. This is a joint dinner meeting with the Farm Forum. Tickets are $1.50, and W. W. Dawson, Federation president, said yesterday he and the directors are hoping to see a large attendance.

The speaker will by Dr. E. A. Corbett, head of the Canadian Association of Adult Education. Adult education is a major concern of the Federation everywhere throughout the country, and is being promoted by such auxiliaries as Farm Forums and Folk Schools.

Clare Burt of Ontario Forums' head office told Mr. Dawson last week that Peterborough county is up with the top group of counties reporting new Forum groups.

"This will be good news to all our Forum members," Mr. Dawson said. "Some of our communities have been a little slow in getting organized, but we have faith in our own county in doing things right in the long run. Harold Lewis is showing results, and will be glad to help any other groups to get started."

Miss Eleanor Whitfield is attending the Cherry Valley Folk School from this area.

"When we are able to report seven or eight new groups as recent expansion, I think that is real progress," Mr. Dawson said.

✦ ✦ ✦

ADVERTISE CLUBS

An observation this week appeared to indicate that advertising for rural purposes and objectives may find other occasional diversions. At least it was surprising to find Frank Paterson and his assistant Robert Bell drafting what may be called a "junior club work ad" the other afternoon. That interest cannot signify a departure from the established policies of soil fertility, farm management, pasture programs that have received prior attention through the local office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Without seeking any definite information about the advertisement in the making, it probably means that this year's club liveliness will be again projected early in 1951 among the parents of the young people of Peterborough farms.

It was through parental co-operation that the calf clubs, tractor and forestry clubs and the new winter wheat club enlisted so many of the boys and girls of the country, both east and west Peterborough. Presumably, plans are being considered for expanding the work that was done so successfully this year. At any rate, the "ad" in preliminary form, may bloom into print one of these days.

✦ ✦ ✦

MEMBERSHIP DRAW

Holstein breeders include in their program for the annual meeting Saturday, Dec. 2, at 1:30 p.m. in the office of the Department of Agriculture a draw for an electric alarm clock and a motor rug. Only the members paid up for 1951 are eligible. A film on Soil Conservation will be shown. Vern Campbell is president and Stan Wood secretary.

✦ ✦ ✦

WHEAT CLUB FINALS

Fred Fife of Indian River tied for fifth place in the final standing of members of the 50-Bushels Winter Wheat Clubs of the province. Lisle R. McMillan of Norwood was two points behind him.

Mr. Fife was high man in the Peterborough county club. The provincial winner was Frank Marritt of Keswick, York county with total score of 92.5 points. Ernest Larmer of Nestleton, Durham was second at 89.5, tied with Charles Casey of King, York.

Charles Osborne of Bowmanville was fourth with 88.5; and Mr. Fife and John Hargreaves of Beachville, Oxford, tied at 88 points. Mr. McMillan and Joseph O'Leary of Lorette, South Simcoe, were tied for 8th place with 86 points.

Russell Bonner of Cavan, the only grower of Dawson's Golden Chaff in the Peterborough group was down in a group scoring 75.5 points.

✦ ✦ ✦

CHEQUES TO YOUNGSTERS

The junior club members received Tuesday night the cheques that were promised at the beginning of their 1950 season to all those who completed their several projects. About seventy boys and girls attended the meeting at the Normal School which was arranged by the Junior Farmers as sponsors of the clubs for the youngsters. Quite a number of parents accompanied them, and received an object lesson in the affairs of the Junior Farmers.

John Edmison was chairman. Don Milburn and Miss Alberta Anderson discussed one topic, "How to be a good host and hostess," and Miss Amy Curtis the other, "Hints for good conversation."

Club leaders from the ranks of the Junior Farmers reviewed the projects which they materially assisted in carrying out with club members during the season.

Stewart Dawson has been working down yonder in the hybrid corn fields. They took off their own crop, Bert Armstrong came through with another good yield as did Jack Matchett. Herb McFarlane gathered 400 bushels off a small acreage.

Mr. Dawson has been on the east side of the township this week. Growers of grain corn in that section include Stewart Nelson, Alan Eason, Robert Hope, Fred Fife, also John McFarlane. It is understood that David Walsh near Westwood has 25 acres of the hybrid variety.

SEED DRILL SURVEY

Fifty of the 75 Peterborough samples in this year's seed drill survey rated first grade. This 66 2-3 per cent compared with the 58 per cent top grade for ten counties.

Nine sample, or 12 per cent, were second grade four samples, 5⅓ per cent, were third grade; and 12 samples, 16 per cent were listed as rejected.

Victoria had 76 samples of grain taken in the survey, rating as follows: No. 1 grade 36 for 48 per cent; No. 2, 17 for 22 per cent; No. 3, four for 5 per cent; and rejected 19 for 25 per cent.

Prince Edward county had 37 No. 1 grade out of 42 samples for 88.09 per cent.

Northumberland: 48 samples; Results: No. 1 grade, 30 for 62.5 per cent; No. 2 grade, two for 4.17 per cent; No. 3 grade, three for 6.25 per cent; rejected, 13 for 27.08 per cent.

The total for the nine counties of central Ontario from York to Lennox-Addington, inclusive, plus Temiskaming, was 547 samples taken in the survey. Results were; 317 first grade or 58 per cent; second grade 69 for 12.6 per cent; third grade 43 for 8 per cent and 118 rejected, or 21.4 per cent.

Of the 547 samples, 412 were grain 135 grass and clover seed. Of the grain samples, 268 or 65 per cent were in No. 1 grade and there were 87 rejects or 21.2 per cent.

Of the 49 grass and clover seed samples, 49 were in first grade, or 37 per cent ,and there were 31 rejects or 23 per cent.

Effect of Cleaning

The survey finding also relates to the cleaning of the seed. Grain that was farm cleaned, 188 samples; test results: 98 first grade or 52 per cent; 21 second grade or 11 per cent; 16 No. 3 grade or 9 per cent; 53 rejected or 28 per cent.

Grain that was plant cleaned: 154 samples; test results: No. 1 grade, 130 samples or 85 per cent; and there were 8 each in the second, third and rejected columns, or 5 per cent each.

Only five samples taken were uncleaned. They were 100 per cent rejected.

Cleaning methods unreported, 65 samples. Results: 41 first grade or 62 per cent; four second grade or 6 per cent; six third grade or 10 per cent and 14 rejected or 22 per cent.

Seed treatment, cereals: formalin 57; ceresan 39; panogan 14. Total 110. Untreated 147; treatment unreported 113.

The following notes are quoted from the department statistics: 42 per cent of the seed represented by this survey was lower than No. 1 grade on weed seed content.

35 per cent of the grain was lower than No. 1 grade.

63 per cent of grass and clover was less than No. 1 grade.

Less than half the grain received any form of seed treatment for seed and soil-borne disease.

Cleaning plants have a margin of improvement over home cleaning; 85 per cent No. 1 by plant cleaning; and farm cleaning 52 per cent No. 1 grade.

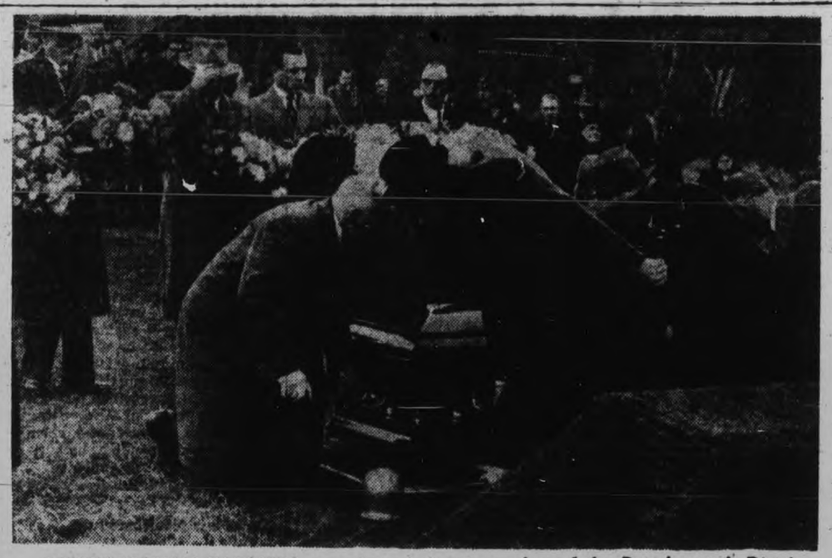
Farm cleaning shows an improvement over previous surveys, from 25 per cent No. 1 grade to 58 per cent No. 1 grade.

Futher comment: "This survey is undertaken to provide an information service to farmers as to the purity of their grain, grass and clover seeds, and also as an overall indication of the quality of seed being sown, the comparative efficiency of home cleaning and custom cleaning plants, and the popularity of various forms of chemical treatment of cereals for seed-borne diseases.

The samples were taken from seed drills during the 1950 seeding by county weed inspectors. Each sample, therefore, represents the actual condition of seed being sown without further preparation.

The results show a higher percentage of No. 1 seed than in previous surveys when only about 35 per cent of the seed graded No. 1. This improvement, in part, is due to the fact that grades are reported on basis of freedom from weed seeds only. Previous surveys were based on complete official grade, requiring a minimum germination of 85 per cent, and a maximum tolerance of 100 other crop seeds and 25 other varieties per pound for No. 1 grade seed.

A "Horrible Example"



As an unofficial appendix to the report of the seed drill test was a recent crop sample that rated at least 100 per cent infection with stinking smut. It came to the local office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture perhaps as a "horrible example" from a local seed cleaning plant who may not wish to be identified. Even a layman who might not know wheat from barley in cereal form would know at a glance supported by a quick smell that this stuff must be worthless. Probably the least said about it and about some other samples mentioned earlier after the harvest the better. Fortunately they were extremely few but it is pathetic to think of the waste of labor and time and land-use indicated by that repellent sample of diseased grain. Expense of treatment is a few cents an acre at the cleaning plant, about the cost of a loaf of bread.

HURON FEDERATION

Huron Federation of Agriculture reported this week at its annual meeting total receipts of $14,852 during the year and $15,064 expenditures. Their assets of $3,237 exceed liabilities by $1,025.

A survey of four townships showed that three per cent of the housewives used margarine as shortening, and not as a table spread. The meeting unanimously asked the Ontario government to pass legislation completely banning the retail sale of margarine.

Frost Asks Federal Help Curb Gambling

TORONTO, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Premier Frost Thursday told the Dominion government that big strides could be made towards wiping out bookmaking if federal authorities would take strong action against "telephone and telegraph companies and possibly radio stations that distribute racing information."

In a letter to Justice Minister Garson, Premier Frost said Ontario Provincial Police are handicapped in dealing effectively with bookmakers by the fact that telegraph and telephone companies are under federal jurisdiction.

Writes RCMP

The Premier wrote that heads of the anti-gambling squad of the Provincial Police had submitted a memorandum to Commissioner S. T. Wood of the RCMP.

"We are not looking for ways and means to pass the buck," the premier added. "We are looking for co-operation and action."

Premier Frost also announced he had written a letter to Senator Estes Kefauver, chairman of a United States Senate crime investigating committee, to tell him that Ontario authorities had received little co-operation from U.S. law enforcement agencies in combating vice conditions in Windsor.

Senator Kefauver said in Detroit this week that his committee will investigate suspected connections between Detroit and Toledo gambling interests and a race-wire service in Windsor.

Start In U.S.

Premier Frost wrote Senator Kefauver that "the problems in regard to gambling and vice in Ontario have their origin in the United States in nearly all cases."

Mr. Frost told Senator Kefauver that the Provincial Police had been directed "to take all possible action to terminate the activities of any gambling or vice agencies which might exist in Ontario, regardless as to whether these agencies had their roots here in Ontario or were merely agencies of U.S. gambling and vice syndicates."

Hydro Workers Get 20-40-Cent Pay Boost

TORONTO, Nov. 24 (CP) — Increases ranging from 20 to 40 cents an hour are provided in an agreement negotiated by the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers (AFL) and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, a union official said Thursday night. Sam Finlay, Canadian vice-president of the union, said the increase brings the hourly work rate to $1.41 and affects about 40 men working on the La Cave hydro project on the Ottawa river.

Given 2 Months For Illegal Sale Of Liquor

Kenneth Thompson, 48 Lansdowne St., was sentenced Thursday to two months in jail after Magistrate W. R. Philp convicted him on a charge of selling liquor illegally.

Patrick O'Brien, RR 11, testified he dialled the number of the cab company Thompson drove for. Provincial Constable John McKendry told court he witnessed the phone call from O'Brien's house.

A second phone call was made to the same number, the officer said, and some time later that evening, the accused came to the door of the house carrying a case of 24 pints of ale.

Asked How Much

Jack Lane, RR 11, who was also in the house at the time, said he let the accused in and asked him "How much for the beer?" The reply was "$10."

At this point, Constable McKendry and Provincial Constable C. A. Naismith arrested Thompson.

W. J. Arthur Fair, defence counsel, argued that the crown had not established a prima facie case against Thompson.

"There is no law against a common carrier—in this case, the taxi driver—delivering a parcel, and there are no regulations governing hte time he delivers a parcel," Mr. Fair said.

Crown counusel John A. Bradshaw offered no argument for the prosecution.

Yugoslav Report On Britain Features Facts

By RONALD PRESTON

BELGRADE, Nov. 24 —(Reuters)— Factual, friendly and almost-entirely favorable reporting has characterized several articles on Britain appearing in the press here recently.

The articles were written by Yugoslav Communist journalists when they returned from Britain after a three-week visit as guests of the foreign office.

The articles are regarded here as reflecting improving relations between Britain and Yugoslavia and expressing Marshal Tito's new party line of judging British social democracy on its merits instead of following the cominform in condemning it on principle as "Social Fascism."

Met Friendliness

Moroslav Vitorovic, assistant editor of Borba, official organ of the Yugoslav Communist party, in a lecture to a crowded meeting of Belgrade journalists, also stressed the friendliness and hospitality which the six-man delegation had met with in Britain.

Everywhere they went, he said, the delegation had found interest and sympathy for present-day Yugoslavia. Members of all three British political parties had expressed their belief in the need for closer cultural and economic relations between the two countries.

Speaking of general conditions in Britain, Vitorovic said his impression was that considerable success had been achieved since the war in raising the standard of living.

Vitorovic attacked the British Communist party as a "mere agent of the cominform" and commanding no support among the British workers because it "served foreign interests."

Sadlier Players' 'Wind And Rain' Comedy Of Youth

"The Wind and the Rain" the romantic comedy by Merton Hodge, which is coming to the Collegiate Auditorium, Peterborough next Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 29 and 30 under the sponsorship of the Rotary Club, is a comedy of youth.

It deals with a young medical student at a Scotch university town. From London come young Charles, an earnest and determined student. He is going to live at the students' lodgings run by Mrs. McFie.

On his first night there he encounters: Gilbert, a student who is much more interested in girls and guzzling than in gaining medical knowledge; Paul Duhamel, a French doctor doing post-graduate work, and inclined to go off to London on "business" for the weekend; and Charles, keen on sports and not approving of Gilbert. He also meets Anne Hargreaves, Paul's girl, with whom he falls in love. As he is already engaged to a charming girl, Jill, this rather complicated things. It is the stormy path of his romance with Anne that provides a lot of the fun in the play. The audience follows them and their fortunes through the next four years to the very satisfactory ending.

Comedy of Character

"The Wind and the Rain" is not a farce and its comedy comes from the people in it rather than from its situations. It is regarded as one of the best English comedies and had Rex Harrison and Celia Johnson as its stars in London.

"The Wind and the Rain" is produced by Michael Sadlier in association with Bruce Yorke, is being toured throughout Eastern Canada by the newly organized Theatre Series. This is a company of leading young Canadian acting talent bent on building up a full winter theatre season.

The company is headed by Kate Reid and Donald Davis. Kate Reid is already well and favorably known locally for her work in the Peterborough Summer Theatre. Donald Davis, playing Gilbert the medical student is a versatile actor. He was producer of the Straw Hat players in Muskoka. David Gardner, who appeared on the cover of a national magazine recently, dressed for his role of Othello at Hart House, is a tall, fair and good-looking young man, with considerable acting experience already. He plays Charles in the play. Pat Atkinson well-liked by Peterborough audience, is the Scotch landlady.

"The Wind and the Rain" is touring until Christmas, playing Cornwall, Brockville, Kingston, Belleville, Cobourg, Lindsay, Oakville, Hamilton, Guelph, Galt, Kitchener, St. Catherines, Owen Sound, Centralia, Welland, Niagara Falls and Niagara-on-the-Lake, besides Peterborough.

After Christmas this energetic young company will return on the same circuit with the very successful London comedy "See How They Run." This play is scheduled for Broadway production before the end of the year.

MICHAEL SADLIER producer of the romantic comedy "The Wind and the Rain" which the Rotary Club is bringing to Peterborough next Wednesday and Thursday.

Ontario Help In Thames Dam Not Precedent

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 24 CP)—Resources Minister Winters said Thursday the federal government has not set a pattern for future flood control projects in Canada by granting aid to the $3,000,000 Fanshawe dam here.

The government will consider each proposed project on its merits, he told 200 persons at a sod-turning ceremony.

Co-operation between the three levels of government—municipal, provincial and federal — was stressed in speeches by Mr. Winters, Premier Frost and Planning Minister Griesinger of Ontario.

All three handled shovels in sharing the sod-turning chores with representatives of the city, township and county while bulldozers started to remove earth along the Thames river bed six miles north of here.

Must Conserve

Mr. Winters reminded the gathering that Canada's natural resources were not expendable and "even if mankind has inherited the earth, he must not live too much on his capital."

Premier Frost said the necessity for curbing expenditure to prevent inflation and the troubled international situation now stood in the way of realizing to the full conservation plans.

Also in attendance were E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the CCF opposition in the Ontario Legislature, and Dr. J. Cameron Wilson, chairman of the Upper Thames Valley Conservation Authority which has charge of the dam building.

The project is being financed by the federal government, which agreed to pay 37½ per cent of the cost; the provincial government, 37½ per cent, and the Upper Thames Valley Conservation Authority, 25 per cent.

Canada Failed Hold Price Line

Addressing the Montreal branch of the Queen's Alumni Association, he said that in most respects Canada had readjusted from the war years and handled the new problems of the day in a manner that was a credit to her intelligence and stability as a nation.

"Only in the matter of keeping prices at reasonable levels have we a poor record," he said.

The driver of the car, Charles Bennett, 22, of Calgary, and the truck driver, Lloyd Atwood of St. Paul, Minn., were not hurt.

County traffic police said the car hit a slick spot, skidded three-quarters of the way around and smashed into the truck.

No Provision For Families Of New Soldiers

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (CP)—The "lack of arrangements" made for dependents of the Special Brigade is causing "concern" among Canada's welfare agencies, a member of the Canadian Welfare Council said Thursday.

Elizabeth Govan, secreary of the council's committee on personnel, said in an interview that while there was a tendency in the last war to turn down men with large families, nothing like this is being done at the present time.

In addition allowances do not depend on the number of children. (The wife of an army private receives an allotment of $94 a month. If there are children in the family this is increased to $103, regardless of the number of children.)

Miss Govan made the comment as she discussed a report prepared by the council committee, which warns that unless the rate of training social workers is stepped up, developing military preparations and civil defence plans may "undermine the existing social services."

Open Sunday

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuters)—The House of Commons Thursday night thumbed its nose at Blue-Law sponsors and sanctioned Sunday opening of next year's Festival-of-Britain exhibitions. By 364 to 128 it voted down a motion presented by a group of Conservatives which would have kept the exhibitions closed on the Sabbath.

Costly Cup Of Coffee—Man Loses Country

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 24 — (CP)—Francisco Domaeco is a man without a country—all because of a cup of coffee. Refused entry by Canada and the United States, he is being held by immigration authorities at Windsor pending a board of inquiry hearing in Detroit, Mich.

Domaeco, who gives New York City as his home, was en route from New York to Chicago on the New York Central when, he told police later, he stepped off the train at St. Thomas to get a cup of coffee. The train, he said, left without him.

American officials refused him entry, however, when he could produce no proof of American citizenship. Domaeco is believed to be an illegal entrant into the United States, coming there from Italy 31 years ago, police said.

Keep Your Place Italian Star Tells US Women

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24 (AP) —American women are on the wrong track in their search for equality with men, says Marina Berti, Italian glamor girl.

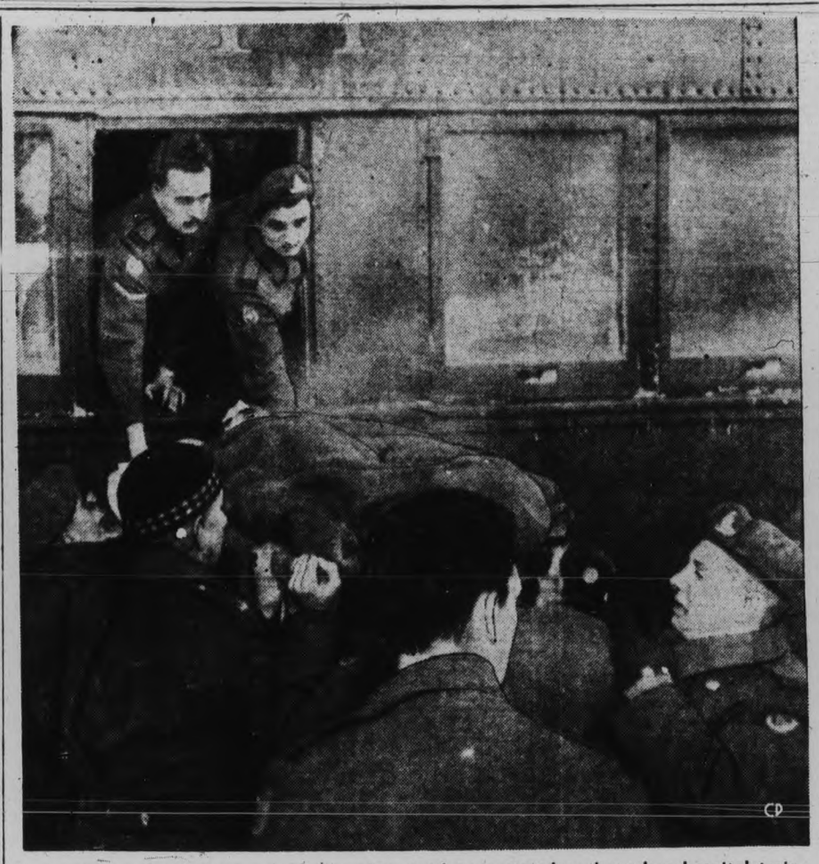
This observation came out when I asked the actress about the future. Here to play a role in "Up Front," she has been offered a seven-year contract if she will stay in Hollywood. She turned it down.

"My husband is more important than a contract," she explained. "His work is in Rome, so I must stay there with him."

Her husband is Claudio Gora, actor-director, and they have two children. Her movie career ranks second to the family, she said, in contrast to some Hollywood stars.

"That's the way it is in Italy," she remarked. "The family is most important and the man is the head of the family. From what I have seen here, American women don't believe that. They seem to want to be equal. I think they will only make themselves unhappy because of that."

Miss Berti was astonished to learn that American husbands have to help wash the dishes. And that some of them even help with the cooking and housework.



"The Italian husband never enters the kitchen," she said.

The subordination of the wife does not mean that families have no arguments.

"Fights add the spice to marriage," she said. "No one is perfect and when you fight, you work out your differences and learn to live with each other. You are more in love when you make up after a fight."

German Machines In Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., Nov. 24 (CP) —The Newfoundland government Thursday signed an agreement with a German syndicate for the construction of two gypsum mills at Humbermouth, near Corner Brook, on the west coast.

The contract was signed by Premier Joseph Smallwood and Finance Minister H. W. Quinton for Newfoundland, and by August Roemer, Dr. Hubertos Herz, and Frederick Kreyser for the German syndicate.

Cost of the project is reported to be about $2,000,000.

Premier Smallwood said that the reason for buying the mill machinery in Germany was one of price and delivery. The Germans offered a better price than anyone else and also contracted to make faster delivery.

"I think I can say that so long as the Germans give us lower prices and quicker delivery we will continue to buy from Germany."

Toronto Hospitals $1,500,000 In Debt

TORONTO, Nov. 24 CP). — Toronto's hospitals Thursday put their financial plight before the city's advisory committee on hospitalization.

Quebec Plans To Build Improved Highways

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (CP). — Premier Duplessis of Quebec said Thursday there will be "big improvements" in western Quebec highways under a program being drafted by Highways Minister Talbot.

Here for the Dominion-Provincial constitutional conference, Mr. Duplessis told newspaper men the Gatineau and Pontiac highways and the Aylmer road near Ottawa would be included in the new program.

Expectations are that rebuilding and paving will begin on a large scale early next spring.

Ballet Festival Features Modern Classic

By VICTOR MORRIS, Jr.

MONTREAL, Nov. 24 (CP) — The third annual Canadian ballet festival produced a mixture of modern and classical choreography by five companies who presented well-trained artists.

The program opened with a well-integrated production of "Mea Culpa, Mea Culpa," which was also performed Wednesday night, by the Ruth Sorel Ballet of Montreal. Miss Sorel gave an excellent interpretation of the sinner. A stained window served as a clever backdrop and colorful costumes by Irene Lorentowicz did much to make it a successful spectacle.

Volkoff Canadian Ballet of Toronto produced two works, both conducted by Neil Chotem. The first, a successful performance of "Chopiniana," and the second was "Excerpts From Classical Suite."

Both were well executed and the choreography by Boris Volkoff was excellent.

Swan Lake

The Ottawa Ballet Company presented "Swan Lake," Act 2, by Tschaikovsky. Jean Stoneham as Queen of the Swans and Gilles Choquetts as Prince Siegfried danced with clarity and were well received by the audience.

Les Ballet Quebec presented "Suite En Bleu" by Bizet with Jean Desaluriers conducting Choreography is by Gerald Crevier.

Le Ballet Concert directed by Kay Armstrong offered "Reve Fantasque"—the story of Julie who goes to the city to seek fame and fortune and comes face to face with temptation.

Kay Armstrong danced superbly as Julie and Joan Lindsay as Temptation was equally brilliant. Costumes by Lucy Pearce were distinct originals.

UN Army Push May Help China Border Settlement

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP). —Diplomatic authorities said today that the new United Nations general offensive in Korea will not hurt—and may boost — any possible chances for a peaceful border settlement with the Chinese Communists.

The timing of the big push, which Gen. MacArthur called the drive to end the conflict, was decided on military rather than diplomatic considerations, according to these fully-informed authorities.

Coincidence

The fact that it was undertaken on the eve of the arrival of a Chinese Communist delegation at United Nations headquarters in New York was described as entirely coincidental.

Nevertheless, predominant opinion among United States leaders appears to be that this show of strength and determination to achieve a complete victory in Korea may hasten any negotiations which the Chinese are willing to undertake on the question of an arrangement to protect their border interests.

As regards the long-standing uncertainty over what China's real intentions are, the next few days or hours are critical.

If the Chinese Reds under Moscow pressure intend to make an all-out fight against UN forces, they can be expected to begin pouring reinforcements across the Yalu River promptly.

On the other hand, if their intentions are less hostile, if they have been making merely a token show of assistance to the Korean Communists or have other limited objectives, they are expected to hold their main forces north of the border while their troops in Korea fall back under United Nations pressure.

Falling Down Stairs Accidental Death

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24 (CP).—A coroner's jury Wednesday night returned a verdict of accidental death at the inquest on George James Davis, 32, formerly of Oshawa, Ont. He died Sunday from injuries suffered in a fall on a flight of stairs in a dance hall the previous night.

Says Fly Me Now Soldier 'Had It'

EDMONTON, Nov. 24—(CP)—Gunner Lawrence Smith, of Brockville, among the soldiers injured in Tuesday's troop train crash in Western Canada that took 20 lives, figures that he's "had it" so far as trains are concerned.

Interviewed in hospital here, the 27-year-old Second World War veteran told reporters: "If they want me to go to Fort Lewis, they're going to have to fly me."

The betting was that he'd change his mind by the time he recovers and the army says "get going."

Reporters were permitted to interview the less-seriously injured victims of the crash for the first time Thursday. Another they talked to was Gnr. Bob Booker, 18, of Fergus, Ont., who looked as if he had been in a fight. His first question showed there wasn't much wrong with him, however.

"Do you know if we get leave?" he asked.

8 Ringworm Cases

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 24 (CP)—Eight new cases of ringworm of the scalp have been reported here in the last four days, Dr. D. V. Curry, medical health officer, said Thursday. The disease has been causing concern in the area for almost a year, but Dr. Curry said the latest outbreak hasn't reached epidemic proportions.

RAVAGING DISEASE

It is estimated there are 2,400,000 new cases of malaria each year in India.

Increased Value On Gold May Be Solution To Trade

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Will gold some day be given a higher value than its present $35 an ounce (U.S.)?

The question becomes lively every once in a while, dies down and then comes up again. But it is never far from the thoughts of people who own shares in Canadian gold mines.

The answer would seem to lie in the extent to which gold will continue to be used as a yardstick for measuring the value of world currencies.

We are not on a gold standard in a pre-1914 sense. Our governments issue as much money as is [illegible] of the country. When we come to buy from another country, however, we settle either with goods, or with gold, or with currencies which are freely convertible into gold.

Still Operates

So a gold standard of sorts still operates. Its practical operation can be seen in Britain's curtailment of purchases until her gold reserves are higher.

However, in the great activity of the last war and the years since, we have become accustomed to operating both nationally and internationally in sums of money undreamed of in real gold-standard days.

And when we try to operate our gold standard of sorts amidst this increased money, it can be and is argued that there isn't enough gold unless it is given a higher value.

There have been some interesting recent comments in regard to all this from Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, Hugh Gaitskell, from the Times of London, and from the Economic Record, issued by the United Kingdom information office in Ottawa.

Trade Solution

Says the Economic Record:

"It is interesting that, although virtually only Switzerland and the United States have a currency freely convertible into gold, and that in many minds the gold standard is a thing of the past, gold still remains the only generally-acceptable international means of payment outside the ruble bloc. If, therefore, an increase in world trade is desired, some means must be found of increasing the world's stocks of monetary gold, or alternatively, making the existing stocks work more satisfactorily."

Speaking in London, Mr. Gaitskell said that Britain's gold reserves are too low, measured by pre-war needs, and added that in terms of relative prices of goods the normal pre-war proportion of reserves to total sterling-dollar turnover was two or three times as high as the proportion today.

The Economic Record comments:

"As the United Kingdom's gold reserves were, in 1937, just over $4,000,000,000, a logical extension of Mr. Gaitskell's argument would be that the United Kingdom needs about $10,000,000,000 today as compared with her actual $2,756,000,000."

Need Four Times More

And the Times of London had this comment:

"Mr. Gaitskell's line of thought is suggestive. For on his analogy, assuming the same sort of ratio to pre-war needs, the United States now needs £35,000,000,000, whereas in fact she has only about $24,000,000,000, and the rest of the world would need some $25,000,000,000, almost four times as much as the present figure . . .

Allowing for the normal supply of gold to non-monetary uses, it would take the world's gold output considerably more than half a century to bring up the world's gold stocks, at the present dollar price of gold, to this figure; and by that time, no doubt, the monetary value of the world's trade turnover would probably have

"In fact, there is only one way in which Mr. Gaitskell's implied requirement could be met—a universal devaluation increasing the price of gold in all countries by over 100 per cent. . . . .

"Nonetheless, Mr. Gaitskell was airing a problem which many people have stressed spasmodically over the last five years: Measured by pre-war cannons there is an entirely inadequate amount of monetary gold in the world to serve at present currency prices as the basis for restoring anything like a free international trading and exchange system." The Times adds:

"It might be statesmanlike to plan ahead for two separate stages respectively of redistribution and upward revaluation of gold."

DOROTHY DIX

Mother's Duty to Child Is to Care for it Herself

DEAR MISS DIX: My wife and I have been having a controversy over whether or not she should go to work outside of the home. We have a 7-month-old baby whom we both love dearly. We want to make our child's life a happy one, one on which she can look back without feeling that she has been cheated. Here are our arguments: The wife says: I feel as if I am wasting my time doing housework. My husband makes a living for us, but the money that I could earn would give us many luxuries and comforts that we have to do without. Also, I enjoyed my work and felt more up-to-date, more in touch with the news of the world and more pepped up when I worked in an office.

Dorothy Dix

The husband says: I feel that if we hire someone to care for the baby she will not look to my wife for the things that all children expect of their mothers. Also, I feel a man's natural desire to support his family and be the head of the house. Yet I feel that if I refuse to let her go and do the work she loves that I would be as selfish as she would be if she would ask me to stay at home and do the housework. Please help us to settle this vexed question.

HUSBAND AND WIFE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: As I have remarked many times, being a woman is the most complicated job on earth and every day it gets more and more involved. For a woman's emotional life always clashes with her business life and each one unfits her for the other and makes her dissatisfied with the other.

The Money Will Help

More money will ease the husband's burden and perhaps give the baby a better enviroment in which to live, but business is a jealous mistress and any woman who goes into it must give her first thought, her best energies to her job. Moreover, a husband who has a wife who works outside of the home must often pinch-hit for her in it and make allowances for the nerves and exhaustion of a woman who has had a hard day at the office and whose boss has been grumpy.

And nothing on earth can make up to a child for not having been reared by its mother and not having had the divine love and patience that only a mother can give. Money cannot hire anyone who can take mother's place. And the poorest child who has a mother's hand to guide it, a mother's voice to teach it, a mother's heart to understand it, is better off and has a better chance in the world than the little millionaire who is turned over to the rearing of servants and governesses and tutors.

I am firmly convinced that no woman has a right to have a baby unless she is going to give it her personal attention.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A rich girl is very much in love with me and has proposed marriage to me. I like her all right and because of her financial advantage over the other girls I go with I am tempted to accept her offer. However, she thinks I would look after her financial affairs and I object to the work it would require of me. Also she wants to settle down, while I want to travel. Please tell me whether I should marry her or not.—UNDECIDED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I should earnestly advise you to say "No" to the rich girl and firmly decline to accept her hand and fortune. For it doesn't seem to me that you are able to make a fair return for all she gives you. You haven't any love to bestow upon her and you aren't even willing to clip her coupons, which has always seemed to me a light and pleasing occupation. However, not having had the experience in this line of endeavor, I do not speak with authority.

Anyway, for a man to marry for money is a contemptible thing for him to do. It is selling himself to some woman who will have him on the leash and whose bidding he has to do. She makes him sit up and eat out of her hand or roll over and play dead or jump through the hoop, and it takes a man with mightly little spirit and independence of character to be willing to do it. I have never seen the poor husband of a rich wife who looked happy or contented.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been wanting to go to Texas and be a cowboy for years, but my mother won't let me. I am 15. There will never be any happiness for the rest of my life if I can't be a cowboy. What shall I do?

ANSWER: My boy, there isn't any more wild, free life of the plains nor picturesque cowboys such as you see in the moving pictures or on television. Being a cowboy now is just about as exciting a life a being a soda jerk.

Parents Help Teachers In School Play

REGINA, Nov. 24 — (CP). — Parents take turns in teaching a class of 24 at the Lakeview Co-operative Play School. The children there are from three to five years old; from play school they graduate to Grade I in regular Public School.

Mrs. David Smith is a specially-trained educationist in charge of the project. Hours are from 9 a.m. to noon each school day. The Regina Public School Board gives the play school the use of two rooms in Lakeview School.

Two mothers come each day to help Mrs. Smith with the children.

"Learning Through Play" is the basis of the curriculum. Psychologists say play is a child's way of learning, of experimenting, of trying himself out, and of finding out about what goes on in the world surrounding him.

The youngsters start each morning with outdoor play. Then there is dress routine. Children are assisted in learning to dress and undress and gain confidence by doing it in a group.

They drink milk and eat cookies in a lunch period, followed by 10 minutes' rest during which the children lie on blankets brought from home.

Story Time

Mrs. Smith often reads stories during that period. Most of them point out something of value to the children. A little fantasy on what happened to a boy who did not wash, for example, points out the necessity of cleanliness.

Equipment includes a miniature jungle gym, where the boys get exercise and sport in climbing about. The girls have a doll house and dolls to occupy their time.

Clay modelling is another favorite pastime of the children. Teaching includes dancing to music and rhythm groups. There are no competitive features in the school.

The parents hold study groups periodically to discuss common problems. From the play school they learn what makes some children timid and others bold, and a host of individual variances.

Fathers sometimes bring carpentry into the school's activities. They make equipment needed in the classroom. They made stools for the children, the jungle gym, the doll's house, and a teeter-totter.

TORONTO, Nov. 24—(CP)—Prejudice against women working continues in Canada but if all married women were suddenly withdrawn from the labor force there would be an immediate depression, says Nazla L. Dane, president of the Toronto Business and Professional Women's Club.

Addressing the Toronto Council of Women, Miss Dane said there are more than 1,000,000 working women in Canada making up 20 per cent. of the country's entire working force. About 60 per cent of the women are married.

Mrs. Ralph Henry Now 90 Ardent Fan of Maple Leafs

Floral tributes and cards of congratulation sent for her 90th birthday were proudly displayed Thursday by Mrs. Ralph Henry as she celebrated the occasion.

When interviewed, this lady of four score years and ten was in readiness to receive her friends at an afternoon tea being given by her daughter, Mrs. Harry Williamson, 210 Reid St., with whom she lives. That she was delighted at the prospect of this social event there was no douot, but Mrs. Henry was also very eager to discuss the prospect of her National Hockey League favorites, the Maple Leafs.

This ardent radio hockey fan will follow the team's ups and downs even more closely in the coming winter for her grandchildren have presented a radio for her bedside table. She also reads the sports columns in the morning paper each day and the Examiner's in the evening, but local pucksters have not gained much of her interest because they have no broadcasts. Every member of the Toronto team is familiar to her by name and by playing position and last year she received autographed pictures from their manager Conn Smythe.

Mrs. Henry enjoys exceptionally good health, keen hearing and eyesight, though a weakened heart limits her activities somewhat. It was because of her health that she came to Peterborough 36 years ago from Newcastle and it was evidently a good move since she has had no further illness.

The second eldest member of Knox United Church, Mrs. Henry has now given up active membership in her W.A. Sewing Circle but was remembered with a birthday gift from the group. No longer able to attend the church services she turns to the local radio station each Sunday for a service.

A few out-of-town friends were able to attend the tea Thursday afternoon. Her son's wife, Mrs. Harve Henry, and her grandson's wife, Mrs. Allen Henry, were here from Ottawa. A niece Mrs. Cecil Walken came from Toronto and Mrs. Roland Jex from Port Hope.

On Sunday there will be a family gathering when Mrs. Henry's granddaughter Alice (Mrs. H. Williamson) when son Harve and grandsons Allan and Ted will then be here from Ottawa.

Also present will be her sister Mrs. Fred Cowan of Orono, who will be 85 in December, and her brother Mr. Arthur Hallowell, formerly of Pontiac, Michigan, now living at the Williamson home, who is in his late 70's.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cowan and Miss Ethel Rutherford of Orono and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Chapman of Toronto will attend the dinner and Peterborough guests will include Mrs. Henry's granddaughter Mrs. Stewart Frey (Marion Williamson) and her niece Mrs. Robert Pearse.

St. John's Bazaar and Tea Draws Another Crowd of 500

The women of St. John's Anglican Church on Thursday afternoon staged another of the large-scale bazaars in the parish hall which have become their annual pre-Christmas event. Six organizations were participating each with well-stocked booths making a tom in the upper hall, and each supplying several hostesses for the downstairs tea room.

If time had permitted the proceeds of this big event might easily have totalled nearly a thousand dollars. Present calculations bring the sum realized well over last year's. A crowd of close to 500 kept the booth attendants busy throughout from three to six o'clock, but there were cases where would-be customers could not get close enough to make a collection from the displays.

Tea Room Filled

There was a "crush" in the tea room where two tables had been arranged to facilitate accommodation. The centrepieces for these were charming Christmas scenes which Mrs. F. E. Hooper and Mrs. R. Ward spent some time designing. They were so attractive in fact that both were sold and the ladies asked for more. Each was highlighted with a white tablecloth and tapers in handsome silver candalabra.

Tea pourers at the opening hour were Mrs. C. W. Balfour, Mrs. F. G. Mann, Mrs. E. V. Morphet and Mrs. J. A. Nornabell, and serving were Mrs. E. Graham, Mrs. E. Nicholls, Mrs. W. Flowers, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. G. Falker, Mrs. H. Bradburn, Mrs. B. Bell and Mrs. B. Myers.

Mrs. F. E. Hooper was the general convener of the whole event and laid out the plan for the booths and tea room. Mrs. G. Groombridge and Mrs. P. A. Marthe presidents of the organizations Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald, Mrs. G. H. Moore, Mrs. M. E. Pakenham, Mrs. F. C. Marshall, Mrs. T. H. Floyd and Mrs. J. H. Turner were responsible for their booths.

Fine Quality Goods

A much finer quality of home-made candy than usually dispensed is annually prepared for this occasion by the Church Woman's Association and the demand for pound boxes of assorted varieties was very great. Miss M. Rush, Miss M. Hatton and Miss M. Medd were on hand to serve and at this group's table of equally fine quality home cooking Mrs. D. A. Loucks and Mrs. J. D. Collins helped the customers. Their novelties table which took up the centre front position in the hall was most attractively decorated on the Christmas theme and the articles offered included lovely tea towels, dolls and children's things. Mrs. R. B. Arnold and Mrs. G. Hodgson were in charge.

The Anglican Women's Club had fancywork and quilts at their two booths and Mrs. G. Walton was in charge with Miss A. Jenkinson and Mrs. H. Bassett assisting.

Children's novelties were the feature of the Little Helpers' booth where Mrs. F. C. Anderson and Mrs. E. R. Castle were in charge.

Christmas cake made by Miss Margaret English, Mrs. W. M. Cruthers and Mrs. G. C. Cameron who have made this a yearly contribution had been sold in various quantities by telephoned orders and was delivered during the bazaar by these ladies.

The Girls' Auxiliary had a booth offering a big selection of jewelry and novel adornments Mrs. Gwen Sorby was assisting the leader Mrs. T. H. Floyd with sales.

Several Tables

Afternoon and Evening Branches of the Women's Auxiliary each operated several booths, one of home cooking, one of fancywork and knitting.

A "pantry shelf" table by Afternoon Branch was attended by Mrs. W. T. Dyer, Mrs. R. Lawless and Mrs. L. Groombridge. Mrs H. Kelsey and Mrs. J. H. Crocker sold the fancywork and Mrs John Mills, Miss F. Gladman and Mrs. F. D. Kerr the knitted goods.

Evening Branch members Mrs B. Ottewell and Mrs. F. Ford were selling home baking, Mrs W. E. Franks and Mrs. Price Morris the fancywork and Mrs. J. H Coones and Mrs. E. E. Young were attending a "white elephant" table.

There were few who made use of the delightful platform sitting room with glowing wood fire which had been arranged and decorated as a restful haven during the rush hour. Members of the AYPA had assisted with the decorating with Mrs. L. Yeotes and Mrs. S. Richards.

TORONTO, Nov. 21—(CP)—The annual board meeting of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario Thursday adopted a resolution requesting the Provincial government to enact legislation requiring pre-marital blood tests.

In other resolutions, the Board asked that commercialized Sunday sports be banned in Ontario, and increased pensions for disabled veterans and war widows, commensurate with the cost-of-living.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Tempting Cornstarch Puddings

In Domestic Science class when I was ten years old I learned how to make cornstarch pudding, or "blumaunj" as I grandly pronounced it to my puzzled mother.

That day I came home and asked mother if I could make the dessert and, never-failing good sport that she was, she said "certainly" without knowing what she had let herself in for.

Well I made it and left it to cook in top of the double boiler for thirty minutes, stirring frequently, just as Miss Hotchkiss had instructed, and also rummanged in mother's fruit cellar for the raspberry jam "a dot" of which was to garnish top of each dish.

Father came through too, and ate his with smacking lips. I demurely held back so I could offer him mine too. To his eternal credit he accepted it (and many another untested concoction one or another of us dreamed up during our childhood.)

The basic ingredients of a cornstarch pudding are cornstarch, milk and sugar, and properly made (actually properly cooked) cornstarch pudding can be the bases of dozens of delicious milk puddings that you can turn out during your cooking life.

Varitions are without number. Eggs may be added; whites may be beaten and folded in last; sugar may be caramelized; fruit juices and cream may replace milk; dried fruits or nuts may be used for flavour and additional nutrition; arrowroot flour may be used as a substitute for cornstarch.

✧ ✧ ✧

Making Cornstarch Pudding

Two cups whole milk, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sugar, ½ to 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix the dry ingredients together in a bowl, then stir into them one-quarter cup of the required amount of milk. Meanwhile have very hot in top of double boiler the remaining 1¾ cups of milk. Pour a little of the hot milk on the cornstarch paste, stir smooth, then pour into hot milk in top of double boiler and stir over boiling water until thick. Cover and cook 25 minutes, stirring about three times during this period. Remove from heat, add vanilla, beat well and pour into stemmed glasses to chill, or pour into fancy mould to chill. If it stands 4 hours in refrigerator it will turn out into a perfectly shaped mould.

✧ ✧ ✧

Variations:

(1) Caramelize the sugar in heavy frying pan by stirring it until it melts and is golden. Add ½ cup boiling hot water and stir until this blends with the sugar. Reduce the milk in the pudding to 1½ cups, and add the caramel to the cornstarch paste when you stir the hot milk into it.

(2) For a more delicate pudding, fold in 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten, just before pouring into mould.

(3) For a more nourishing pudding pour the pudding over 1 beaten egg after it has its 25 minutes cooking and return to [illegible] before pouring into moulds.

(4) Add ½ to 1 cup chopped dates, or ¼ to ½ cup chopped walnuts or cocoanut or almonds just before pouring into moulds.

(5) Use orange juice and cream instead of milk—adding orange juice last, and beating hard with rotary beater.

(6) One-half cup pureed apricots is a nice addition.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Fruit, Nut Breads Popular Quick, Easy to Prepare

There are many quick breads that can be used to give the lunch or evening meal a change of pace or lend variety to the lunchbox. For ever so many good ideas for these quickies, besides all the information you might need for any kind of bread baking you should get "250 Breads, Biscuits and Rolls," the nineteenth title to be released in the series of 24 cookbooks being made available to readers of the Examiner a book a week.

Fig-walnut bread, fruit bread, cocoa bread, brazil nut-orange bread, and chocolate almond bread are just a few of the quick breads suggested in the Bread Book, and while there is not space for all the delicious recipes, here is one which is especially easy to put together and which lends itself to all sorts of happy uses.

3 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt together. Add nuts and fruit. Beat eggs, combine with milk and shortening and add to flour fixture. Stir just enough to moisten flour. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 1 hour. Makes 1 (1-pound) loaf.

If currants are dry soften in warm water 20 minutes, drain and dry.

THE EXPERTS SAY

24 Tasters Record Research Findings

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 —(CP)— There's a dream kitchen at the National Research Council where the Canadian Committee on Food Prepartion is kept on its toes solving the food problems of a nation.

Any housewife would be delighted to cook in a spot where temperature, humidity, and even lighting are controlled. And the kitchen also boasts, among other things, a dough-mixer that not only does the kneading for you, but also records the number of times the pastry has been mixed.

Here "test" foods are served in small glass containers to a waiting panel of 24 "tasters." Each scores impersonally his likes and dislikes as to flavor, color and so on.

It was "cherry-tasting" day when this reporter visited the kitchen. Seated in individual booths the tasters were sampling frozen cherries as part of a study the committee has been doing on frozen food and the effect of temperature.

One of the samples was at the preferred temperature, zero. The others had been kept at different temperatures. It was up to the tasters to decide which they preferred.

Dr. Dyson Rose, secretary of the committee, says it isn't always easy to find 24 persons to take part in panels where they may be asked to taste everything from strawberries to even milk and butter.

Sometimes a single study will continue as long as six months. This was the case when the committee was working on bacon storage not long ago. This could mean 20 minutes of tasting every two weeks for six months. As most of the panel-members are employed at the council it isn't always easy for them to take time from their jobs.

Then again it's necessary for the taster to like the food he's sampling. Otherwise his tasting can be prejudicted.

Unusual Job

Probably Eleanor Hamilton of Lethbridge, Alta., is one of the few home economics experts whose job it is to turn out bad-testing food as well as good.

Miss Hamilton is in charge of preparing the sample dishes and she admits the tasters have come to be "pretty wary" of the food put before them "because some of it isn't very good."

She remembers particularly some doughnuts she turned out not long ago during a study of cooking oils. Some of the fat used was rancid and of course the doughnuts made in this were anything but appetizing. But nevertheless that study did much to cut down the average housewife's chances of having her doughnuts turn out the same way.

When she makes pastry Miss Hamilton often uses cooking oil instead of lard. Her favorite pastry recipe: one cup flour; one-third cup of fat or one-quarter cup cooking oil; two tablespoons ice cold water; one-half teaspoon salt.

That grief can call its own.

UN Army Drives On Right Flank Flung Back by Reds

TOKYO, Nov. 25—(AP)—United Nations forces rammed ahead toward the Communist Manchurian border in the northwest offensive today but their extreme right flank was shoved back by counter-attacking Reds. Gains on the winding 80-mile front ranged up to six miles, with Chonju falling to the Americans on the left flank of the concerted drive. But on the extreme east flank, strong Communist forces plunged six miles into South Korean positions.

A U.S. 1st Corps spokesman described the Red attack as the first major reversal of the two-day offensive when Gen. Douglas MacArthur hopes will end the war by Christmas.

The Reds penetrated the South Korean 8th Division to a point near Yongun, 22 air miles east of Tokchon, on the far right flank of the northwest front. The spokesman said the Reds presumably were Chinese.

Division Dug In

It appeared that the Reds were trying to turn the flank of the offensive, but it remained to be seen in what strength. Prisoners captured Friday said a full Chinese division was dug in about 10 miles north of Yongun.

The scrap on the right flank of the northwest front contrasted with the absence of opposition on the extreme left flank. There the highway hub of Chongju fell to a tank-led task force of the U.S. 24th Division without a fight.

Chongju is 51 road miles south of the Yalu river border city of Sinuiju, main gateway for Chinese Communists entering the war. Patrols of the 24th struck north two miles outside Chongju toward Kusong.

No Resistance

In that sector there was no resistance.

Earlier Saturday, the offensive was dealt another, but minor, blow when Communist forces in the Taechon area, 22 miles northeast of Chongju and on the 24th's right flank, the South Korean 1st division was pushed back 1½ miles.

There the Reds pierced the line only temporarily. They struck in the pre-dawn darkness, but were hurled back in the daylight hours.

All along the line, B-29 Superfortresses and fighters supported the U.N. line.

The South Koreans were heading toward the great Suiho dam on the Yalu upstream from Sinuiju. Fourth largest in the world, the Suiho dam supplies hydro-electric power for most of Manchuria and North Korea. Most of the Communist resistance is expected in that sector.

An Eighth Army spokesman said the offensive generally "ex-

Commuters Shy "Death Seats" On NY Trains

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—(CP)—Jittery commuters rode the Long Island railroad in their usual numbers yesterday—but they carefully avoided sitting in the "death seats" in the front and rear cars.

David G. Bareuther, Associated Press staff writer, and himself a regular rider in the last car of the 6.09 p.m. train to Hempstead—the one struck in Wednesday's wreck by a speeding express—rode it again last night.

He was not on the train when the crash occurred—killing 77 and injuring more than 300—because he went home early Wednesday.

Bareuther said the aisles of the centre cars had standees last night but only 10 persons rode in the almost-empty smoker, end coach on the 6.09.

Almost all the riders present were regulars who for one reason or another had failed to make the usual connection Wednesday.

One "regular" was standing in a vestibule up forward.

Bareuther asked him why he was not seated.

"Well, you know," the man answered (He ... Wednesday night I had to work overtime and missed the train. The fellows I played with were killed, you know. I can't ride back there yet."

Governor Thomas E. Dewey demanded meanwhile that the two trustees of the bankrupt road resign by Monday to speed a total shake-up of the commuter line.

Dewey said the trustees, David E. Smucker and Hunter L. Delatour, have lost public confidence. He threatened court action if they did not quit by his deadline.

The wreck—one of the bloodiest in American history and the worst in New York State—came only nine months after another Long Island collision at Rockville Centre killed 33 persons on the same line.

Preston Hydro Back In Service

PRESTON, Nov. 25 — (CP)—Electricity was restored early today to households in this town of 7,500 persons where an explosion yesterday destroyed four transformers in a municipal hydro sub-station and cut off the power.

Hydro crews erected two transformers outside the sub-station as an emergency installation that enabled the current to be turned back on shortly after midnight. Sound cars toured the streets to notify the public that the power was on again.

Utilities officials said they hoped to restore power to industrial users by Monday. Some 2,000 workmen were made idle by the power failure.

The blast in the 1½-storey sub-station on the town's eastern outskirts blew three Hydro employees — James Houser, Ted Gambling and James Hall—out of the building but none was injured. A fourth man, Clifford Bricker, escaped injury when the explosion slammed shut a fire door in the control room in which he had been working.

Bad Weather Stops Jet "Battle" At Game

WINNIPEG, Nov. 25 (CP) — The RCAF late yesterday reluctantly called off fighter-bomber support planned today for Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Three Vampire jets decorated in the blue-and-gold Bomber colors were to hop the 925 miles to attack Toronto before the Grey Cup game between Bombers and Argonauts. Bad weather stopped them.

Fighter-bombers of the City of Toronto 400 fighter squadron were scheduled to intercept the trio from the City of Winnipeg 402 reserve fighter-bomber squadron.

Runs Down Husband "Just To Scare Him"

AKRON, O., Nov. 25 (AP).—Mrs. Marie Law, 28, was held under $5,000 bond today accused of running down her husband Russell, 27, with the family automobile. He was in poor condition in hospital.

Detective captain John Struzenski said "if he does not recover, we will charge her with first degree murder."

Struzenski said Mrs. Law admitted in a statement she pinned her husband against a tree on the third try, near their home yesterday. She rammed the car over the sidewalk twice "just to scare him" and then struck him, he quoted her as saying.

Tito Frees Enemy, Gets Confession

Former Friends Split Over Russia, Had Big Following

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 25—(AP)—Premier Tito yesterday caused a sensation by releasing from prison his former close collaborator after the man signed a confession that he treacherously plotted against the Yugoslav government.

The man released is Mladen Zujovic. He once had a strong following among the Yugoslavs, especially the dominant Serbs, and was the man the Russians once apparently had regarded as strong enough to unseat the rebel Tito. The confession meant Tito had broken down one of his toughest opponents.

Zujovic was finance minister in Tito's cabinet and a member of the Yugoslav Communist party's central committee before the Soviet-led Cominform broke with Tito in 1948. Zujovic was an old-line Communist who had been in the party for 25 years and also was a general in Tito's anti-Nazi Partison movement. He had been in prison for more than two years.

Path of Truth

Zujovic emphasized in a confession that Tito's Communist party had "saved me and millions of others from a dreadful nightmare and put us on the path of truth." He confessed to detailed spying on Yugoslavia and the Communist party for Russia.

In a statement preceding the confession, the State Prosecutor said Zujovic had been "re-educated" in prison. He had been released "because his confession showed he was re-educated and because in Yugoslavia re-education is the purpose of our criminal law."

14 Qualified

By 11 a.m. today both Mayor Max J. Swanston and Alderman Hurrell Dodds had qualified for the mayoralty contest.

So had 10 of the 13 aldermen who were nominated Friday night. Still to sign their qualification papers—signifying that they intend to stand for election—were Alderman Adam Sands, Alderman Dr. Herbert Young, and Milford G. Hardill.

Nominees have until 9 p.m. to qualify as candidates.

Of the five nominated for Board of Education only two had qualified—Frank Jobbitt and John Sparrow; but the other three—W. B. Gordon, Mrs. Katherine Bell and Dr. Ralph Honey—have signified their intention of doing so later in the day.

Fred Hills, acclaimed to a three-year term as utilities commissioner, had also signed his qualification papers.

13 Candidates Proposed For Five Vacant Seats On City's Aldermanic Board

City's Annual Meeting Of Ratepayers Draws One Of Largest Crowds; Appeals Made To Voters On Many Issues

Contests for the office of Mayor and five aldermanic seats were definite and immediate results of the municipal nominations Friday night. Mayor Max J. Swanston, seeking his third term, faces the challenge of Ald. Hurrell Dodds now completing his sixth year in the city council. Thirteen prospective candidates were proposed for council, and most of them announced that they were accepting nomination.

City council chamber was crowded for the annual meeting of ratepayers going about the business of sponsoring citizens for the elective offices of Mayor, Council, Utilities Commissioner and Board of Education.

Fred Hills alone drew an acclamation returning him to the Utilities Commission for a fourth term of three years.

City Clerk Outram announced the following nominations for mayor and council:

Maxwell J. Swanston, manager, proposed by Hugh F. Waddell and Herbert I. Bradburn.

Hurrell Dodds, gentleman, proposed by ... and W. J. Moorhead.

And for the five places in the council:

Norman Graham, contractor, by Colin J. Hogan and Harold Sanderson.

Percy Luther, contractor, by H. I. Bradburn and Vern A. Selkirk.

Arthur B. Burrows, merchant, by W. B. Gordon and James E. Gillespie.

Arthur R. Bennett, decorator, by Percy J. Harrison and Percy A. Martyn.

Harold Thomas Rehill, merchant, by Col. J. A. Dewart and Dick Raine.

Percy James Harrison, merchant, by Oscar S. Matchett and Hurrell Dodds.

James Earl Gillespie, automobile dealer, by K. N. Kingston and H. I. Bradburn.

Grenville Gordon Lathangue, toolmaker, by K. G. Billings and Murray D. Irwin.

Adams B. Sands, realtor, by W. G. Ovens and E. C. Braund.

Orville Jeffrey Martin, clerk, by Neil P. McNulty and Alfred Barber.

Dr. Herbert N Young, physician, by James Hamilton and H. F. Waddell.

Milford G. Hardill, manager by Ald. H. Young and James Hamilton.

City Clerk Outram reminded the nominees they had until 9 p.m. Saturday to declare their acceptance of nomination and to qualify for candidature. The municipal elections are on Monday, Dec. 4, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

When the hour for receiving nominations closed at 8.30, the assembly resolved itself into the customary ratepayers' meeting to hear nominees. Several of them had to leave the council chamber prior to that opportunity which

EDMONTON, Nov. 25—(CP)—Bodies of five of the 20 persons killed by Tuesday's Canoe River train crash have not been recovered from the fire-scarred wreckage, and there is little chance they can be found now.

This was revealed last night by Dr. Max Cantor, Alberta's chief coroner, who said that an exthrough the wreckage on the night of the crash came after only 15 bodies had been recovered.

Dr. Cantor said it is believed "there is nothing left that can be taken out."

Still Search

However, railroad workers still are turning over the wreck debris. The first of several hearings into the crash, an inquiry on behalf of the Canadian National Railways, was scheduled to open today at Kamloops, B.C., 191 miles west of the wreck. The Board of Transport Commissioners has scheduled a public inquiry for Dec. 11 at Edmonton.

The crash occurred 312 miles west of here, a troop train and a 5 BODIES LEFT

New Pacific Route for Can. Airlift

McCHORD FIELD, Wash., Nov. 25 — (CP). — Canada's North Star airlift to Korea will be rerouted by way of Hawaii starting next Friday, the RCAF announced last night.

The present route is by way of Anchorage, Alaska and Shemya in the Aleutians. The Hawaii jaunt is designed to keep the aircraft out of the low-pressure areas along the present route.

Wing Cmdr. C. H. Mussells of Montreal, officer commanding No. 426 Squadron, said that during the winter the cold is severe and winds vary between 70 and 100 miles an hour along the Alaska-Aleutians route.

The RCAF has mapped out a southern route which dodges the winds on the westward flight. But it uses them as tail winds on the homeward hop.

The 12-plane airlift has flown 2,744 passengers and 840,000 lbs. of freight in five months' operation over the north route.

The new route's over-all distance is 13,000 miles. That is roughly equivalent to halfway around the world. The Squadron utilized a couple of "deadhead" — without payload — flights to work the route out.

The announcement followed rumors that the Squadron was flying "lots" of trips to Japan and back without passengers or cargo.

Drew To Speak

MONTREAL, Nov. 25 (CP)—George Drew, opposition leader in the House of Commons, will address the closing banquet here of the Dec. 4 general meeting of Progressive Conservatives in Montreal district. Six hundred delegates from 46 regional riding are expected to attend.

Rain From South, Snow To Follow In Winter Kick

By The Canadian Press

A sudden change in the weather overnight brought rain today to Southern Ontario while the province still reeled from yesterday's storm that left 30 inches of snow in places. A rainstorm headed northward from Virginia was due to sweep the Lake Ontario region by afternoon, forecasters said. Then a snowstorm following the rain would rake the area during the night. After that the weather would turn cold with the temperature falling to about 20 degrees.

In Toronto, scene of today's Grey Cup football final, rain and a maximum temperature of 45 to 50 degrees were forecast.

5 Deaths

The storm yesterday blew into Ontario from the prairies, causing five deaths in Ontario and one in Quebec, as well as numerous traffic accidents. It moved into Quebec during the afternoon.

The western Ontario town of Preston reported a 30-inch snowfall, deepest in the province. The snow there hampered efforts to restore electrical power disrupted during the forenoon by an explosion and fire in the town's power plant.

Icing conditions in the Alexandria district of Eastern Ontario yesterday were blamed for the death of Joseph King, 56, who was in an automobile that skidded against a standing train. A companion, Noe Valade, was injured.

The storm took its toll in lives in Ontario when two women were killed in a highway accident near Tillsonburg, a workman was crushed to death when a truck skidded on an icy road near Kitchener, and a man was killed in a car-truck collision near Sarnia.

In a shack north of Montreal an 82-year-old man was found suffering from exposure. He died later in Hospital from gangrene and a lung condition.

Chrysler Layoff For Changeover

WINDSOR, Nov. 25 (CP)—An approaching change-over to 1951 passenger models by the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, involving lay-offs of some employees, was indicated yesterday in a statement by the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO). The statement said that the company and union had agred to pay holiday pay for Christmas and New Year's to those employees laid off in the model change.

Harry Rooney, UAW international representative, said the company had agreed to waive a section of the contract which says workmen must work the day before paid statutory holidays in order to receive holiday pay.

No Fault of Workers

"Since it will be no fault of the workers that they will not be able to meet the requirements of the contract, the company intends to pay them for Christmas and New Year's as though they had met those requirements," Mr. Rooney said.

Under the arrangement, he added, Chrysler workers who are laid off in the change-over will have to be recalled by Feb. 1 at the latest, and their return must not be only temporary for the purpose of getting the holiday pay.

Employees not laid off would have to meet normal requirements to become eligible for holiday pay.

6 Nations Plan European Gov't

By PHILIP CLARKE.

STRASBOURG, France, Nov. 25 (AP).—Political leaders of six western countries met here today to begin work on a plan for a European government.

The leaders—all delegates to the European Consultative Assembly—were to consider a scheme by Ronald Mackay, Labor member of the British Parliament for Reading North. The plan would transform the council of Europe into a real government and two-house parliament with authority covering the political, economic and military affairs of member countries.

The committee is made up of representatives from Britain, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium, France and Germany.

The Consultative Assembly last night voted 83 to 7 with 19 abstentions to recommend immediate creation of a European army, including German troops. Only the German Socialist delegates voted "no."

The German Socialists still insist upon written guarantees of complete German equality in any projected European defence set-up.

The German Christian Democrats who had planned to abstain, came out in favor of the resolution after a revision inserted guarantees of equal treatment for German units in such a defence force.

10 Provinces, Ottawa

To Try Separate Constitution Solutions

OTTAWA, Nov. 25—(CP)—Canada's 11 governments are going to try individually to come up with an acceptable solution to the most difficult problem of the many standing in the way of agreement on a procedure for future constitutional amendments.

Representatives of the governments—members of the continuing committee of Attorneys-General—decided yesterday after wrestling with the problem for two days to adjourn further work until next month. In the meantime, the representatives will study the problem with their own governments.

Amending Formula

The governments know what they want—an amending formula that will protect the particular rights of Quebec and those of the other provinces without giving any one province the right to veto a change desired by the majority.

For instance, they don't want a small province such as Prince Edward Island to have the power to block a compulsory contributory old-age pension program desired by the majority. They don't want a big province like either Ontario or Quebec to have the power to block something desired by nine other provinces.

At the same time, there is the question of protecting Quebec's language rights and her own legal system. Quebec operates under the civil code, based on old French and Roman law. The remaining provinces operate under English common law.

Meet Next Month

An official statement issued by Justice Minister Garson, chairman of the committee, at the conclusion of discussions said the attorneys-general will meet again next month while they are here for the federal-provincial conference on fiscal and other matters.

That conference opens Dec. 4 and is due to be followed by the third plenary session of the federal-provincial constitutional conference. The first plenary session was held here last January and the second in Quebec last September.

The aim of the governments is to obtain for Canada full power to amend her own constitution—the British North America Act, passed by the United Kingdom parliament in 1867 when the Canadian provinces decided to federate.

A year ago parliament obtained from the United Kingdom power to amend the constitution on all matters within federal jurisdiction. The provinces have always had the power to make amendments on matters solely within provincial jurisdiction.

Hurricane Winds Hit New York City

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP) — Winds of hurricane force struck the metropolitan area today, sweeping sea water at least a mile inland at one spot, tumbling houses and blowing down trees.

Ten persons were reported rescued from three seaside homes at Tottenville on Staten Island. Also on Staten Island tides swept inland for a mile over five beaches. Residents nearby were ordered to evacuate their homes.

Idlewild airport reported wind gusts of 76 miles an hour with an average velocity of 60 miles an hour.

Canadian Ships

Fight 'Dull' Naval War

By DAVE McINTOSH.
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

ABOARD HMCS SIOUX OFF CHINA COAST, Nov. 25 (CP). — When Canada's flotilla of three destroyers set off for Hong Kong for a brief respite from the Korean war, it was the first time in 78 sea days that the men had been able to get out of lifejackets or have lights showing at night.

For almost the first time since the destroyers Sioux, Cayuga and Athabaskan joined the war in the east, the pressure was off.

And the pressure has been heavy in the tough business in which the ships have been engaged.

Most of all, there has been the gnawing danger of Russian-made mines, which wrecked three American destroyers and a minesweeper. One day the Sioux was relieved on patrol by a U.S. ship. A few hours later the American vessel was shattered by an exploded mine.

On Oct. 10 the Sioux was ordered, with the British cruiser Kenya, to bombard an enemy battery near Fankoch Point, about 60 miles west if Inchon.

At the last minute the Kenya was ordered to hold off. Cmdr. Paul Taylor of Victoria took his ship within 8,000 yards of shore and anchored. The Sioux's 4.7 inch guns pounded the battery for 37½ minutes. It never replied. On direct hit was scored on the ammunition dump and an observer aircraft reported the battery "kaput."

Not One Snow Flake Falls In Kingston

KINGSTON, Nov. 25 (CP). — The Kingston district was one of the few Ontario areas to escape the heavy snow storm which swept across most of the province yesterday. Not one snow flake fell here, it was reported.

Canada Gives $5,000,000 To Korea

Will Spend Money In Canada For Rehabilitation

OTTAWA, Nov. 25—(CP)—Canada is expected to pour roughly $5,000,000 into the relief and rehabilitation of Korea. The government has already agreed to ask parliament to vote a certain sum at the session starting early in 1951, and it is believed to be of that order of magnitude.

Most of the money would be spent in Canada, buying lumber, food and other commodities to be shipped to the battle-razed peninsula for use by a United Nations Relief Agency patterned on the post-war U.N.R.R.A. in Europe.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, at a press conference yesterday, said Canada's U.N. delegation has been hammering at this general assembly in New York for a distribution of the costs of aiding Korea on an assessment basis.

But he admitted that the idea has made few yards. It appeared to be the broad desire to ask member countries to make voluntary donations.

No Specific Sum

The Dominion cabinet, he indicated, has already agreed to recommend a Canadian contribution that would be roughly the same proportion as the 3.26 per cent. Canada puts into the general U.N. budget annually. However, he mentioned no specific sum.

The tentative figure mentioned at New York for the full U.N. donation is around $250,000,000. This would appear to put Canada's contribution around $7,500,000, but this is believed to be considerably above the actual figure agreed on by Cabinet.

Mr. Pearson at the same time indicated that another demand on the Canadian Treasury is shaping up. He said the broad outline of the long-range Commonwealth Plan for helping build up southeast Asia will be released Tuesday.

But, he said, it won't tell how much it's going to cost Canada. That bill, too, will have to be laid before parliament as the final purse strings.

FRIGID TEMPERATURES, wind-whipped waves and swirling snow make life something less than cozy for UN fighting forces in Korea. Cpl. Ove Pearson, above, 7th Marines, of Boston, Mass., had to chop through thick ice of the Changjin River with his bayonet to get water to fill up his canteen.

Haggis Shipped For U.S. Dollars

PRESTMICK, Scotland, Nov. 25 (Reuters).—In Britain's drive for dollars even a haggis counts. So tartan-ribboned specimens which leave by air for the United States today will bring in something like $3 each.

But getting a haggis across the Atlantic has been a stiff task.

First, a Board of Trade export licence was required. Then each haggis had to be examined before a certificate could be issued saying it was fit for consumption.

Last year at this time, puzzled American authorities, unable to make head or tail of the haggis, refused them admission.

Haggis, according to one alleged expert, is "everything in

In fact, it is an innocent concoction of oatmeal, flour, onions and blood, wrapped up in a sheep's stomach.

ceeded planning expectations." With Gen. MacArthur personally signalling the kick-off, the push began Friday morning after a prolonged lull and rumors of peace.

On the snow-mantled northeast front, the South Korean capital division thrust to the edge of Chongjin, last major North Korean city south of the Soviet Siberian border 60 air miles away.

U.S. Marine and carrier-based planes supported the capital division and allied forces elsewhere in the northeast.

But it was on the northwest push that MacArthur was pinning his hopes for ending the war by Christmas.

On the west end of the line, an unopposed tank-led task force of the 24th Division seized hills overlooking Chongju on the eastern outskirts. The Americans were preparing to enter the city at noon Saturday.

Other elements of the 24th, advancing west of Pakchon on the right flank, reported destroying a Joseph Stalin III tank, a Russian-built model weighing nearly 60 tons.

It was the first such official designation of a giant Red tank in Korea, although Allied troops early in the war reported seeing mammoth tanks. Later, however, they encountered only the T-34 medium tank. Hundreds were destroyed.

East of the 24th, the South Korean 1st Division was hit twice by about 3,000 Communists in the wintry dawn southeast of Taechon. But by daylight the South Koreans punched back. A spokesman said they drove the Reds back but still faced stiff resistance.

Advance 3 Miles

Further east, the U.S. 2nd and 25th Divisions advanced up to three miles Saturday.

AP correspondent William J. Waugh reported that air observers spotted a Red division, about 8,000 men, moving south Saturday.

Across the peninsula's mountainous spine, in the north-central sector, U.S. 1st Marine Division patrols reached the northeastern tip of the Changjin Reservoir. On the west side of the big lake, Marines continued moving northward, but were slowed by unmanned road blocks.

To Link Up

Farther northeast, the 32nd regiment of the U.S. 7th division was pushing northward toward a link-up with the division's 17th regiment which already is on the Yalu river.

To the southwest of the front, the South Korean division routed elements of the Chinese 126th division Friday. Curiously, the Chinese retreated south, instead of north.

Far behind the front, three flights of Marine Corsairs made a flaming ruin of the guerrilla nerve centre of Sangosan, 23 miles south of the big east coast allied supply port of Wonsan. The Marine planes struck Friday night, blowing up a fuel dump and setting buildings afire.

Jet Transports

VICTORIA, B.C., Nov. 25 (CP)—Jet-propelled transport aircraft, flying at 50,000 feet, will be in regular service within 18 months on trans-Pacific routes out of Vancouver, Grant McConachie, president of Canadian Pacific Airlines, said Friday.

Lakefield Council Given Acclamation

Lakefield will not have a municipal election this year. T. W. Chaplin, the fourth nominee for three vacancies on the School Board, did not qualify on Friday night, and this avoided an election.

However, a money by-law for debentures of $352,000—covering the cost of the village's proposed waterworks, sewers, and sewage disposal system—will go to the ratepayers for a "yes" or "no" vote November 3.

Here is the list of Lakefield's 1951 municipal officers:

Cold, Snow Hit Eastern States

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 — (AP) — Severe cold and snow covered a large part of the Eastern United States today, hitting areas from the Rockies eastward to New England and putting a chill and a carpet of white over parts of the south.

Snow storms swept the northeastern states last night and today. Brisk winds and biting cold completed the wintry setting.

The northeastern region was promised no immediate relief. Moderating temperatures were forecast in some of the western states, but it was still heavy-overcoat weather for the midwest.

The late-November, wind-swept snow storm, after sweeping across the mid-continent, whipped across the [illegible] Mountain and lower Great Lakes region. Strong winds swirled the freshly-fallen snow into huge drifts in many areas. Temperatures dipped to new low marks for the date in many parts of the cold belt.

More than 20 inches of snow covered northern West Virginia areas. Pittsburgh's fall of more than 10 inches impeded streetcar and suburban train service.

Wet snow snarled traffic in the Buffalo, N.Y., area, where a fall of from 10 to 18 inches was forecast.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 25 (CP) — July rye hit a seasonal low in coarse grains futures trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange Friday. Prices generally were down from Thursday.

Hedging sales in flax found buyers wanting. Class 2 and IWA wheat prices were unchanged.

2 Enter Contest Havelock Reeve ControversyKeen

HAVELOCK, Nov. 25—(ENS)—Havelock had a lively nomination meeting Friday when several controversial matters were brought up and five men were nominated for the reeveship. The five were Reeve E. J. Leeson, E. W. Seeney, veteran in Havelock municipal affairs, Fred Pollock, Richard Sanderson and W. E. Griffith. Only Reeve Leeson and Mr. Seeney are likely to proceed to qualify. Mr. Griffith withdrew because he is contesting the reeveship of Belmont and Methuen.

Nominated for council were the four present members: John Davidson, B. A. Curtis, William Longmuir and Bert Jewell, and a new nominee Fred Pollock, who withdrew his name from the slate for the reeveship.

The three retiring school trustees were nominated: James Calman, Bert Marten and Russell Williams. Two were nominated for Hydro Commissioners: E. W. Seeney and Donald Mathison. If Mr. Seeney enters the contest for reeve, which is virtually certain, Mr. Mathison will have the position by acclamation.

Reeve Leeson's Position

Reeve Leeson is definitely in the running again; he is now completing six years as reeve, and prior to that was a member of the council for seven years. He was first elected in 1927.

The tax rate of 75 mills came up repeatedly for discussion. Reeve Leeson reminded the nomination meeting that he had told them in 1948 that they must not look for lower taxes. The cost of everything had gone up; so had the cost of municipal services. And there had been a back-log of necessary work to be done which could not be attended to during the war years. In addition, the post-war expansion had brought new demands on the taxes.

He estimated that the financing statement would show at the end of the year a balance of $288. There was also the $5,000 bond bought during ex-reeve Seeney's regime. Reeve Leeson said it was a good sign that despite high taxes, there were only $3,106 outstanding in taxes as yet unpaid.

He felt that the deficit would be lowered next year, although not completely wiped out.

Dissatisfaction Aired

Ernest W. Seeney has announced for reeve. He retired from municipal affairs at the end of 1945, after 17 consecutive years' service, 10 as reeve, seven as councillor. He said that there was so much dissatisfaction with things now, that many had approached him to let his name stand for reeve.

"Five years ago the village was in excellent financial shape. It had no debenture debt. The streets, drains, Public School and High School were in good condition. There was also a substantial cash balance, including the $5,000 bond," he said. In his opinion the rink committee would not have had the trouble and expense to get water for the rink if municipal affairs had been managed along the lines of the years before 1945.

Mr. Leeson reminded the audience that he had been superannuated from the railway last September and now would have more time to serve the community.

Griffith Challenges

W. E. Griffith, nominated for reeve, who withdrew his name, challenged Reeve Leeson to justify his position on the county assessor and the proposed new area High School. Mr. Leeson replied that he was in favor of assessment equalization, because since he had been on the equalization committee he had found out the poor and unbalanced shape assessments were in. He said that other villages, townships and counties were adjusting their assessments, because it was beneficial to do so. He was in favor of the new area school 'because we cannot get out of it, no matter who is in the council."

A controversy ensued. Mr. Griffith charged that "the local assessor is a prisoner in the hands of the county assessor." Richard Sanderson withdrew his name from the contest for reeve, and at the same time associated himself with the sentiments of Mr. Griffith. He was dissatisfied with the high tax rate and the assessment system being devised.

Of the men nominated for council, John Davidson has had senior experience, having been a member since 1946. B. A. Curtis has served since 1947. William Longmuir has had two years, 1948 and 1950. Bert Jewell is now completing his first year.

Robert Savers, chairman of the School Board, reported that it had spent nearly as much money as the council, but "if anyone went down to the school he would see for himself where it went." He said not as much money would be needed next year. E. D. Chiles reported on the progress of the new hydro system being installed.

Spying Changes Oil Scouts Operate Freely

EDMONTON —(CP)— "Spies" are operating openly in Alberta —oil spies, that is.

Some 35 of these undercover agents are ferreting out information for their rival oil companies on the latest development in Alberta's mushrooming oil industry.

But some of the older scouts who recall the wild and woolly days of oil development in the United States complain their trade has lost its glamor. They say that Alberta oilmen are too friendly. They'll gladly exchange information that formerly took weeks to obtain.

Most of the operators, or scouts as they prefer to be called, are university-trained geologists who can piece together fragments of information into a picture which will indicate to their companies whether or not a designated area is "hot."

Now they've formed the Western Canada Oil Scouts Association. Their organization meets every Wednesday in a Red Deer hotel to swap information.

Used to be Exciting

In early days of Texas oil development the scout had a more exciting existence. He spent much at "enemy" positions and ran the risk of getting his head bloodied. Sometimes he did a little bloodying himself.

In Alberta the scout finds himself collecting a good deal of information direct from the head offices of opposition companies —a degrading experience for a spy.

And the modern scout never uses binoculars to get his material.

Said one scout: "Glasses you drink out of will get you a lot more information than the kind you look through."

Ont. Labor Group Scores Thompson

TORONTO, Nov. 25 —(CP)— The executive of the Ontario Federation of Labor (CIO-CCL) Friday endorsed a resolution asking that the Ontario Liberal Association dissociate itself from what the Federation called the "irresponsible and anti-labor" utterances of Walter Thomson, new Ontario Liberal leader.

It said in a statement that it agreed with a suggestion of the Oshawa Labor Council which recently called on Mr. Thomson to resign his Ontario riding seat in the Commons.

"Mr. Thomson's indignant rejection of this suggestion indicates he either intends to be an absentee representative of an important industrial riding at Ottawa or a part-time leader of the Liberal party in Ontario," the Federation said.

Turkish Students In Western Dress

ISTANBUL —(Reuters)—When the English High School for Girls was founded here 100 years ago this month, a few timid, heavily-veiled, guarded girls were the first Turkish pupils.

Today the Turkish pupils at the school wear gym bloomers, white blouses and badge-adorned hats, much the same as girls in British and Canadian schools. They go around unveiled, and their step has the vigor of the untrammelled modern miss in any civilized country.

The elder pupils differ in only one fashion from other Turkish girls—they wear no make-up. At least, not in school hours. The English headmistress, Miss D. E. Thompson, says "we have only one rule about make-up: "none".

2 Contesting Otonabee Reeveship

An all-out battle for office of reeve and deputy reeve is looming in Otonabee.

Dick Stewart, deputy-reeve for the last two years, qualified for the reeveship shortly after the nomination meeting in the Keene town hall, late Friday afternoon. And as Harry Reid, reeve for the last two years, also qualified it indicated a two-way fight for the 1951 reeveship.

Roy Spears and Dave McIntyre, both of them prominent in Otonabee politics for a number of years, qualified after being nominated for deputy reeve.

Nominees have until 9 a.m. Saturday to make a final decision whether to run or no. About attended Friday's nomination meeting which was described as "quiet".

Feature of nominations for council was the re-appearance of Peter Mather, former reeve of Otonabee and warden of Peterborough county in 1943. Though nominated he has not indicated if he will stand.

Altogether five men were nominated for the three council seats: Norman McConkey, councillor for the last two years; Mr. Mathers, William Chambers, Dave McIntyre and Roy Spears.

Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Spears declined so they could contest the seat for deputy reeve. Mr. McConkey, by press time, was the only one who had qualified. Unless Mr. Mather and Mr. Chambers agree to run another nomination meeting will have to be called.

Four names have been put forward for the two vacancies on the Otonabee School Area Board. Two of them—Wellington Sutton and Frank Savigny—have qualified, but the remaining two—Arnold Sexsmith and Willan Hutchinson —have not indicated whether or not they will qualify and thus force an election for the board.

The Best U.S.A. Aid To Russia

It is not generally realized that after Germany attacked Russia in 1941, thousands of Russian technicians went to the U.S.A. and worked in American factories. Those were the days when Russia became a valued co-belligerent, if not a gallant ally. These thousands of Russians eventually went back to Russia, with their new skills and knowledge of American production methods, factory systems and technical processes. As the American magazine Time points out in its current issue, this experience and knowledge have paid off handsomely. The latest U.S.S.R. production figures show the following increases (in millions) from 1940:

Steel ingots, from 18.3 metric tons in 1940 to 21.2 tons in 1949.
Coal, from 160 to 236 tons.
Oil, from 31 to 34.2 tons.
Aluminum, from 56.7 to 160 tons.
Electricity, from 48,300 to 70,000 kilowatt-hours.

* * *

Thus Russia has made a remarkable recovery from the war damage inflicted on her basic industries; and a notable advance. Much of this is due to the Russians' increased technical skill, and some of that increase is a result of the experience gained by the thousands of Russian technicians who were guests of the U.S.A. and its factories during the war. In thus helping Russia fight the war against the Germans, the U.S.A. unwittingly has helped them wage the Cold War, now so terribly heated, against the U.S.A. itself.

* * *

When historians write the story of this new half-century it may be found that the best help [illegible] drive for world domination was from the U.S.A. in the years 1941-45, through American technological training.

Enervation Of Canadian Cities

In 1787 the citizens of Prague commissioned Mozart to write Don Giovanni. It was not one special citizen, one nobleman or patron who asked the composer to write the opera, but the citizens, the people of the city of Prague. What citizens of what city now—say in Canada—would have both the corporate pride and cultural vitality to commission a composer to write music for their enjoyment? Certainly Canadian cities have never had the sense of entity, in commerce, society or culture, that old European cities developed.

Our cities get things done, as cities, and citizens actively support schools, service clubs, community welfare, and local sports. The winning home town team can whip up as much enthusiasm as Mozart's operas did in Prague. Our cities do have hearts. Are their spirit and mind comparable in strength?

Famous older cities have an ethos; so do some modern European ones; a culture which is their own. Canadian cities tend to be boisterous boosters of themselves, unlike Prague which called in the outsider Mozart, no home-town boy. Each patterns itself on the other, and tries to outgrow the other in stature, with too little concern for the inner cultivation. It is true that they establish things like Recreation Commissions; but Recreation Commissions are not likely to commission a Healey Willan to write an Ode To Joy just to delight the citizens. They might possibly ask him to write a hymn on cleanliness, particularly if the Provincial Government grants would cover half the costs and service clubs could be persuaded that the project was so much for the good of the community that it was worthy of their financial support.

In saying this we have no desire to detract from civic achievements like the Toronto Art Gallery, or the public libraries, parks and educational opportunities which cities like ours provide. In defence of our own Canadian cities it can be said that most are very new; they have not sprung from classical city-states or medieval walled towns, where each was a fortress and society unto itself developing of necessity its own character, virtues and vices. Most Canadian cities are creations, not growths. Town sites were surveyed in the wilderness, and there the place took being.

Will our Canadian cities ever have characters of their own, and not merely external distinctions? The way municipal affairs are now shaping there is little likelihood of it. Fewer than half the eligible voters bother to cast ballots at civic elections, and the cities sit meekly by while Provincial authorities rob them of their prerogatives as cities; sap their vitality through making them dependent on government hand-outs; weaken their capacity for decision and carving their own futures by making Councils virtually subservient to centralized Municipal Boards, and to government departments like Municipal Affairs, Planning and Development, and Education. Why, even municipal Recreation Commissions are the creation of Queen's Park.

Ontario cities have lost much of the right to self-government and self-determination which Robert Baldwin bestowed on them through his splendidly conceived legislation of 1849. Exactly a hundred years ago Peterborough was created a town. Is its civic franchise being lost to it now and whatever developing spirit and culture it had, stamped in Queen's Park pattern?

While Peterborough Sleeps

It is long past midnight. The streets are quiet and empty, even George Street, with its stop-and-go lights blinking in rhythmic clicks unwatched and unheeded, except by a late taxi and a rare, unaccountable private car. As a rite, they come to a stop on the red, patiently conditioned by the day's and the city's order.

The men on night shifts have entered the bowels of their plants. The roisterers have been shepherded home, or are in jail. The 300-watt bulbs on their arms light the frost-whitened silent streets. A solitary policeman makes his rounds, staring at the one pedestrian, registering automatically in his brain the shape and make of the car that has passed, turning his torch into an alleyway.

The midnight from Toronto whistles, a high note and weird. 'Midnight', in local parlance. It's very near 1:30. The train sounds as if it were at Kendry, at the highway, now. Still time to catch it with a late letter for Montreal, or even Toronto, though the train is going east.

Only the station has life and light. Carts of mail, wagons of baggage and freight, wait to be wheeled to the proper car doors. The whistle is lower pitched now. Shadows of men push the carts along the platform. A couple of taximen get out of their cabs. The automatic bell at the Aylmer street crossing jangles, a welcome tinkle at that hour, a signal of life in the sleeping city. The 'midnight' puffs in, only one or two carriages lit. They are the day coaches In the dark cars are a Pakistan envoy returning to Ottawa, a Cabinet minister, a big businessman with big deals in his nightmares; all asleep in their berths. They do not know that they have reached Peterborough.

A handful of passengers gets out. The mail men board their bags; the express men load their packages. The man with the rush letter for Toronto says to the man in the mail car: "Do you take letters for Toronto?" Yes, they take letters for Toronto. They will put them off to a west-bound train later. At Sharbot Lake, perhaps, in the frozen hours of the early morning?

The station lights go out as the red light on the last carriage disappears over the Otonabee bridge. Now Peterborough goes to sleep in full earnest.

The man at the car's wheel waits at George and Sherbrooke for the light to turn green. Then he turns into Sherbrooke. A woman off the train is trudging along with two suit-cases. He stops, lowers the windows. "Are you going [illegible]?" "No, thanks, just around the corner".

"Good-night."

"Good-night."

Peterborough recovers its quiet, its intimacy, its friendly, small-town quality at two in the morning.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The younger you are, the better the first snowstorm looks.

A naturalist says that the crow is five times smarter than the owl. But the owl—the politician of the bird world—continues to look smart and take credit for it.

A riot began in Djakarta, in Indonesia, when a baby elephant wandered on the dance floor. In Canada this would merely make people wonder who had brought the stout girl in grey.

A contemporary refers to Kingston as "this bustling old city of 40,000 odd souls". That's a lot of odd souls, undoubtedly, but preferable to a city in which 40,000 appeared to share the same soul, and that a very ordinary one.

Hugh Gaitskell, the new British Chancellor of the Exchequer, has decided not to move into No. 11 Downing Street, the official residence of his office. Is that just a matter of convenience, or an election prediction?

The original Gibson girl, now 77, says that girls in her day were more attractive than their grand-daughters. Very likely, but biology goes on in a rough, general way, even when girls wear blue jeans and sloppy sweaters.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.

Dear Mr. Marchbanks:

As president of the Militant Females League I am writing to ask you to appear as Santa Claus at our annual Christmas party this year. It will be next Wednesday, and there will be approximately 140 militant females present. I am sorry that we have not been able to hold our Christmas party earlier; we had hoped for a date early in October, but several members had not returned from their summer vacations, and it could not be managed.

I recall your suggestion last year that it would be appropriate for such a League as ours if some outstanding Militant Female were to appear as the jolly old saint. We asked the presidents of several important women's organizations before we fell back on you, but none of them could come.

However, eight of our committee have expressed willingness to act as Santa's reindeer, and will carry you into the meeting on their shoulders. As we are anxious that you should be comfortable in every way we can let you ride our Vice-President, piggy-back, if you prefer it.

Don't trouble to reply to this. Just turn up promptly.

(MRS.) KEDIJAH SCISSORBILL.

To Steamiron & Son, Tailors

Dear Mr. Steamiron:

I have received the new suit which you made for me, and it now hangs in my cupboard. And will hang there, I may say, until some extraordinary occasion forces me to bring it out and put it on.

Not that I don't like the suit, mind you. On the contrary, it is a lovely suit. That is why I cannot bring myself to wear it. The fact is, Mr. Steamiron, I am hard on suits. I am a knee-bagger, a waistcoat-rumpler, and a seat-shiner. After I have worn a new suit three times, it looks as if it had been given to me by the Salvation Army. Worst of all, I am a gravy-dropper; the last time I put on a new suit which you had made, with loving care in every stitch, I had put a small map of Australia on the right lapel with beef gravy, not an hour afterward.

Why don't you get your suits cleaned, I hear you say. But Mr. Steamiron, I am not a man who quickly takes to new ways. My grandfather never had a suit cleaned in his life; he said it was bad for the cloth. But he was an uncommonly tidy eater. What is more, my grandfather never hung suits on hangers. He always folded them and laid them away in drawers. He was buried in a suit which he had had for twenty years, and it looked fine. Perhaps I would be wise to put your beautiful suit aside for a similar use. (I always think of the suits you make as yours until I have paid for them.)

Your sartorially disgraceful customer,
S. MARCHBANKS.

To Chandos Fribble

Learned Fribble:

Yesterday a picture in a magazine for women, called "Glamour" was drawn to my attention; it showed a reasonably toothsome young woman wearing spectacles, who was engaged in reading a large leather-bound book; with one hand she was thoughtfully scratching her head. Underneath the picture was advice, addressed to women in general, to curl up with a good book.

This is an expression which I am at a loss to understand. I read a good many books myself, but I never feel disposed to curl up while doing so. Now and then in the course of my duties as a book-reviewer I read a book which causes me to curl, slightly, but not with pleasure; I uncurl at once and write something nasty about the book. Why are women such curlers, in their literary moods?

I may say, in passing, that I would never dream of lending a book to a woman who was a head-scratcher. Human hair and dandruff are nasty things to find between the pages of a book. I once knew a man who used his pipe as a bookmark. At least women are free from that disgusting trick.

But to return to our curling; have you ever tried to curl up with a book? It brings about cramp; it makes you read sideways, which is bad for the eyes; persisted in, it gives you not only curvature of the spine, but curvature of the brain, and a low literary taste.

You have heard people say of somebody that he has a wrong slant on things? He got it by curling up with the wrong books, and reading them sideways.

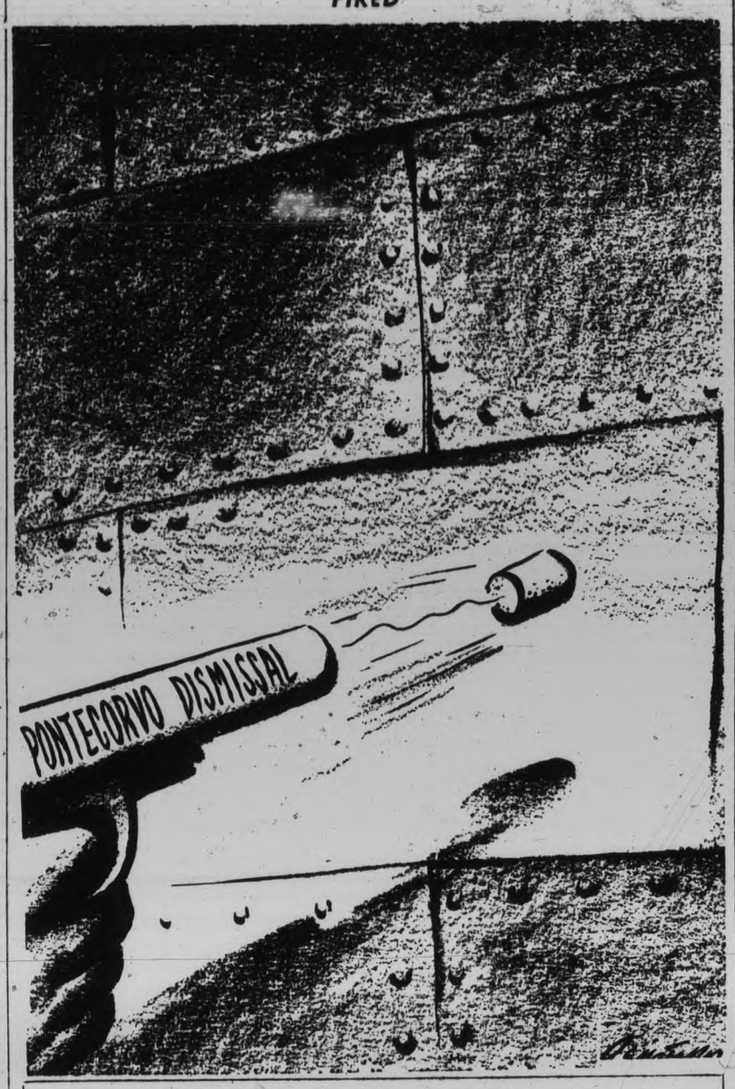
Yours, from my armchair,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.

Dear Mr. Marchbanks:

As the festive season draws near, I implore your consideration of the Individual Greeting Cards which I am prepared to paint for you for a very small sum. These cards are designed to carry not merely your Christmas wishes, but you yourself, into the homes of all your friends.

I have a large stock of cards of typical greeting scenes. Upon receiving your order I immediately paint a charming miniature portrait of yourself upon the characters appearing on those cards, and ship them to you.



Thus, in a card showing the Three Wise Men you will appear to be all three of them. In cards representing Santa Claus, your face will appear instead of the usual red face of the saint. In cards showing French-Canadian scenes, you can be all the habitants. In cards showing jolly old squires in red coats, you can be the squire. And in cards intended particularly for your child friends, you can be Rudolph the R.R.R.

Please send in your order at once, accompanied by a photograph and a blank cheque.

Letters To The Editor

SAYS YOUNG GRANDSIRE MISTAKEN

Sir: Please grant me space in your paper to reply, on behalf of the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association, to an item appearing on the second front page of the Friday, Nov. 17 issue of the Examiner.

This article condemns the issuing of morning hours for minor hockey practice. I would [illegible] management or the P.M.H.A. are forcing anyone to practice at an early hour. The rink management put these hours at our disposal and the boys were glad of a chance to practice.

Why isn't "Young Grandsire", just as loquacious concerning children's rising earlier than the minor hockey players to catch a train to Toronto to see the Santa Claus parade? Furthermore, if he were to read the schedule he would get his answer regarding "rotary system and the younger hockey fraternity".

We agree that our teams should have more time on "an arena," but space is limited on the "civic" and in our opinion the arena manager is doing a first rate job of dividing this available space.

It is our sincere wish that "Young Grandsire" should have had to give his time to unravel the snarl caused in the affairs of the P.M.H.A. by his untimely chatter.

Yours respectfully,
PUBLICITY CONVENER P.M.H.A.

HOW TO LOSE THE TAXPAYER'S MONEY

Sir: I would like to support the letter of Mrs. M. H. to your paper of Tuesday last re the loss of $10,000 in ten months upon the cafeteria at the Civic Hospital. Surely this huge sum was not lost on this one department alone! If it were, then the sooner this is closed the better for us all. It seems to me an appalling thing to lose all this money on serving meals for a few months and expect the taxpayers to gaily foot the bill. Soon we will be grovelling at this cheap food-stall. No one can afford to give such meals at the prices—29c for breakfast, 49c for dinner.

Then I wonder if this is an example of the ability of this hospital executive. Are they condoning this? And are there other glaring examples of "How to lose the taxpayers' money" in ten lessons. It's more than time for some research.

Yours respectfully,
(MRS.) M. J.

DEFENDS VAL D'OR BAPTISTS

Sir: There seems to be much misunderstanding regarding the Baptists arrested in Val d'Or for preaching the Gospel on the streets. From press and radio reports, it has become quite generally accepted that these workers are deliberately breaking the law, and should cease this phase of their ministry.

Please allow me to point out the fact that there is no by-law in that town, prohibiting street preaching. The arrests have been made on the ground that these "Baptists MIGHT become an obstacle to traffic". At no time in the past twelve years of these meetings being conducted has there been any obstruction to traffic, so caused. They have never been a menace to traffic. The plausible suggestion, so recently offered, that it might be possible for these meetings to be conducted in one of the public parks, away from the congested streets, is only another attempt to convince the public that arrests had been made in good faith because of the traffic menace.

The meetings have been conducted off the main street and around the corner on a blind street. Much has been made about conducting meetings in front of the Mayor's home. This happens to be over a restaurant. When [illegible] their regular meeting, quite often the police car has been standing nearby in waiting. Some of the arrests have actually been made while they were standing on a private lot near this corner.

The amended Traffic By-law gives unlimited power to the officers of the law in order that they might "STOP THE BAPTISTS". From responsible sources, we learn that other church celebrations and parades have caused almost complete disorganization of traffic, but all this seems to be ignored. The sidewalks are often blocked with pedestrians near the Liquor Vendor, and places of amusement, but all of this is readily permitted. About the only "possible obstacle to traffic" troubling the authorities in his town is when a Baptist attempts to witness for Christ on the street.

If a motorist drives his car through traffic against a red light, he is liable to a fine of five dollars and costs, or ten days in jail. If a Baptist stands around the corner on a blind street, giving out the message of life to a dozen or more listeners, he is fined forty dollars and costs, or two months in jail, and should he fail to pay the costs of the court, he must remain anther two months in jail.

There are just a few salient facts, which should be sufficient to convince most fair-minded citizens that this whole affair is one of religious intolerance and discrimination. The open air meetings may be over for this season, but in the meantime about a score of Baptists are behind prison bars in Amos, Quebec, where most of them must remain until next February. They did not obstruct traffic, and they did not use their religious liberty in a manner which interfered with the personal rights of their fellowmen. They are really there because certain authorities in Val d'Or are determined to stop the Baptists from doing any aggressive evangelism.

(REV.) MORLEY R. HALL.

PROTESTS AGAINST HEAVY EXPENDITURES

Sir: In November 1949 we read this paragraph from an article in the "Saturday Night." "Mr. Drew anounced in Ontario with a population of 4,000,000 we now spend 50 million annually on education." Another paragraph in the same article read as follows: "The rising burden of education after 1867 was, as a matter of fact, one of the major factors in bringing about the complete collapse of provincial finances in the 1930's."

We have (by we I mean a number of people I have been talking to) followed with interest articles, and addresses, given pertaining to city matters, and how our money is being spent and will be spent for the next few years. In the last few months we have been told all kinds of stories; very few give all the facts of the matter to which they refer. One incident was at the Prince of Wales School. We were told the proposed new collegiate would cost us about 3 to 4 dollars on our taxes. But that is only one thing. They neglected to mention additions on Grove School $60,000, Ashburnham $125,000, trunk sewers and local improvements $100,000 annually for three years, Ashburnham sewer job $100,000, Park St. drain $75,000, paving in three annual payments $100,000. These additional expenditures amount to $2,535,000. We must not forget the $50,000 for the Fire Hall in 1952. Three other items listed at $25,000 (annual items) under general municipal debts.

Mr. Humpage estimates probable tax rates in 1951 at 54.5 mills. Increase of 5 mills or more. If we give the firemen, police department, school teachers etc., all the raise in salaries they are asking for, what then?

We need working men in the Council in the two to three thousand dollar a year wage bracket. We are now paying $231.30 to the city for living in our own home. This year it will be very close to $5.00 a week. If taxes keep going up what will the average family do?

In the building of a new collegiate why are two gymnasiums required and a cafeteria? The Civic Hospital is losing money in theirs. Why put up something to lose a lot more money on besides the extra cost of building it in the first place? When the addition was planned for the Prince of Wales School why wasn't it attached to the other part of the school, thus saving a considerable amount in walls, walks, plumbing, heating etc.? And why was a bathtub installed? (This question was one that wasn't answered at the meeting in the school a few weeks ago.) Why are guards being posted at the dangerous crossings for a few hours each school day when the corners all need stop lights in operation all the time? These lights could be installed with very little extra expense than guards will cost.

This letter was written before Mrs. F. J. Parsons letter appeared in the paper, but I heartily agree with her. They should consider money doesn't grow on trees for the majority of us at least. Housewives have to figure each week to even make ends meet. We have to pass up many things every day we would like to buy. They will have to learn to do the same.

Taxes in Peterborough are higher than in 90 per cent. of the other cities. Why should this be as we rank high in industries?

For my part I think if we said no to a few of their demands and put in a few working men we might benefit greatly in the years to come. It is up to the working people and women in particular.

Thanking you,
"YOURS FOR A SQUARE DEAL".

Bible Message

And Balak the son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites....He sent messengers therefore unto Balaam the son of Beor to Pethor, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people, to call him, saying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt: behold, they cover the face of the earth, and they abide over against me: come now therefore, I pray thee, curse me this people; for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I shall prevail, that we may smite them, and that I may drive them out of the land: for I wot that he whom thou blessest is blessed, and he whom thou cursest is cursed....

And when Balak heard that Balaam was come, he went out to meet him unto a city of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, which is in the utmost coast....And Balaam said unto Balak, Lo, I come unto thee: have I now any power at all to say any thing? the word that God putteth in my mouth, that shall I speak. (Num. 22: 2, 5, 6, 36, 38.)

◇ ◇ ◇ ◇

And he took up his parable, and said, Balak the king of Moab hath brought me from Aram out of the mountains of the east, saying, Come, curse me Jacob, and come, defy Israel. How shall I curse, whom God hath not cursed? or how shall I defy, whom the Lord hath not defied?....

And Balak said unto Balaam, What hast thou done unto me? I took thee to curse mine enemies, and, behold, thou hast blessed them altogether. And he answered and said, Must I not take heed to speak that which the [illegible] have received commandment to bless: and he hath blessed; and I cannot reverse it....

Surely there is no enchantment against Jacob, neither is there any divination against Israel: according to this time it shall be said of Jacob and of Israel, What hath God wrought! (Num. 23: 7, 8, 11, 12, 20, 23.)

Essential Wills

(Manchester Guardian)

Wills, like most legal documents, are so notorious for their prolixity that it is refreshing to read of the gentleman who lately disposed of all his property, valued at £271,-551, in 17 words.

Yet that does not break records in testamentary brevity. In recent years, probate has been granted to a will bequeathing £27,-000 in 14 words, and to another dispensing of a considerable fortune in ten words scribbled in lead pencil. Matthew Arnold, as is well known, compressed his final testament into 13 words, and Sir James FitzJames did even better, with only nine.

The shortest will preserved at Somerset House was written by a clerk on an envelope, and said, "All to mother". But for the greatest pertinence of all, Rabelais is still supreme: "I possess nothing; I owe much; the rest I leave to the poor".

An airmail letter of thanks from Hollywood this week in regard to comment made in this column on Walt Disney's BEAVER VALLEY bears out my statement when they say "We believe it is one of the greatest pictures ever made."- Number Three picture in their nature series called NATURE'S HALF ACRE has to do with insects, birds and flowers. Even though it is still "in the rough", without narration or music, publicity directory Reddy says that it will equal, if not surpass the Beaver. Something to look forward to.

Wardens Lay It On The Line

Lands and Forests weekly news release blossomed out in a very gay front-page format this week. The main topic discussed was an interesting article on Algonquin Park. This 3,000-square mile fish and game preserve was written into Ontario annals by a special Act of the Legislative Assembly 57 years ago. A recent 12-month figure check shows that permits were issued to almost 100,000 visitors, one-quarter of them non-residents.

Of more interest, naturally, is the Kawarthas own Park, the Eel's Creek Crown Game Preserve. Did you know that there are 57,000 acres of it? And that because of rigid overseeing it harbors one of the greatest deer populations in the province?

You had only to make a few visits along its western boundary during the Big Shoot, just passed, to see the number of hunters it attracts and the quantity of deer they have brought down. There are some hunters, most of them who know better, who try to get away with poaching on the Preserve, especially on the east side where boundary marking is not too clearly defined. The guff that they tell to game wardens when they are caught falls on stone-deaf ears.

There has been a lot of criticism because the boundary is not too well defined in places. You can't have a wire fence encircling the sanctuary, nor can you prevent Nature from healing blaze marks on trees. There would have to be game wardens posted every thousand yards to keep everyone off and you may be sure that mass policing on this scale will never come to pass.

So, poachers take warning. You can't get away with it. Wardens have by this time heard every excuse that the nimblest mind can invent. If you are a stranger in those parts, get a guide to show you where you may, or may not, go. It is the simplest way to keep out of court.

In the Kawarthas we are cheering like Billy-o about our abundance of deer and splendid results of the late hunt. This is not the case down in the Garden of the Gulf, PEI. Apparently, the Ontario Government sent Premier Jones a pair of deer to that gameless province recently. Farmers received the news with mixed feelings and many of them feared damage to growing crops if deer became too plentiful and personal dangers to themselves from careless hunters. The Premier, in a neat political stroke, gave the Opposition Leader something to untangle when he had the animals sent to R. R. Bell's farm to fend for themselves.

November Larder Filled On Farm

The advancement of modern meat-packing methods has done away with the old ritual of hog-killing time on the farm, except in the most remote districts, and set one of the youngsters at the grindstone to put an edge on his weapons till they would split a hair. The tripod and block and tackle and boiling cauldrons were set up some distance away from the house and the horrible squealing on that gorey day chased the females of the family indoors. But the women had their hands full after the warm carcasses were scraped to hairless pink. Theirs were the secrets of preparing meat for the winter, handed down from generations of mothers, a knowledge that has almost passed away.

Anyone who has lived on a farm can remember the first morning that sizzling country sausage meat seasoned with sage arrived on the breakfast table and dinners of spareribs and tart Bellflower applesauce, special treats of tenderloin and succulent roasts.

And down cellar there was the pickling of hocks and the preparation of headcheese meat. The young ones did their share, too, of work at the smokehouse, hanging slabs of bacon and hams and seeing that the dried corncob smudges were kept smouldering for days on end. Although there was a lot of hard work connected with it all, we could do with some of this November nostaglia, these days, if we kept hogs.

PARTING SHOTS: An ardent Peterborough duck hunter was all set to blast a few birds on the Pigeon Lake marshes on Wednesday afternoon but learned in advance that his haunts were ice-covered. That condition goes for a lot of district waterways this week, marshes, canals and small lakes, the result of 17 degrees of frost.... Surest sign of winter that I know of comes when the tug Waketa and her three ore barges are put up for the season. The barges are at the entrance of the canal drydock in the village and the tug beside the old ore-loading dock at the head of Stony Lake... Fred Marshall told me of a large beaver lodge that he thought would make an interesting picture. It's shaping up for a little jaunt on Sunday afternoon, but, until then Sonny Boy and I will have to wait to choose a canoe or skates....Hunters are excellent shots up in Michigan. Death toll in their nine-day State deer-hunting season stands at 14 fatalities, so far....Heard of an American deer hunter travelling back home through Cornwall a few days ago with a jersey calf strapped to his car. A surprised reporter asked him if he knew what it was. "You're (nasty word) right, I do," he said, heatedly. "I shot it by mistake and the farmer soaked me 175 bucks and I'm taking it home with me."....Quinte district conservation officers report a slight increase in deer population in North Hastings this year, a decrease in wildfowl in the Scoup and Gold Eye breeds and partridges on par with '49 figures. This is about the way we have it sized up in the Kawarthas, too.

Hymn To Diana

Queen and Huntress, chaste and fair,
Now the sun is laid to sleep,
Seated in thy silver chair
State in wonted manner keep:
Hesperus entreats thy light,
Goddess excellently bright.

Earth, let not thy envious shade
Dare itself to interpose;
Cynthia's shining orb was made
Heaven to clear when day did close:
Bless us then with wished sight,
Goddess excellently bright.

Lay thy bow of pearl apart
And thy crystal-shining quiver;
Give unto the flying hart
Space to breathe, how short soever:
Thou that mak'st a day of night,
Goddess excellently bright!

Progress of Peterborough: XLVI

Counties Grow; Lincoln Shot Militia For Fenian Raids

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

The lumber trade to the United States continued to grow after 1860, stimulated by the Reciprocity Treaty and the American Civil War, so that by 1865 this trade exceeded in value the square timber trade to Britain. The end of the war and reciprocity in 1865 brought depression to most of Canada, but not to the Kawarthas, as the lumber trade across Lake Ontario expanded in spite of protests from American timber interests. Few Kawartha youths joined the trek southward to American cities and westward to the farmlands and mining camps of the American West and the British Columbia gold-fields) in this period, but many young people from the settled areas of Durham, Northumberland, southern Peterborough and Victoria Counties went to work in lumber camps and settled on frontier farms north of the Kawartha Lakes. In addition, about 350 more French-Canadians and 100 more Americans came to work in the northern woods.

The population of Peterborough County grew from 24,651 to 30,473, and Victoria County from 23,039 to 30,200 in the 1860s, but nearly all the increase was in the new northern townships, which doubled and quadrupled their population. At the entrance to the northland, Lindsay soared from 1,907 to 4,049, Bobcaygeon from 200 to 1,000, Fenelon from 125 to 750, Lakefield from 100 to 500. But Smith, Otonabee, Emily, Mariposa and Cavan townships actually had fewer inhabitants in 1871 than ten years before. The population grew slowly in the other townships, as was the case also in Peterborough (up from 3,979 to 4,049), Ashburnham (up from 993 to 1,197) and most other southern communities.

The provisional county of Victoria was set apart in 1861, under Warden William Cottingham, the founder of Omemee, and its separate entity was confirmed in 1863, with Lindsay as the county town. To both Peterborough and Victoria counties were attached newly-organized northern townships for administration, as will be noted later. The wardens of Peterborough county in the sixties were: 1860: Wm. Lang, (Otonabee), 1861-62: M. S. Dean (Smith), 1863-64: P. Pearce (Belmont & Methuen), 1865: R. D. Rogers (Ashburnham), 1866: E. Ingram (Otonabee), 1867-68: P. M. Grover (Asphodel), 1869-70: S. S. Peck (Minden). Judge R. Boucher continued as county judge until 1868, and was succeeded by Judge Dartnell. Other officials were appointed in 1871, county police courts were presided over by justices of the peace, of whom there were 72 in Peterborough county alone by 1870. C. Rubidge continued as county registrar until 1873, James Bird as county engineer until 1877, C. A. Weller as crown attorney until 1886, E. Pearse as county clerk-treasurer from 1867 to 1899.

Consolidated Bylaws

The consolidated bylaws of the united counties of Peterborough & Victoria, 1862, reviewed the council's work since 1850. Trustees were appointed for each of the five grammar schools in the district, also 13 school superintendents; these gentlemen in each area constituted a board of examiners for common school teachers. In each county there was an inspector of weights and measures at $60 a year plus fees. Jurors received $1 a day while on duty, and 5c a mile going and coming. Jails were set up in Lindsay, Omemee and Norwood to supplement the Peterborough jail, which was rebuilt of stone for $16,000 in 1864-65.

In 1858, ten-year debentures for £7,980 were issued, backed by a special tax on ratable real property of £1,378,610, the money to be used to construct and repair roads and bridges. Under penalty of fines up to $50 no one was to sell any goods on Sunday, to do "any worldly labor or business... works of charity, necessity, conveying travellers and mails, and selling drugs and medicines excepted." Other Sunday activities forbidden were noisy games, races, dancing, playing "profane music in a public place," fishing, hunting and shooting. Seven days a week, the council frowned on profane language, disorderly conduct, bathing near public highways, disturbances to "divine worship or intellectual entertainments," tippling, gambling and "houses of ill fame." Auctioneers had to pay $10 a year for a license. Pedlars on foot paid $4, with one animal $12, with two animals $20, on a boat $20; but those selling "religious books and tracts" required no license. Many interesting details about the township administrations were given in Poole's History, which was published in 1867.

Fear Of U.S. Invasion

Due to friction between Britain and the United States, the fear of an American invasion into Canada was stronger in the period 1864-70 than it had been since 1815. Yet most Canadians favoured the northern States in their struggle against the southern slave States, and there was deep mourning in Peterborough. Lindsay and other communities in April 1865 when word came that President Abraham Lincoln had been assassinated in Washington; stores and schools were closed, flags flown at half mast, and houses draped in crepe on the day of the Great Emancipator's funeral.

From January 1866 there were rumors of an invasion by armed Fenians, an Irish-American secret society sworn to annex Canada in revenge for Britain's alleged wrongs to Ireland. Threats were made against the border from New Brunswick to Manitoba, and people in the Kawarthas (as elsewhere) locked their doors at night and kept loaded guns handy. One Hastings man made elaborate traps of old cans at his cellar window to warn off "invasion." There was no echo of sympathy for the Fenians among their fellow Irishmen of the Kawartha district. Forty years of growing prosperity in the new world had dimmed the memories of oppression and starvation in Ireland, for those few 1825 emigrants who were still among the living, and their children were loyal Canadians.

The Peterborough Rifle Company under Capt. E. Poole (with 53 men) was already organized. In 1861 the Ashburnham Infantry Company under Capt. R. D. Rogers (with 66 men) was formed; in 1862 the Lakefield Infantry Company under Capt E. Leigh (with 48 men); in 1863 the Peterborough Infantry Company No. 1 under Capt. John Kennedy (with 67 men). In May-June 1866, the following companies were organized: Peterborough No 2 under Capt. S. Smith (with 56 men), Norwood Campany under Capt. R. Wigmore (with 55 men) Hastings Company under Captain H. Fowlds (with 57 men), Springville Company under Capt. John Dundas (with 57 men), Lindsay Company under Capt. J. Smith, Omemee Company under Capt. W. Cottingham, and Bobcaygeon Company under Capt. H. Sheffield. In those months the militia drilled every evening and several afternoons a week. The county councils gave each company $100 for equipment.

When 1,500 Fenians attacked Fort Erie on June 2, 1866, the first four companies above-mentioned were called up, and in 24 hours were ready to entrain fully equipped for the "front." At Port Hope they were incorporated into a battalion under Lt.-Col. Williams of that town, and sent to Toronto. The Peterborough Rifle Company (according to Edward Green, who was a member) was sent to Thorold to guard the Welland Canal; as the Fenian raid had already been repulsed without dificulty, the rest of the Kawartha contingent was given a trip to Cobourg and Kingston, returning home on June 9. Other companies were sent to Prescott, Cobourg, Port Hope, Lakefield, Hastings and Norwood. The next year, the Rangers were given their colours, for which $200 had been raised by the ladies. Lt.-Col. Jarvis, Asst. Adjutant-General, presented the colours in a ceremony after the annual drill, on the drill-grounds just west of town (these colours were later deposited for safekeeping in St. John's Church). Also in 1868, the Peterborough County Rifle Association was formed under President V. M. Clementi, and held a rifle match the following August.

In 1867-68 the two companies at Lindsay and Omemee merged into the 45th Battalion, with headquarters at Bowmanville and later at Lindsay. Capt. Kennedy and eleven others of the 57th Peterborough Regiment joined the Red River Expedition to Fort Garry (Winnipeg) in 1870. That year marked also the end of the Fenian troubles on the border, and the beginning of improved relations with the United States.

The most important result of border troubles, commercial depression, and transportation difficulties was of course the Confederation of Canada, effective July 1, 1867. The Canadian Parliament had reached such a state of frustrated deadlock that cabinets rose and fell frequently, and two elections were needed in three years: 1861: in Peterborough Col. F. Haultain (reform) defeated W. S. Conger (Tory)..in Victoria, J. Dunsford (Ref.) defeated John Cameron (Tory). 1863: In Peterborough Co. Gen. was elected by acclamation; in Victoria, J. Dunsford won over S. Smith, of Cobourg. 1864: After Conger's death, Haultain defeated C. Perry (Tory). Col. Haultain was a staunch advocate of representation by population in the proposed Federal Parliament, rather than equal representation from each province: in one Commons debate on Confederation, he said: "It is conceived by the inhabitants of Upper Canada, of all shades of opinion, that a subject of Her Majesty living on one side of a geographical arbitrary line, to be enjoying greater privileges than one who has cast his lot on the other side of that line, is an injustice so palpable that they are determined not to tolerate it. They will persistently assert and maintain their just rights, and will use all means in their power to obtain them."

57th Regiment Formed

One result of the Fenian scare was that the government erected wooden drill-sheds in 1866-67 at Peterborough (south side of Central Park, near George Street, cost $2,500), Ashburnham (on Elizabeth St.), Hastings, Lindsay, Norwood, and other towns which had a militia company. In 1867 the independent Peterborough companies merged into the 57th Regiment, the Peterborough Rangers under Lt.-Col. Poole with three companies in the town, and one each in Ashburnham, Lakefield, Hastings and Norwood. The next year, the Rangers were given their colours, for which $200 had been raised by the ladies. Lt.-Col. Jarvis, Asst. Adjutant-General, presented the colours in a ceremony after the annual drill, on the drill-grounds just west of town (these colours were later deposited for safekeeping in St. John's Church). These Ladies On Alert Vigil Over Council, School Board

By An Examiner Staff Reporter.

Who are these watchbirds in Peterborough watching the City Council and the Board of Education? Why are members of this organization directed to Council and Board of Education meetings to listen intently, and return to fellow members with reports of civic proceedings?

A new organization has been formed in Peterborough this year. It is called "A Study Group on Civic Affairs." Formed of and for women this organization has as its chief aim the stimulating of year-around interest among women in municipal affairs.

This group of 30 women who hold regular monthly meetings, have three purposes in view. They want to arouse among women in Peterborough an active interest in civic affairs; encourage women to realize their responsibilities as voters and to be a representative group, strictly non-partisan, non-sectarian, and non-moneymaking.

In March of this year an organization meeting was called for women who wished to join a group to be formed for the study of municipal government in Peterborough. Enough interest was shown that a charter meeting was held in April. The group patterned itself after the Women Electors' Association in Toronto and other centres in the province, but decided on a different name.

The elected executive is: Mrs. W. E. Fanning, president; Miss Margaret McCulloch, vice-president; Mrs. John Nornabell, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. John Hornal archivist; executive committee, Mrs. D. Rogers, Mrs. D. D. McGregor, and Miss Margaret McIntosh.

Do Not Sponsor

"We will not nominate or sponsor candidates for public office in the city, nor are we preparing candidates for office or electioneering," stated Mrs. Fanning in an interview. "At present—and we expect this will be the case for some time yet—our purpose is to get a thorough understanding of civic administration—how the city is run."

"In the future, we hope to take a more active role by arousing the interest of the women of the city in civic affairs," she continued. "However, we will neither express approval nor disapproval of any civic action before the situation is well understood. In specific cases, a committee will probably be nominated to study the conditions."

What are the methods that this group of women use to gain a knowledge of the whys and hows of municipal affairs? Mrs. Fanning explained that the group attend every Council and Board of Education meeting. They take notes and bring back reports to their fellow members of what has transpired. All minutes of the meetings and press reports are also filed for future reference.

To further this knowledge, members of the Council and the Board of Education were invited and accepted the invitations to address the group on different aspects of civic administration.

"Both the Council and Board have been wonderfully co-operative," stated Mrs. Fanning. "Our representatives have already been asked to sit in on the Council's Finance Committee meeting, when the forecast of the tax rate for the next five years was the subject of discussion. We want more than anything else, at present, to gain the confidence of the Council and the Board in what we are trying to do."

Candidates' Meeting

Already this group is going to play an active and positive role in civic affairs. On November 28, the group is holding a candidates' meeting at the YWCA. All candidates for municipal office at the civic elections to be held on December 4 are being invited and will be given an opportunity to speak to the meeting, if they care to do so.

The purpose of this meeting is to give the citizens of Peterborough an opportunity to meet the candidates for offices of Mayor, Council, Board of Education, and Utilities Commission, personally, when they can ask questions on municipal problems.

What do the members of this group think of the city fathers and members of the Board of Education? Mrs. Fanning answered this question when she said, "We all have been greatly impressed by the courtesy shown us by the Mayor, aldermen and members of the Board and also by the dignified procedure of their meetings."

Officials' Views

Perhaps as important, at the present time, what do the city fathers and Board members think of these women? F. H. Jobbitt, chairman of the Board of Education: "I think that the project that these women have undertaken is an excellent idea. They have my wholehearted support in their efforts to bring about a better understanding of civic affairs."

Mayor M. J. Swanston: "These women are certainly becoming more acquainted with the city's business. I definitely think that there will be a difference in the voting as a result of their work. By attending the meetings they can judge the Council. And their presence is definitely putting the members of the Council on their toes."

CARE WITH FEATHERS FOR THE BED CAPS.

Feathers, when put into beds in an imperfectly cured state, are unhealthy to persons sleeping upon them. Old feather beds, on which dirt and disease have long lingered, are commonly bought, and the feathers mixed, and sold as new, often causing sickness and death in families.

An American sitting on a very hard seat in a railway carriage, said, "Wal, they tell me these here cushions air stuffed with feathers. They may have put the feathers in 'em, but darn me if I don't think they've left the fowls in too."

Ice Ages Warm The Earth, Peterborough Man Reasons

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In this article, Mr. Arnott, a local man who has made a special and speculative study of various phenomena of geology, geodesy and related matters, puts the interesting thesis that glaciers such as covered this part of Canada kept the earth warm, and thus caused their own eventual disintegration. When a glacial period thus ends, the earth cools off again and another Ice Age resumes. The next glaciation may be—not in the Hudson's Bay area—but in Siberia, Mr. Arnott suggests.)

By A. J. ARNOTT, B.A.

One of the great mysteries of science is the occurrence of ice ages in the earth's history.

It used to be assumed that the earth had been cooling steadily since its formation, and that an ice age was the natural result of this cooling. However, this theory ran into difficulties when it was discovered that there were ice ages in the remote past, that these ice ages were of relatively short duration, with long ages of warm climate in between; and that the great ice age in Permo-Carboniferous times, 200 million years ago, occured near the equator without leaving much evidence in normally cooler parts of the earth.

This evidence has led geologists to look for specific causes for ice ages and the speculation about their occurrence has increased since the discovery of radio-activity in the rocks. It has been figured out that, if the radioactive elements are as common throughout the earth as they are in the surface rocks, the earth may no longer be cooling down.

Let us now see what is known about the most recent ice age, the Pleistocene, which covered the northern half of North America and most of Europe. It is generally accepted that we are just emerging from this ice age, and that the earth's climate is gradually getting milder. The great ice caps of Greenland and Antarctica are supposed to be its last remains.

Ice Masses Melting

People have worried about the flooding of shorelines that would occur if these great masses of ice were to melt suddenly. They are probably melting, and may eventually disappear. But do not sell your island on the New England coast for this reason. It is about twenty-five thousand years since the ice left the Niagara River channel, and it has not all melted yet.

The smallest guess for the start of the recent ice age is about 80,000 years ago. Many people think that it was longer ago than that. But an ice age does not just cover the earth and then disappear; in the Pleistocene there were at least four glaciations, and three interglacial periods, when the climate of North America was warmer than it is at present. This suggests that the ice melted completely in the interglacial periods. The centres of successive ice sheets appear to have moved eastward in North America; the earliest centre being west, and the most recent one east, of Hudson Bay. The next ice age might possibly centre in Siberia.

So much for the history, let us now look at the present conditions. The summer ice has disappeared from the continent of North America. Icebergs are breaking off both the Greenland and the Antarctic ice caps, which appear to be melting slowly.

Cold Ocean Water

The oceans of the earth are cold. Even near the equator the water is very cold below the warm surface currents. Below a depth of two miles the ocean water is believed to be only slightly above the freezing point. The Straits of Florida are less than half a mile deep, yet even here, with the warm Gulf Stream flowing through it, the water at the bottom is 40 degrees colder than the Gulf Stream itself. The most probable source of all this cold water in the oceans is the melting ice from ice ages.

This cold water is denser than the warmer surface water, even when it does not contain as much salt. This is shown by the fact that the cold Labrador Current dips under the Gulf Stream in the Atlantic Ocean. This action lifts the warmer equatorial waters above their normal levels, and so they run off toward the poles over the surface of the denser water. The Gulf Stream and Japan Current are examples of this.

Whatever special conditions may have caused earlier ice ages, it appears that the recent ice age was the result of the earth's cooling. The fact that the earth was warmer than it is now for millions of years before this occurrence leads us to believe that it is not losing heat much faster than it receives it from the sun. But most of the sun's heat is received in the tropics, while the arctic regions get relatively little heat. Thus, if the total heat gained almost equals the total heat lost we can expect more heat to be received at the tropics than is lost there, while there is more heat lost by radiation in the arctic zones than is received there from the sun.

This heat must flow toward the poles. There are three probable means of travel. They are: the winds, ocean currents and conduction through the rocks. The first two methods work fairly rapidly. The last is slow.

Earth's Hot Core

It is known that it gets warmer as we go down into the earth, and that the core of the earth is still very hot. Rocks are only fair conductors of heat and consequently heat would not be conducted through them as fast as it would be radiated at the surface. This would leave most of the transfer of heat to the winds and ocean currents.

Before the ice age, the oceans were probably considerably warmer than they are now. This might mean that there was less difference in gravity between warm and cold water, and so less distinct ocean currents.

Long ages of these conditions could make the rocks of the continental masses near the arctic so cold that there would be a very deep frost line and only the surface would thaw in summer. This is even true at present to a certain extent, in the Canadian north. With the frost line very deep, and the oceans relatively warm, we could expect heavy snowfall as moisture-laden winds blew in from the sea and dropped their moisture on the cold land. Eventually a time would come when so much snow would fall in winter that it could not be melted during the following summer, because the ground would be too cold to allow complete melting. This snow would make the weather colder and an ice age would start. The effect would be cumulative, because the ice surface would form a refrigerator, cooling the climate of the whole earth.

Another Ice Age

The oceans could absorb heat from the sun, but this would only warm the waters to make more snow. The tropical land surface could absorb heat, but the snow fields would reflect sunlight and there the heat would be lost by radiation. Thus a long ice age would set in and cover most of the continents of the temperate and frigid zones. At its deepest the ice was several miles thick.

But ice is a good insulator. There would be no heat lost by radiation from the rocks where they were covered by the ice sheet. Thus, after thousands of years, the slow conduction of heat through the rocks would take all the frost out of the ground beneath the glacier. When this happened the glacier would start to melt. The fact that rivers flowed under the melting ice sheet is evidence that this was the case. The rocks would be warmer than before the ice age started because of the long ages when they had been insulated from loss of heat. For this reason the climate would also be warmer, once the ice had melted, than before the ice age began.

Thus a glacier is a blanket that prevents the radiation of heat and could serve as a safety-valve to slow down the cooling of the earth. Our climate should continue to get warmer as the Greenland and South Polar ice caps melt and the ocean warms up.

It seems almost certain that an ice age warms the earth.

Eagles Edge Redmen, 4-2 In Hard Overtime Struggle

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 25—In a battle of goalies, with Nicholls having a slight edge, Peterborough Eagles defeated the Belleville Redmen at the memorial arena here on Friday night by 4-2 in 10 minutes of overtime. The Eagles kept their undefeated record in the loop schedule intact but they probably have not had a tougher game this winter.

They scored two goals in the first frame and then were held scoreless until six minutes of the overtime had elapsed. While this was going on, the Redmen, backed by the sensational work of LeForte, evened the count on two goals by Wardhaugh, one in each of the second and third frames. In the overtime, the Eagles had a little more reserve strength and their constant attack finally paid off.

No Pink Tea

The game was not a pink tea affair as there was plenty of solid bumping and it was capped by a melee with Vitarelli and Green participating. Vitarelli had received a minor and was leaving the ice when he and Grene started a shoving match, which finally ended in blows and both were banished with majors. Doug Mortimer talked back too freely and he had a misconduct added to his minor but it was near the end of the pastime and the game had been salted away.

Nicholls played an outstanding game in the pipes, many times breaking up two and three-man combination plays with only himself to beat. LeForte at the other end was about as "hot," although he fanned on his first hard try.

Both teams displayed plenty of speed and combination with the positional play, especially in the attacking zone, carried off by the Eagles. They are well drilled in the fundamentals with Johnny Godfrey acting as the pivot man. Crowley and Hill were the marksmen for the Eagles each getting two counters while Crowley picked up an extra assist. Other assists went to D. Mortimer, Smith, Vitarelli and Montgomery. Montgomery was accidentally hit on the nose with a flying puck and it was believed to be broken but, after patching up by a local doctor, he returned to the fray.

Hill Tallies

The Eagles scored the first marker at the 9.51 mark after being hemmed in their own end for five minutes, when Hill took a short pass from Smith. Crowley followed at the 15.50 mark when he netted D. Mortimer's handout. Belleville scored one in the second when Wardhaugh banged home Mulvihill's and Green's pass. He was camped right on the doorstep, when he took the pass. In the third the same trio evened the count on a similar play. In the overtime, condition took its toll and the Eagles simply flew for the kill wth Crowley and Hill being the marksmen.

The teams:

Eagles—Goal, Nicholls; defence, Smith and Godfrey; centre, Hill; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Parnall, Milne, F. Mortimer, Montgomery, Coombs, Lalonde, Munroe, D. Mortimer.

Belleville Redmen—Goal, LeForte; defence, Goyer and Williams; centre, Wardhaugh; wings, Green and Mulvihill, alternates, Jones, Day, McDonald, Free, Graham, Semark, Schmidt, Schrieder.

Referee, Art Casterton, Kingston. Linesman, Ken McNaught, Belleville.

Eagles—Crowley (D. Mortimer) 15.50

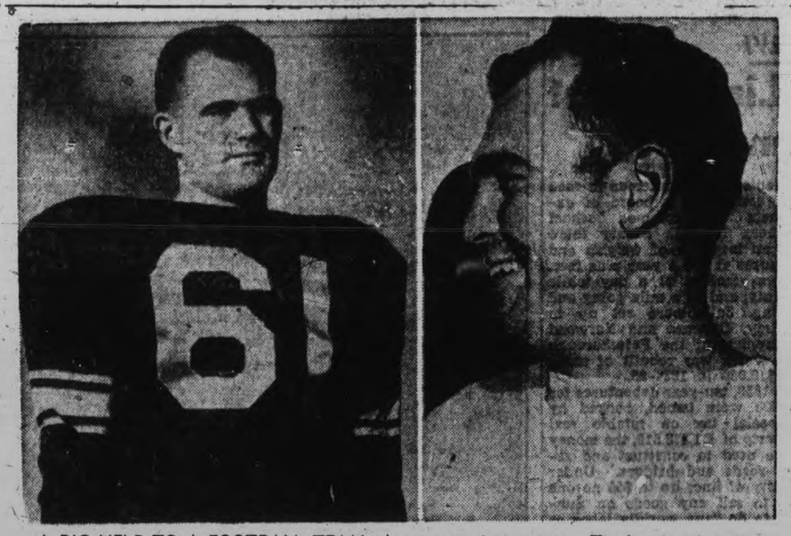
Second Period



Belleville—Wardhaugh (Mulvihill, Green) 13.28
Penalties—Schrieder, Munroe.

Third Period

Belleville—Wardhaugh (Green, Mulvihill) 16.32

Three Teams Tie Atop Men's Bowling Loop

Bond's Tailors, of the men's City Bowling League showed the way Thursday with high pinnage of 3,381 at Duffus'. Fred Martin, well-known veteran of the league's lanes, hit a neat 827 and Bond's took high single game of 1,247. Claude Cornwell continues to hit right up there with the leaders as he bashed out a 325 single. Other good ones were: Ross Jordan 322, Jim Herron 314 and Fred Martin 301.

Three teams are now tied for top spot as Cavanagh's shellacked Clapper's for a 6-0 count, other games being two-game margins, Bond's, Shockey's, Fashion-Craft McGillis and Dunn's over Moore's, Campbell & Best, Sunocos, Swartz, and Esquires. Shockey's McGillis and Cavanagh's each have 42 points and to further tighten the league, Bond's, Sunocos and Fashion Craft are tied for second place with 32 points apiece.

Keen Play In 'Y' Loop

Keen competition marked the YMCA senior girls' bowling league this week, all wins being two-point ones. Aces, Bombers, Corvettes and Glengarry's won against Lucky Strikes, Hurricanes, Commandos and Tigers. Ethel Stanbury had high three of 693 and Betty Pogue followed with 681, Mary Gimblett rolling 636, Shirley Heckman 632, G. Mann 629, O. Searles 628 and Mary Morton 611.

G. Mann led in singles with 288, as E. Stanbury hit 281, Betty Pogue 249, M. Mahood 248, O. Searles 242 and A. Reid 240. In last week's games, Helen Reud had the high three of the year with a neat 796, while Joyce Towns hung up a high for the season with a nifty 833 chore.

Minor Puck Tilts

Two late scores from the Thursday PMHA indicates Trojans were trimmed by Marines midgets in a one-sided tilt by the score of 15-0. McGrath, Corbett, Frizzelle and Turner being the main snipers and Kearns in on a couple. The bantam Trojans triumphed over Otonabee Wolves by a 9-1 count, as Heffernan, Floyd and Mahoney led the way, Bethune counting for the losers.

Officials at the Thursday tilts were: Mrs. Woodcock, Mrs. Post, Morris Parry Sr., Les Mountney, Don White, Don Foster, Keith Eakins, Eric Jones, Don Smedmore, Len McNeil and Austin Morris.

Army Beats RCAF 6-4

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 (CP). — Three successive goals in the second period gave Ottawa Army the lead needed to trim RCAF Flyers 6-4 last night in an Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League fixture.

Army carried the play to the Air Force most of the way in the second and third periods after Flyers took a 2-0 lead.

Slippery Field May Decide Grey Cup Final

By MEL SUFRIN

TORONTO, Nov. 25 (CP) — This is Grey Cup day; the day when football madness reaches its peak in Canada; the day of an East-West final that could be terrific or terrible, depending on the weather.

Two import-studded teams — Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Toronto Argonauts—rated among the best ever from the east and the west, will meet on a gridiron at Varsity Stadium that promises to be treacherously uncertain underfoot at best, slippery, slithery and snow-packed at worst.

Clear Field

A battery of snow-clearing help spent most of the night and all of the morning attempting to get the grid in shape for the big game, a classic that will be watched by about 27,100 fans, a comparatvely-select group among some 75,000 in all parts of Canada that wanted tickets.

Whether the efforts of the field-cleaning brigade will be successful is questionable. Eleven inches of snow which fell in Toronto yesterday makes things tough enough. But the snow expected this morning and the freezing rain predicted to start at noon are the clincher.

This morning the snow turned to spotty rain and the temperature rose to 32 degrees by 8 a.m. It was expected to shoot up to a mild 45 to 50 this afternoon, more than 20 degrees higher than earlier forecasts.

What will the uncertain field conditions do to the efforts of two of the fastest backfields in Canadian football?

Passing Dangerous

One thing is certain. The brilliant passing of Toronto's Al Dekdebrun and Winnipeg's Indian Jack Jacobs will be hampered. Their ability to toss the slippery ball accurately may have a lot to do with the outcome.

Certainly kicking, still an important factor in the Canadian game, will become considerably more important as a result of the unsure footing. Here it will be Joe Krol, a star of several past Argo Grey Cup victories, who will compete with Jacobs.

The Bombers have good reason to remember the game-winning point Krol kicked against them in East-West game of 1947. Will Krol be that important today?

Two Platoons

Winnipeg's line is bigger than Toronto's, but it is questionable if they drive harder. And if the footing is particularly difficult the Bombers' 60-minute men may find themselves tiring faster than the Argos' two-platoon specialists.

The backfielders, particularly tricky speedsters such as Tom Casey and Tommy Ford and Jacobs of the Bombers, and Ulysses Curtis, Ted Toogood and Billy Bass of the Argos, will have it tough, whether they try the ends or are forced to stick to plunging.

It all boils down to the fact that the breaks may decide whether the Grey Cup stays in the east or goes west after this weekend. There are bound to be fumbles resulting from the adverse conditions and, as the stories of past east-west finals will say, one fumble might make all the difference.

Calumets Triumph 7-2 Over Lumber Kings

CORNWALL, Nov. 25 (CP).—Cornwall Calumets defeated Pembroke Lumber Kings 7-2 here last night in an Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League tilt before 2,000 fans.

Coach John Denneny's Calumet squad worked their way into a 4-1 first period lead and were ahead 6-2 in the second.

Jim Denneny led the Cals with two goals and three assists. Other Cornwall scorers were Bob Bingley, Jean Payette, Pete Payette, Pete Long, and Gilles Genereaux. Jackie Demers and Ken Robertson tallied for Pembroke.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Just a few days ago we mentioned that the newest pro mat attraction in this country, one Lord Athol Layton, might show here ere long. And word comes that he will headlines the grapple card at the Brock next Tuesday night, going against Wee Willie Davis. It should be interesting to see how this big, husky Englisher—with the tremendous reach—goes in his scrap with Davis. Wee Willie is slightly taller and weighs about 15 pounds more. Besides that he is rough and knows all the nasty tricks of the game. Lee Henning faces Bobby Nelson in the semi-final, while Pat Flanagan tackles Abe Zvonkin in the prelim. A card which should fill the place.

Shareholders of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club Ltd. held a recent meeting and President G. H. Cutmore outlined past season. 'Twas one of expansion in equipment, accommodation and membership, most successful all around. Men's locker room was enlarged with more lockers installed. More room and equipment to the pro's shop, and a new electric range and refrigerator put in the kitchen. O. A. DeGraw and Randall Stacey were elected to the board of directors, replacing retiring members M. G. Hardill and D. T. McIntyre. Yes, a good season closed off.

Port Hopers A-Comin'

Port Hope juniors (Panthers, we believe they call 'em) come here Monday night to play the Oddfellows an OHA junior "B" joust in Civic Arena. More fun and fury, with some keen puck play seen, when these hustling youngsters tie into each other. Port Hopers beat Lindsay in a rough struggle not long ago, so they must be pretty good, while Bun Kingdon's local IOOF-ers are shaking down rapidly into a real contending club. So, it'll be junior hockey to start off the OHA week in Peter Robinson's borough, and we trust a goodly gallery greets the boys Monday in the gloaming.

* * * * * *

OMHA and the local minor hockey association permit bodychecking in the centre zone this winter for juvenile and midget players. Of course, the OHA has permitted this in all sections for some time. We believe it is a wise ruling to let the older lads in the minor setup learn to keep their heads up at all times. Nothing at all wrong with a stiff bodycheck (on conditioned and padded players) so long as it's a legal check. Skating fast into an opponent to body him is not legal, nor running or jumping into him. Nor bodying him close to the boards. Neither is it allowed to use any part of the stick, the knee, hip or elbow. Just a straight body thump after not more than two strides. It can sure slow down an unwary opponent.

Yes, A Win For The Kin

It was 8-4 for Lindsay Kinsmen over the IOOF-ers at the arena here last evening before a so-so crowd. The husky visitors battled through in the third period to tally no less than five goals and walk off with the marbles. A rather rugged go, with the homesters a bit below their best form, while Lindsay showed lots of hustle to earn the decision. Vic Corley paced their attack with three goals and his buddies were all in on the victory. One scrap in the final frame. However, if the Oddfellows get in there and fight every minute they should take the Kin crew another time. They play 'em up Lindsay way next Friday, and will be seeking revenge.

* * * * * *

Like the junior race, the senior "B" setup is getting tougher and tougher. Queen's are improving. Nylons are right hard to beat now, and darned if Belleville Redmen didn't nearly knock off the loop-leading Eagles of this city last eve on the Quinte sheet. It wound up 4-2 for Mick Magee's men but they had to go overtime to do it. Got two goals early and then couldn't dent the hemp till well out in the extra inning. And that game was supposed to be a breeze! Swell goaltending on both sides had much to do with the low count in a hard-hitting match, capped by a fist fight between Green and Vitarelli. The win tucks Eagles firmly in top spot but they know now that the Redmen will be no pushovers the rest of the route.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, ruler of baseball in the United States for 24 years, died six years ago today at the age of 78. He had been drafted from the federal bench by the 16 National and American League clubs to become commissioner of baseball and restore confidence in the game following the Chicago Black Sox scandal of 1919.

Nurses-Grads Gain Tilts In Girls' Loop

Civic Nurses seniors handed out the worst shellacking of the young girls' basketball season Friday night in the YWCA when they walloped Blacks' cagers 45-11. In the second game of the doubleheader the Lindsay Grads continued to cruise along by picking up their third straight win against the CGE entry 18-7.

Black's passed away their game in the first quarter by throwing the ball continually into the nurses' hands. Led by Anita Davis, the Civics went up 11-3 at the quarter and matched their score in the second with Joan Plunkett, Bev Pringle and Barbara Deyell winging home points. The best Black's could do was to add a foul shot point and the half ended with the score 22-4.

Black's began to come back in the third quarter with steadier ball handling but still the Nurses' axe fell. Pringle, Davis and Plunkett kept racking up points for the west-end girls to more than match Black's scoring by Marjie Laing and Rosie McInroy 13-6. Again in the fourth, the Nurses went on a scoring rampage whipping in 12 points through Gloria Welchoreck, Patsy Martyn and Plunkett. Black's again came through with one point, a foul shot by Mary Knox.

Joan Plunkett easily led the scoring with 14 points while teammates Bev Pringle had eight, Anita Davis nine and Gloria Welchoreck six. Rosie McInroy topped Black's with four.

Won Again

The Grads met their strongest opposition to date in the CGE cagers. The scoring was kept to minimum throughout. Shirley Meath and Mary Owen dropped in five points for the Grads in the first quarter while Pat Nixon and Betty Barry counted for CGE ending it at 5-3 for the Grads. Meath with a single and Owen a double were the only scorers in the second quarter making the half score 8-3.

Ruth Beard came to life in the third quarter to drop in two baskets as the Grads again outscored CGE 4-1, the single point on a foul shot by Marg Batley. Ruth Beard continued the pace in the final quarter by dropping in all six points for Grads while Fern Carveth had three for CGE. Ruth Beard paced the scoring with 10 points out of the Grads' 18 while Marj Owen came up with five. Fern Carveth's three was tops for CGE.

Lineups:

First Game—Senior Nurses (45)—Pringle 8, Davis 9, Plunkett 14, Welchoreck 6, Collins 1, Sutton, Martyn 3, B. Deyell 4, Smith, Langdon.

Lindsay Holds First Place With Win Over The Links

Lindsay Kinsmen strengthened their hold on first place in the Junior B standing last night at Civic Arena as they handed Oddfellows an 8-4 defeat in a rousing, hard-fought hockey fixture.

The teams were deadlocked at the end of two periods of gruelling play but the Scugog pluggers put up a sensational rally in the final frame and pumped five tallies past Wasson, whose mates must take some share of the blame, while Dean Wasson's tally near the three-quarter mark was the best Links could do in the torrid session.

Scores Three

Vic Corby with three goals, sparked his team over the route in a fine all-around display closely followed by Doug Powell with two smart counters while the entire team showed fine co-ordination and proved good opportunists, particularly in the final chapter. Oddfellows played slightly below form.

Though clean in the early stages, play roughened up considerably in the second when referee Calhoun meted out nine penalties, half the game's evenly divided total. The ire of the fans was aroused at some of Calhoun's decisions. Majors to Wyatt, Dysart, Walling and Morrow wound up the penalty list in the finale as the boys sweated the last few seconds in the hoosegow for scrapping.

Dick Walling and Grant Green proved strong on Kinsmen's defence while Baker, Carey, Hall, Dysart and the Vasey boys all played well. Standing out in defeat for Oddfellows was the staunch form of hard-working Dean Wasson, Jim Morrow, Dean West, the Robinson brothers and Bob Wyatt, with all hands digging in hard all the way. But one bad period proved fatal.

Lindsay — Goal, McGuire; defence, Walling and Green; centre, Schinkel; wings, Corley and Baker; alternates, G. Vaisey, D. Vaisey, Dysart Powell, Lucas, Hall and Shervington.

IOOF — Goal, R. Wasson; defence, D. Wasson and Shearer; centre, West; wings, Morrow and Wyatt; alternates, Douglas, Doris, Buckston, G. Robinson, B. Robinson, Stewart, Armstrong, and Bigford.

St. Mike's Trip Marlies As City Rivalry Grows

By The Canadian Press.

The two Toronto teams in the Ontario Hockey Association major series—St. Michael's and Marlboros—put just a little more try in their play when they meet each other.

It's not only because of their fast-growing intro-city rivalry, it's also because the games are worth four points instead of the usual two.

St. Michael's, for that reason, got extra enjoyment out of their 4-2 victory over Marlboros in a game at Maple Leaf Gardens last night. It gave them a six-point lead over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen who took over undisputed possession of second place by defeating Hamilton Tigers 7-4 in Waterloo.

Lose Both Games

The Marlboros, who have dropped both their games with St. Mike's so far this season, are in last place, a single point behind the Tigers.

The Dutchmen-Tigers game was worth the usual two points to the winners. Reason the St. Mike's-Marlboros games are worth four points is that playing time at Maple Leaf Gardens is limited to such an extent that the two teams will have nights for only half as many games as originally scheduled. By doubling the value of each game, the schedule will work out even.

Tie 8-8

The OHA Junior A League also had a couple of games last night, but they were featured for their lack of decisiveness.

At Guelph, the Biltmores and Stratford Kroehlers split a massive total of 16 goals to wind up in an 8-8 tie.

In St. Catharines, the Teepees were outplayed but managed a 3-3 tie with the league-leading Barrie Flyers.

The high-scoring Guelph-Stratford game sent the Bilts into sole possession of seventh place and gave the Kroehlers a second-place tie with Toronto Junior Marlboros.

Guelph Led

Guelph led most of the way but Stratford moved ahead in the third period only to have Guelph come back and go one up again before the Kroehlers got the final tying goal at 17:55.

The tie in the other junior game gave St. Catharines a fourth-place tie with Windsor while extending Barrie's first-place lead to five points.

The Flyers had to come from behind twice to earn the split.

At Toronto, St. Michael's scored three goals late in the third period to defeat the Marlies. Bus Wycherley and Don Rope had sent Marlboros into a first-period lead.

Gord Hannigan picked up the first for St. Mike's midway through the second period, then added another in the third period while Mat Mesich and Ed Mulligan were scoring the other two.

Hamilton Spurts

Hamilton put up their best showing in the second period against Kitchener, outplaying the Dutchmen even though they were outscored 4-3 in that frame. Kitchener led 2-0 at the end of the first.

Harvey Jacklin got two goals for the winners, Art Hurst, Don Oberholtzer, Dinny Flanagan, Mitchel and Mickey Roth getting the others.

Murray Comfort scored a couple for Hamilton with Johnny Conick and Paul Miocinovich getting one apiece.

The major circuit is idle today, three games being scheduled for the junior league. St. Michael's are at Waterloo; Marlboros at Galt and Windsor at Oshawa.

Leafs Out Front, Heavy Weekend

By The Canadian Press.

The National Hockey League heads into a heavy six-game weekend schedule with Toronto Maple Leafs still holding down just about everything in the way of honors.

Not only are Leafs first in the standing, they also shine in the goal getting, assists, and shutouts departments. They even have the most penalized player.

The Leafs hold a comfortable five-game margin over Detroit Red Wings. The Wings have played three games less, but Toronto fans aren't worried, pointing to the 2-1 victory over the Wings in the meeting between the two clubs.

Bruins In Cellar

Toronto has 27 points, Detroit 22. In a third-place tie are Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks, each with 18 points. New York follows with 11, while the hapless Boston Bruins languish in the cellar.

In weekend games, Montreal invades Toronto Saturday and then take on the Bruins in Boston Sunday. Chicago plays at Detroit Saturday and reverse the locale Sunday.

In the other games, Rangers play at Boston Saturday while Toronto tangle with Rangers in New York Sunday.

Christian Ownership Outlined By St. Paul

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

One of the most remarkable statements in the New Testament is that by St. Paul in the closing verses of I Corinthians 3.

In that chapter he has been rebuking the divisions and the partisan attitudes that had arisen among the disciples in Corinth, some saying "I am of Paul;" others, "I am of Apollos;" and some even making Christ a partisan leader with the words, "I am of Christ."

Paul gives them wise words concerning the common work of the Gospel, in which they were all engaged, and the tests by which one's work must be tried, with a subtle rebuke, also, of those who were trusting in their own wisdom.

But more magnificent is his conclusion: "Therefore let no man glory in men: for all things are yours; whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours; and ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's."

Just what, and how much, did Paul mean by that strange and sweeping statement? It is in line with much that he wrote elsewhere, as when he referred to these same Corinthian Christians "as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things."

How could Christians be poor, and yet possess all things? We get a glimmering of the truth when we reverse the order of the verses in I Corinthians 3, and start with God.

It is evident that all things belong to God. The notion that some things "belong to Caesar," and do not belong to God, is an utterly mistaken notion, due to an entire misinterpretation of that incident in which Jesus asked for a coin, and turned what was intended as an embarrassing question back upon those who sought to trap Him.

Second in Paul's logic is that the things of God belong to Christ. (See Ephesians 1:21-22). The third step is that through Christ these things are ours.

Of course, Paul is speaking in spiritual, and not in materialistic language. Nevertheless the Christian ownership of which he writes is, or can be, very real.

Material money may mean much if one is hungry, and hasn't a cent in his pocket. And foolish people who prate about the blessings of poverty, have no realism about sickness and misfortune, with no money to pay the doctor, or to meet acute needs. The Bible has a great deal to say about the blessings of plenty and abundance.

But, when that is said, there are a thousand evidences that the material ownership of wealth may not be the real ownership. The classic poet who wrote, "Cleon hath a thousand acres, but the landscape I" stressed this fact; and a popular song tells how "the best things of life are free."

It was such things in a larger and Christian sense that Paul had in mind when he wrote of the limitless life and possessions of the Christian who has found "the unsearchable riches of Christ."

Catholic Bishops Advise Parents To Assert Rights

WASHINGTON (CP).—A sharp challenge to parents to reassert their primary rights in educating their children is made in a statement just issued by the Catholic Bishops of the United States.

Their declaration, entitled "The Child: Citizens of Two Worlds," carries a warning that parents have abdicated many of their duties and privileges to the school, the state and popular entertainment forms.

"In recent decades striking advances have been made in meeting the child's physical, emotional and social needs, but his moral and religious needs have not been met with the same solicitude and understanding" says the statement. "As a result many of our children today betray confusion and insecurity.

"The child must be seen whole and entire," they emphasize. "He must be seen as a citizen of two worlds. He belongs to this world surely, but his first and highest allegiance is to God. From his earliest years he must be taught that he is destined for life with God in eternity."

The 180 members of the Catholic heirarchy who drew up the statement at the annual meeting at the Catholic University here took issue with advocates of sex instruction in schools and with those who want government agencies to take over the field of orphan care.

Protest Public Courses

'We protest in the strongest possible terms against the introduction of sex instruction in the schools," the Bishops declared.

"To be of benefit such instruction must be far broader than the imparting of information, and must be given individually. Sex is more than a biological function. It is bound up with the sacredness and uniqueness of the human personality. It can be fully and properly appreciated only within a religious and moral context. If treated otherwise, the child will see it apart from the controlling purpose of his life, which is service to God."

Urging fathers and mothers to fulfill their duties in this matter, the Bishops stated: "False modesty should not deter them from doing their duty."

About the trend toward extension of state care for ophans and foster children, the bishops acknowledged that it is proper for government authorities to enfore legitimate minimum standards of care for the dependent child, but said that the responsibility for his sumed by them.

The Bishops reminded that Catholic parents are acting within their competence when they set cause "it is they, and not the up their own school system, bestate, who possess the primary right to educate."

Normal Students One Week In Urban Schools

Peterborough's Normal students will experience their first full week of continuous teaching next week in urban schools. For the first part of the week the teacher-to-be will observe the home teacher working with the children and then will take charge of the class carrying on with the teacher's timetable.

This is the first of four weeks that the students have in teaching continuously for a week. They will have a week teaching in rural schools immediately following the Christmas holiday. Another week of urban and of rural teaching is scheduled for the students before and after Easter holidays.

In most cases the students will be teaching in their home towns or cities or the city nearest their home. Thirty-four of the 125 students will be teaching in the Peterborough public and separate schools. The rest will be in Belleville, Kingston, Cobourg, Lakefield, Lindsay, Bancroft, Picton, Bloomfield, Uxbridge, Frankfort, Campbellford, Sydenham and Wellington.

Leo W. Copp principal of the Normal school, explained today that the students have now taught eight lessons. During the week the students will be able to put into practice school management and continuous teaching which includes work with assignments.

The staff of the Normal school will visit the students during the week. They will also be able to meet the school inspectors in each area and determine the success of graduates of the school who are now teaching in schools.

FOUR OF PETERBOROUGH'S aldermen whose terms expire this year were re-nominated at Friday night's nomination meeting while the fifth is seeking the promotion to the mayor's chair. The four who were again named and are expected to seek re-election are LEFT TO RIGHT, Dr. Herbert Young, Adam Sands, Arthur Burrows and James Gillespie.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Four-Ton Blade Crushes Highway Worker

Struck by the falling steel blade of a four-ton bulldozer, Nelson Wolfe, 43, of L'Amable was instantly killed Friday afternoon. The accident occurred on Highway 62, three miles south of Bancroft.

Another construction worker, Gerald Antler, 20, also of L'Amable, is in Bancroft Red Cross Hospiaal with internal and back injuries.

The two men were overhauling the radiator of the bulldozer at the temporary camp of the McFarland Construction Co., in A W. Gordon's farmyard.

Another crew member is believed to have accidentally tripped the release clutch and the huge blade descended striking Wolfe on the shoulder and pinning him to the ground. His neck was broken. Antler missed being struck by the sharp edge of the blade but was felled by the supporting arm. He was taken to hospital by Sandercock's ambulance.

Dr. O. W. Anderson of Bancoft, coroner, ordered an inquest Friday night but adjourned the hearing until December 6.

The construction company is completing a section of Highway 62, just south of Bancroft. Wolfe was living at L'Amable with his wife. He was formerly of Kitchener. Antler's wife and child live at Eganville.

Provincial Corporal Archie Grayling and Constable John Hawkins, both of Bancroft, investigated the fatality. Dr. S. S. Lumb, also of Bancroft, attended the injured man.

GORDON THOMAS THOMPSON was the only Peterborough soldier connected with the recent troop train crash at Canoe Creek in the Rockies. He escaped with slight burns. Thompson came to Peterborough in July and until a short time ago was employed at the CGE. He boarded with Mrs. F. A. Kidd at 259 Reid St.

Five Candidates Nominated To Contest Four Board of Education Places

Five candidates were nominated Friday night for the four vacancies on the Board of Education. Should all of them qualify by 9 p.m. tonight it will mean an election December 4. Two of them—John Sparrow, supervisor, and Mrs. Blake Bell (Kathleen M.) have not previously served.— Frank H. Jobbitt and Dr. Ralph Honey are present members seeking re-election. And W. B. (Pete) Gordon is a former trustee, also seeking re-election.

Here is how they were listed at Friday night's nomination meeting in the council chamber of the city hall:

John Sparrow, supervisor, proposed by R. S. Cotton and seconded by W. G. Ovens.

Wilmot B. Gordon, solicitor, proposed by J. A. Dewart and seconded by James E. Gillespie.

Frank H. Jobbitt, merchant, proposed by W. G. Ovens, seconded by G. Wilson Craw.

Mrs. Kathleen M. Bell, housewife, proposed by James E. Girven and seconded by Grace H. Carley.

Ralph C. Honey, dentist, proposed by J. A. Dewart and seconded by G. Wilson Craw.

Two Candidates Speak

Mrs. Bell, the only woman among 21 nominees for municipal office, was unable to be present because of illness. Mr. Sparrow was also unable to attend the nomination meeting. Both gave their written permission to be nominated.

"I intend to stand and run for the Board of Education," Mr. Gordon said in his nomination speech . . . If elected I hope I can be of some assistance to the citizens of Peterborough."

Mr. Gordon was a trustee for two years but did not seek re-election in 1949, chiefly because of business responsibilities. He told the ratepayers at the nomination meeting that he realized the board had a heavy agenda this year, but he felt he could be of service because of his previous experience as a trustee and his professional experience.

Mr. Jobbitt, present chairman and member of the board for the last six years, was the other Board of Education nominee to speak.

He said he had served on all of the standing ocmmittees, including accommodations. "I realize that if the school by-law passes it will throw a heavy load on that committee."

His qualifications: "During the past six years I think I've gained experience and insight into the workings of the Board."

Dr. Honey, a trustee for four years and now seeking his third two-year term, was present when his name was proposed but he had to leave before the meeting was thrown open.

Mrs. Bell came to Peterborough six years ago and has been both president and vice-president of the King George Home and School Association. If elected, Mrs. Bell will join Mrs. Paige Rowell as the second woman on the board.

Mr. Sparrow is supervisor of apprenticeship training at the CGE. At present he is chairman of the Ontario Industrial Education Council which is composed of vocational and trade teachers, boards of education and leaders in industry. He came to Peterborough in 1929.

Car Hits Train On Icy Street, Driver Escapes

Donald Russell, 298 Braidwood Ave., escaped uinjured when the car he was driving ran into a CNR train at Perry and Aylmer streets at 11:45 p.m. Friday.

Russell claimed that he did not see a light or hear the bell while driving south on Aylmer St. and ran into the train travelling west.

The right front fender of Russell's car was crumpled as a result of the impact. The right headlight was smashed, one front wheel was bent and the tire flat.

An eye witness who was stopped waiting for the train to pass, told police that Russell's car was travelling at a fast rate of speed.

Constable W. S. Fife and Donald Jones investigated.

CNR Watchman Lost Foot, Hit By Train

George Alvin Douglas, 28 Georgina St., Lindsay was run over by a CNR train early this morning and had his left foot crushed. The accident happened at Brock and Bethune Sts. at 12:20 a.m.

He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital where his foot was amputated. His condition was reported as fairly good today.

Wallis Caldwell, 271 Brock St., heard Douglas yell after the train had passed and called the police. Constables W. S. Fife and Donald Jones found Douglas lying between the rails just north of Brock St. His left foot was mangled and his shoe was still caught in the rails. No reason was given for Douglas being on the track.

Trainmen had no knowledge of the accident and the train did not stop.

Douglas was an employee of the CNR as watchman at the yard in Peterborough.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien and Dr. L. Zacks attended Douglas.

Marmora Twp. Acclamations; No Elections

MARMORA, Nov. 25 (ENS)— As a result of the nomination meeting for Marmora and Lake township held in Marmora Town Hall on Friday afternoon, there will be no election in that municipality this year.

Given acclamation are: Reeve, Irwin McCoy; council, Arthur Sheridan, John Wilkes, George Fox, Gordon Jones.

For school area trustees two), George Brown, Louis Hulsmans.

The only change is that Louis Hulsmans succeeds his father, Joseph Hulsmans, retiring trustee.

A fair number of electors were present for the subsequent meeting for which the township clerk presided.

Reeve McCoy, first speaker, thanked all in their various capacities who had given support last year to the council's undertakings.

Reporting on county roads, he touched briefly on the proposed improvement to the Sheridan hill on the Cordova road, the lowering of a knoll east of the village and the widening and straightening out of the Malone road at points. He said he would leave it to councillors who would be succeeding speakers to touch on township affairs in general. He next referred to the township concession road which led towards the property that the Bethlehem Steel Corporation is interested in and said that one third of the iron ore deposit was in the township.

Prevent Shack Town

He also referred to the building restrictions embodied in the by-law now awaiting its third reading. "We must be ready to stop the erection of any shack town, should the Bethlehem Steel Corporation develop the iron resources," he said with emphasis.

The next speaker, Arthur Sheridan, thought the council had done its best to give value for the dollars it had spent.

John Wilkes mentioned that the tax roll was around twenty-eight thousand dollars involving responsibilities. Money spent in relief had unavoidably been a little higher. He felt that money for road improvements had been wisely spent and considered the passing of the bylaw on building restrictions a wise move for the council to make.

George Fox found his first year of office a busy one in which he had learned a lot with a lot more to learn yet. Over 3,000 yards of rock had been put on the roads but he felt the expenditure was justifiable.

Gordon Jones said he had enjoyed his initial year as councillor. The council had tried to do its best. Although some complained rock was too thick and others that it was too thin, he thought the roads had been well looked after according to the money allotted for that purpose. The two school trustees in brief remarks promised co-operation with others on the board.

The meeting was thrown open for discussion with little questioning ensuing.

Approves Assessor Plan

E. D. O'Connor, township assessor, asked for some remarks, said he liked the thought of the proposed county assessor. President Alex Fraser, of the Chamber of Commerce, extended congratulations to the council for achievements of the closing year and commended them for their action regarding town planning and zoning.

Gordon Moffatt road superintendent, as concluding speaker, gave figures on gravel used in the year. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Film Festival Held In Library

"Our aim is to circulate in this area films that are educational and to train and school people in the best utilization of these films," stated the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite in his opening remarks at the Film Festival held at the Public Library Friday night.

The Film Festival was presented Friday afternoon and night and will also take place this afternoon and evening. It is sponsored by the Peterborough Film Council. Rev. Kibblewhite, president of the Peterborough Film Council, gave a general outline of the council's aims in presenting the festival.

Friday's program included nearly every subject which is possible to be filmed. These films were obtained not only from the National Film Board but also from several other countries. The capacity audience on Friday evening were transported from Finland and the music of Jan Sibelius, to trout fishing in New Zealand and then to pointers on baseball by American professional players.

One of the outstanding films of the evening was "Feeling of Depression" produced by the National Film Board. This was the first public screening of this film which is the latest release of the Mental Health Series.

Also included in Friday's program were religious, geographical and agricultural films.

Included in today's program will be two films "Hong Kong" and "Trooping of the Colours" which were produced by the United Kingdom Information Office for special showing at this time. These will not be released for general showing until next July.

R. C. Ward, regional supervisor of the National Film Board, Ottawa, showed the films at the festival.

Mrs. Woodcock bumped her face on the windshield, when her husband was unable to stop their car and hit a car driven by Archie Hillis of 388 Rogers St.

Hillis was stopped to start backing into a parking spot on the west side of Water St., when he was struck by Woodcock who was going south. Woodcock applied his brakes, but because of the icy street could not stop. He hit Hillis' car and then slid sidewise into a parked car.

Both Woodcock and Hillis were uninjured.

There were also five nominees for the four offices of councillor. Earl Trotter, Andrew Young and Gordon Lane, all of last year's council, were nominated. And there were two other names put forward—William Staples, one-time councillor, and Albert Bolton, a newcomer.

Chesel McColl, a councillor in 1950, decided not to run this year.

The school board remains the same.

Driver Escapes With Stitches

R. D. Cadigan, RR 1, Peterborough, received three stiches in his forehead Friday night after the car he was driving crashed into a cement culvert on the old Keene road, 100 yards south of Highway 7.

It was one of two accidents reported to provincial police who were alert for accidents on the slippery highways.

Cadigan was attended by Dr. Bob Young. Provincial Corporal Lloyd McClure and Constable L. H. Stinson investigated.

Nobody was injured but there was damage to both vehicles late in the afternoon when a car driven by Frank A. Jaworski, Rogers St., collided with a car driven by Mrs. Iva Clark, Hastings, three-quarters of a mile east of Peterborough on Highway 7.

Mrs. Clark told police she was going east and became temporarily blinded by a gust of snow. She put on her brakes but skidded and collided with the westbound car.

Provincial Constable Russell Pollard investigated.

Serious Problems Shadow Britain's Joy At Christmas

EDITOR'S NOTE: Frank H. King, who covered the Royal visit to Canada in 1939 after heading the London bureau of the Associated Press, now is general executive for AP at Dallas, Texas. Here is his picture of English life on a return visit to see his son, a Rhodes scholar.

By FRANK H. KING

LONDON, Nov. 25 — (AP) — Christmas, even in late fall, was in the misty air of England.

The best Christmas for many a year. One more good one, perhaps, and then a big question mark. Britain's problems are piling high. The year ahead will be critical.

But this year, with Christmas weeks away, London's teeming shopping streets could hadly hold the people. Sidewalk artists, pavement musicians and the tail-end of the tourist horde are jostled in the crush while the big red double-deck buses run bumper to bumper ferrying more humanity to the stores.

Oxford Street, long and straight, funnels its crowds through the great curve of Regent Street to smart Piccadilly. The most appetizing sign in London is in Piccadilly, a huge steaming Christmas pudding, with real steam. The gentlemen clerks in a grocery there have survived bombs and social revolution. They still wear formal morning dress and have courtly manners.

Hear the conversation before a shop window packed with goods as only a London window can be stacked:

"I must buy all my little gifts today, my dear, before everything is sold."

"But it isn't like last year. There's plenty for all, my dear. Isn't it wonderful!"

On the Surface

It's wonderful on the surface. And after what the British have been through the last 10 years, who would have the heart to tell an eager, early Christmas shopper to go home and look below the surface of her welfare state economy.

"Look below the surface of your own economy in the USA," said one Englishman.

Consumer goods are piled high, for export and home use. British export goods have increased from 18 per cent of total production in 1938 to 70 per cent in 1950. Food is good, plentiful and varied. A delegation of European travel experts recently said so, as do Americans who can get along withsteak and fresh eggs. Meat, sugar and some other items continue to be strictly rationed.

Everybody in the Isles seem to come to London to see the sights. Hotels, theatres and trains are packed. Luxury still exists, but not conspicuously.

The statistics show fewer than 100 persons left with incomes after taxes between £5,000 ($15,000) and £6,700 ($20,000) yearly.

The majority of the nation's 20,000,000 workers have weekly take-home pay of less than $30.

Austere Living

This is more than the equivalent in the current American economy. A London worker who may make only eight pounds sterling weekly is better off paying only a pound a week rent than an American wage earner in similar income group. But he lives auterely, eats plain food and must watch his pennies.

Whether this English worker living in a tight, austere economy will continue to stand harness through rising prices, inflationary trends, strikes and the impact of world problems is the great concern of his Labor government.

His worries and his government's include:

Increased living costs, inflation threats, wildcat or "unofficial" strikes, labor's precarious parliamentary majority, high-priced rearmament, costly state social service such as the National Health Plan; housing, food resources and reserves, world markets and increasing world commodity prices.

The bright spot in the picture is the steadiness of devalued sterling in the money markets of the world. Gold reserves of the sterling area have doubled in a year, but all reports that the pound will be revalued upward are denied. Such a step now would mean the loss of benefits which low exchange gives in aiding British exports and putting a brake on imports.

Some time soon the English workers will forget for an hour or so about greyhound and horse racing, his garden patch and the local 'pub' to check with a vote on his member in the House of Commons.

From Prime Minister Clement Attlee one gets the impression he will not seek a general election before February at the earliest. This writer lunched with Attlee and American correspondents in London who asked him many questions. Attlee's great sense of responsibility for his share in world affairs is evident and the problems of Russia and China, particularly China, are a great concern. He believes what happened in Korea will help peaceful settlements with Russia.

What do the people talk about in England?

Not much about war. Although the shadow is dark, British leaders believe another great war can be avoided. They have universal military training. Their rearmament program has gone as far as it can without putting the country on full wartime economy. Co-operation for European defence increases.

A few weeks ago half a dozen powers joined air manoeuvres blanketing the island with bombers and fighters. American air forces are in training in England.

At a channel port smart military police in jeeps trail an occasional celebrant. Ask the "Bobby" on duty nearby how the Americans are getting along and he says just like during the war—nearly all of them "fine lads." Boy meets girl, war or no war, and there's another crop of Anglo-American brides.

Nor do people talk much about American economic aid. The King on the opening of parliament expressed the thanks of the nation.

Practical politics apparently render inadvisable the Labor government's emphasis on this phase of Britain's economic life, but it can put the words into the King's mouth.

Rising Living Costs

What do the people talk about? The rising cost of living, as much as anything.

Widespread concern exists over rising prices with fear of loss of the tight control which has been tough on many people but paid national dividends.

Labor's answer is they are lucky that prices haven't gone higher. Tight home budgets leave little margin for cutting down. Even good housewives have a struggle.

Basic in the wage problem is the fact that the TUC (Trades Union Congress) no longer recognizes the national "wage freeze." As a result the wage line is wavering to a breaking point at important places. Increases to government employees may have started the trend.

Coal miners, railway workers, bus drivers, engineers all want more money. Coal, gas, clothes, food, rail fares and many items of every-day living are higher.

The "do-withouts" try to solve the problem on a personal basis. They are the people who try to do without everything possible from haircuts to bus rides, movies and cigarets. Cigarets cost 50 cents a package of 20. You see cigarets sold single.

The new Chancellor of the Exchequer, Hugh Gaitskell, is a "do-withouter." He quit smoking cigarets when the tobacco tax went up.

The wave of wildcat strikes was so serious that the Minister of Labor broadcast a warning that the troubles were Communist-inspired.

Variety of Strikes

Americans in London a few weeks ago found the streets almost as dark as during the war because 1,400 gas works men were out and troops were in the plants.

Nearly 5,000 printers on London periodicals were out, also on a wage issue. The "unofficial" strikes have infinite range and variety.

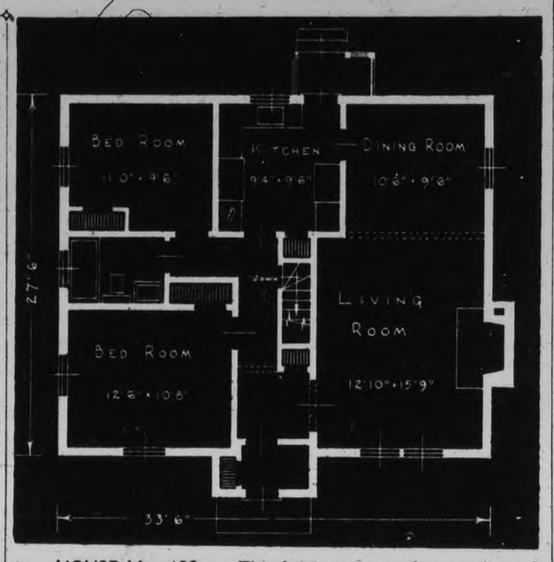
A Birmingham textile manufacturer told the British National Union of Manufacturers employers ought to strike against nationalization.

"Its no good our building up enterprises for these present-day highwaymen to abduct them," he said.

Ask an influential minister in the Labor government whether British employers are likely to go on strike.

"Not while they are doing as well as they are at present," he said.

To Conservative party leaders this is whistling in the dark of labor unrest. They like to think they see a surging tide of unrest in trade union ranks against the Labor government.



The Tories are campaigning with everything from Winston Churchill down to comic books, a sports quiz, crossword puzzles and knitting patterns.

"One more heave and they're out," Churchill urges.

Labor hopes to be voted into power again for another five years to carry on their timetable of socialization and nationalization.

Attlee or Churchill, Churchill or Attlee, Britain's problems of people and resources will remain.

HOUSE No. 482 — This house is one of a number of cottages with similar floor plans, but varying exterior styles, which the architect designed for the contractor's housing development. Dignified, bright and cheery — that's what this house is in a nutshell. From every point of view it's a cottage the small family would be proud to own. Notice that each room is well proportioned and that ample wall space is provided for furniture placement. This is a point too often overlooked in homes on the tiny side. All features of the design have a utility basis. They are included to furnish a convenience, to add structural value, or to balance the general scheme of design. They occur not by chance, but rather as the result of mature architectural consideration. The exterior shows a splendid handling of materials. The bold chimney and refined entrance detail give an unusual degree of character to a home of this size. For working plans write Home Building in Canada, 472 Bay Street, Toronto.

Unemployment Down

Largest employment gains were in logging and electrical-equipment manufacturing industries. Returns showed a 6.9-per-cent increase from midsummer.

50-Year History Of Hollywood Told In Paper

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 25 (AP)—This week Hollywoodians were treated to a thorough history of their town.

The Hollywood Citizen-News, sole daily newspaper in the glamor town, issued a five-section edition called "Hollywood—50 Years of Progress." It disclosed many little-known facts about a well-known town.

Judge Harlan Palmer, publisher of the paper since 1911, recalled when the corner of Hollywood and Vine Streets was the site of a home surrounded by a four-acre orange grove.

Cecil B. DeMille pointed out that Hollywood was the first location of the first commercial air lines with scheduled flights for passengers. During the First World War, he helped form the Mercury Aviation Company, which also trained pilots for the army.

Ranch Name

Mrs. Daeida Wilcox, who came to California from Topeka, Kas., in 1883, gave the town its name. On a trip east, she met a lady who called her summer home "Hollywood." Mrs. Wilcox liked the name and called her ranch "Hollywood."

Other facts disclosed in the edition:

A corner at Hollywood Blvd. and Highland Ave. was offered for $9,500 in 1904. Recently a $1,000,000 offer was refused for the same land.

The Biograph Company opened the first studio in Los Angeles in 1906. The first picture made here, "The Count of Monte Cristo," was filmed the following year by the Selig Company.

In 1909, an ordinance forbade the keeping of bulls or more than five sheep, cows or goats on one Hollywood premise. Futhermore, no such animals could be kept within 95 feet of any residence.

Model Old Hats At WI Meeting

COLDSPRINGS, Nov. 25 (ENS)—Mrs. Keith Harper was hostess for the November meeting of the Coldsprings W.I. with 49 in attendance. Mrs. N. McIntosh, president, presided.

The group leaders are to be a committee to make arrangements for a euchre party and bazaar, to be held in the Orange Hall Dec. 8. It was decided to have a birthday box, each one donating a cent for each year on their birthday. Donations to aid in furnishing kitchen of new community hall.

The roll call was a display of old-fashioned hats, which caused much merriment. Hats as old as 100 years were modelled.

Mrs. E. Lean gave the motto: "Everyday in thy life is a leaf in thy history." Mrs. R. Bray gave a report from Belleville convention. Historic current events were given by Mrs. H. McKinley, Marlene Turk, and Ewart Timlin favored with a duet. A reading was given by Mrs. S. Wallace, and an exchange of Christmas gifts brought the meeting to a close.

Mrs. C. Timlin's group assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Attractive Garage Needs Good Camouflage Planning

The majority of Canadians now come and go from their homes in automobiles — a habit that continues to grow year by ear. Hence, it seems entirely logical that our 1950 homes should harbor automobiles. The only reason our forebears didn't house horses and buggies in their homes of fifty years ago was principally an aesthetic one, a question of sanitation. But automobiles are relatively neither unsanitary, smelly, nor unduly noisy. For the most part, they do not represent an appreciably added fire risk.

Skillful Planning

The problem, however, of storing the automobile in an integral part of the house mass calls for skillful design, if the result is to be entirely pleasing.

Attached garages which face the street generally require an unusual treatment of the doors to prevent an overpowering area of blank wall when the doors are closed, and a yawning opening when the doors are open. A favorite plan is to form the doors of siding like the house.

When it is possible to have the garage entrance from the side or the rear, however, the obtrusiveness of the door openings is more easily subdued. A particularly good solution is to face the garage with a convenient front porch.

Kite Flying Suggested As Balm for Jumpy Nerves

By JACK SCOTT.

Another way to get your overheated, twentieth-century nerves calmed down to an eighteenth century gavot is to go fly a kite. I have been flying a kite all afternoon. My nerves are in splendid shape, ready to cope with at least eight or nine newscasts and maybe even Gabriel Heatter.

We'd decided to stay over a couple of days in the pleasant state park just north of Capistrano Beach on the California Riviera.

The weather here is just about perfect. Cloudless and warm with a brisk westerly breeze coming in off the blue Pacific. Admirable kite-flying weather. So we made an expedition into nearby Laguna Beach, bought a kite for 39 cents and two balls of twine, each with 200 feet of line.

Flying Kites

This was one of those diamond-shaped kites made of a very light paper and eager to fly. None of that running or coaxing it in the air. This kite simply felt the wind in the fragile membrane of its sails, spread it frail arms and took off into the blue, growing smaller and smaller until it was 400 feet overhead, a live thing nosing into the bright, invisible wind.

All this was performed by the Kid. It was her 39 cents and her kite (her first) and she delighted in that never to be forgotten zest of converting some fundamental aerodynamics into soaring reality.

My coaching over, I retired to the trailer to write a column and began by perusing the paper — 9 a.m. edition, Los Angeles Times.

Same Happy World

The UN air forces had just completed obliterating a North Korean town by fire bombs made of gasoline jelly. Washington was studying the prospect of using the atom bomb—a city at a time—if we come to grips with the Chinese. The Russians had accused the Americans of attacking a Soviet passenger plane. The United States and Britain had replied by rushing tanks and troops to Berlin. Still the same old happy-go-lucky world.

As I'd expected, it didn't take the Kid long to tire of the kite. I put the newspaper aside with the trembling fingers we all get these days after reading the news and went out to hold the string awhile.

The kite flew beautifully. The wind now was dying down and came in gusts. The kite would float listlessly far out over the ocean, beyond the curl of the ceaseless surf, and it would seem that it would never stop going down. Then a gust would come along. The string would quiver and become taut and the sensitive kite would climb like a think possessed.

Remembers Kite

My mind went back to a kite a Mr. Ross had built for me when I was a boy, a kite taller than a man and fashioned of bamboo and brown paper. Mr. Ross was known as the first man in our part of the world to build a one-tube radio and was properly revered for this. But it was the kite that put him on the pedestal in my memory.

It had been launched one windy March day from the end of the Dundarave Pier. Heaven only knows how much line Mr. Ross had given it—2000 feet, anyway. It was just a small, steady square in the sky and it took a man to reel in any line. Mr. Ross had tied it to one of the posts of the pier and it flew there for a week, day and night, as the stiff March winds blew. From then on I believed that any miracle was possible.

Mr. Ross had a niece named Priscilla who was my age and my first girl friend (or "crush", as we used to say) and I can remember us sitting together out on the end of the pier that week, not saying anything, just gazing up at that distant speck until it was time to go home for supper . . .

Drifts In Reverie

I let myself drift on in this reverie, gaze always on the kite, mind's eye on the past, and found a log near the water's edge to sit on. The long-legged sandpipers were mincing along the scalloped edge of the surf, the seagulls were getting their kicks riding the breeze and the kite sailed lightly on. It didn't seem possible that this could be the same world mirrored in the Los Angeles Times of any edition.

Later the wind veered around. The kite soared out over the hairless Laguna Hills and looking down on the orange groves in their valleys. The night comes quickly now, even here where summer hangs on stubbornly, and in the softer light the hills look like a beige carpet that's been draped carelessly over a number of objects of varying sizes.

Memory Back

As the day waned so did the wind and now the memory of "flying" a kite came back, the urgent reeling in when the life went out of the sail, the playing out when an errant gust gave it that mysterious energy, the feeling of transmitting your command along the string to the kite and seeing its response.

Some strollers sauntered by and did a double-take. I was vaguely conscious of looking like a true California eccentric. But as they walked on down the beach I saw that they, too, had their heads tilted up to follow the gyrations of my friend.

Afterwards, long after the kite had got caught in the telephone wires bordering the coast road, I pondered the simple pleasure of the afternoon and the escape it offered from the lunatic realities of the day.

Maybe we all need that periodic luxury of escape, the painless anesthesia of being absorbed in something quite unimportant and 400 feet above the makers of gasoline jelly.

Escapee Surrenders

CALGARY, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Cyril Hallan, alias Robert Taylor, 29, who escaped from the Ontario Reformatory at Mimico in 1937 while serving a sentence for armed robbery, has surrendered to police at Turner Valley. He is being held pending arrival of an escort to return him to Ontario.

Parachute Packers

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 (CP)—A new Canadian army ordnance depot to be concerned for the time being at least only with the packing and maintenance of army parachutes, now is being organized at Shilo, Man., army headquarters announced last night. It will be known as No. 28 Central Ordnance Depot and will be commanded by Maj. R. N. Brooks, 36, of Ottawa.

FUNNY BUSINESS —By Hershberger

"Gentlemen, we've made real progress—we are now spending taxes before we collect them!"

Recaptures Spirit Early Christian Era

Harry Yudin is bringing to the Centre Theatre from Monday to Wednesday next week "The Iron Crown," the grand prize-winner at the Venice International Film Festival. It was produced in Rome, and was more than a year in the making.

This picture is an adaptation of the Legend of the Iron Crown written by Brother Jacobo in the Monastery of Saints Colombano and Appolonio in the year 1204. It is a story of a fabulous iron crown that was to be handed down through the ages as symbol of justice, fashioned by order of the Byzantine Emperor from a nail out of the Cross of Christ and the metal of Roman swords. It was supposed to bring justice in the wake of its travels.

Parallel with the legendary and historical background are great tournament and battle scenes in which two queens are the prizes of victory with posession of the defeated rulers' kingdom.

Morgan Powell in the Montreal Star says: "The settings are overwhelming upon a stupendous canvas." And Frank Morris in the Winnipeg Free Press describes it as "noteworthy for its ability to recapture the spirit of early Christian times."

Caught In Moving Belt Man Loses Right Arm

CARDINAL, Nov. 25—(CP)—An accident at the Canada Starch Co., Ltd., plant Thursday night cost James Francois, 27, his right arm below the elbow. Officials said they believed Francois stepped too close to a moving feeder belt that dragged the arm into a pulley.

Mother To Visit Grave

OTTAWA, Nov. 25—(CP)—The woman who placed the mothers' wreath on the national war memorial Remembrance Day soon is going to Europe to see her boy's grave—free. Airlines have offered to fly both Mrs. John Beasley, of Ottawa, and her husband overseas to see the grave of their son, FO. Ronald Beasley, killed while piloting an RCAF aircraft over Arnhem, Holland, on Christmas Eve, 1944.

Greek Envoy To Quit

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Constantine Sakellaropoulo, Greek ambassador to Canada and dean of this capital's diplomatic corps, will return home shortly to retire from the Greek Diplomatic Service.

Garson Promises Help In Control Of Gambling

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 —(CP)— Justice Minister Garson said Friday in a statement that "prompt and sympathetic" attention will be given to a request by Premier Frost of Ontario for strong federal action against telephone and telegraph companies and possibly radio stations which distribute racing data.

The justice minister said he has not yet received a letter which Mr. Frost has sent him dealing with the bookmaking picture in Ontario.

Mr. Frost said in Toronto Thursday that he had written telling Mr. Garson that Ontario provincial police are handicapped in dealing effectively with bookmakers by the fact that telegraph and telephone companies are under federal jurisdiction.

Told to Confer

Mr. Garson said that at the request of Premier Frost and Attorney-General Porter some time ago, he instructed Commissioner S. T. Wood of the RCMP "to confer with the head of the Ontario Provincial Police and render any assistance that he could in connection with this Windsor problem.

"To this end, two of the members of the Ontario Provincial Police came to Ottawa on June 6, 1950, to confer with Commissioner Wood.

"We have been doing our utmost to co-operate and until these news stories came out this morning, we had no intimation from any source critical of our efforts."

Guild Holds Euchre

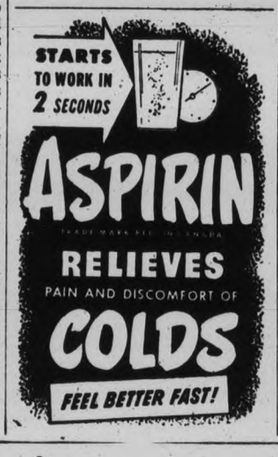
MARMORA, Nov. 25 (ENS) — St. Paul's Ladies' Guild held a successful euchre party in the Parish Hall on Wednesday, with 13 tables in play. Prizes for best scores went to Charles Cronkright and Mrs. Robert Gawley. Mrs. George Kerr received the door prize. Refreshments were served at the close.

11,000 Train

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 (CP)—More than 11,000 army reservists trained at summer camps this year. The army said the total was 11,241, including 2,595 officers and 8,646 men. This was an increase of slightly more than 1,000 over the number of reservists who went to camps for training last year.

TAKING NO CHANCES on the outcome of any peace negotiations, American troops in North Korea set up house-keeping on the snow-covered northern front where they have erected huts and firmly entrenched tents, with an outside kitchen, upper left, complete with well arranged pots and pans.

Officers Plan Army Scheme



Officers and non-commissioned officers will take part in the second army scheme Sunday when 40 men from the 50th Heavy A.A. Regiment, will run through the staff duties in deployment procedures in the Ganaraska reserve.

The group will occupy two areas, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, seven miles south of Millbrook. No equipment will be taken along on this scheme. The officer and NCOs will run through the work involved in moving a regiment from one position to another. Some of these include warning orders, operation orders, traffic control and reconnaisance.

The first group, with Lt. Col. Maxwell Clarke will move off from the armouries at 9 a.m. and proceed to the first position in the Millbrook area. All the groups will have moved from the armouries by 10 a.m. and will occupy the first position by noon.

Following their lunch, the men will discuss the morning's deployment and will then move off for the second position for the afternoon.

Earlier this year the regiment took part in the first of this term's schemes. Similar deployment exercises were held on the way to Picton where the men experienced firing from the ack ack guns at Point Peter.

"$818,107,524.13 that's a lot of money!"

The figure of $818,107,524.13 represents the total assets of The Bank of Nova Scotia as at October 31st, 1950.

This large sum exists because tens of thousands of Canadians continue to deposit their money in The Bank of Nova Scotia.

It is an accumulation of active money made possible by the savings of men and women—and of children, too.

What did this active money do? Part of it—$81,858,536.22 to be exact—was held by the Bank in the form of cash, for the Bank's day to day operations.

Another part of it was loaned to the Dominion and other governments of Canada, the provinces and counties, cities and towns. This money helped to build schools, roads, bridges, waterworks, parks, public buildings and to provide a variety of community services. A total of $249,620,156.88 was on loan in various forms to these public bodies.

But the biggest part was put to work by thousands upon thousands of individuals and companies. These people, alone and in groups, borrowed John Smith's, Mrs. Brown's and Dr. Jones' money to buy machines, materials, stores, and buildings or to provide working capital, so that they could make and sell in increasing abundance all the varied things that all of us want and use in our daily lives.

Farmers, for instance, were able to improve their livestock, to build new barns or acquire new equipment because they were able to borrow part of the money entrusted to the Bank.

Individuals with sound business ideas were able to turn these ideas into useful enterprises.

Companies were able to grow and make more and better jobs.

That part of the Bank's assets being used for all these varied loans, both in Canada and abroad, totalled $366,714,962.74.

Yes, $818,107,524.13 is a lot of money. But, through the services of The Bank of Nova Scotia, Canadians across the land, by putting this money to work for themselves, were able to serve the best interests of every Canadian.

Threaded Needles Identify Whitton Backers

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 —(CP)— All those women going around the capital these days with threaded needles dangling from their coats aren't absent-minded seamstresses.

They're members of the needle-and-thread brigade backing Charlotte Whitton, a five-foot-two bundle of bounce and brilliance who had managed to give Ottawa's current civic election campaign more life than it's had in many a year.

The symbolism of the threaded needle is a bit on the obscure side, but it seems to mean that 54-year-old Charlotte is going to mend affairs at city hall, and maybe needle things up generally in the process.

Miss Whitton, a national figure for many years, is running for the four-man Board of Control against seven men in the Dec. 4 elections. She's the first Ottawa woman ever to try for that job.

If she makes the grade in her first try at public office, she will bring to civic affairs—besides an ability to keep things stirred up—a record of achievement paralled by few Canadian women. As a welfare worker, she has taken on jobs all over Canada, and she carries a string of honorary degrees and decorations from the King in testimony.

Now, she champions various causes that take her eye and wields a prolific pen for various publications.

Though she's never been in politics before, one writer has called her "a woman with a real flair for high old political shellacking."

Somewhat overshadowed by Charlotte's campaign are the remainder of the annual contests.

No. 2 feature is a replay of last year's mayoralty contest, with Mayor E. A. Bourque, French-Canadian fuel dealer, running against Dr. G. M. Geldert, a retired physician, and Grenville W. Goodwin, an optician. Twenty-eight aldermanic seats are at stake.

Norwood Softball Club Holds Dance

NORWOOD, Nov. 25 (ENS) — The Norwood soft ball club held a very successful dance in the Town Hall on Thursday evening with a good crowd on hand to enjoy the round and square dancing to the music of Art Jones and his melody boys.

The highlight of the evening was the drawing of the three lucky tickets on an ornamental electric clock, a camera and a pair of boudoir lamps.

The draw was made by Frank Cleveland with the clock going to camera to Mr. John Smith, Ford Miss Helen Watson, Norwood, the St., Peterboro and the lamps to Wilfred Chrysler of Hastings.

The boys have been endeavoring to raise sufficient money to place flood lights in the ball diamond and they now feel their object is nearing completion.

Churchill Hats Adorned With Inevitable "Cigar"

PARIS, Nov. 25 — (AP) — Churchill hats—a feminine version of the headgear habitually worn by the statesman—were displayed last night at a fashion showing staged by French couturier Pierre Balmain.

The hits look like a cross between a derby and a homburg, have three-inch-high crowns dented slightly through the centre and narrow brims sharply furled at each side.

Balmain makes them of anything from gay Paisley wool to scarlet breast feathers and crimson chip straw. Decorations cover a wide field, too.

The inevitable cigar—Churchillian size—adorns a number called "Winston" which is made of navy-blue breast feathers. It has cobweb-fine, coffee-colored veiling shrouding the face and hat and ending in streamers down the rear.

Forerunner for spring is "Chequers," a hat named after the famous country home of Britain's prime ministers. It is in brilliant red chip straw and accompanies a new spring dress in checked navy-blue wool featured by tiny red buttons and wide collars and cuffs of glaze linen.

Only One Girl With 93 Boys

TORONTO —(CP)— Abbyann Day, 21, doesn't think it strange that she is the only girl among 93 boys in the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies at St. Michael's College here.

"Every Friday," she says, "there is a tea for the professors and students, and they gratefully escort me into the kitchen, glad to have that burden where they feel it belongs."

A native New Yorker and a graduate cum laude in chemistry and mathematics at Manhattanville College—which she entered at 15—she spends 22 hours a week in class and most of the rest of the time studying.

She is in her second year of a five-year course for her master, licentiate and doctor degrees in philosophy at the institute, only one of its kind in the world. It was formed primarily to study the thought, life and culture of the middle ages.

Her family had come to expect much from its children. One sister is a doctor, two are nurses, a brother is an electrical engineer and a younger brother is studying chemistry at Notre Dame University. Her mother is head of the Modern Research Bureau in New York.

"I have always been interested in writing," Abbyann said in an interview, "and I'm quite sure I don't want to teach. Any research I would do would be on my own, and although I certainly plan to maintain an interest in the work, I don't plan to devote my life to a career."

Bethany News

Mr. and Mrs. O. Stacey and family of Port Credit were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stacey.

Among those from Bethany who attended the Junior Farmers' banquet in Newcastle Community Hall on Wednesday evening were Messrs. Ray Challice, Creighton Carr, Walter Fallis, Harold White, Douglas Fallis and the Misses Carolyn Carpenter, Beverly Pomeroy and Stella Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rowland, Peterborough, visited with Miss Hannah Staples on Thursday.

Mr. Robert Reid spent Monday in Toronto.

Misses Evelyn Mantle and Marie Carr were guests at the Softball Club banquet held in the Legion Hall, Peterborough, on Thursday evening. Both girls were members of the Outboard Marine team this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ryley spent Wednesday in Toronto.

Britain's Stores Stocked But Prices Found High

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)— British shop shelves are laden with half-forgotten delicacies as Christmas approaches, but rising prices may prevent millions of working families from noticing any appreciable change in Christmas fare.

Small price increases on such goods as Christmas puddings, cakes, cookies, eggs, butter, bacon and coffee will mean less money for luxuries like crystallized fruits, nuts and French fruits bottled in syrup.

A housewife planning a decorated Christmas cake will find all, or almost all, the materials she needs, but the price tag may be prohibitive. For the first time since before the war such things as preserved violets and roses, glace cherries, silver dragees, icing sugar, amond paste and sugared figurines are all easily obtained—but the price may daunt some shoppers.

Turkeys Costly

No. 1 headache in a Christmas which will be the lightest rationed since the defeat of Germany, is the cost of turkeys. Starting at 6s 6d. (97 cents) a pound they have mounted in some instances to 8s. and 10s. All other poultry prices, now free from government control for the first time, are well in advance of last year and Maurice Webb, food minister, has announced there will be no Christmas bonus on the meat ration.

Other price problems are provided by Christmas trees and decorations. Trees that pre-war cost 2s 6d. are now 15s. Decorations cost about the same but customers will not get the same value for their money.

A 100-per-cent purchase tax remains on Christmas cards, calendars and diaries. This means average cards cost around 10d, and something "a little different" ranges upwards from 1s 6d.

Christmas cracker prices rise from 4d each to £4. There are gorgeous arrays of baskets figurines and other colorful novelty pieces, but one of the most popular choices are the tiny midget crackers selling at 2s 6d. and 3s a box of 12.

Tells Soroptimists Of Japs Machine Gunning

For the fifth anniversary dinner meeting Friday evening Soroptimists of Peterborough had as speaker Miss Constance Watt from Australia who made them proud to be women with true stories about heroic nursing sisters of her personal knowledge.

Miss Watt was second in command of Australian nurses in the Air Force service during the last yar and was herself in the bombed area of her country. Her stories were of a group of nurses who were first in two large hospitals near Singapore. Several times they helped move these hospitals away from the line of fire and the nurse in charge, a close friend of Miss Watt, received the Royal Red Cross in recognition of their extra effort.

Later a break-up in personnel was made, some of the nurses being sent home in safety, others to a hospital in a Pacific Island stronghold. When overtaken by the Japs some of the latter managed to escape but their ship was bombed. Twenty-two were in life boats that reached shore only to be discovered by Jap controls and lined up with their backs to machine gunners. Each of the nurses was hit by bullets and fell on the beach but one was not killed. hSe lived for two weeks on spring water, then gave herself up and was taken to prison camp to join 31 of the original group.

Their courage and endurance through three and a half years during which eight died is a too little known fact. The hardships they endured were described at first hand to Miss Watt by two of the nurses when they finally returned to Australia. From the time of leaving Singapore it was not known just where these nurses were & their story was not told till after liberation.

Miss Watt also told of the Japanese sinking a well-marked hospital ship just off the coast of Australia and many nurses she had known lost their lives in that disaster.

Miss A. L. Thomson introduced the speaker who has been on her staff at the Civic Hospital for nearly a year but is leaving before Christmas to go to Vancouver for a time. Miss Margaret Wolstenholme thanked her.

President Miss Florence Scott referred to the fifth anniversary of the club and did the honors in cutting the blue and gold decorated anniversary cake. She was also this month's winner of the draw prize.

Ways and means convener Miss Myrtle Sargent announced that draw tickets on a Christmas dinner for eight are now on sale.

Television Aids Children In U.S. Schools

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Philadephia school children are learning everything from table manners to the science of splitting atoms through classroom television viewing.

Now in its third year, Philadelphia's pioneering school room television program reaches some 200,000 students who watch school-planned shows carried on each of the city's three commercial television stations.

The programs are unsponsored. The time is given to the schools by the stations.

Students see the programs on 16 inch or larger receivers provided by parents through the Home and School Council. There are now 40 TV sets in various Philadelphia elementary and high schools and 60 more in the suburban schools.

In addition to seeing the shows which take up four hours of the school week in daily 30-minute to one-hour periods, children get to take part in some of the broadcasts. Last year about 1,500 students took part in TV shows.

Head of the TV-education venture is energetic Martha A. Gable, native Philadelphian and University of Indiana graduate.

Popular Programs

"We are demonstrating that education can be entertaining and entertainment can be educational," Miss Gable said.

Proof of her statement is that many of the programs beamed for school use are popular with the home audience.

Among the billings on the school program this year are a half-hour show on the history of world music, movies provided by the Encyclopedia Britannica, an arts and crafts program, a 15-minute broadcast to demonstrate that "science is fun," and others dealing with city government, and national and world affairs.

One program, "How's Your Social IQ?" sets out to demonstrate socially graceful conduct for every occasion.

Miss Gable believes that television in the school room whets the student's appetite for new knowledge.

After the miracles of chemistry, physics and nature have been shown in simple form for elementary school children, there is, she said, a sharp increase in library book borrowing on those subjects.

It was decided to hold a bake sale in the Canadian Legion room of the Memorial Hall on the afternoon of December 2. It was further decided that the Auxiliary participate in Corporate Communion at St. Paul's on December 3. Attention was drawn to the MSCC calendars for 1951 and Christmas cards that the auxiliary has to sell. The study book on Islam was taken by Mrs. J. M. Bronwlie.

Council Seeks Legislation Easing Divorce Bottleneck

Establishment in the province of a divorce division of the Supreme Court of Ontario and appointment of a sufficient number of justices in such a division to ensure prompt justice on contending parties was asked by resolution passed at yesterday's meeting of the Provincial Council of Women in Toronto.

At present theer are 601 actions for dissolution of marriages set down and awaiting trial in the Toronto area alone, the resolution, presented by Miss Grace Gordon, council's laws convener, said.

"It is desirable that prompt relief in our courts should be accorded parties concerned at all times, and there is no expectation that so many cases can be heard within a reasonable time," she said.

Women on juries and establishment of juvenile courts in municipalities where they do not exist were other measures asked.

Plea that the council would line up with other provincial and national women's organizations in supporting the work of the Canadian Child Health Association, and "save young Canadians for Canada," was made by H. L. Troyer, speaking on behalf of that organization. Support was promised by the meeting.

"We are still losing 16,000 in Canada annually before their first birthday," said Mr. Troyer. "Medical authorities maintain that if the mother had the proper information and took the right precautions this loss need not be.

"We must unite in this crusade to raise our level of intelligent effort by the distribution of valuable literature available from the Federal Department of Health," he said.

"To prevent a person from becoming an alcoholic is much better than to try to cure his drinking after he has become one," said Miss Victoria Mullen, Toronto teacher, and one of the council to attend the Yale Summer School of Alcoholic Studies.

Alcoholism is a sickness, but not an uncurable one, hopeless one, and its victims may be rehabilitated, said Miss Evelyn Moulton who is on the staff of Queen's University School of Nursing.

Miss Moulton spoke of the new approach in treatment of alcoholism in regard to considering it as a sickness, instead of laying it to a weak will, bad morals, or perversity and reproaching, or perhaps, making fun of the victims.

Both speakers paid tribute to the work of Alcoholics Anonymous which will play an important part in the new Ontario plan based on the Yale principles and which, it is estimated, will cost $150,000 the first year.

Agreeable surprise at the fine conditions existing in Mercer Reformatory, after all the adverse things the out-of-town people had read about it, was expressed by President Mrs. Charles Heming, one of a party of five which visited the institution.

They found the place spotlessly clean, and as modern in equipment as it was possible to make the grim old building, she said.

She referred to the fine library, beauty shop for benefit of the inmates and the arrangements for the spiritual life of both Protestant and Catholics. Girls for the most part seemed happy and industrious, "although there may be there, as everywhere, some people born with a mania for destruction."

Find Last Half of Life Really Happiest Part

We all dread age and put up the best fight we can against it. We undergo martyrdoms of starvation for the sake of our waistlines that we would not suffer for any principle. Wild horses could not drag from us the secret of the number of birthdays we have celebrated, and there is no compliment we esteem so highly as to be told we look young, and no insult that we resent so bitterly as being called old.

If given our choice of what age we would like to be, we would remain perpetually in the 20's. In fact, many women remain a static 28 for years and years and years, and perhaps none of us ever go over the top of the 30's without a little cold chill in our hearts and the feeling that we are leaving the best of life behind us.

Dorothy Dix

For a superstition has grown up about youth that we believe in as devoutly and with as little basis in fact as babes do in Santa Claus, that causes us to think that youth is a period of unalloyed joy when one has never a care in the world and is bubbling over with high spirits, and that as we grow older we pass from this smiling land of sunshine into one where there is nothing but trials and tribulations and where we have even lost our power of enjoyment. We can all recall how, when we were in our teens, we pitied the aged people in their 30's who had nothing left in the way of pleasures and amusements and how, when we were in our 30's, we wondered that anybody could even desire to live beyond 60.

Sympathy Misplaced

As we grow older, however, we find out that this sympathy is misplaced, and that it is not youth that should pity us, but age that should pity youth. For, to quote Browning's phrase, "the best of life is the last, for which the first was made." For it takes us half a lifetime to learn how to live.

Youth isn't the happiest time of life. It is the most miserable because we have then no perspective, no sense of value. We have not found out that nothing lasts; we have not found out that there is a law of compensation that always works and we have not acquired a philosophy with which to meet the disappointments of existence.

The things that we laugh at in later life are heart-breaking tragedies to the young. If a boy and girl cannot go to a party to which all the other youngsters of their set are going, they feel that it is no use trying to live on in a world so filled with disappointment. We older ones shrug our shoulders and know that there will always be plenty of parties, and if we can't go to one tonight there will be a better one tomorrow night. The self-conscious girl and boy endure agonies of shame if they cannot have the latest thing in clothes. They feel that all eyes are upon them and that every tongue is commenting on them. We oldsters know how unimportant we are, and that everybody is so concerned with their own affairs that they don't even notice us.

The most disgraced woman in the world is not more humiliated than the girl who has not a date for the football games or who is a wallflower at a ball. No man who ever sees his ambitions crash in ruins about him is more disappointed than the boy who cannot even buy a second-hand Ford. And it is one of the compensations of age that we are spared so many of the minor afflictions of life, and that we learn to make substitutes for the things we want and can't get.

We Must Learn To Enjoy Things

Youth thinks that age has no enjoyment, but in reality, it takes age to teach us how to enjoy. Youth gulps down pleasure as a hungry man does food, caring only that there be a lot of it. But age savors pleasure as a gourmet does a feast, appreciating every delicate flavor, every surprise in taste, every vintage of the wine.

Once I went on a long journey to far lands with a number of girls and boys. At first I was envious of them, thinking how wonderful it was that they had the privilege of seeing historic and romantic places while they were young and having all of this knowledge, these memories, to enrich our lives. But it was not long before I discovered that I was getting a hundredfold more out of the trip than they were because they had not lived long enough to know what it was all about. Places that to me were romance and history, to them were a ruined and battered house or a stretch of ground and nothing more. Where I thrilled and palpitated, they were bored.

And youth is slavery. Age is freedom. Youth is enslaved to its own traditions, to its own conventions, to what its gang is doing and saying and thinking. It must dress and act and use the same language and take the same point of view as all the other boys and girls are doing. From one end of the country to the other, youth is a rubber stamp of its generation. It does not dare to be original.

But age is emancipation. When you are old you can do exactly as you please. You can dress like a fashion plate or wear your old clothes. You can say what you think. You can be sweet and amiable or cantankerous. And the most that will be said about you is that you are eccentric.

So considering all these things and the further compensation that age furnishes a perfect alibi for doing what we want to do and leaving undone those things which we do not wish to do, how strange it is that we dread age! How stupid of us not to welcome it as a friend instead of an enemy! What a mistake not to run out and meet it instead of pushing it away as long as we can!

For, in all good truth, the last of life is the best.

War Ages Woman But Makes Her Feel Young Again

WITH US TROOPS IN KOREA, Nov. 25 —(AP)— A war can make a woman feel 10 to 12 years younger. And she can come away feeling pleasantly spoiled.

A woman is an oddity—and apparently a pleasant one— to the foot soldier going up to the front. She may look like a potato sack tied in the middle, but if she wears bright lipstick and a big smile the wolf calls and whistles from 18- and 20-year-old men will make her feel like a real-life pin-up girl.

And it doesn't hurt her vanity —even if she should have to run for miles around tables to keep away from colonels with glints in their eyes.

But there is another side of it, too. Instead of making her feel 10 years younger, war can make her feel 60 years older.

She rides in a jeep slithering at five miles an hour through a mud-sheathed road. It's lined on both sides by infantrymen. She can tell they are weary by the way their backs are bent.

As they plod along through the mud, some are bent more than others, depending on the burden they carry.

She feels ashamed riding in the jeep while they slog along on foot. She hunches her shoulders and pulls down her helmet, not daring to look them square in the face.

The jeep takes her to a town which has just been knocked out by artillery and air strikes.

She was cold. But now she is warmed by the heat from the burning houses and smouldering rubble.

She is comforted by the thought there is no enemy alive here—unless he could live in hell.

With this thought in mind, she decides to look her womanly best when she passes the infantry again on the return trip. She redoes her lips, pushes off her helmet and lets her hair blow in the breeze.

This time the infantrymen see her, all right. And she knows it.

Smiles break the crusts of dirt around the corners of their mouths. They whistle and wisecrack:

"Hey, a woman! And she's a woman! And she's white, too."

She yells back, and then:

"Hey, what the hell kind of an army is this getting to be? Do we get women, too?"

She wants to get out and talk to them. She wants so much to march with them. She wants to do something to help lighten their burdens. But she can't.

She just laughs at their jokes, wise-cracks back at them, hopes they don't see the tears streaming down her face, and feels truly young again.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Syrup, at Home

You'll be surprised how quickly a bad winter cough can be relieved, when you try this well known recipe universally used throughout Canada. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle.

Into a 16 ounce bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then fill up with granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes four times as much cough medicine for your money. Never spoils and tastes fine.

Quickly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the phlegm, helps to clear the air passages, and soothes the irritated membranes. This explains why it brings such quick relief.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat irritations. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

LITTLE IODINE by JIMMY HATLO

Readers Saturday Column Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: Would you have a recipe for caramel coated popcorn, like you can buy at the store? I would like to make it at home. If I made this for Christmas, could it be made the day before, or would it go soggy?

Please answer another question when you have time. Some time ago I cut a recipe Potato Dumplings out of the daily paper. This was one of your recipes. (I read your column all the time and enjoy it very much, except that some of the recipes include ingredients which I cannot buy, as we live in a small village.) I made the dumplings according to the recipe, but they were just mush when cooked.

As I have very little money to do with we had to eat them anyway. They were a nice flavor and I think they would be grand if they stayed in the shape they were supposed to. I am including the recipe and hope you can tell me what went wrong.

Potato Dumplings (repeated for correction). Peel 6 medium-sized potatoes, cook until tender in boiling salted water, and force through potato ricer. Soak 2 slices stale white bread, then press out the excess water and add to potatoes, along with 3 beaten eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons flour. Mix into a paste—if this is too sticky to handle add a little more flour. With buttered hands shape paste into balls the size of a walnut and drop into stew.

Red Rose

P.S. Would you have any recipes for a poor woman who lives in a small village and has a family to raise. I love to cook. How can I give them good nourishing meals on very little money? The children are just growing up and my husband does manual labor. We do not live on a farm, so don't have our own milk or eggs. We have to buy everything.

R. R.

ANSWER: I will give you the recipe for popcorn balls, and discuss the Potato Dumplings. The subject of economical dishes for low-income families is a big one, so watch the column for frequent talks on it.

✧ ✧ ✧

Popcorn Balls

Five quarts popped corn, 2 cups sugar, 1½ cups water, ½ cup corn syrup, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon vanilla. After the corn is popped discard the hard kernels. Mix together the sugar, syrup and water, stir until sugar is dissolved over low heat. Then increase heat and cook until hard ball will form when a little is dropped in cold water. (This is 270 deg. Fahr.) Add vinegar, vanilla and salt, quickly stir in, then drizzle the hot syrup over the popped corn, stirring so that each kernel is coated. With buttered hands quickly shape into balls. You should have help with this as the syrup cools and hardens so quickly. Let harden on buttered platter in cool place. If desired these may be wrapped in wax paper. If the syrup is colored with red vegetable coloring just before pouring it over corn the color shows through the waxed paper. I have not tried it but you might try wrapping them in cellophane paper and colour would show through better.

I telephoned my "DP" seamstress who made the Potato Dumplings for our family and read her your letter. She said some potatoes went like that. She said potatoes should be waxy like they are when they are small and new or you had to add up to 1 cup of flour and use not more than 2 cups mashed potato. I am sorry you had that trouble, and hope I never fail you again. Watch the column every issue for economical menus and dishes.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Find Whys and Wherefores Of Baking in Bread Book

It's always fun to bring bread or rolls to the table and proudly announce, "Yes, I made them myself," and then watch everyone dig in, clean up the plate and beg for more. If you want to know the ways and means and wherefores of bread making so that they will beg for more you must own "250 Breads, Biscuits and Rolls," nineteenth title in the twenty-four cookbook series that is being made available currently to readers of The Examiner.

This attractively illustrated cookbook gives detailed instructions on how to make bread and how to avoid mistakes, with pictures showing the correct kneading of bread and how incorrectly prepared or incorrectly baked loaves or rolls will look. Besides, the many tested recipes will sound so tempting that you will want to try them all. Here are just a couple of highlights from the Bread Book:

French Raised Doughnuts

1 cup boiling water; ¼ cup shortening; ½ cup sugar; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 cake yeast; 2 eggs well beaten; 1 cup evaporated milk; ½ cup lukewarm water; 7½ cups sifted flour (about).

Pour boiling water over shortening, sugar and salt. Add milk and cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in water and add to cooled mixture with beaten eggs. Stir in 4 cups flour. Beat hard. Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Place in greased bowl, grease top of dough, cover with waxed paper and a lid or cloth and chill until ready to use. Then roll dough to ¼-inch thickness. Cut with scalloped cookie cutter and fry a few at a time in hot deep fat (360 deg. F. to 370 deg. F.); brown one side, turn and brown on other. Do not let dough rise before frying. Drain on absorbent paper. Cover with a thin frosting. Makes 60 doughnuts.

Poppy-Seed Crescents

Dough: 1 cup scalded milk; 1 cake yeast; ½ cup butter; ½ cup sugar; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 4 eggs, well beaten; 4 cups sifted flour. Filling: 1 cup ground poppy seed; 2 cup water, 1 cup sugar; ½ teaspoon cinnamon; grated rind of 1 lemon. Topping: 1 egg yolk; 1 tablespoon cold water; sugar, chopped nuts.

Cool milk to lukewarm and soften yeast in ¼ cup of the milk. To remaining milk add butter, sugar, salt and vanilla and stir until the butter has melted. Add beaten eggs and yeast. Sift flour and add gradually, using only enough to make dough stiff enough to be kneaded until smooth and elastic. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk.

Filling

Boil water with sugar until syrupy. Add the ground poppy seed, cinnamon and lemon rind. Mix well and cool. Roll out dough on a floured board until quite thin; cut into triangles, spread with filling and shape into crescents by rolling them from the straight and toward the point. Brush with beaten egg yolk to which cold water has been added and sprinkle with sugar and chopped nuts. Let rise until doubled in bulk and then bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) 20 minutes or until brown. Makes 36.

You will surely want to get your copy of the Bread Book. Just clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c to The Examiner office, your carrier boy, any of Braund's Home Food Markets, or Dominion Store Master Market. 6—In Memoriams

BISHOP—In memory of Alfred Bishop, who passed away four years ago.

—Mr. and Mrs. L. Moore

DUFFUS—In loving memory of our dearly beloved husband and father, Michael J. Duffus, who passed away Nov. 25, 1947.
We are just a sunset nearer
Each time the daylight fades.
—Ever remembered by his loving wife and family.

FERGUSON—In loving memory of Warren Ferguson, who died Nov. 26, 1949.
His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall,
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by Sid, Helen and family.

WHITE—In loving memory of Mrs. Harry White, who passed away two years ago today.
Two years have passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away.
God took her home—it was His will;
Within our hearts she liveth still.
—Ever remembered by son and daughter-in-law Fred, Hilda and family.

13 Candidates

was enlarged by CHEX broadcast at 11.15 p.m.

The speakers were called upon in the order of their nominations.

Seeking Mayoralty Job

Ald. Hurrill Dodds said his six years of service as alderman should fit him for the mayoralty job which he was now seeking. In that time he was chairman of the park and property committees, and for three years chairman of the board of works.

"There has been only one mayoralty contest in thirteen years. I fully agree with the newspapers that this is not a healthy situation for a thriving city like Peterborough. From my experience in the council I believe that the office of Mayor should not be handed around, as it were, on a platter to any one who might think it was his turn."

"Two years ago I made it known I would be a candidate for mayor of 1951, and I don't break promises. I have the time to give to the city's business, and if elected I will do my best in the future as in the past. I realize that there are real problems confronting next year's council. The tax rate is one thing that must be solved We must do something because the working man paying for his home is feeling the pinch of paying taxes.

"About the city hall, I've heard murmurs from merchants and others. If elected I'll get the facts of any deals which they think might have been done otherwise."

Ald. Dodds said the occasion of renomination was an opportunity of thanking all those who had worked with him for the Civic Arena. He named a list of those men and women who "knock" at doors on cold nights to see what people would give. The Arena is a monument to their determination and energy. For seven years before that there was not a hockey chair in Peterborough. We haven't a half a million dollar building, but the Civic Arena is answering the purpose for the time being."

Ald. Dodds said he expected to be mayor in 1951, "but I ask for your support, because it is your decision. We now have some 20,000 voters. These are our people entitled to vote. Will you vote for me or for Max? It is up to you. One thing you can do, please turn out and vote, so that whoever gets in will know that he has the public behind him. If I don't win, I hope Max does."

Mayor Speaks

Mayor Swanston expressed his pleasure in seeing so many citizens who were interested in the municipal nominations and the city's affairs.

In the last ten years the population of Peterborough had increased 10,000, necessitating large scale building program including the Civic Hospital, new schools and additions, the sewage disposal plant a program of street paving, road-making, with new sewers and sidewalks, and expansions of the fire department and the sanitary department. These were all necessary accommodations for the larger population.

City council had increased wages and salaries and had put into effect a fine pensions plan for civic employees. All these improvements were bound to have an effect on the tax rate. Expenditure on sewers and sidewalks amounted to $150,000 under the local improvement act. The long projected sewer service from Ashburnham was completed this year.

Mayor Swanston said the foundation stone of Peterborough's new city hall would be laid by Prime Minister Frost on Dec. 1. The bequest of more than $500,000 from the late W. G. Morrow would go a long way towards meeting the cost of it. A contribution of $125,000 from the City Trust Commission was for the purpose of buying the city hall site.

As to Peterborough's parking problem, Mayor Swanston said the council had decided to move the market to another location and install meters, and had also taken option on several other lots Parking revenue would pay for such properties.

1,119 Building Permits

"To the end of October this year we have issued 1,119 building permits representing $3,513,853 new property value." His Worship explained the new policy adopted by the council towards housing subdivisions. The building of roads, sewers, sidewalks were now to be done by petition and were to be paid for by the promoters of such housing projects.

"A large part of our debenture debt is maturing, and although new debentures have had to be issued, we should be left in good financial shape compared with other growing cities in Ontario. Industrial sites were bought this year. I think every effort should be made to encourage new industries to locate here. To help our Industrial Commission perhaps a part time commissioner might be appointed to try to secure more diversified industries, not to bring in industries in competition with those we already have."

Mayor Swanston suggested that the council next year should consider an idea of converting the old Nicholls Hospital buildings into suitable low rent living accommodation for incapacitated veterans, old age pensioners and widows receiving allowances. He believed it could be done at little cost.

SIR FREDERICK BAIN, M.C., deputy chairman of Imperial Chemical Industries Limited and director of Canadian Industries Ltd., who died last Thursday in Westminster Hospital, London, England, aged 61.

An agreement with the Peterborough Exhibition Board provided for a street through its park for the benefit of the people living south of Lansdowne St. and also as an additional entrance into the city.

Mayor Swanston briefly referred to the two money bylaws that are being submitted to the ratepayers. The completion of Civic Hospital required $300,000. It had ben expected that $200,000 would have been obtained from the sale of the Nicholls Hospital property, but from circumstances beyond the control of the council it was found that that could not be done. The additional $100,000 was needed for lights, sewers, roads and landscaping.

That work could have been spread over some years, but it would have caused an inconvenience to the people using the hospital, and in the long run would have cost more than the issuing of debentures for that amount.

Mayor Swanston said that in carrying out his duties during the last two years he had tried to remember that he was the representative of all the citizens, and as such should have great respect for the office of Mayor.

"What has been accomplished was not the work of any individual member of the council, but was done through the combination of the members of the council, our civic staff and works department and also by the patience and co-operation of our citizens. It has been all for the purpose of making Peterborough a grand place to live in. All this help and co-operation made my position easier, and I wish to thank you all."

"I have had eight years' experience in the council, the last two as Mayor. I regret that I cannot promise a reduction in taxes next year, or that roads, sidewalks and so on can be built at no cost to the taxpayers. I would welcome some relief in taxes myself, but I feel that I can promise on behalf of the council that your money will be spent wisely on things that are necessary."

Mayor Swanston said the nation had fought in the last 36 years two wars for democracy. They entailed great sacrifices for principles and rights that were cherished. Democracy gave a person the right to vote for the people of his choice. As a candidate for the mayoralty he urged the citizens to exercise their franchise. "Vote for whom you like, but vote."

Aldermanic Candidates

"This is the second year for me to run as a candidate for alderman," said Norman Graham. "For years I wan't much interested in civic affairs, but in the last two years I have been greatly interested and have been closely watching the doings of the council."

One of those "things which he didn't agree with was the Bennett Construction Company's paving contract. "The reason they got the contract was a $17,800 difference between them and the Warren Paving contract. I am not a labor man or connected with labor or spopsored by any group, but I can say that it is little wonder the Bennett company could cut the tender by that amount when they paid their labor 75 cents an hour.

"Drive up Park St. and then on to Park Hill Road that Warren Paving did and you'll find a lot of difference."

"Then there was the demolition of the buildings on Murray St. The man who got that tender was to deposit $1,000 at the city hall When the wrecking was finished, he was to put twelve inches of good soil over the ground. I don't think he lived up to one thing through the whole contract. Why should the city clerk waste his time in drawing on specifications if they are not going to be lived up to?"

Mr. Graham said no person was to be permitted on the property, but there were hundreds there buying bricks and other materials There was to be a watchman, day and night. It turned out that there was a night watch for one week.

Mr. Graham also criticized work by Reynolds Construction Co. as being less exacting than what was required of the ordinary home builder. He also said a seven-inch foundation was permitted on housing subdivision in the north end, "and a member of that concern was sitting in the council," but for other people a ten-inch well had to be built.

"I don't want to grind axes, but I believe there is a lot of room for improvement in the building bylaw."

Desire To Serve

Percy Luther said he had a sincere desire to serve the city and the ratepayers if elected alderman. This was no time to make promises that perhaps could not be filled.

"If I'm elected I will try to work for the home owner, the little ratepayer. Taxes have increased a good deal in the last few years. If people demand services and buildings, they must expect the tax rate to go up. I will endeavour if elected to keep the tax rate down as much as possible I feel there should be protection for the little home owner and those on pensions who have no chance to get a raise in their income."

Mr. Luther said he was in favor of a city manager or board of control, with a program that could be spread over years, instead of bringing things on all at once "If we got a man capable for the job he would more than save the money the ratepayers paid him There are men who can't afford to run for city offices because they can't afford to give the time that is demanded of them."

"As a father of five girls and two boys I am deeply interested in the new Collegiate Institute If it is shown to be absolutely necessary, we should certainly go on with it, because the future of Canada lies in our boys and girls of today.

"I hope that everybody who has a vote will go to the polls and exercise the franchise, because this is the only way the people can pick men who are best qualified and who are needed to run our city's affairs."

Served Two Years

Ald. A. B. Burrows said he was standing on his record of the last two years as a member of the Council, and on the valuable experience he had gained in the civic administration. "I have done my best. Sometimes I voted in the minority against something which I did not think was right.

"Apart from myself, I think you have an excellent Council, and that they have given you an efficient and progressive administration, and have done their duty as they saw it for Peterborough and its citizens.

"There are quite a number of controversial questions that tend to cause criticism on the part of citizens, but I believe the Council has been sincere, as I have tried to be since I was elected two years ago. I have no promises to make, but I hope my record will receive the approval of the ratepayers."

Arthur R. Bennett said it was a pleasure to receive a nomination for the City Council. It was his first experience in standing before a microphone. "I'd like to tell everyone to get out and vote on election day. Use your franchise. If I am elected, I will do all in my power for the working people and all the citizens of Peterborough."

"My decision to stand for the Council did not start in the last two or three weeks," said Harold Thomas Rehill. "Dick Raine and I hunt together for a couple of weeks in the fall, and it started a year ago."

At that time, Mr. Rehill said, he put off the suggestion, but it was repeated this fall, "and it is largely due to the persuasiveness of Mr. Raine and other citizens that I finally consented. I definitely intend to qualify. I was born in Peterborough, and have lived here all my life."

Mr. Rehill said he was the owner of the fuel and building supplies business established by his father (the late Thomas Rehill), a member of Trinity United Church, the Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club, and for the last three years a director of the Peterborough Exhibition.

"It is early to make promises If I am elected I assure you I will do my best to administer the city's business in a manner that may not always be satisfactory to everybody, but it will be to the best of my ability for the city as a whole. There is always a question in deciding what is in the best interests of the people."

Mr. Rehill said he bespoke the interest of the voters in the bylaws, and closed with a promise to "bring to the service of the city and its people my best judgment for the good of the community."

Percy Harrison said he did not anticipate that he would be nominated and be called upon to speak. "However, I have lived here all my life. I have been interested in sports and in the movements of our young people and in church work I can be equally interested in civic affairs, and if elected I will try to keep expenditure down. I am interested in the business of Peterborough, and in attracting tourists. In asking you to vote for me, I promise to do what is right and best for everybody".

"I have already had the honor and privilege of being a member of the council for two years," said Ald. J. E. Gillespie. "I have attempted to serve the citizens and tried to spend not too much money. But, when things are necessary, it is also necessary to spend money. Some people appear to say with one breath "the taxes are too high" and with the next: "let's have some more of something". It is like that in our private lives. Everything you buy today is up in price, and in the same way it costs more to run this growing city.

"I have done what I thought was a good job. If you appreciate my service and see fit to re-elect me I'll carry on in the same way as in the past. I can't make promises, because I don't know what the future holds. The council has started quite a number of projects that are coming along well and should reach completion before long.

"My feeling is that we should now sit back and rest on our laurels, and not go out on the limb any farther. I think it is time to hold back and not spend any more money than we have to."

Ald. Gillespie's parting word was: "May the best men win".

Grenville G. Lathangue said he considered it a privilege for a young man to be nominated for Peterborough's council.

"Canada is a young country, and it is the duty of our young men to take their place in civic affairs. I am not straining the truth when I say that in some countries the freedom of the individual is removed; but that is not so in Canada. I'd like to express my appreciation to those who showed their confidence in my ability by proposing me."

Mr. Lathangue said that as a young man of Peterborough he intended to enter the contest for aldermanic office.

10 Years an Alderman

"Nomination", said Ald. Adam B. Sands, "gives me a chance to say a word or two at the end of my tenth year as an alderman. Some have said tonight that it is too early to make promises. After ten years I still think it is too early. You never know what is around that corner. I appreciate the fact that the citizens have given me an opportunity to go to school for a number of years behind the brass rail in this chamber. It is a great thing for a young man. He gets a real chance to learn what makes our city tick.

"Mayor Swanston mentioned something about the old Nicholls Hospital. It seems to me he is on the right track. I agree heartily with his idea Something should be done with those buildings. Two other municipalities in Ontario have already done that kind of work for their elderly and incapacitated people. We have spent $40,000 a year, a mill in the tax rate, in direct recreation for the young people, but very little for th old people who have only their pensions, also men incapacitated in the two world wars, and widows receiving allowances."

Ald. Sands said that such a home, provided at rental of $22 to $25 a month, would not be subsidized, and, quoting Mayor Swanston, would pay for itself.

"I'd like to see the old hospital, left to the city by Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls, one of the great benefactors of Peterborough, be an extra monument to her if something like that were done. Whether I stand for council again or whether I am elected, I'll promise that the city council will not get much rest until something is done with the old place on the hill.

"I have not decided yet, but if I were not coming back I'd be leaving the finest men's club in Peterborough, as the late Gordon Armstrong said. It is an honor which too few men even try to obtain."

About the only things remaining free, said Ald. Sands, was the air to breathe and the right to vote.

"The easiest way to lose the right to vote, is not to use it. On Dec. 4, use it or you may lose it."

Alfred Barber, Dr. Herbert Young and Milford Hardill were not present when their names were called.

Orville J. Martin, sponsored with Mr. Barber by Peterborough and District Labor Council, said: "Mr. Barber was not able to be here until this time. We are running as a team. You know that by team work you get places in sport. We are also representing labor. We believe that labor, the working man, the man in the factory, the clerk, the man sweeping the road, should have some say, in giving his thoughts as to how his money is spent. The big majority of our taxpayers are working men and women. Our taxes are getting high, and we feel the time has come to try to have some say in where the money is going. It would be showing the pulse of the people, as it were, of the men in the $50 to $60 brackets, and knowing what effect the spending of their money is having on their home life. If they have to spend too much, nothing is left for play, and life is not all work."

Mr. Martin said he thought the council was doing a good job. Peterborough has had growing pains.

"Maybe that period is past, and spending may not be on as large a scale as it has been in the last few years. I believe that if everybody got together and we knew how the spending of our money affects us, we'd all have a deeper interest in it. That is not the case when 30 per cent of the people vote, and the 70 per cent stay at home and crab for the next 12 months if the council is not doing what they think ought to be done. If we are elected we'll do the best we can to pass on to the city council the feelings of the working people of the city."
